When Hon. Mr. Graham, leader of the Opposition declared against permitting companies to water stocks he may not have known that the Toronto Electic Light Company was anticipating the dilution of its stock. It proposes to increase its stocks by a million dollars and issue the shares exclusively to present shareholders at par. As the public has to pay 161 for each share. This arrangement will amount to the shareholders, collecting dividends on $600,000 for which they don't pay a cent, so that the public who hold stock bought at 161 will have subtracted from their profits enough to pay this bonus to the shareholders. We shall see how Mr. Whitney, who claims that Mr. Graham stole his policy, will deal with the application of the Toronto Electric Light Company to increase its capital and water its stock.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

To Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—I'm thinking seriously of entering a suit for damages against the city. I fell on the slippery walk last night and injured my knee so seriously that my doctor says I must remain in the house for a week at least. It is, I am advised, a clear case against the City Council, and as soon as I am able to get up town to see my lawyer I think I shall tell him to go ahead and prosecute the municipality.

Why will the Council continue to run the risk of suits for damages? I might as well have been killed as not, and do you think my wife would not have sued the corporation for damages? Well I guess she would. I am worth too much to her to let me go without making someone pay for me.

This may seem like a joke, but I want you to know that I'm in earnest about it.

Yours,
"Limpy."

Editor Post Card Column:—

Dear Sir, — There will be accidents I am afraid from the slippery pavements. In front of St. Peter's church on Hunter street, almost in front of the building, there is a very dangerous spot. The snow-plough has gouged out on the snow on the outside leaving it on the inside of the walk. This snow has turned to ice and there is a slope like the face of an iceberg. If anybody isn't hurt I am a Dutchman. I may remark that all the narrow walks have a sharp, icy slope, the snow plough seems to slew to the outside, making a very dangerous slope. Isn't the snow plough a good deal of a failure?

Yours,
CAUTIOUS.

HAD THIRTY-TWO BOILS AT ONE TIME

Two Bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters Cured Him.

Imperfect organic action makes bad blood, so, too, bad blood, in turn, makes imperfect action of every bodily organ. If the blood becomes impure, poisoned or contaminated in any way from constipation, biliousness or any other cause, some especially weak organ must soon become diseased thereby, or the whole system may suffer in consequence.

Pimples, boils, blotches, ulcers, festering sores, abscesses, tumors, rashes or some serious and perhaps incurable blood disease may result. There is no medicine on the market to-day to equal the old and well-known remedy, for all cases of bad blood.

Mr. Ernest R. Tupper, Round Hill, N.S., says: "I think Burdock Blood Bitters a great medicine for boils. I had them so bad I could not work. I had thirty-two on my back at one time. I used only two bottles of B.B.B. and they completely cured me. I cannot recommend it too highly." Price $1.00 per bottle or 6 bottles for $5.00.

432 GEORGE STREET

The new moving picture programme for this week shows in a most diverting manner the story of "Farmer Giles' Troubles." Farmer Giles has been watching the growth of his chickens which he has been hoping will secure the prize at the coming fair. He hears a noise one night in the chicken coop. Behold! more than 60 of his best are gone, without leaving a note to say when, or a feather to show where they had gone. A clue is obtained, a trap laid and the disappearance solved. Thrilling situations, great excitement, also new, beautiful illustrated songs. Don't miss them.

IF EVERYBODY knew how much cheaper good soap really is, there would n't be another pound of poor quality soap sold anywhere.

"SURPRISE" Soap not only does better work and does it easier and quicker than poor quality soap, but it lasts longer and it costs less in the end.

Then "SURPRISE" never hurts the hands nor injures anything you use it on. It is a pure, hard soap, and those who try it never go back to ordinary soaps.

Sometimes people think they ought to use good soap for fine work and cheap soap for common laundry, but after trying "SURPRISE" they realize that it pays to use the best all the time. Same price you pay for other kinds.

Liver Trouble From Overeating

THE KIDNEYS AND BOWELS ALSO DERANGED AND CURE ONLY OBTAINED BY USE OF

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Hurried eating and lack of proper mastication of the food are among the most common causes of indigestion, and overeating is undoubtedly the beginning of trouble with the liver and kidneys.

Kidney disease and rheumatism are not usually the first indication of a deranged system, but these troubles follow unheeded headaches, constipation and bilious attacks.

Because of that direct and combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are effective in whatever stage of such derangements they may be used, except when the structure of the kidneys has been wasted away by Bright's disease.

What we would emphasize, however, is the advantage of beginning this treatment at the first indication of trouble with the liver. It is the liver which first feels the result of overeating because of its difficulty in filtering the blood. Keep the liver right by the timely use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you not only prevent headaches, biliousness and constipation, but entirely escape derangements of the kidneys, which are at once so dreadfully painful and fatal.

Mrs. E. Husband, Moore street, St. Catharines, Ont., states: "I was seriously afflicted with indigestion and stomach trouble for sixteen years. Finally I became so bad that I could scarcely eat anything without suffering terrible distress. Gradually I grew weaker and more emaciated, and though treated by three doctors and a specialist, I received no benefit.

"After a time a pain began in my right side, which medical men said was liver trouble. I never got relief until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they helped me at once. By using about a dozen boxes I was entirely cured. I owe my cure entirely to this treatment, and make this statement with the hope that some poor sufferer may benefit by my experience."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—11.

THE SMITH COUNCIL'S APPOINTMENTS

Clerk and Treasurer and Other Officers for the Year Appointed at Yesterday's Meeting of the Council

The Council of the township of Smith met at the County Council Chamber on Monday, February 4.

All members were present, with the reeve in the chair.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

On motion of Coun. Garbutt, seconded by Coun. White, a bylaw was introduced, appointing the clerk and treasurer, and fixing their salaries, which passed its several readings and was signed and sealed.

A bylaw was also passed appointing a local Board of Health, which is composed of the following members: The Reeve, by virtue of his office, and Coun. J. H. Garbutt, Thos. H. Graham and Richard White.

The following claims were ordered to be paid:

Municipal World, $11.50.
Peterborough Hardware Co., $4.
J. Chittick, postage, etc., $66.

After verbally appointing overseers of highways, pound-keepers and fence-viewers, Council adjourned to meet again in the Council Chamber on Monday, March 4.

FRIENDS ADVISED USE OF PE-RU-NA.

MR. RAOUL PILON

Suffered Much—Catarrh Affected Throat and Nose—Pe-ru-na Proves Highly Satisfactory.

Mr. Raoul Pilon, 116 Rue Notre Dame, Lachine, P. Q., writes:

"I write you a few words to express to you my satisfaction at being cured.

"I was afflicted with catarrh of the throat and nose and suffered much.

"I was greatly discouraged.

"I had a bad breath and a bad taste in my mouth in the morning.

"I took treatment for some time without obtaining relief.

"At the advice of friends I tried Peruna and the results have been highly satisfactory.

"At the end of four months I was completely cured."

Neglected catarrh becomes chronic. Having developed into the chronic stage, a longer and more persistent treatment will be required to cure it than if the disease were treated at the onset.

However, Peruna will bring relief, whether the catarrh is acute or chronic. If you are wise you will keep Peruna on hand and take a few doses at the first appearance of a cold or cough, and thus save yourself both suffering and expense.

C. M. B. A. WILL GIVE A BANQUET

At the T. A. S. Rooms This Evening—Should be a Very Enjoyable Event—Also Initiation of New Members

A grand banquet will be given in the T.A.S. rooms this evening, under the auspices of the C.M.B.A. The society has been endeavouring to add new members to the roll, and their efforts have met with most gratifying success.

Prior to the feast about sixty new members will be initiated, Dr. Ryan and J. J. Bedkan of Kingston, being expected to be present to officiate.

The event promises to be a most enjoyable one, and a large number of the members of the society will, no doubt, be on hand to unite in making the C.M.B.A. banquet one of the most successful social events of the season.

COMMITTEE TALKED FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

Bell Telephone Company Will be Asked to Again Give Figures—Appointment of Superintendent.

MANY PETITIONS ASKING FOR LIGHTS

The Fire, Water and Light Committee held a meeting last night, the chief question being the consideration of the installation of the fire alarm system. The committee was agreed that gravity batteries should have the preference over the storage and decided to ask the Bell Telephone Company to reconsider their agreement with the change inserted with a view to obtaining a cheaper installation and better service.

The question of the appointment of a person to superintend the installation was also touched upon and among others, Mr. Wm. Lytle's name was mentioned in this connection.

A number of street lamps have been petitioned for and the committee decided to spend an evening investigating the demands of the petitioners.

Those present were Chairman Johnston, Ald. Duncan and Leary and Mayor McWilliams.

A deputation consisting of the Rev. Mr. Ross and another gentleman waited on the committee requesting an electric light on Charlotte street at the north end of Boswell street.

Moved by Ald. Duncan and Leary, that the committee take a trip out some night and examine the situation as well as a number of others. —Carried.

Fire Alarm System

The chairman then explained that the important business of the meeting was to consider the installation of the Fire Alarm System. The storage and gravity battery systems have been suggested and various opinions of experienced men were cited.

Ald. Leary and Duncan believed that Mr. Wm. Lytle of the Machine Telephone Company would be an efficient man to take charge of the installation as he has had considerable experience in that connection.

The gravity battery had been explained to the members of the committee as being superior to the storage for a city the size of Peterborough and upon this question the committee was united. They were also also informed that at any time the gravity battery might be exchanged for the storage battery with very little monetary loss.

In the agreement with the Bell Company, which has been discussed before, storage batteries were the class referred to, so that the committee felt the Company should be given another opportunity to reconsider that agreement in view of the alteration of the battery which was agreed upon by the members.

It was moved by the Mayor and Ald. Duncan that, the chairman and city solicitor go over the Bell Telephone Company's agreement regarding the proposed installation including the revision of the agreement with references to the substitution of gravity batteries in place of storage at a cost of $250 less and to them submit the revised agreement to the Bell Company for their reconsideration; and to also consult Mr. Lytle as to his efficiency to conduct the installation.—Carried.

Fire Hall Regulation

The chairman next referred to the rules and regulations governing the duties and conduct of the employees. He had gone over a past list and considered it to be complete and that there was no necessity to augment it.

NO PERSON

Would Make Such a Proposition to the People of Peterborough, as Have our Leading Druggists, McDermid & Jury

Did you ever know or hear of a person who would offer to return every cent you paid him if he could not build up and create strength and vitality for old people, weak, sickly women and children and the convalescent; create an appetite, cure stomach troubles; make those who are too thin, fat, rosy and healthy. Or cure hacking coughs, chronic colds, throat and bronchial troubles?

This is exactly the offer our well-known and reliable druggists, McDermid & Jury make to every person in Peterborough.

Mr. McDermid, of the above firm, says Vinol is simply the most valuable and delicious preparation of cod liver oil known to medicine. It is the greatest known strength creator and health restorer. It makes the blood rich and pure. It tones up the tired, breakened digestive organs. It strengthens every organ in the body to do its work as nature intended, and wherever it fails he will give back the money paid him for it.

We advise every sick and ailing person in Peterborough to try Vinol on Mr. McDermid's guarantee to return money if it fails. Remember, you get it at the store of McDermid & Jury. Vinol is also sold at the Market Drug Store (The Ormond & Walsh Old Stand).

PRESS ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEETING

Canadian Newspaper Men Will Gather in Toronto—Local Evening Papers Will be Represented

To-morrow the 49th annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association will open in Toronto, when a number of important matters in connection with newspaper publishers' affairs, will be discussed by newspaper men from all parts of the Dominion. An interesting feature of the gathering is the fact that Mr. Medill McCormack, proprietor of the Chicago Tribune and the Cleveland Leader will be present and will be the principal speaker at the dinner to be held to-morrow night in McConkey's. The two local evening papers will be represented at this annual meeting.

SECRETARY OF NEW GRAND LODGE IS DR. SHAW

Former Resident of Keene is Elected to High Office in Masonic Lodge in Saskatchewan

THE NEW GRAND LODGE'S PROSPECTS

The Examiner is indebted to Dr. John M. Shaw, of Regina, formerly of Peterborough, for a copy of the M. W. the Grand Lodge of Saskatchewan. The formation of this Grand Lodge has followed as a natural result of the remarkable growth of this new Province, and the consequent increase in the number of Masonic lodges. This was foreseen by the mother Grand Lodge of Manitoba. It is particularly pleasing to learn that in the first steps taken in the formation of this new Grand Lodge, Dr. Shaw is shown to have taken an active part. At the convention called for that purpose in May last, it is reported that Dr. Shaw, Past D.D. G.M. of Canada, in Ontario, gave facts and figures showing conclusively that such a Grand Lodge could be formed at the present time, pointing out that the heaviest expense would be that of the Grand Secretary which, with other disbursements, could be readily met by the present ever-increasing strength of the Craft, without any financial loss. After due deliberation, the motion to form a new Grand Lodge for the Province of Saskatchewan was heartily carried.

A perusal of the proceedings of a subsequent convention held in August, when the Grand Lodge was formed. It is a pleasure to announce that among the list of Grand Lodge officers elected, the name of Dr. J. M. Shaw, of Regina, appears as Grand Secretary. Dr. Shaw's election to so high and responsible an office in the gift of the craft is a pleasing indication of his advancement in his new home in the far West. Congratulations are in order, not only from his Masonic brethren, but also from his large circle of friends in Peterborough.

MR. GREEN'S APPLICATION WILL BE HEARD TO-NIGHT

Board of Works to Deal With This and Other Important Business

The Board of Works of the City Council will meet to-night, when some important business will be taken up. Among other things, the application of Mr. G. W. Green for the portion of Gilchrist street, south of McDonel street to the G. T. R. tracks will be considered. This piece of street Mr. Green wants to use in extending his factory and he will meet the Board to-night. Considerable routine business is to be discussed.

SPECIALIST FOR PETERBORO We are pleased to announce that J. W. BROWETT, Doctor of Optics, of Philadelphia, will permanently locate in Peterborough, and take charge of our Optical Department. Mr. Browett is graduate of the best Optical Colleges of America, has had fifteen years successful Optical experience, and is admitted to be one of the most thorough Opticians in Canada. This gentleman is specialist in Refraction of the Eye and teaches progressive Opticians throughout Ontario, but will make our store his head office, and Peterborough his home. APPOINTMENTS—As examinations will only be conducted by appointment, it is best to call early and fix an hour.

REV. W. L. ARMITAGE TO PREACH

At St. Luke's Ash Wednesday—Lenten Services in St. Luke's Church This Year

Referring to the services which will be held during the Lenten season in St. Luke's Church, the Parish Magazine says:

During the Lenten season, which begins with Ash Wednesday on February 13, divine worship will be held at St. Luke's on Wednesdays and Fridays. At these services prominent clergymen will preach. We sincerely hope that our people will largely and loyally attend these services and make them their Lenten devotions. Some special effort for a more spiritual growth and a more earnest life is needed. On Ash Wednesday a Communion service will be held at 10.30, and at the evening service Rev. W. L. Armitage, of Picton, will preach.

Wyandotte Makes a Suggestion to the Directors of Exhibition

To the Editor of the Examiner,—Sir, — As the directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition are going about the work of booming the fair in a manner which spells success, if continued, I wish to make a suggestion. During the last two seasons, one of the principal attractions has been the poultry display. It has been good. It can be made much better. If the directors, in revising the prize list, will itemize each class, we can have a fair this year that will be worth the admission fee alone to see. For instance, in the Cochins, have a class for buff, black, white and partridge, cocks, hens, cockerels and pullets; and so on with each leading variety. There are eight different varieties of Wyandottes; last year's prize list mentioned two; all the other varieties were put in a bunch, A. O. V.

I would suggest that as the directors have already received, and acted upon, some good advice from Mr. Ellis of the Lindsay Fair, that they continue the good work by adopting the prize list of the recent poultry exhibition held in Scugogville.

LAST SOCIAL BY T. A. S. CLUB BEFORE LENT

Entertained St. Martin's T. A. S. Social Club Last Night—The Local Rooms Crowded With Members and Visitors

ENNISMORE LOSE IN GAME OF 45'S

The T. A. S. Social Club entertained the St. Martin's T. A. S. Club of Ennismore in the former's rooms last night, and incidentally restored their reputation as finished players at forty-five.

Owing to the near approach of Lent, this social was the last of what proved to be the most profitable and enjoyable series of entertainments that the members of these societies would have enjoyed. They have resulted in making many new friendships and have also done very much in advocating the cause of temperance.

In the game of forty-fives, the score was 204 to 177 in favour of the local T. A. S., and from all reports the games were warmly contested. There were ten tables in use to accommodate the large number of players. The rooms were crowded with men, a proof that this "soup" on the part of the society was heartily appreciated and should have many beneficial results.

After the game, tempting refreshments provided by Mr. L. Potvin were served. Owing to the lateness of the hour and the severity of the weather the men did not ask the ladies to assist them, and their presence was greatly missed. However, everything was carried out without a hitch.

Music, speeches, songs and dances brought the evening to a pleasant close. Messrs. D. Quinlan, J. Callahan and D. Crough gave exhibitions of step-dancing. Mr. D. Coating and Mr. W. Crough danced an Irish jig. Mr. John O'Brien was simply it in singing, his numbers being greatly enjoyed. Mr. Jos. Begley also sang and Mr. G. Raymond gave a recitation.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Rev. Father McColl and Rev. Dr. O'Brien delivered appropriate addresses extolling the gathering of men such as that of last night. Their speeches were much enjoyed by the assemblage, being entertaining as well as helpful.

The Social Club is to be commended upon the great success that has attended their efforts in promoting friendship and good will among the two societies. They provided a very fine spread last night, with the necessary embellishments to place the masculine mind in a happy mood and to demonstrate the good work of total abstinence.

HUSBAND DESERTED HIS NEWLY WED BRIDE

WAS EMPLOYED AT THE NEW FIRE HALL

Unhappy marriages appear to be the fate of many of Peterborough's sons and daughters. Domestic unhappiness is no doubt rampant in many city homes, which should never have been formed. A singular case of wife desertion has been reported in the city, with the result that the once happy home has been broken up, and the husband is many miles from here.

The young couple in question were married only last summer and for some reason, unknown to the public, the husband left on Saturday night of last week for Boston, without the knowledge of his wife, and has not been heard from since. He had recently been working at the new fire hall for one of the contractors, and was paid off at the end of the week. He told his employer that he and his wife had decided to leave for Boston at the beginning of the week. On Saturday night, however, he apparently had changed his mind, if his former assertions were true, and he was seen boarding a C. P.R. train for the east.

His wife was apprised of the reports and stated that she had heard nothing regarding the proposed Boston journey. The rumours floating about were substantiated by the wife's inquiries but she has not since heard any news of her lost hubby.

STATEMENT OF THE FINANCES WAS GIVEN

Annual Report of Secretary-Treasurer of Water Commissioners Was Presented Yesterday

THE YEAR'S PROFIT WAS OVER $6,000

At a meeting of the Board of Water Commissioners, held yesterday afternoon, the annual financial statement of the Water Works Department, for the year 1906, was presented by the secretary-treasurer, Mr. S. R. Armstrong. The details should be found highly interesting. The amount expended during the year in laying mains, etc., was $10,617.47, and the total amount expended in construction work was $14,625.81. It will be seen that the net water rates show an increase of $2,771.92 over the preceding year. The profits for the year are $,939.54.

The report in full is as follows:—

Gentlemen, — I herewith submit the financial statements of the Water Works Department for the year 1906.

The amount expended during the year in laying mains and setting hydrants was $10,617.47, and in laying service pipes, $4,009.34, making a total of $14,626.81 expended in construction work.

A balance of $4,464.25, which was at credit of the Profit and Loss Account, on Jan. 1, 1906, has been transferred to the Contingent Fund, bringing the amount to the credit of that fund up to $9,931.53.

The net water rates for the year amounted to $31,449.70, an increase of $2,771.92 over the previous year. The expense accounts, including interest on debentures, sinking funds, and 15 per cent. written off tools and plant account for depreciation, amounted to $24,511.16, showing the profits for the year to be $6,938.54, which amount is at the credit of the Profit and Loss Account.

Respectfully submitted.

S. R. ARMSTRONG,
Secretary-Treasurer.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR THE CARNIVAL

The Committee Held Meeting Last Night And All is Now Ready

The Carnival Committee of Court Peterborough met last night to complete arrangements for holding their annual carnival in the Brock street rink on Tuesday evening, Feb. 12th.

The handsome prizes will be placed on view to-morrow in the window of Mr. R. Westcott's boot and shoe store, opposite the Examiner office.

Arrangements are being made with the G. N. W. Telegraph Company to have a special wire placed in the rink, so that returns of the hockey match at Midland that night can be announced as each game is scored.

The mile race, open to amateurs of the Counties of Peterborough, Victoria and Durham, is causing keen rivalry and it is expected that entries will be received from Lindsay, Norwood and Havelock, besides several from here.

THESE DARK DAYS

CAUSE US TO REALIZE ANY DEFECT OF VISION OR EYESTRAIN

Many people think that an examination can only be made on bright days. This is not so, as we use a dark room and artificial light exclusively in our examinations. So we can give equally good results on dark, dreary days, as on bright, sunshiny days.

The Ideal Laxative for Children

Mothers cannot be too careful in what they give children to move the bowels. Calomel, cascara, senna, salts, cathartic pills, castor oil, and purging mineral waters irritate the bowels—upset the stomach—and eventually lead up to chronic non-action of the bowels—Constipation.

Fruit-a-tives

are the finest medicine in the world for children.

It is just like giving the little ones apples, oranges, figs and prunes — because "Fruit-a-tives" ARE the juices of these fruits—but so combined that the medicinal action is increased many times.

Fruit-a-tives are perfectly safe for the children. Keep a box always in the house. 119

A SPRING CATTLE AND SEED SHOW PROPOSED

J. Lockie Wilson, New Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, Writes Letter to Officers and the Press Urging It

WOULD BE OF EDUCATIVE VALUE

Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, the new Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, has recently sent out a letter to the officers of the Institutes in the province in reference to the proposal to hold spring seed and cattle shows in the different localities and urging that wherever possible these shows be held. The letter is as follows:—

The Department is anxious at as early a date as possible to know if your society intends holding a spring stallion and bull show, or seed fair, or both combined.

Section 21 of the new act, sub-section (b) and (c) reads as follows:—

"Societies that hold a spring stallion show, a spring bull show, or a combined spring stallion and bull show, shall receive a grant equal to one half the sum expended in the holding of such show, but such sum shall not exceed fifty dollars."

"Societies that hold a spring seed fair shall receive a grant equal to one half the sum expended in the holding of such fair, such sum not to exceed twenty-five dollars."

Agricultural societies can if they wish hold a combined spring seed fair and cattle show. The maximum government grant will be $75 where a combined show is held. It is of great importance that these spring shows should be held, and the Department is anxious to further in every way possible the holding of these fairs. If you decide to have a seed fair or horse and cattle show under the sections quoted above we can arrange to send you expert judges for your stock. At these spring fairs farmers are given an opportunity to see and examine carefully and select the stallions that will be used in the locality. Bulls can be exhibited and offered for sale, and agriculturists who have seed grain to sell will find purchasers.

The Department is willing to send you, without cost to your society, lecturers on the different varieties of grain, seed, potatoes, etc., that experts consider would be best suited to your soil and climate. With this end in view the officers of the Seed Division of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa have agreed to furnish a number of expert lecturers to attend our Spring Seed Fairs.

It will be necessary for your Board of Directors to decide as soon as possible if it is your intention to take up this valuable agricultural educational work in your vicinity. Societies must notify this Department not later than the first of March if they decide to hold such fairs. We will furnish any information that may be required.

COBOURG REFUGE WILL BE FREE

After Considerable Discussion the United Counties' Council Decided to Adopt No Fee System

At the last meeting of the united counties of Durham and Northumberland, the question which caused much discussion at the meeting of the Peterborough County Council was threshed out, viz.: Whether the municipalities in the county should be compelled to pay a fee for inmates sent from them to the House of Refuge. A large section of the members were in favour of adopting a system similar to that adopted by the last year's Peterborough County Council and charging municipalities a fee for each inmate. After considerable discussion of a somewhat heated character it was decided to make the institution free.

THREE POWERFUL INSTANCES

OF ZAM-BUK'S WONDERFUL HEALING

Here are three powerful instances of the varied ways in which Zam-Buk, the great herbal balm, is doing good throughout the Dominion. Have you yet enjoyed its benefit?

Baby Cured of Eczema

Mrs. L. Taylor, of Pine Ridge, Man., says: "I will never be without Zam-Buk in the house, as I have thoroughly proved it. It cured irritating rash and eczema on my baby's feet during teething. Where there are children it is invaluable, as it heals their sores and injuries in a wonderfully short time."

Trodden on by a Horse—Bad Bruises

Mr. D. Cumming, of Springmount, Ont., says: "I have proved that Zam-Buk has extraordinary merit. I was trampled on by a horse and my foot was all black and swollen. I could scarcely move it, the pain was so bad. A few applications of Zam-Buk eased the pain and removed the discolouration. The foot was soon all right again. It is a wonderful balm."

Running Sore Healed

Mrs. S. J. Holden, of Hannah street W., Hamilton, says: "My little girl had a running sore on her leg which defied all manner of treatment. Within a few days of trying Zam-Buk there was a distinct improvement, and the wound is now completely healed. I have since used Zam-Buk for other skin diseases, etc., and find it expellent."

Zam-Buk is an all-round household balm. It is compounded from purely herbal essences, and cures eczema, ulcers, sores, chapped hands, bruises, cuts, burns, etc. It also cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, and rubbed well in over the chest in cases of cold, removes the tightness and aching. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. 6 Boxes sent for $2.50.

Bro. J H McWilliams, P.C.M., and Past Junior Deputy Grand Master of Ontario East, duly installed the newly-elected officers, after which the meeting adjourned to meet in Lakefield on the third Tuesday in June.

A POPULAR TEACHER HONOURED

Miss Lottie Galvin the Recipient of Address and Books of Poems From Former Pupils

On Friday, February 1, an entertainment was held at S. S. No. 7, Emily, on the occasion of Miss Galvin's retirement from the section. During the past three years she has conducted the school of that section in a most careful and prudent manner and did not alone win the love and esteem of her little flock, but was a particular favourite with all who know her. On this occasion the parents could not allow it to pass without showing a proof of the words that expressed. A large number gathered to express their sorrow over their teacher's departure from their midst. An entertainment was held, after which the following address was read on behalf of the school by Miss Greta Clark, while Miss Stella Hickey presented the teacher with two beautiful volumes of Whittier's and Tennyson's poems:

Miss Lottie Galvin:

Teacher, S. S. No. 7, Emily.

Dear Teacher,—With heartfelt sorrow we have just learned that you are about to leave us, and we could not allow this occasion to pass without expressing in some slight degree our love and esteem for you.

We know, dear teacher, that you have laboured hard for the past three years to instruct us by your ever kind word, and good example for our little school has been our pride under your noble guidance.

We feel with all the sincerity of our hearts that we never had a teacher, nor never will have one, who will take the same interest in our welfare. We know, dear teacher, that we have often given you trouble, for which we now feel very sorry and ask forgiveness. We do not say good-bye because we hope that your residence in the neighbouring county will not deprive us of many a friendly visit which we will expect from you.

As a token of love, we ask you to accept these books from us, and as years roll by your loving remembrance will ever be a bright spot in the hearts of your little school children of S. S. No. 7, Emily.

Signed on behalf of the pupils,
Norman Irwin,
Harman Franks,
Morgan Hickey,
Tommy McAuliffe,
Greta Clark,
Maggie Franks,
Stella Hickey,
Ruby Lowes,
Lillie Franks.

Miss Galvin thanked the children very cordially for the kind words they brought forth in their address, and also for the beautiful volumes presented. She told them that it was not just at the present time that they had treated her with kindness, but during the past three years the same degree of kindness had been exercised by every pupil in the school. She told them that it was a source of pleasure to her to be in their midst day after day and that those three years had passed away so quickly that they appear to have been only one. She again thanked the children and also the parents for the kind advice given those pupils when in their charge.

KIDNEY DISEASE COMES ON QUIETLY

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body and, most people are troubled with some form of Kidney Complaint, but do not suspect it. It may have been in the system for some time. There may have been backaches, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as, brick dust deposit in the urine, highly colored scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent or supressed urination, burning sensation when urinating, etc.

Do not neglect any of these symptoms, for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.

On the first sign of anything wrong

Doan's Kidney Pills

SHOULD BE TAKEN.

They go to the seat of trouble, strengthen the kidneys and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble. Mr. Thomas Petty, Massey, Ont., writes: "After I arrived in Canada from New Zealand, a couple of years ago, I suffered very much from kidney trouble. I tried several remedies, but they did me no good. Finally my back became so lame I could scarcely work. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking them I felt like a new man.

Price 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

ARGOS WILL HAVE STRONGEST TEAM TO-NIGHT

Game Will be One of the Fastest Seen Here This Season—E. S. Allen Will Referee

PARNELL WILL PLAY ON THE LINE

The ice will be in lightning condition for the big game with the Argonauts to-night and the contest should be one of the best seen here in many moons. The Argos have been showing greatly improved form and are travelling at a rate that will make the best of them exert themselves to win. They will have their strongest team on to-night, including Cochrans, one of the best goal-keepers in the O. H. A., and Toms and Hamilton, the two brilliant forwards. Peterborough, although the loss of Whitcroft will be felt, will be very strong. Wallie Parnell will fill the vacant position on the line and will be placed at right wing, while Moore will play rover, where his speed and aggressive checking back should make him of valuable assistance to the defence. The reserved seats have been selling fast and the prospects are that the crowd will be a very large one.

E. S. Allen, of Toronto, will handle the whistle. The game will start at 8.30 sharp, and the teams will line up as follows:

Peterborough		Argos
	Goal.
Lang		Cochrane
	Point.
Glover		Morrow

NORWOOD DUFFERS DEFEATED BUFFERS

An Exciting Game of Hockey Played in That Town Recently—Old Stagers Get Into The Game.

Examiner Special.

Norwood, Feb. 5th.—Before a large crowd, an excellent game of hockey was played between the Buffers and Duffers of Norwood on Friday evening. The teams were made up of players who do not pretend to play hockey. The game was both interesting and amusing from start to finish. Pakenham, the centre Buffer was the star for the evening and by his brilliant rushes found the nets many times. While McCleary did the good work for the Duffers. Pearce, McKenty and Waston the defence for the Duffers stopped mmany fast rushes.

In the first half the Buffers outclassed the Duffers making the score four to one.

In the second half the Buffers started off with a rush, but found they could not stand the pace, while their opponents pulled together, making the score five all. Extra time was played and after some hard checking McCleary got away with the rubber and found the nets, winning the game for the Duffers by the score of 6—5.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Buffers		Duffers.
	Goal
J McMillan		T Watson
	Point
A B Greenbank		A J McKenty
	Cover Point
J W Rork		J F Pearce
	Centre
W Pakenham		F McCleary
	Left Wing
J Marks		J Thompson
	Right Wing
Dr. Weldon		E Frost
	Rover
Dr. Wilson		H Howson

Referee—F Cummings.
Goal Umpires—G E Mills and J Anderson.
Time Keepers—J R McKilne and A Patterson.

THE KINGSTON TEAM EXPECTS TO WIN GAME

Confident of its Ability to Trim the Marlboros in Toronto To-night—Team Work Effective

The Kingston Whig of yesterday forecast the result of the game in Toronto to-night. It says: The Cadets and 14th had a fine practice at the covered rink last night. The 14th team was in uniform and Dr. "Jock" Harty was coaching. It is not known as yet whether Vanburne will play against the Marlboros, but it is likely that he will be out. The 14th team is in good condition and it is expected that it will prove too much for the Toronto Marlboros to-morrow night. Dr. Harty helped the team along with a megaphone, and after to-day's practice the team should play the game of its life. The forward line is showing up better than ever and their speed and combination work is all that could be desired. It is felt in local sporting circles that if the 14th win from Marlboros they can easily trim the Argos, and after the decisive trimming both of these teams received here the team management are confident that they will win out in Toronto.

LINDSAY JUNIORS LOOK GOOD.

Would Not be a Surprise if the Team Should Win the Junior Championship This Year.

If nothing unforeseen happens the Lindsay Midgets should get pretty near that silverware for the Junior O.H.A. championship this year. Manager Parkin has a bunch of boys that will take a lot of beating, and it will be a surprise if they do not bring to Saugogville the junior honours. The team went through the district without a loss, and some older teams in the business were taken on for exhibition games and shown a thing or two about hockey that they did not know before. Apparently, however, the Lindsay public is a little slow to appreciate the worth of the team, and the gates have not always been as large as they should have been. The team has been winning so consistently that each game is looked upon as a foregone conclusion, that the home team will be the winner.

From this distance it looks like the Stratford Midgets and the Lindsay Midgets to go up against each other for the finals, and there will be some doings. But it would not be a very great surprise if the Lindsay team should come out of the conflict the winners.

GALT PLAYERS WILL ATTEND THE MEETING

And Expect to be Able to Clear Themselves Before the O. H. A. To-morrow Night

The Galt Reformer of yesterday said: At a meeting of the executive and players of the Galt Club, held on Saturday evening, it was decided that Tab Johnston, Harry Munn and Jim Brady should go to Toronto next Thursday night to answer the questions which will be put by the O. H. A. Solicitor.

It is known that all the players mentioned can refute the charges made against them, but cannot take the adamantine declaration of that association.

The O.H.A., however, are not expected to insist on these players taking the oath from declaration of the association. It is just possible they may only ask these players to deny the charges made.

The three players will frankly tell O.H.A. their position, and it is not expected that they will be professionalized.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES WILL BE EXCITING

Both Charlotte Street and Auburns are Confident of Winning To-morrow Night's Game

The City League games to-morrow night promise to be decidedly interesting. All four teams are making every effort to strengthen their line-ups and some new faces will be seen. Fred McGrath will play on the Strathconas' forward line in their game against the High Lifes. The dope artists are at sea in trying to pick the winners of the Charlotte street-Auburn game. The Methodists claim that they will make the boys from the north look as if seen through the wrong end of the microscope, while the Auburns say that what they will do to the Guild team will never be mentioned by the latter's friends. The championship standing will be considerably affected by the result and no doubt there will be a record crowd present.

LOCAL CURLERS HAVE GONE A-VISITING TO-DAY

Will Play in Cobourg and Port Hope Before Their Return

Two Peterborough rinks left this morning for Cobourg, where they will play this afternoon. They will return to Port Hope this evening, and meet a couple of rinks of their brethren to-night. The rinks have not yet been selected, but they will be composed of the following players: D. Hall, W. G. Read, A. L. Talbot, S. T. Medd, R. M. Waddell, R. Neill, J. H. Ferguson and G. L. Hay. They will return home to-morrow morning.

CITY QUEEN TOOK FOURTH PLACE IN 2:35 CLASS

Geo. Lipsett's Horse Entered in Ottawa Races This Week

The Ottawa Canada Racing Association meet began yesterday and in the 2.35 class which was the first race pulled off, City Queen, owned by Geo. Lipsett, took fourth money. In the five heats her record was 3, 4, 6, 2, 3. The purse was for $1,000.00.

Cottingham's horse, Harry Direct, will be in the races to-morrow and will be in some fast company.

HOCKEY

The Brigade hockey team of All Saints' church thereby accept the challenge of St. Luke's Sunday School provided the game is played on the Knox church rink.

• • • •

One of the greatest games that will be played this season is the one between the C.P.R. Telegraph Company and the G.N.W. Telegraph Company, to be played Monday night. Both teams have formidable line-ups and a most exciting time is expected.

• • • •

The big game between Rich. Hall & Son's and Dressman's hockey teams will take place on Thursday night at the conclusion of the City League games.

CURLING

The ice at the curling rink is in the pink of condition, and every night the majority of the six rinks are utilized. The curlers are getting in shape for the big bonspiel which begins on the 19th of this month and which will probably include ten or a dozen local rinks.

The following games were played last night, the first three being scheduled:

SOME NEW BUILDINGS IN OMEMEE THIS YEAR

The People of That Village Enjoyed Pittsburg Orchestra

Examiner Special.

Omemee, Feb. 5. Plenty of shingle timber and saw logs are coming to our new sawmill.

Quite a number of our citizens and friends attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Rehill last Friday at Peterborough.

About ten of our music-loving people drove down to enjoy the Pittsburg Orchestra concert, and returned greatly delighted, and educated in a higher class of music.

The first meetings of our village and township Councils were held last night, and considerable business was transacted.

There will be about five or six new buildings go up in our village, to be erected by retired farmers.

RADIANT WOMANHOOD!

The glory and satisfaction of beautiful womanhood can only be known to those possessing the unlimited advantage of health.

The weak woman can't be happy or enjoy half the pleasures of life. Pallid cheeks, sunken eyes, exhausted nerves all tell of a terrible struggle to keep up.

CUBA'S FUTURE IS ASSURED NOW; MR. PEASE

General Manager of the Royal Bank Has Recently Returned After a Trip of Inspection of Branches on The Island

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION SOUND

Mr. E. L. Pease, general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, has just returned from a visit to Cuba, says the Montreal Star. Mr. Pease was making a tour of inspection of the branches of his bank, which are situated in the chief commercial centre of the Republic, and so had occasion to travel over both the eastern and western provinces of the island. His visit has given him a renewed confidence in the future of Cuba, whether or not the island is brought to form part of the United States or continues to be a free and independent republic.

"At the present time," he says, "the United States authorities have the affairs of the island well in hand. American troops are scattered all over the country, and the Washington Government is engaged in securing all the information possible as to the true state of public opinion and the real aims of the different political leaders in Cuba. In a word, Uncle Sam is taking means to ascertain if the people who are now under a provisional government are in a position to provide for themselves a stable representative administration."

"What do you think will be the result of it all?" was asked.

"That is rather difficult to say at present. I am confident, however, that every effort will be made to secure to Cubans a perfect autonomy, as the Americans stand pledged before the world to do. For the carrying out of this purpose a fair election will be held at a time when the will of the people can be properly recorded. If it should be found, however, that in spite of all precautions, independent government is impracticable in Cuba, then I feel sure that the United States will take over the management of the island affairs."

With regard to these elections, Mr. Pease stated that he believed the Liberals would be largely in the majority, but that the moderates would also be an important factor. There were many good men for the office of the presidency.

"At present," said Mr. Pease, in conclusion, "the financial situation is sound and the business outlook very good. But the political atmosphere is not so clear as it might be, and as is desirable."

SILVER WEDDING WAS CELEBRATED

Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Wedding Fittingly Observed.

On Friday evening, January 25, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Beavis, of Asphodel, entertained a large number of their friends and neighbours, numbering between sixty and seventy, on the 25th anniversary of their wedding day. At about 6 o'clock, after the guests had assembled, they were invited to the dining-room, which was tastefully arranged. There was an abundance of those things which most delight the inner man. Ample justice was done to the good things served and all were satisfied beyond the most sanguine expectations.

Mr. Wm. Oakman, in a neat speech, proposed the health of the host and hostess, which was seconded by Mr. Geo. Laing, of Peterborough, in a few well-chosen remarks. The toast was fittingly responded to by Mr. Beavis, when all joined in singing, "For they are jolly good fellows."

The remainder of the evening was enjoyably spent in social games and music. Those present were especially delighted with the instrumental music dispersed by the Misses Collins and Mr. Robt. Collins, who, with the organ, mouth-organ and auto-harp, are a feat in themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Beavis were the recipients of a large number of beautiful and useful presents, which go to show the high esteem in which they are held by their friends and neighbours. Among the gifts was a handsome silver pudding dish from the members of the auxiliary of the W. M. S. of the Hastings Methodist Church, of which Mrs. Beavis is president, which deserves special mention. The auxiliary was represented by several members from Hastings.

About midnight the gathering dispersed, after singing, "God be with you till we meet again."

Had a Bad Leg

"We have seven children and have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for every one of them and with good results. We get four bottles at a time and find it a good remedy to break up a cold on the lungs"—Mrs. R. D. Turner, Broadview, N.W.T.

A GOOD PRESCRIPTION

To relieve a cough or break up a cold in twenty-four hours, the following simple formula, the ingredients of which can be obtained at any good prescription druggist at small cost, is all that will be required: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; Glycerine, two ounces; good Whisky, a half pint. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses every four hours. The desired results can not be obtained unless the ingredients are pure. It is therefore better to purchase each separately and prepare the mixture yourself. Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half-ounce vials, which druggists buy for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, which protects the oil from exposure to light. Around the wooden case is an engraved wrapper, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure,) prepared only by Leach Chemical Company, Windsor, Ontario — plainly printed thereon. There are many imitations and cheap productions of pine, but these only create nausea, and never effect the desired results.

THE LENTEN SEASON TIME OF SELF-DENIAL

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt Issues Annual Lenten Letter to His Parishioners—Should be Honest and Show What We Really Are

SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS ASKED

The current issue of St. Luke's Parish Magazine has the following Lenten letter from the rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt:

Dear Parishioners,—

The season of Lent is one of self-denial and self-communion. God hateth nothing that He hath made, and He forgives the sins of those who are repentant.

Lent comes to us, if we are really Christians, as a great opportunity for self-examination and meditation upon our sins.

We should make a struggle to be honest and to know ourselves as we really are, to find out what our sins are, and to strive with might and main against them.

One of the greatest sins is the sin of indifference. It is not so much what we do as what we leave undone. His heart is grieved more by the indifference of men; so much so that He was made to feel that it was the greatest of all sins, because it was a sin against love.

To disobey the commandments of God is a sin, but to refuse the invitation of God to come unto Him is a greater sin. He believed that men should be born into a new life—the Kingdom of Heaven.

You have the parable of the wedding garment, of the foolish virgins, of the talents—those who suffered in these did not suffer because of what they had done, but because of what they had not done.

So let us bring these lessons home to ourselves and ask: What am I leaving undone that I ought to do? Am I denying myself that I may serve Him? Does my life show that I am? Are all my aspirations and calculations made with His glory in mind? We have heard His comforting promise, "Come unto Me all ye that are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." So we must not be guilty of this sin of indifference.

Let us follow Christ and make the most of our talents. Let this Lenten season be a season of self-examination, and let us strive more and more to grow into His likeness. Let us welcome every hour of the great season of spiritual discipline.

There is power in the thought that Ash Wednesday ushers in a great religious observance in which hundreds of thousands of Christians are concerned. You and I are of the number and have an actual part in the mighty movement. Let us come forward willingly and make our contribution of earnestness and devotion. Lent, with all its privileges and opportunities, is going to help us on our way to God.

Your friend and rector,

E. A. LANGFELDT.

Many people are availing themselves of this opportunity of securing some choice lots while the prices are yet low. These Lots are on the market at first values and are sure to advance when Spring opens up; hence the advisability of securing some of them NOW, and reap the benefit of the advance that is sure to take place.

Think of the opportunity of securing Lots adjacent to Saskatchewan's New Provincial Parliament Building Site, where Two Million Dollars will be spent in the near future.

The Streets and Avenues of this Beautiful Residential Property have all been graded, and Three Thousand Five Hundred Shade Trees have been purchased and will be planted on them during the coming Spring.

Chances for securing such HIGH CLASS PROPERTY don't come often; the opportunity is yours, take advantage of it now.

A call at our office to see our maps will convince you of the unequalled chance of a First Class Investment, which we offer.

A GLORIOUS SALE OF WHITE LINGERIE UNDERWEAR

Our White Underwear did not need the excuse of a "Sale" to sell them—they would sell readily at the usual prices to a descriminating public; but we wanted more than a business that sold "Readily," we wanted business that sold "Remarkably," and that accounts for the drops in prices. The garments are just as fine as ever, but they have parted with part of their price so that we might have a "Bargain Holiday."

We couldn't begin to describe all the values—but FAIR'S WHITEWEAR SALES are so well known that the people flock to this store the moment they know the Sale is on.

This cut conveys a faint idea of the daintiness of our Whitewear. The values can only be appreciated by a personal visit to this department.

Falling Tree Badly Crushed A Young Douro Boy's Head

Did Not Know Tree Was So Near Severed From the Stump—Tripped Over Some Brushwood and Tumbled Into Danger.

HIS NOSE AND BOTH JAWS WERE BADLY FRACTURED

Pinned to the earth by a falling tree, Albert Condon, a Douro youth, and son of Mr. J. R. Condon, of that township, lies seriously injured from wounds about the head. The unfortunate accident occurred yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock in the woods on Mr. Condon's farm, lot 8, con. 3, of Douro.

The injured boy, who has not yet reached his seventeenth birthday, had accompanied his elder brother to the bush, and the two were engaged in cutting down some trees. Just as one of the trees had been almost chopped enough to fall, the young fellow, who had not been expecting it so soon, noticed the peril he was in and ran for safety.

Fate appeared to be against him for the moment, as he stumbled upon some protruding brush and the big tree crashed down upon him.

The injuries, especially about the head, were very severe, but it seems nothing short of a miracle that he still lives. Dr. McNulty, of Peterborough, was summoned, and dressed the many wounds. He found that young Condon had both his upper and lower jaws fractured, his nose broken, and several severe injuries on the head.

From latest reports, the boy was still living and may recover.

Millbrook Young Lady Was A Happy Bride

Millbrook has never seen a more popular or more joyous wedding than that which was celebrated yesterday afternoon at 2.30 in pretty St. Thomas' Anglican church. The principals in this event are members of two of the oldest families in the community, and this circumstance, as well as the fact that the young persons themselves are well known and popular lent additional interest to the occasion.

The bride was Miss Mildred Mary Lionecar Allen, only daughter of the rector of Cavan, Rev. William Cartwright Allen, and Mrs. Allen, of "Shenley," Millbrook, grand daughter of the late Rev. T. W. Allen, D.C.L., Archdeacon of Peterborough, and the late Dr. E. H. Lionecar, of Shenley, Hertfordshire, England.

The Bridegroom was Mr. Louis Henry Winslow, of "Woodleigh," Cavan, son of the late Clara Winslow, Esq., of "Stoneleigh" Cavan, and grandson of the late George Winslow.

The church, which was crowded to the doors with guests and friends of the popular young people, was artistically and elaborately decorated for the auspicious event, the effect of evergreens, autumn leaves, pink and white carnations, being very pretty. The work was carried out by several girl friends of the bride. In front of the chancel steps was an arch of evergreens and coloured leaves, under which the bridal couple took their stand.

Arriving at the church, the members of the wedding party were met at the door by the ushers, Mr. T. W. E. Allen, brother of the bride, and Mr. Arthur Payne, of Toronto, cousin of the bride. Then came the maid of honour, Miss Helen Allen, cousin of the bride, and daughter of Rev. Alex. Allen, of Oakland, California. She was followed by the fair bride, leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Henry Burke Allen, of Millbrook, who gave her away in marriage.

The impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. William Cartwright Allen, father of the bride, assisted by Rev. Herbert Ben-Oliel, curate of Cavan.

The bridegroom was supported by Mr. George Beal, of Lindsay.

As the wedding party proceeded slowly up the aisle to the chancel steps, Miss Collins, of Millbrook who presided at the organ, played Lohengrin's wedding march. When the chancel steps were reached, the choir and assembled company joined heartily in singing "How Welcome is the Call." During the solemn rite, as the bride and bridegroom took up their station before the altar "Te Deum" was rendered, and later while the register was being signed, "O Perfect Love" was sung.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white poult d'esprit over white silk, trimmed with narrow white satin ribbon, the corsage being adorned with rare old Brussels lace, which has been in possession of the family for many generations. Miss Allen wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lillies of the valley. Her ornaments were a gold chain and amethyst and pearl pendant, the gift of the bridegroom; an amethyst and pearl brooch, the gift of her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Norman Allen, of Toronto, and a gold bracelet, presented by her father.

The maid of honour, Miss Helen Allen, was daintily attired in white net over white silk, trimmed with narrow white satin ribbon. She wore a pink chiffon sash, long pink gloves and white veil, adorned with a pink wreath. She carred a pretty bouquet of pink roses. The bridegroom's gift to the maid of honour was a gold cross, which she wore during the ceremony. To the groomsman he gave an amethyst and pearl pin, and to the ushers silver pencils.

The bride presented to the organist a pearl and gold brooch, and to the bridegroom a pair of gold monogram cuff links.

Masters Eric Lefroy and Allan Fair, acted as ribbon boys during the impressive ceremony in the church.

As the wedding party left the edifice the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march filled the sacred edifice.

A reception was held at "Shenley," the residence of the bride's parents, from 3 to 5 o'clock, and was attended by a large number of guests. The bridal table was decorated with smilax, white and pink carnations, lillies of the valely and long pink ribbons, the ornamentation being very pleasing. Hearty felicitations were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Winslow, and ardent hopes expressed for a long and happy wedded life.

The gowns were very beautiful and attractive. Mrs. W. C. Allen, the mother of the bride, was in navy beau de soie, with Persian trimmings, black lace and and met hat, relieved with pink roses.

Mrs. Winslow, mother of the groom was gowned in black, with bonnet to match.

The bride's going-away costume was of dark blue ladies' cloth, the coat being ornamented with Persian trimmings. She wore a blue hat with red roses.

A large number of presents, which were thoroughly representative of the occasion, testified in silent but eloquent terms to the affection in which the bride is held. St. John's church, Cavan, of which she was organist for some time, remembered her with a pretty cut-glass berry set; while numerous other tokens of regard were received from friends far and near.

Mr. and Mrs. Winslow left on the 5.10 train for Lindsay, Toronto, Buffalo and other points, many friends crowding the station platform to see them depart, amid a shower of rice.

On their return Mr. Winslow and bride will reside at "Woodleigh," Cavan. The bride will be at home to her friends at "Woodleigh," on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 9th and 10th, and at "Shenley," the residence of her parents, on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 16th and 17th.

The bride is one of Millbrook's most amiable and accomplished young ladies. She was a faithful member of St. Thomas' church choir, the Women's Auxiliary, and several other organizations. The bridegroom, who is a nephew of Captain Charles Winslow of Millbrook, is an honoured son of one of the pioneers of Cavan, and a young man of sterling qualities. He enjoys a wide measure of popularity, and many admirers of the principals of Wednesday's happy event trust that throughout life their "joys may be as deep as the ocean, and their sorrows as light as its foam."

Among the invited out of town guests were: Mr. Albert Winslow, Misses Sybil and Albert Winslow, Arthur Payne, Toronto; Mr W. Payne, and Miss Mabel Southeran, Lindsay; Mrs Carry and Mrs Smart, Port Hope; Miss Ethel Clarke, Omemee; Dr and Mrs Norman Allen, Toronto; Mrs and Miss Martin; Mr S McBean, Mr and Mrs Holliday, Toronto; Rev E Senning, Markham; Mr and Mrs Southeran, Lindsay; Rev J H Teeney, Omemee; Mr and Mrs R B Rogers, and Miss Rogers, Campbellford; Mr Fred Medd, Montreal; Rev Canon and Mrs Davidson, Rev E A and Mrs Langfeldt, Mr R Fair, Miss Eileen Fair, Mr H Calcutt, the Misses Calcutt, Miss B Clementi, Mr S T Medd, Peterborough; and many others.

PREVENT POLLUTION OF KAWARTHA LAKES

Provincial Board of Health Takes Action on the Matter—Minister of Department Asked to Deal With It.

At the quarterly meeting of the Provincial Board of Health held in Toronto yesterday A motion was passed drawing the attention of the Minister of the Department to the matter of the pollution of the Muskoka Lacs, and pointing out the necessity for immediate steps to maintain the purity of the waters of the summer resorts of the province, especially Muskoka and the Kawartha Lakes.

LITTLE CHILDREN TAKEN TO THE SHELTER

Reported That They Were Not Properly Treated at Their Home on Water Street

A particularly sad case of ill-treatment to children has been reported from Water street in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Dunsford. It appears that drink has broken up the home to a great extent, and the two little children, aged nine and ten years, were not taken care of as they should have been.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane was notified of the case and took immediate action. Policeman Newlall was despatched to the house to conduct the children to the Shelter, where they now are located. He reported that the house could easily bear sanitary inspection, and that a batch of young puppies shared the living room with the family.

The little children, a boy and a girl, are now located at the Shelter and will remain there until an investigation is made.

SUMMER VISITOR PASSED AWAY

Late Matthew Taylor, of Schenectady, N.Y., Was Well Known in This City.

Mr. Robert Fair received word today of the death in Schnectady, N. Y., yesterday of Mr. Matthew Taylor, ex-postmaster of that city, and ex-superintendent of the American Locomotive Works. The late Mr. Taylor was quite well known in the city and vicinity. He was a regular summer visitor at Buckhorn, where he was one of the most popular of the tourists that frequented that place.

BAND WILL BE AT JACKSON PARK TO-NIGHT

Ice is in Great Shape and There Should Be a Big Crowd Present.

The band will be at Jackson Park to-night, and in view of the favourable weather, and the good condition of the ice, there should be a big crowd at the popular resort to-night. The reason the band has been secured for to-night is on account of its engagement to-morrow night and early next week. To-night is probably the only time the band will be present for a week. The slide is in splendid shape.

BRANTFORD'S MAYOR COMMITTED

Mayor Bowlby Must Face Charge of Criminal Libel at the Spring Assizes.

Examiner Special

Brantford, Feb. 7. — Decision in the libel suit of C. Montgomery v. H. W. Bowlby, K.C., mayor, was given this morning. Police Magistrate Woodyatt committed Mr. Bowlby to the spring assizes for trial. Mr. Bowlby furnishes his own bail to appear.

THE MOIRA RIVER IS ON RAMPAGE

Favourable Position of Peterborough is Emphasized by the Floods at Belleville.

A Belleville despatch has the following:

"With zero weather and the Moira River six feet above normal conditions there is much inconvenience and loss in the city. Stores on Front street have had their furnaces put out and unless the weather moderates soon there will be a marked loss and suffering."

The citizens of Peterborough should feel thankful to know that the water in the Otonabee River is maintained at a normal height during the year. While there is never any danger of low water, there is at the same time no danger of floods.

FUNERAL OF LATE MISS BECKETT YESTERDAY

Remains Brought From Toronto to Indian River—Funeral to the Cemetery at Westwood

The funeral of the late Miss Elisabeth Beckett, whose death occurred in Toronto a few days ago, took place from Mr. John E. Duff's residence at Indian River yesterday. The remains were expressed from Toronto to the Indian River station and Mr. J. Comstock had a long drive in conveying the body to the Westwood Cemetery. A number of people from this city also drove to Indian River, among them Rev. Dr. Torrance, who assisted Rev. Mr. Steadman in conducting the funeral services.

MINISTERS UNEARTH AWFUL WICKEDNESS

What Two McKeesport Preachers Saw on a Tour of Inspection, and What They Will Do About It

Pittsburg, Feb. 5.—Revs. George N. Spencer and Harry S. Gregg, two prominent ministers of McKeesport, Pa., made a sensational report regarding the wickedness prevailing in that city. Disguised, the two pastors climbed fences in the "red light district" and peeped through windows, so they went to the front door, where they were invited to enter.

The first step in a campaign to be inaugurated by the Ministerial Association will be an attempt to have all Sunday work in the city stopped. They will start with the Sunday funerals, trying to have undertakers and others co-operate with them.

Eight Freight Cars Thrown Twenty Feet From The Tracks

Railway Accident at Havelock—Early Morning Passengers Westward Bound Were Transhipped Past the Wreck.

C. P. R. EXPRESS CANCELLED

A rather serious wreck occurred about midnight last night, a short distance east of Havelock, which has caused considerable inconvenience to the travelling population. A broken rail, it is reported, was the cause of the accident which has ditched eight box cars. An eye witness of the remains stated to the Examiner this morning that the cars were thrown 20 feet at least from the tracks, and that the loss would amount to several thousand dollars.

The cars were freighted with meat and oranges.

As a result of the mishap the passengers from the early morning C. P.R. train had to be awakened from their downy couches in the sleepers and transhipped to another train on this side the wreak. There were many passengers on the train so that the delay was long and the regular 5 o'clock train did not arrive in Peterborough until after 9 o'clock.

The eight o'clock express which starts from Tweed, had to be cancelled altogether this morning as there was no possibility of it getting through.

There were no serious results accompanying the wreck and so far as has been heard none of the employees were injured. The fact that it was a freight train which met with the accident may have been the means of saving many lives.

The line was cleared about two o'clock.

TRUE NOBILITY

Mr. John Ross Robertson, of the Toronto Telegram, is pictured as generally sucking a cigar. Whatever may be the general opinion of the use of tobacco, it is splendidly justified in Mr. Robertson's case, if, under the meditative influence of his weed, he devised the splendid benefactions that stand to his credit. His gift of the Hospital for Sick Children, which has alleviated the sufferings and straightened the crooked limbs of thousands of children; his gift of the Lakeside Home, where the little sufferers enjoy a holiday and the lake breezes which promote convalescence and bring the rare boon of happiness to darkened little lives, and this latest gift, the presentation of a Home for the nurses of the Children's Hospital—all these stand out in a white light to his credit. He has made money honestly in the newspaper business and shown the highest sense of moral obligation and altruistic duty by spending it for the benefit of humanity.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is a fact worth noting that, says the Toronto Star, Mr. William Lyon Mackenzie King, Deputy Minister of Labour, whose chief business od impossible to get away cleanly, of William Lyon Mackenzie, who as long ago as 1837 conducted the most successful strike known to Canadian history.

Delaware still retains, which is regarded as a "relic of barbarity"—the whipping post. There is, however, a class of crimes that does not seem to be reached by any milder form of punishment. There are some criminals so nearly on the level of the brute that only the argument that would appeal to the brute, physical pain, is indicated.

Mayor Judd, of London, is the Judge Jeffreys of the Whitney Government. He seems to have a standing contract for providing victims for the headsman. He is now preparing Governor Van Zandt, of the Toronto jail for slaughter, and his next job is said to be the Sheriff of Dundas, Mr. Whitney's constituency, whose place is needed for some beneficiary of the Premier's spoils policy.

There is a very different feeling in Manitoba to-day to what there was before the election of 1903. At that time, says the Morden Chronicle, the Roblin Government has been in power out a short time and there was a general feeling of giving the government a chance. They have had their chance, to-day there is a very general feeling that having had their chance they have been more careful to feather their own nests and those of their henchman than to safeguard the interests of the province. There is a feeling of confidence among Liberals which is very inspiring. The new leader, Mr. Brown, has proved more successful even than they expected and there is every confidence that he will be premier after the next election.

Transportation is the touchstone of progress. Activity in transportation indicates the activity of commercial and industrial conditions, and the progress of transportation facilities indicates in Canada, at least, corresponding development of national resources. Last year was the greatest year in railway building in the life of the country. It is estimated that more than 3,500 miles of new railway line were constructed, and that in railway construction, extension and equipment, the large sum of $2-000,000 was expended. The indications are that as great, and even, perhaps, greater, activity will prevail in railway construction in the year 1907. Lord Strathcona may have used a big telescope when he foresaw a population of eighty millions for the year 2000, but the way the twentieth century is setting out deprives his forecast of improbability. Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared that the twentieth century belonged to Canada, and Canadians are very vigourously asserting their claim to it.

JUVENILE CRIME

The bill now before the Canadian Parliament relative to juvenile criminals is a marked advance on previous legislation. It is founded on three basic principles:

1. That children are not criminals in the sense that adults are, and should be treated as children even when they break the law. As the law holds that a child cannot deal with its property or enter into a valid contract, so the law should hold that a child cannot commit a crime to the same extent that an adult can.

2. That the best mode of dealing with juvenile delinquents is by endeavouring to reform them in their own homes or in foster homes, through probation officers.

3. That adults should be held criminally liable for causing delinquency in children.

Another feature of the bill is the recognition that children's cases should, where possible, be dealt with by one man as judge, in each locality, who should be chosen for his suitability, and should make a specialty of the work. The Act contemplates that the details of the system, establishment of courts, provision for the appointment of probation officers, etc., should be left to the provinces, and that the Act should not go into force in any province until the necessary machinery has been provided.—Brantford Expositor.

THE BOYS MUST ATTEND SCHOOL

Three Boys Get Into Trouble While Playing Truant—Mr. Cochrane to Watch Such Boys, so Warning is Given.

Wm. McMillan, an Omemee man, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning on a drunk charge. He came to Peterborough about a week ago with ten dollars, but soon dispossessed himself of this little "all." He had a good time, so he declared, and while the money lasted had many friends. "But the world goes on just the same," and McMillan was taxed $2, to be paid immediately. It is likely that he is now on the hill, as his finances had faded away and he was unable to pay the fine.

Juvenile Case

Robt. Saunders, Joseph Shearer and Elmer Galvin, three young boys who should be at school, also appeared before His Worship. Saunders was charged with having stolen a paid of rubbers from Mr. Joseph Hickey's shoe store on Hunter street. Saunders was found guilty. Another charge laid against him was that of stealing a knife from Mrs. Jay's store on Aylmer street. The three boys entered the store on Monday morning and asked to be shown some knives. Mrs. Jay's daughter was alone in the shop and gave the boys some knives to inspect. One of them asked for collar buttons, and while the little girl was getting them, a 45-cent knife suddenly faded away. The boys offered to pay ten cents each, but the money did not materialize.

The police were informed of the missing knife, and the circumstances of its disappearance. Yesterday Police Officer McGinty arrested young Saunders, and the case was cleared up this morning.

Magistrate Dumble was very considerate and allowed Saunders to go, providing he attended school regularly. Mr. Cochrane, the new Truant Officer, was told to keep a watchful eye over the three boys, and their regular attendance at school in the future must be a necessity, otherwise more trouble may be expected.

For Family Colds.

A reliable cough and cold cure should be always in the house ready for use the moment the first symptoms appear.

It is always easier, cheaper and better to check a cold in the very beginning.

It is safer, too.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, has been tested for thirty-three years, and tens of thousands of homes in Canada and the United States to-day are never without it.

A dealer writes: "Shiloh's Consumption Cure is without doubt the best remedy for Coughs and Colds on the market. Once used, my customers will buy no other.—L. Elsley, Nassagaweya, Ont."

If it were anything but the best would this be so? Try it in your own family. If it does not cure, you get both all it cost you. We take all the chances. Neither you nor your dealer can lose. Isn't that fair? 25c. is the price. All dealers in medicine sell

MR. DUNSTAN'S EVIDENCE.

Bell Telephone Operators Listen to the Conversations of Subscribers —Why This is Done.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—Two little flurries of excitement yesterday swept over the audience attending the telephone commission's investigations, when Judge Winchester rather criticized the company after an admission made by Manager Dunstan to the effect that the company had been paying some of its employes insufficient salary to live upon, which his honor questioned was being conducive to a high moral tone, and when the matter of the "listening board" was brought up, Judge Winchester then wanted to know if it was true that private conversations were recorded by listeners and filed for the perusal of officials.

Manager Dunstan replied that the instructions to the operators on "listening" boards were to report when certain telephones were put to an improper use. That is, when social telephones were used for business calls. The listening boards also were useful for ascertaining the amount of traffic on any particular line.

"Do the listening operators listen to conversations where the two people conversing do not think that anybody is listening?" was asked, and Mr. Dunstan said "Yes—if they are so instructed."

"Do they take it in writing?"

"No, except in certain cases. He thought they were afterwards destroyed.

THEY HAVE NO COAL.

Fuel Problem Has Reached an Acute Stage in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Feb. 7.—The fuel situation is growing serious in Winnipeg and dealers are practically out of coal.

The Sherwin Williams establishment shut down yesterday and others may be compelled to follow suit.

Wood is growing scarce and the board of control is taking up the question in earnest in an endeavor to reach a solution. Where the coal is to come from is a problem. Port Arthur is out and Fort William stock is growing short, while it is useless to look to Minneapolis or Duluth.

The only hope is wood, and as there is said to be plenty on the branch lines of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. every nerve will be strained to get those lines to open them.

To Help Others.

Prince Albert, Sask., Feb. 7.—Prince Albert City Council called a public meeting last night, to make an organized effort to relieve the suffering caused by fuel shortage in the southern part of the province. Prince Albert has an abundance of fuel and the plan is to secure teams and haul wood along the railway tracks to points where it is most needed.

C. P. R. RUNNING RIGHTS.

Conference With I. C. R. Officials—Halifax Deputation Favors It.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—There was a long conference yesterday between Mr. Emmerson, Deputy Minister Butler and a number of I. C. R. officials respecting the granting of running rights to the C. P. R. over the I. C. R. between Halifax and St. John.

Terms were decided upon, but not made public, as they will be the subject of negotiation with the officials of the C. P. R.

A. M. Bell and other citizens of Halifax were here yesterday, and urged Mr. Fielding to conclude the proposed arrangement, as being to the interests of Halifax.

A Woman Freezes to Death.

Belleville, Feb. 7.—Helen Gordaneer, about 70 years of age, was found dead, frozen stiff, yesterday afternoon in a shack on Dickson's Island, across the bay from this city.

She had lately been living on the island with Horace Dickson, who, being sick, had come to this city for a few days. Tuesday the woman left the city to feed the live stock.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

Always Stops the Cough

It combines the potent healing virtues of the pine tree with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines of recognized worth, is absolutely harmless, prompt and safe.

A cough is caused by the presence of phlegm in the throat and lungs, and continued coughing is liable to distend the bronchial tubes, congest the lungs and produce inflammation or hemmorhage.

A neglected cough can have but one result. It leaves either the throat or lungs, or both, affected.

A single dose of

will stop the cough, soothe the throat and heal the lungs.

Read what Miss Nettie A. Seeley, Ashland, N.B., says: "I take much pleasure in recommending Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, for I have found it a very valuable remedy for coughs. My mother has used it in our family for a long time and whenever any of them get a cough, mother will say: 'I will have to get some Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for I know it is good, and always stops the Cough when nothing else will.'"

Insist on getting Dr. Wood's as it is the genuine, put up in yellow wrapper. Price 25 cents at all dealers. 3 pine trees the trade mark.

Delicious Soups

and Tasty Gravies

Are what every lady desires to have served at her table. But unfortunately it often happens that when prepared in the ordinary way they lack nourishment and flavor. At such times

"Bovril" is invaluable

A little "Bovril" added to a weak, tasteless soup gives it richness, strength, and a delightfully appetising flavour. The next time you make soup try a little "Bovril" in it. You'll appreciate the difference.

Bronchitis is "Cold on the Chest"

AND THE MOST PROMPT AND SATISFACTORY TREATMENT IS

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Acute bronchitis is none other than what is commonly known as "cold on the chest," and is marked by difficult breathing and tightness or soreness of the chest.

As a preventitive, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine will, if taken in time, positively prevent the symptoms of bronchitis or cold in the chest.

As a cure, it will entirely overcome even the long-standing cases of chronic bronchitis, and it should not be forgotten that, when neglected, bronchitis usually returns time and time again until the victim is worn out by its debilitating effects.

It is largely the extraordinary success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for bronchitis that has made this treatment so popular. People quite rightly reason that what will cure bronchitis will make short work of croup and ordinary coughs and colds.

Mrs. Richmond Withrow, Shubenacadie, Hants Co., N. S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with good success. My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought she would choke to death. The several remedies we got did not seem to be of much use, but the first dose of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief, and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved us many doctor's bills, and I would not be without it in the house for many times its cost."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.—12.

Rev. Father McGuire, of Downeyville, was in the city last night attending the banquet and initiation with the C.M.B.A., and will remain over until to-night for the concert in St. Peter's Hall.

A most enjoyable time was spent at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Angus McPherson, 79 Patterson street, Tuesday night when a party of young people were most pleasantly entertained. The evening was pleasantly spent in progressive euchre. The gentleman's prize was won by Mr. Wm. Grady; the lady's prize by Miss McFadden, and the consolation honours went to Miss Costello. During the evening delightful solos were rendered by Miss Mollie Young and Mr. L. Brady. Miss Filion presided at the piano.

The new moving picture programme for this week shows in a most diverting manner the story of "Farmer Giles' Troubles." Farmer Giles has been watching the growth of his chickens which he has been hoping will secure the prize at the coming fair. He hears a noise one night in the chicken coop. Behold! more than 40 of his best are gone, without leaving a note to say when, or a feather to show where they had gone. A clue is obtained, a trap is laid and the disappearance solved. Thrilling situations, great excitement, also new, beautiful illustrated songs. Don't miss them.

ILLUMINATED SIGNS ON POSTS TO BE ELIMINATED

Clause Embodying This Decision of Board of Works to be Inserted in By-law Governing Illuminated Signs

MR. GREEN'S REQUEST WAS LAID OVER

The meeting of the Board of Works Committee last night was to have been concluded by half-past eight, and forr this reason the members were requested to be on hand at 7.30. However, they spent about three hours in talking over a few questions, among which were the request of G. Walter Green for street appropriation, the Albert street extension, and a petition from a Gilmour street resident, asking for $8 for damages, which he claimed, were caused through a defective sewer. About an hour was spent on the latter problem which, it would appear, should have been disposed of in a few minutes.

Those present were chairman Duncan, and Ald. Johnston, McIntyre, Wilson, and the Mayor.

The first question considered was the dates for advertising for the local improvements wanted by the citizens. It will be remembered that the committee decided to attend to all petitions first which were in and duly signed before May 1st. It was decided to advertise this fact in the three local newspapers, in February, March and April.

Trees To Be Removed

Mr. Flynn, proprietor of the American house, applied for permission to have two trees in front of his property cut down. Moved by Ald. Johnston and the Mayor that he be allowed to do so, provided the City Engineer considered it satisfactory. His petition to place a sign on a post in front of his building was not allowed. He may, however, put up an illuminated sign within the restrictions of the bylaw referring to signs, which will subsequently be drawn up.

Post Signs Forbidden

The committee was agreed that no more illuminated signs on posts should be erected on the streets. Those already erected will not be removed unless the owners desire it.

It was moved by Ald. McIntyre, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that a clause be inserted in the bylaw to be drawn up that no more illuminated signs on posts be permitted.—Carried.

The committee believed that there were now too many posts on the city streets, and in view of this they intend to prohibit the erection of any more. In the meantime, before the bylaw is passed, those erecting illuminated signs will be called upon to pay a license fee of $2.

Mr. Green's Extension

Mr. G. Walter Green was then heard with reference to his proposed building extension. He had plans of the street and surrounding property, for which he is applying to get the use of from the city. Mr. Green wants a portion of Gilchrist street between McDonel street and the G.T.R. tracks. He also wishes to remove this old frame shop, and put up a large brick structure. The land he asks for is about 30 feet by about 60 feet.

It was moved by the Mayor and Ald. Wilson, that Mr. Green's application for a portion of Gilchrist street be left over until next Wednesday night to give anyone so wishing, an opportunity to object. If there is no substantial objection, the solicitor will then be asked to instruct the committee as to what steps to take, and arrange to carry it out at once.—Carried.

Albert Street Extension

Mr. Murray, who resides on Albert street, was heard in reference to the opening of that street. The council had decided that a 45-foot street would be necessary. He thought that the residents could not give more than 32 feet, and that the city should buy the rest to make up the 45 feet needed.

The committee took the view that either the property owners benefited or those to the north should buy the additional strip of land required. The city, it was pointed out, would be put to considerable expense in grading and fixing up the street.

Moved by Ald. Johnston and Wilson, that the committee go down and see the property in question.—Carried.

Gilmour Street Sewer

The plumbing inspector reported on the Gilmour street sewer stoppage last autumn, and pointed out that the expense was incurred by Mr. Smith in not proceeding in the proper manner to relieve the stoppage. The committee decided that they were not responsible for Mr. Coughlin's expense of $8, which he went to in order to locate the cause, therefore no action was taken.

Babb's Lane

Moved by Ald. Johnston and McIntyre, that in case the city accepts the offer of residents on Babb's Lane to give the three feet on each side of the street, and the residents on the west side pay 60 per cent. of the cost of the sidewalk, the city will substitute a cement walk for the wooden one and grade and water table the street.—Carried.

52 NEW MEMBERS ADMITTED TO C.M.B.A.

Successful Meeting Held in the T. A. S. Rooms Last Night—Pleasant Social Followed Routine of Business

HAS BEEN REVIVED AND STRENGTHENED

Fifty-two new members were admitted to the C. M. B. A. last night at a most enthusiastic meeting held in the T.A.S. Hall. There was a large number of the members of the Society present, and the accompanying social was enjoyed by everyone.

A special effort has been made during the past few weeks by the Society, to increase the membership and under the guidance of Mr. Hardy of Belleville, this work has been carried to a very successful issue. The initiation ceremony was conducted by Mr. Meehan of Kingston, who congratulated Mr. Hardy upon his enterprise, and also praised the local members for their hearty co-operation and the assistance they had rendered.

After the initiation ceremonies, the members had a little social intercourse, many of them playing forty-fives. Mr. T. Hooper then supplied the wants of the inner man to the evident satisfaction of all. The sumptuous repast that was provided appealed to the tastes of all, and many were the complimentary remarks that were expressed of Mr. Hooper's catering.

Addresses were given by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, Rev. Father McGuire, Rev. Father McColl, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, and Mr. Hardy. They spoke in praise of the society and the benefit that families derived from such an organization. It was said that it was a man's duty to make ample provision for wife or parents, as the case might be, so that in the event of the death of the provider for the family, its members should not be left without any means of support. This is one of the objects that the C.M.B.A. accomplished, and therefore every person should take advantage of the opportunity of becoming a member.

On motion of ex-Ald. Ball and Ald. Phelan, the gratitude of the Society was extended to His Lordship the Bishop and the clergy for their presence at the social and the interest they had shown in its welfare.

CANADIAN INDUSTRIES PAY.

Another Successful Year of a Leading Canadian Manufactory.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Slater Shoe Company was held at their offices in Montreal a few days ago. The address of the president laid stress on the continuous progress of the company's business since the standard price Slater Shoe became the feature of the business.

The Slater Company were the first Canadian manufacturers to adopt newspaper advertising as an adjunct to the more economical selling of their goods. In five years their business has more than doubled. In 1906 the increase over 1905 was exactly $200,000. While this year achieved the largest gross increase in a single year, it is also by far the largest percentage of increase in twelve months. The orders for the first two months of their present fiscal year exceed those of the corresponding months of the previous year by $159,000.

Ninety-eight new agencies were opened by the company during the year. Orders came unsolicited from many foreign countries, including South Africa, the West Indies, and from Newfoundland. The president pointed out the need for more factory accommodation. "We have outgrown our present quarters," he said. The directors arranged to hold a special meeting to deal with factory requirements and extension.

The financial report of the secretary-treasurer, with a dividend of 7 per cent. on both preferred and common stock, and a substantial balance added to rest account, was received with approval by the shareholders.

The Board of Directors were elected as follows: Charles E. Slater, President; William Starke, Vice-President; A. McKim, J. N. McKim, W. F. Borland, William Smith, J. W. Woods, and Major Robert Starke.

THE FARMER VINDICATED AND THE BUTCHER BLAMED

In the Matter of Insufficent Weight of Meat.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In the Weekly Examiner of the 17th, I noticed an article stating that on the previous Saturday a load of beef had been offered for sale on the market, each quarter of which was 25 lbs short. The writer gave your readers to understand that the said beef belonged to a farmer. Such, however, was not true. The gentleman offering that meat for sale was not a farmer, but one of your own citizens, and the "inefficient home scales" a butcher's, not a farmer's.

Yours, etc.
FARMER.

JANUARY '07 HOLDS THE RECORD FOR SEVERITY

Unprecedently Low Temperatures in the West—Eastern Ontario Touched Gently

LOW THERMOMETER READINGS IN WEST

The weather report for the month of January was issued yesterday by the Observatory at Toronto, and a few extracts are taken from it to show the severity of the weather prevailing in some portions of the Dominion. The report says:

The temperature was below the average in all portions of the Dominion, except in the peninsula of Ontario, where it was either average, or one degree above. The negative departures in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, ranging, as they did from 10 to 22 degrees, were phenomenal, and in these provinces it was the coldest January of which the Meteorological Service has any record. In Manitoba the negative departures were also pronounced, but the mean temperature was not as low in that province as recorded in some previous months of January.

The precipitation was generally below the average in British Columbia. In the Western Provinces the precipitation was all snow, which in some localities was a few inches more than the usual quantity, and in others a few inches less. In Ontario the precipitation was above the average amount in the Lake Superior district and in the peninsula of Ontario, and much below again in the eastern portion of the province. In Quebec it was slightly in excess of the average. In the Maritime Provinces it was everywhere below the average.

In British Columbia, the depth of snow on the ground was considerable, even coast stations similar to New Westminster report continuous sleighing throughout the month, which is most unusual. In the Western Provinces, owing to the long continued cold weather, the snow which covered the ground at the close of 1906, with the addition of that which fell during January now amounts to a depth of from 10 to over 30 inches on the level, a marked difference to the conditions prevailing in January last year when in some localities the ground was bare of snow, and in others it was but lightly covered.

The following are a few of the lowest temperatures recorded at various stations. It will be noticed that White River, Ont., (north of the eastern end of Lake Superior) still holds the record of being the coldest place in Canada:

Dawson City	58 deg. below
Victoria	15 deg. above
Edmonton	36 deg. below
Battleford	50 "

The Lake George Mining Company

The flotation of the Lake George Mining Company will appeal to the investor as one of the most conservative of the Cobalt ventures. The capital stock has been placed at $600,000, which is only $7,500 an acre on the 80 acres included in the two claims held by the company. This will compare favourably with almost any other incorporation in the Cobalt field, and only half of the stock, or $300,000 is being issued.

The claims held by the Lake George Company, which is named from a small lake on the northern claim, lie one to the north and the other to south of Clear Lake. It will be remembered that Col. Gordon, the noted engineer, located a bonanza vein of native silver at the bottom of this lake last year, and as the vein runs north and south in the direction of the two claims, this and the presence of other indications have dictated the resolve to develop the property as speedily as possible. It is confidently expected that the deeper levels will justify all the expectations aroused by the surface. Alongside the properties are the Hudson Bay mines, paying 9,000 per cent. and the Cleveland-Cobalt property, well esteemed by experts. The big veins of Silver Queen also run west towards the southern claim.

The stock now placed on the market is offered at par, and certainly presents a very favourable opportunity to the investor on the showing made. The charter of the company will be issued from the government offices to-day. The Provincial Securities Company, Limited, Traders' Bank Building, are the transfer agents.

ALL SAINTS GIRLS GUILD ENTERTAINED THE CHOIR

Pleasant Social Evening Was Spent—Informal Musical Entertainment

Last night the choir of All Saints' church was entertained to an oyster supper by the members of the Girls' Guild of which Miss Dugan is the President. She was assisted by Misses Cotterel, Hutchison, Cotton and others and a very pleasant social time was the result. A number of musical selections were contributed which greatly assisted in the enjoyment of the evening. A vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Coleman and Miss Rickey to the members of the Guild expressing their appreciation for the enjoyable evening.

IMPORTANT AUCTION SALE OF LEVI BOWLES' STOCK

A Large Attendance and Good Prices Were Realized.

One of the most successful and important of recent auction sales was that conducted yesterday in Cavan by Mr. John Haggart, city, for Mr. Levi S. Bowles, of Cavan. There was a large attendance, about 500, and a splendid luncheon and tea were served to about 300 persons. The total of the sales was the large sum of $3,600. Included in this sum was $1,000, for which the beautiful stallion, "Montrave Matchless," was knocked down. Other horses sold at $200 to $300. Colts rising one year were sold at $225. The 35 head of horned stock, and farm implements, sold accordingly.

PERSIA MISSIONARY WAS RECALLED

Unable to Fill Her Announced Engagement at St. Luke's

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's, has received a message from the Missionary Society, Toronto, stating that Miss McKim will be unable to fill her engagement at St. Luke's on Friday night. Miss McKim is a returned missionary from Persia and it was announced that she would be at St. Luke's on Friday evening to give an address on Missions.

The reason for the cancelling of the engagement was because Miss McKim had received a cablegram recalling her to her work in Persia.

COMBINED MEETING OF THE BROTHERHOOD

All Saints, St. Luke's and St. Johns' Chapters Met Last Night

The combined meetings of the Chapters of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, of St. Luke's, St. John's, and All Saint's church, in St. John's Guild Room, last night, proved decidedly interesting. Mr. R. J. Devey presided and there was a large attendance. Helpful and inspiring addresses were given by Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Mr. J. Bell, Mr. Bennet and others. Programme topics for the forward movement in the Brotherhood were discussed.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE WAR CORRESPONDENT

The Ottawa Citizen in part makes the following complimentary remarks about "The War Correspondent," the musical play at the Grand to-night:

"The War Correspondent," which was the attraction at the Grand last night, was played to a large and appreciative audience. The play, which hinged on the efforts of an Egyptian party headed by Princess Kalonay to overthrow British supremacy in Egypt, was a decided success and evoked much applause.

The clever principals were assisted by a chorus of remarkably pretty girls who appeared frequently in picturesque costumes and showed to good advantage in the various songs interspersed throughout the piece. Of these songs, "When I'm Engaged to You," "Kiss Me Good-night" and "The Girl Left in My Home Town" were the favourites, and were repeatedly encored.

Taken altogether, "The War Correspondent" was a success from the overture to the final curtain and should continue to draw large houses during the rest of its run. It is billed for Friday, Saturday and Saturday matinee.

PRESENTATION WAS MADE TO MR. EASTWOOD

Employees of Peterborough Hardware Company Show Their Esteem For Former Manager

WAS RECIPIENT OF HANDSOME CANE

An interesting event took place at the Peterborough Hardware Company's store at 6 o'clock last evening, when a presentation was made to Mr. Vincent Eastwood, the former managing director of the company, who will in a short time take over the duties of manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. Mr. Eastwood has always been most popular with the employees of the establishment and they desired to show their esteem in a tangible way.

Mr. Eastwood was presented with a very handsome gold-headed cane, suitably engraved. The presentation was made by Mr. Harry Morgan, while the following address was read by Mr. Manson Comstock:—

Peterborough, Feb. 8th, 1907.

Dear Mr. Eastwood,—On severing your connection with the Peterborough Hardware Company, Limited, we could not let this opportunity pass without expressing our regret in some way of your departure from us as manager of the Company.

We appreciate and prize very highly the earnest effort and counsel so generously given by you for our advancement and trust that your endeavour in this regard will bear fruit in our living up to the high ideal in business life set by you.

We congratulate you on being chosen by the Royal Bank as its representative in Peterborough, the selection being a distinct recognition of your ability and standing as a business man. We bespeak for you a successful career as a bank manager.

In conclusion we would ask you to accept this cane as a reminder of the pleasant time spent together in The Peterborough Hardware Company and we hope its use for many many years may be ornamental rather than a necessity.

ANNUAL MEETING OF OFFICERS OF 57TH REGIMENT

Unusual Expenditures During the Year Resulted in a Small Deficit—The Standing Committees

ARE PLEASED THAT CONTRACT IS LET

The officers of the 57th Regiment, "Peterborough Rangers," held their annual meeting in the mess rooms last evening. Lt.-Col. Miller presided, and there was a very large attendance of officers.

The various Standing Committees presented their reports, the most important being that of the auditors, which will be printed in a few days and distributed among the members of the regiment. This report shows a small deficit for the year, owing to some extraordinary expenditure, chiefly through the purchase of equipment—belts, helmet plates and badges.

Considerable pleasure was felt over the announcement that the contract for the new Armouries had been awarded, and that building operations were likely to commence immediately.

The question of the annual trip was briefly discussed, but definite action was deferred to a future meeting.

The following committees were appointed:

Regimental—Major Stevenson, chairman; Major Hayes and Captain Clegg.

Mess—Lt.-Col. Halliday, chairman; Major Hayes and Captain McLean.

Rifle—Captain Clegg, chairman; the officers commanding companies and one man from each company.

Band — Captain Walker, chairman; Captain Clegg and Captain MacWilliams.

Trip—Captain Mills, chairman; Captain Bennett and Mr. F. A. Clarke.

Nominating — Lt.-Col. Miller, chairman; Captain Davidson, Captain Walker, Captain Bennett, and Captain Cluxton.

Audit—Captain McLean, chairman; Mr. Kelly.

SAVED BY BILEANS

AFTER WRECK ON LAKE ONTARIO HIS HEALTH BROKE DOWN

Rheumatism, Cramps in the Stomach, and Acute Constipation Completely Cured.

Early on the morning of November 22nd last, the steam-barge "Resolute," after being buffeted for hours in a gale outside Toronto Island, sank beneath the waves. Six of her crew took to an open boat. Every one of them was drowned. Just before the "Resolute" went down Ernest MacBeth and five others of her crew jumped into the remaining boat and were washed ashore —sick with fatigue, chilled to the bone, and so weak that they could hardly drag themselves from the surf. Although MacBeth, who lives on Sackville Street, Toronto, escaped with his life, the after effects of such a terrible experience were very serious, and had it not been for Bileans he would probably not have pulled round. He says:—"The cold and exposure broke down my health. I had rheumatism in my shoulders, arms and legs. At times shooting pains and cramps in the stomach caused me fearful agony. My liver and bowels seemed to have been affected, and I had a constipation to a very bad form. I was just able to get about, but felt very weak and ailing. A friend gave me a box of Bileans, as he said he had previously proved how good they were for liver chill and stomach and blood disease (from which I was undoubtedly suffering). Before the first box of Bileans was done I was greatly improved, and a few boxes brought me round completely. I am now well and strong again—free from rheumatism, stomach cramps, and the other symptoms of liver chill and general debility."

Scores of people are at this season suffering from liver chill without knowing what name to give to their ailment. They feel cold and shivery. At times the skin feels hot and dry; at other times cold and clammy. Headache, constipation—sometimes piles and various forms of indigestion also accompany this state. For these there is nothing in the world of medicine equal to Bileans.

These act directly on liver and stomach, and strengthen and invigorate these organs so that they can fulfil their functions to the full.

Bileans also cure debility, indigestion, rheumatism, female ailments and irregularities, colds, chills, blood impurities, skin sores and pimples due to bad blood, headache, gas pains, belching, etc. They contain no alcohol. All druggists and stores sell Bileans at 50 cents a box, or direct from the Bileans Co., Toronto, Ont. (Dept. 5) Price, 6 Large for $2.50.

Dead Artist Said That He Would Kill Harry Thaw

Stanford White Once Threatened to Shoot The Prisoner---New Attorney Pleads For Thaw, and Defence Takes on Definite Shape After First Day's Fiasco---Mrs. Thaw's Notes to Her Husband on Night of Shooting---Thaw Irrational on Tragedy Night.

ATTORNEY DELMAS LEADS IN THE FIGHT FOR THAW'S LIFE

New York, Feb. 7.—The defence of Harry K. Thaw, under the direction of Attorney Delphin M. Delmas of California, began to assume definite shape yesterday, and when adjournment was reached the testimony had been placed before the jury to the effect that Stanford White was heard to make a threat to kill the defendant, and coupled the threat with the display of a revolver; that Thaw's actions following the killing of White on the roof of Madison Square Garden were considered by several eye-witnesses to be "irrational"; that an uncle of the defendant was insane; that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw passed a note to her husband during the dinner at the Cafe Martin, the evening of the tragedy; that District Attorney Jerome has this note, and refuses to introduce it in evidence.

Mrs. Thaw's Note.

It has been reported from time to time that in this note young Mrs. Thaw, referring to White, wrote to her husband: "That b—— (blackguard) is here."

So far, indeed, had the defence progressed that at the close of yesterday's proceedings Mr. Delmas announced that either the wife or the mother of the defendant will be the first witness to-day.

For the first time since the beginning of the trial the court room during the afternoon was crowded to its utmost capacity by the general public, a large portion of the audience being women. Justice Fitzgerald's warning of the morning that there might be testimony that might well shock their sensibilities seemed to increase than decrease the number of women who sought entrance to the court room.

White Made Threats.

Mr. Delmas directed that Benjamin Boman, whose testimony had been excluded Wednesday, be recalled as the first witness yesterday. Boman said that in 1903 he was a doorkeeper at the Garden Theatre, and that he knew both White and Thaw.

"Did you ever hear Stanford White make threats against the life of any person?"

"Yes. A few nights after Christmas, Stanford White came up to me after the show and wanted to know if Miss Nesbit had gone home. I told him she had. He replied: 'You are a ——— liar.' I told him to go back on the stage and see for himself.

"When he returned, and as he passed me he pulled a pistol from his pocket and muttered: 'I'll find and kill that ——— before daylight.'

"Did you communicate the threat to this defendant?" asked Mr. Delmas. "Yes, I met him in Fifth avenue and told him I wanted to speak with him regarding Miss Nesbit. I then told him of the incident at the theatre and of White's threat."

"What was Mr. White's manner?" asked Mr. Delmas. "He was very angry."

"You may take the witness," remarked Thaw's counsel to the district attorney, and the cross-examination was begun.

Unshaken By Jerome.

Mr. Jerome for nearly an hour questioned the witness closely as to details of his employment and places of residence within five years.

Boman denied that he had received or been promised any compensation in this case.

Mr. Jerome next took the witness carefully over every detail of his conversation with White.

"Did he mention Thaw's name?" "No."

"When did you first tell this story to defendant's counsel?" "I don't remember the date of the letter, but I think in December last."

On redirect examination Boman said he was a soldier in the United States army from 1898 to 1899.

Press Man Tells Story.

Martin Green, a newspaper man, said he was on the Madison Square roof garden the night of the tragedy, sitting not more than twenty feet from Stanford White.

"When did you first see Harry Thaw that night?" "After the shots were fired. He was standing over Stanford White. He held the pistol high above his head. He was very pale, his eyes seemed about to pop out of his head, and his hair was hanging well down on his forehead."

"In your opinion, was his action rational or irrational?"

"I object," shouted Mr. Jerome.

Justice Fitzgerald overruled Mr. Jerome's objection, and Mr. Green declared "Thaw's actions were irrational."

Mr. Jerome took up the cross-examination.

"By your testimony, were you characterizing Thaw's mental state or his conduct?"

"His conduct."

Thaw's Friend a Witness.

Thomas McCaleb, who was one of Thaw's companions at dinner the evening of the tragedy, next was called. He said he is from San Francisco and is 36 years of age. McCaleb said he was also with Thaw on the Madison Square Roof Garden, and testified that he saw Mrs. Thaw pass her husband a note at the table at Martin's the night of White's killing. Mr. McCaleb testified that he left the roof garden during the second act.

"I was walking out with Mrs. Thaw," he said, "and just as we reached an archway three pistol shots struck upon my hearing——"

"Was Thaw with you and his wife or was he behind?"

"We were in the lead; I don't know where Thaw was. When I heard the pistol shots I turned around and heard Mrs. Harry Thaw exclaim: 'My God, he's shot!' There she stood, pale and tremulous and apparently astonished. The next thing I saw was Harry Thaw, standing with a revolver held over his head. The butt of the pistol was up.

Mrs. Thaw: Why Did You Do It?

"Mrs. Thaw exclaimed: 'Oh, Harry, what have you done; why did you do it?' He said: 'I have saved your life.' Then he kissed her. I turned to Mr. Beal and said: 'He has killed a man.' I did not know who it was. Then I got into the elevator with Mr. Beal and Mr. and Mrs. Thaw and the man who had Mr. Thaw in charge. At the sidewalk he was turned over to a policeman. He said to me: 'Take my wife to the Hotel Lorraine and telephone Carnegie.' I could not understand the first name." Witness said Thaw's manner was irrational.

Mr. McCaleb said that he and Mr. Beal dined with Mr. and Mrs. Thaw on the night of June 25 at the Cafe Martin at about 7.40.

"Did you notice any communication between Mrs. Thaw and her husband at the table?" asked Mr. Delmas.—"I remember she asked him for a pencil and afterwards she passed him a folded paper."

"Did Mr. Thaw make any remark?" "Not that I heard."

"Did you notice any change in Thaw's appearance?" "I did not pay much attention."

Passed a Note.

"I understand," said Mr. Delmas, "that the note from Mrs. Thaw to her husband is in the hands of the learned district attorney. I now call upon him to produce the paper."

There was a dramatic silence. Mr. Jerome sat tugging away at his short, stubby moustache.

Not a muscle of his face moved. He appeared oblivious to the request. Finally Mr. Delmas continued. "I take it, your honor, that the action of the learned district attorney in not replying is not an act of discourtesy, but his conception of what are his duties in this matter. I shall, therefore, have to try to get something about the note in evidence."

Turning to the witness, Mr. Delmas said: "Do you know anything of the contents of that note?" "No."

"Was there any discussion at the restaurant as to whether you should remain there any longer or whether you should go to the roof garden?"

Cross-Examined.

Mr. Jerome objected and was sustained. The cross-examination then began.

"How long have you known the defendant?" asked Mr. Jerome. "Some years."

"Where?" "In Paris and San Francisco."

"Did you know Miss Nesbit before she married Thaw?" "No."

"What is your occupation?" "My last occupation was as secretary to the Association for the Improvement and Adornment of San Francisco. I resigned because of ill health." He added that he is the author of two books and has "private interests."

"Were you not to dine at Sherry's the evening of June 25, 1906, instead of at the Cafe Martin?" "The note of invitation was to meet at Sherry's; it was not indicated that we were to dine there."

Thaw's Appearance Irrational.

"When you say in your opinion that Mr. Thaw was irrational, do you refer to his mental state or to his appearance?" asked the district attorney. "I mean his appearance, his looks. It was so pronounced——"

On redirect examination Mr. McCaleb was asked when he had first met the district attorney.

"Some months ago."

"Where?" "At the Union Club."

"Did you ever make a statement to him or his assistants?" "I made a deposition."

"Did it remain in the district attorney's office?" "So far as I know it is still there."

Mr. Jerome asked Mr. McCaleb if he thought himself qualified to pass upon a man's mental state, and he said he did.

When Mr. Jerome took up the re-cross-examination he offered as people's exhibit No. 1 the deposition referred to. The document was withdrawn from evidence when Mr. Delmas objected.

Mr. Delmas then asked McCaleb: "When you had a talk with the district attorney did you tell him you thought Mr. Thaw was irrational?"

Mr. Jerome's objection was sustained.

Had a Drink With Jerome.

"You say you had a conversation with me at the Union Club?" shouted Mr. Jerome. "Was it late in the evening?" "Yes."

"How many drinks had you had?" "I had one with you."

The courtroom immediately was in an uproar of laughter.

"How many drinks had you had before you reached the one with me?" The witness could not recall. Mr. Delmas objected to a further examination along this line and when he had been sustained, he himself asked: "What did the learned district attorney drink with you?" "The same as I did."

A Vivid Impression.

Lionel Strauss, who said he was a portrait painter, was called. Mr. Strauss is a young man of pale face and rather long black hair. He said he was on the Madison Square garden roof the night of the tragedy. He sat near Stanford White. The shots of Thaw's pistol attracted his attention.

"I first saw Thaw's face," he said, "and my whole attention was absorbed by it. It was imprinted on my memory and remains there still.

"His face was very pale, his eyes gave one the impression of bulging. His mouth was set."

G. T. P. Route In B. C.

HEART TROUBLE CURED

In the rush, hurry and worry of modern times, we overwork the heart. Is it any wonder then that there comes a breakdown of this wonderful little engine, when such a continued strain is placed upon it day after day. There are many forms of heart trouble and the slightest derangement of this important organ is extremely dangerous. To strengthen the weak heart it is necessary to use a remedy that will act upon the heart tissue, restore and revitalize it and at the same time tone up and invigorate the nervous system, we have such a combination in

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. Ella Dingman, Morganston, Ont., writes of her experience with them: "It is with the greatest of pleasure that I recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled for a long time with my heart; I had weak and dizzy spells, could not rest at night, and I would have to sit up in bed the greater part of some nights, and it was absolutely impossible for me to lie on my left side. At last I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they did me so much good I got another box and they effected a complete cure. I have not been troubled with my heart since."

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M. F., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "a strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim, he submits, is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." . . "The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt."

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER and COBALT.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

Peterboro' Doubled The Score On The Toronto Argonauts

Oarsmen Were Beaten After a Clean and Fairly Fast Game by 10 Goals to 5 Before a Large Crowd.

LOCALS WERE SUPERIOR AT EVERY STAGE OF THE GAME

It was not a hard task for Peterborough to prove their superiority over the Argonauts last night, when they defeated the doughty Oarsmen in a fairly fast game of hockey by 10-5, leading at the turn by four goals to one. At no stage during the contest was the issue in doubt, although the visitors kept hammering away in a manner that made the game interesting at all times. Peterborough had considerable on the Scullers in every department of the game and would have won by a bigger margin had it not been for the phenomenal work of Cochrane in the nets for the visitors. For fully three-quarters of the game the puck was in Argo territory, and there were times in which a continued fusilade was kept up on the flags. But the aforesaid Mr. Cochrane was generally in the way.

The game was not the best exhibition that has been seen this season, but it was hockey all the time, and at certain stages was hockey of the most brilliant calibre. The the defensive tactics and close checking of the visitors in the first half made the play somewhat slow in that period, but in the second half they changed their style of play and rushed more often, with the result that the game became considerably faster. It was a decidedly clean contest, only three men being sent to the boards, Morgan in the first half, and Miller and Morrow in the second half.

Considering the disorganization of the forward line, consequent upon the loss of Whitcroft, Peterborough played splendid hockey. The line for the most part worked well together. Their passes were cleanly made and cleverly taken, and generally they were made at the right time. This, with their "boring in" qualities, as our friend on the Toronto Telegram would say, enabled them to pull away from the visitors in a manner that the persistent checking of the Oarsmen could not stop. With the experience gained last night and another week's practice, the forwards should be decidedly effective. As it was, their work last night was of the kind that wins games. Generally they worked their way well in before shooting, getting away from their checks and eluding them in a way that gives great promise for the future.

With Whitcroft off, naturally a considerable portion of the work fell to Morgan, and he was fully equal to the task, playing a star game throughout. He it was who was getting most of the shots on the nets and he was at it all the time, too, never letting up for a minute. His shooting throughout was deadly. Moore was at rover, where his speedy checking back spoiled many promising rushes on the part of the Argonaut quartette. He was generally back pegging away at the man with the puck in a way that neutralized the speedy work of Hamilton and the other Argo forwards. Wallie Parnell, who jumped into the game with almost no practice, was at right wing and was always useful and prominent, fitting in nicely in the combination and paying close attention to the check. Hamilton, the pick of the visitors. Miller worked hard and only Cochrane's work prevented him from scoring many goals. Crowley was as effective as ever in his defence operations, and his occasional rushes always helped, while Glover, both on the defensive and attack, put up an excellent game. He broke away on numerous occasions, and four different times on which he brought the puck down the ice there was a goal scored. Lang turned aside some well meant shots.

The Argonauts have a heavy and fast bunch who are not in the least timid about checking closely. The forwards checked back well and were of material assistance to their defence in this way. The line is speedy and at times they played splendid combination, while at others, however, their passing was decidedly erratic. Hamilton at left was easily the pick of the forwards and was always dangerous when he got away. Tamblyn at centre was always effective, and Higanbotham, the lanky individual with the sunset locks, was not much behind the other two. Cochrane was the kingpin of the team and his work in the flags was marvellous, especially in the second half, when he not only picked off shots at all ranges, but also skated out repeatedly and saved the situation by preventing a shot. His great work robbed Peterborough of many well earned scores.

HARRY MORGAN, Jr. Sr.
Who Played a Great Game for Peterborough Last Night.

Our old college friend, "Reddy," Hynes, the of the fiery head piece and the St. George fame, handled the bell, and there was no kick coming from anyone at his decisions. He had an eagle eye for off-sides and was thoroughly impartial.

The game was witnessed by a large crowd who apparently enjoyed every moment of the play. The line-up:

Argonauts.
	Cochrane.
	Morrow.
	Wyndham.
	Clewlo.
Higanbotham	Tamblyn	Hamilton
Miller	Morgan	Parnell
	Moore.
	Crowley.
	Glover.
	Lang.
	Peterborough.

The Play

Close checking, in which there was little opportunity for open work was the predominant feature of the initial moments. Peterborough forced matters from the start, persistently keeping the rubber in Argonaut territory, where they kept banging away at the nets from all sides to little effect for some time. Cochrane was picking off all that came straight. Miller and Moore each had good opportunities, but failed to find the nets. Once only in this period did the Argos get a shot on goal. Higanbotham had an opening to shoot from the boards and did so, but his shot was wild. It was not until six minutes of this style of hockey had trampired that Peterborough scored. Glover secured the puck after an Argonaut rush, carried it up the ice with a splendid rush and passed to Morgan, whose shot was blocked. Moore batted it in, however.

Sixteen minutes of close checking and hard work on the part of both teams passed before the next goal was scored. The play continued much as it had started and it seemed impossible to get away clearly. Argos were playing a defence game and they held the locals well, although the puck was generally in the vicinity of their nets. Shot after shot was aimed in on Cochrane, but he or Morrow turned them aside. During the period Cochrane was hurt, but was able to resume. It was Glover again who carried the puck up for the next goal. After making a nice rush he handed the rubber to Parnell, who transferred neatly to Morgan, and the score was 2-0.

Peterborough pressed in the next ice and had several opportunities, but it was Argos who notched the next point. Hamilton carried the rubber down the boards and centred to Tamblyn, who did the trick in 2 1-2 minutes. Score 2-1.

It took six and a half minutes to score the next one, although Peterborough had all the best of the play. They kept up their aggressive tactics, sending in shot after shot, but there was someone in the way. Parnell finally got an opening and scored on a pretty shot. Score 3-1.

Crowley made it 4-1 a minute after on a long shot that Cochrane never saw. It was a beautiful drive well to the top of the nets.

Just before half-time was called Morgan was ruled off for mixing it up with Higanbotham.

The second half was more of the end to end variety and with this opening up of the play, the game grew faster and was more satisfactory from a spectator's standpoint. The half started with Morgan still on the fence, but despite this disadvantage the locals were pressing. When Morgan came back he and Glover got away together and almost scored. A moment after Parnell and Morgan carried the rubber through the Argo. defense, Cochrane stopped one shot but Morgan batted it through in 2 minutes. Score 5—1.

The play kept getting faster and more open and Peterborough still kept their merry onslaught on the Scullers' flags. Cochrane stopped several shots and then Hamilton and Tamblyn got away and the former netted the rubber from a neat pass in three minutes. Score 6—2.

Goals were coming faster than in the initial period and the spectators began to sit up and take notice. Miller went off for slashing. The Argos were dropping their blocking tactics to a considerable extent and rushed more often. Peterborough, however, scored the next goal in 8 minutes. Cochrane left the nets to stop Morgan, but the latter passed neatly to Moore who had merely to tip it into the empty net. Score 6-2.

The fastest hockey of the night was witnessed in the next few minutes. Tamblyn and Hamilton got away nicely and were right in on Lang but the latter made a brilliant save. Glover and Crowley relieved the situation by a brilliant rush. In five minutes Morgan scored on a pretty shot from a pass from Moore. Score 7—2.

Peterborough continued to draw away from the visitors. The forwards were breaking outside of their checks frequently and with clever passing kept the play pretty well in Argonaut territory. Parnell got the next goal in 4 minutes, scoring on a pass from Morgan after Glover had carried the rubber down the ice. 8—2.

After Hamilton had made a pretty but ineffectual rush, Moore secured in centre and after a dodging rush to Whitcroft passed neatly to Morgan who scored once more. Score 9—2.

Both sides were playing more loosely and as a result goals kept coming fast. Hamilton and Tamblyn got away together and the centre man scored on a pass from the side in 2 minutes.

Morrow saved a goal by throwing his stick at the puck after Morgan had passed every one. It was the Argonauts who scored again. Hamilton once more doing the trick.

There were only a few minutes to play but it was time enough for scoring two more goals. Parnell notched one for Peterborough on a pass from Morgan and then Clewlo landed the last one after some combination with Hamilton. Final score Peterborough 10; Argonauts 5.

MOVEMENT ON FOOT FOR NEW CHURCH AT BUCKHORN

Presbytery Will be Asked to Support the Efforts of the Congregation—Subscriptions Being Raised

SUCH A BUILDING IS BADLY NEEDED

The first annual meeting of the Presbyterian congregation at Buckhorn was held in the True Blue Hall on the evening of Tuesday, 5th February. There was a very good attendance of the congregation. Rev. J. A. G. Stirling presided, and Mr. John Jones, secretary-treasurer of the congregation, took a record of the proceedings. This field has been recently raised to the status of an ordained minister's field and comprises Lakehurst, Buckhorn and Rockcroft. There are comfortable churches at Lakehurst and Rockcroft, but it is desirable to build a church at Buckhorn, not only for the local congregation, but also for the benefit of the tourists who resort thither in great numbers, attracted by the superior fishing and boating facilities afforded in the summer, not to speak of the fine deer hunting in the fall. There is also abundance of good accommodation provided by the Windsor House and Buckhorn House, not to mention summer cottages, and comfortable private lodgings.

The Government will shortly call for tenders for the erection of a new concrete dam and bridge at Buckhorn, and the village will indeed be a busy place this summer, and a great influx of tourists is expected.

Rev. J. A. G. Stirling has opened a subscription list for the erection of a Presbyterian church at Buckhorn, and $130 has already been subscribed. The action of the minister was unanimously approved of by the congregation, and it was resolved to ask the Presbytery of Peterborough to sanction the new movement, and commend it to the liberality of the congregations within their bounds. It is expected that aid will be received for this desirable object not only in Buckhorn, but also in Lakehurst, Rockcroft and Smithtown. The tourists will, undoubtedly help, and aid will also be received from the wealthy and generous Lakefield and Peterborough merchants. Mr. John Jones, Hall's Bridge, P. O., is the treasurer of the building fund, and the first cheque was paid by His Hon. William Mortimer Clark, Lieut.-Governor of Ontario.

The various reports showed that the Sunday school was in a flourishing condition, and that the financial affairs of the congregation were in a prosperous condition and administered in a business-like way. Mr. John Jones, congregational treasurer, Mrs. Crapp, organist, Miss Zetta Freeburn, Sunday school treasurer, and Miss Lily Montgomery, Sunday school secretary, were thanked for their efficient services. The duties of Sunday school superintendent are admirably discharged by Mrs. Richard Pearson. The name of Mr. Stephen Nicholls was added to the Board of Management. The motion for taking steps to secure the erection of a Presbyterian Church, was proposed by Mr. Nelson Montgomery, seconded by Mr John Chesney, and carried unanimously.

The meeting which was opened with devotional exercises, was closed with the benediction.—Com.

Band to-night at Street Railway Rink.

MR. D. W. DUMBLE WILL LECTURE THIS EVENING

"John Bright" the Subject of His Discourse—Will be Held in Young Conservative Club Rooms

Mr. D. W. Dumble will lecture at the Young Conservative Club rooms on George street to-night on "John Bright," one of England's greatest statesmen. Mr. J. G. M. Wilson, vice-president of the club, will occupy the chair, and a musical programme will be provided. There should be a large attendance, as politics is not considered, and from an educational standpoint everyone can be benefitted. Former "smokers" have been very successful, and in spite of counter attractions, the cosy rooms of the Young Conservatives should be well filled to-night.

LADIES, GET THE HABIT

And follow the crowds that flock to the sale at the B. Y. Moyes store, 408 George street. Patrick T. Murphy, the noted bargain giver, is there, and is handing out bargains in bunches. A lady was heard to say during the sale yesterday afternoon: "How can they afford to sell the goods so cheap; they must steal them!" Mr. Murphy who chanced to over hear her, at once reassured the lady that the goods had not been stolen; that he was the man who was responsible for the low prices. He got his orders to clear out the $17,000 stock in ten days, regardless of cost, and he, in making the prices low, was simply carrying out instructions. Look for the large red sign. B. Y. Moyes, 408 George street.

The Latest Sports

TWO GREAT GAMES WILL BE PLAYED TO-NIGHT

Two of the Most Important Matches of City League Series

Two of the best games in the City League series will be seen to-night, when the Charlotte street team will meet the Auburns, and the Strathconas will play the High Lifes. The ice is in splendid shape and the hockey should be decidedly fast throughout. The teams are evenly matched in both games. On form there is little to choose between Charlotte street and the Auburns. The guild team are meeting with hard luck in the matter of goal-keepers. First Lang was refused a permit, and now Crowe, who played a good game last week, is hurt and will not be able to play to-night. Campbell will be seen in the nets. The Charlotte street team will line up as follows:

Goal—Campbell.
Point—Roddy.
Cover—Moore.
Rover—Dusty.
Centre—Long.
Left—Quinn.
Right—Grose.

Mr. Geo. Lynch will referee the contests.

LOCAL PLAYERS WILL FACE IRVING'S CHARGES

Messrs. Morgan and Crowley are Attending the O.H.A. Meeting To-night.

Messrs. Morgan and Crowley, of the Peterborough Club, will go to Toronto to-night to answer the charges made against their amateur standing by Mr. Irving, of Guelph. They anticipate no trouble in clearing themselves of the charges, and expect to receive a clear bill of health. Others players who will be up before the executive to-night are Messrs. Brady and Johnston, of Galt; McGinnis of Berlin; Hoyle, McDougall and Stoddard of the Lindsay Midgets, and Chuck Tyner, of the Marlboros.

HOCKEY

Argos Were Banquetted

The local club entertained the Argonauts at a banquet at McCallum's after the game last night, and a very enjoyable time was spent. Songs and recitations were given by local gentlemen and some of the visitors. The Argonauts are a splendid lot of sportsmen and will be gladly welcomed here at any time. They very accomodatingly consented to a change in the date of last night's game, an act which was much appreciated by the local management. Different from most Toronto teams they are good losers; probably because there are not many Toronto boys on the team.

Crowley Capt.-ain

"Bill" Crowley was chosen to succeed Whitcroft, as captain of the Peterborough team last night. Crowley is well qualified for the position, as he knows the game from cover to cover, and is very popular with his fellow players.

District Standing

The standing of this district, as a result of last night's game is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	To play.
Peterborough	5	1	2
Kingston	4	1	2
Midland	3	2	2
Argonauts	2	5	1
Marlboros	1	6	1

Next games—
Peterborough at Midland, Feb. 12.
Kingston at Argonauts, Feb. 13.

Marlboros Came Close

The Marlboros came pretty near putting a crimp in Kingston's championship aspirations. True, Kingston won by 10—8, after a hard game, but they were always in danger. On form the Argonauts should pretty near defeat the Penotentiary City bunch, and the oarsmen are game to work hard to accomplish the trick.

Strathconas Line Up

The Strathconas will have the following line up for their City League game with the High Lifes, to-morrow:

Goal, Wilson.
Point, Meagher.
Cover, White.
Rover, McMillan.
Centre, Seymour.
Right wing, Fred McGrath.

The following players are requested to be present at the Brock street rink to-night at eight o'clock to represent the Auburns in their game against Charlotte street:—

Goal, Devocher; p, Shaw; c.p. Crough; r, Clegg; c, McDonald; r.w, Hillier; l.w. Tucker.

CURLING

The following scheduled games were played last night, at the Curling Rink:—

R N Merritt	W J Fulton
G Maitland	W Smith
T Brightman	G Hay
C E Frost, sk...22	W. J Thompson, 10
H Taylor	O James
J Montgomery	R Carton
M O Tooley	S Sharp
J. Stanger, sk...19	T Rutherford, 12

Two rinks of Peterborough curlers went to Cobourg and Port Hope yesterday and played friendly games with a couple of rinks at each of the above-named places. They drove from Port Hope to Cobourg after their arrival in the former town, and were defeated on the round there by eight points. R. Hicks' rink was down three, and R. Neill's down five.

In Port Hope, however, they evened up their loss, winning on the round by eight points. The curlers report that they were most hospitably entertained by both clubs. They returned home this morning greatly pleased with their visit to the lake shore towns.

The Peterborough Curling Club sent four rinks to Bobcaygeon this morning, where they will play friendly games this afternoon and evening. They will return to-morrow.

JEROME WILL MAKE ATTEMPT TO BREAK DRAMATIC EVIDENCE

Mrs. Thaw Declared She Had No Improper Relations With White After Returning From Europe.

Examiner Special.

New York, Feb. 8.—Although Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was on the witness stand practically all of yesterday's sessions, she had brought her narrative down only to the time when, after repeatedly refusing to marry Thaw, she had returned to the stage. This was in 1903. To-day she took up the story where she left off.

That Attorney Delmas will attempt to take up the entire day with her direct examination is the general opinion. If he can do this the jury will be left for their two holidays with the story of the young wife unmarred by cross-examination in their minds, and Mrs. Thaw will have two days to rest before the prosecution seeks to break down the favourable testimony developed by the defence.

Chorus Girls Summoned

District Attorney Jerome has summoned half a dozen of the young chorus beauties, former companions of Mrs. Thaw, to testify. Through these women, all actresses, he hopes to refute Mrs. Thaw's narrative of certain incidents of her career when she was a child. He will try to break down her dramatic tale of the events that took place in the architect's studio.

It is well known that young Howard Nesbitt has sworn that he would refute any attack upon the character of Stanford White.

No Improper Relations

Mrs. Thaw was examined regarding certain letters written to Attorney Longfellow by H. K. Thaw, which were put in evidence. She told of going to A. Bummell's office with Stanford White. She said the lawyer put in a paper a lot of stuff about her being married to Harry Thaw, against her will, and a lot of stuff that wasn't true.

"I started to interrupt, but he would not let me. I signed absolutely nothing in Mr. Bummell's office," added Mrs. Thaw.

Mrs. Thaw said that Harry accused her of having improper relations with White after her return from Europe. "I said it was a lie, I did not," she declared.

NEWLY MARRIED COUPLE WERE TENDERED RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. Smith Milburn Host and Hostess at Pleasant Social Evening.

Last night a reception was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Smith Milburn, of Smith, whose marriage was celebrated a short time ago. About sixty guests were present at their residence on the Chemong Road, and a number of these were from the city. Games and music were in vogue and a most pleasant evening was experienced. Refreshments were served during the evening and it was in the early hours of the morning before the guests dispersed.

Preceding this will be held the annual banquet of the Chapter, to which have been invited the Senior Chapter, Rector, Wardens and representatives of All Saints' and St. Luke's.

Springville Man Had Narrow Escape From Burning House

Was Forced to Leave His Dwelling Without Boots—Midnight Blaze Does Considerable Damage to Western Village.

THE LOSS AMOUNTS TO $1,500

Examiner Special.

Springville, Feb. 8. — A midnight fire disturbed the peace of the Springville community here last night and almost resulted in the loss of a human life. As it is the dwelling house of Mr. David Armstrong, who resides on the 7th concession of Cavan, to-day lies a mass of charred ruins.

The fire broke out shortly after midnight and the cracking of the flames aroused Mr. Armstrong, the sole occupant, from sleeping. He hurriedly ran outside from his room, which was on the ground floor and found the whole roof in a mass of flames.

His next move was to mount the stairs with a pail of water, but just as he reached the top the roof tumbled in, almost smothering Mr. Armstrong. He escaped, however, but was powerless to cope with the flames which had already gained too much headway. The house, which was of frame, was completely destroyed, as well as all the contents, and a wood shed containing about ten cords of wood.

The origin of the fire is supposed to have been a defective chimney or bad stovepipes. The loss will amount to about $1500. There was $400 insurance on the house, and $300 on the contents.

Mr. Armstrong escaped with little clothing and was without boots when assistance arrived.

A Large Flaming Mass Seen In The Western Sky Jan. 28th

Others Seen About the Same Time Confirm the Idea That There Was Such—Have Other Citizens Seen Them?

MR. HICKS MADE PREDICTIONS

"Did you see a meteor or a meteorite on Monday evening, January 28, at 7.15?"

This question was asked an Examiner reporter to-day by a well-known gentleman of the city. He said that on the occasion mentioned above he was going from East City to the postoffice and was walking along in a dark part of the street, when suddenly the surroundings became almost as bright as day. Looking up he saw, to his surprise, a huge ball of fire at least two feet in diameter, rushing through the northeastern sky. It made a faint, swishing sound and left a long stream of fire after it. The gentleman said that he did not mention it to anyone, thinking that he would be laughed at. However, since then he was speaking with a farmer from Otonabee who began to tell him of a large meteor he had seen that same night, in the southeastern sky.

The city man then told his friend what he had seen, and this, of course, increased the interest in the affair. It may be said that during the same week the writer witnessed the flight of a small meteor which appeared in the west and seemed to be as large as a football. It left a brilliant stream of fire in its path and lasted about eight seconds.

These first two cases are rather interesting, but the third is not unusual. From the statements of the city man, the meteor, if seen it was, that day saw must have been a huge one. He states that he thought that an electric arc lamp had been lighted, but knew that there was no lamp in that vicinity.

COUNTY COUNCIL SENDS DEPUTATION

Waited on Provincial Government This Afternoon Regarding the Small Pox Debt.

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Feb. 8. — A deputation composed of County Councillors Booth, Hales, Johnston and Thompson, accompanied by County Solicitor Peck, and G. W. Bennett, waited on Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, this morning, in the absence of the Provincial Secretary, to ask for a grant to assist the townships of Methuen, Anstruther and Chandos, in bearing the expense of the recent smallpox outbreak.

The deputation was introduced by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., and Councillors, Johnston, Booth and Hales, and County Solicitor Peck, addressed the Minister, who gave respectful hearing, intimating that the matter would be considered.

The councillors express themselves as being but indifferently satisfied with the result of their interview, and have but little hope of their request being granted. Between the three townships mentioned there is a deficit of $1200 as a result of expenditure incurred by reason of the small pox outbreak, and the members of the deputation express the opinion that it will now have to be borne entirely by the municipalities affected.

HE WAS A SAILOR

And one would naturally think he would know on account of his having been to sea, but then he had not attended the gigantic sale at the B. Y. Moyes store, therefore he knew nothing of the great bargains Mr. Patrick T. Murphy was offering, but if he would only ask anyone of the thousands of ladies and gentlemen whose eyes have been made glad by the bargains they have received at this sale, they would soon tell him. Remember ten days only, stock must be sold, and the prices—well come and see them for yourselves; believe your own eyes; follow the crowds, and look for the large red sign. B. Y. Moyes, 408 George street.

EAST CITY SMALL BOYS FOUND GUILTY

Otonabee School Property Destroyed by Them—Allowed to go With Warning

Two small boys, Bell, by name, were arraigned before County Magistrate Edmison, in the county police court this morning, on a charge of destroying school property in Otonabee about a week ago. The boys were both found guilty by the Magistrate, but on the pleadings of the parents, were allowed to go, providing they received a few applications from the birch rod.

The boys were only about 8 or 9 years of age.

MASTER JAMES O'BRIEN WAS INJURED

While Coasting on the Slide in Victoria Park After the School Sessions Were Over Yesterday

Master James O'Brien, son of Mr. M. O'Brien, M.A., met with a rather serious accident yesterday afternoon, on the improvised "chute" in Victoria Park. A slide has been formed and the scholars have been in the habit of sliding and sleighing on it after the dismissal of school.

Yesterday after four o'clock there was the usual number of boys disporting themselves and among them "Jimmy" O'Brien. The latter was on a sleigh, and at the time he was injured, another playmate was sliding down ahead of him. Jimmy tried to steer the sleigh in order not to run into his friend, and thus forgot of other surroundings. As a result, his friend escaped a collision, but young O'Brien's sleigh crashed into a tree, and from the impact Jimmy was rendered unconscious.

He was removed to Dr. McKinnon's office where it was found that the boy had sustained a rather severe scalp wound. He regained consciousness in half an hour. Dr. E. McGrath was also called to attend to his injuries and Jimmy was removed to his home on Gilmour street.

It is learned that he is progressing very favourably after passing a quiet night.

Jimmy's many young friends extend their sympathies to him and hope for a rapid recovery.

FAIR MAY BE CONFINED TO FOUR COUNTIES

Fair Directors Will be Advised to Take This Step at Next Meeting.

A meeting of the committee in charge of the prize list revision of cattle, sheep, swine and poultry in connection with the Peterborough Industrial Fair, was held yesterday afternoon in President Leary's office on Water street. There were present at the meeting Ald. R. H. Leary, Messrs. Wm. Collins, Samuel Redmond, Dawson Kennedy, John Brown, and Wm. Vance, the prominent swine breeder of Cavan.

Upon Mr. Vance's suggestion, the committee discussed at length the advisability of opening the Peterborough Industrial to the counties of Victoria, Durham and Northumberland only, instead of to the Dominion. The idea is to forbid the professional exhibitors from coming to the Fair from all over the Province, who are winning all the prize money and leaving nothing for the benefit of the city or community.

It was decided to present a report advising the directors to take this step. The committee for the revision of the prize list for horses will meet to-morrow afternoon.

THE NEW WEALTH AREAS

A railway to Hudson Bay may seem a chimerical proposal; but is it? Less than a score of years ago there could be found few to pay a dollar for a thousand acres in New Ontario, now one of the greatest sources of mining wealth on the continent, where the bottom of a pond is worth a king's ransom. Within the same time the man who would have foretold Klondike yielding millions of dollars would have been laughed to scorn. A few decades ago the great Canadian West, now the home of hundreds of thousands of prosperous Canadians, "the Granary of the Empire," was marked upon the map, "The Great American Desert." No doubt the resources to be revealed by the opening up of the Hudson Bay district by means of a railway, will amply justify the undertaking. There is not probably a square mile of Canadian territory which properly developed will not reveal some satisfactory source of wealth. The proposal credited to the Canadian Pacific Railway to tap Labrador with a railway line, might and would probably develop sources of mineral wealth of a most important character. We Canadians don't know how rich we are, but enlightenment and realization are coming every day.

SETTLING THE WEST

Population is the great need of Canada. The development of the Great West and Northern Ontario, depends upon it, and nobody seems to realize this more practically than the Canadian Pacific Railway. This energetic railway has issued a most interesting book entitled "Western Canada; Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and New Ontario. How to reach it; how to obtain lands; how to make a home." The book contains an interesting illustrated description of the West and New Ontario, giving full information as to lands and their location, the equipment needed by settlers, etc., etc. Among other inducements the C.P.R. will issue at Winnipeg special round trip explorers tickets, the full price of which will be applied to the purchase price of lands, obtained from the Company. A chapter is also devoted to Northern Ontario, with a good description of the several districts, their varied resources, and attractions to settlers. The distribution of this pamphlet, which will be sent out to any person asking, will do much to stimulate immigration, which this year promises to be greater than ever before.

AN UNJUST DISMISSAL

The Hamilton Herald (Ind. Con.) has this to say of Premier Whitney's perfidy in the matter of dismissals from office of old civil servants:

"Remembering Premier Whitney's solemn pledge that no provincial official would be dismissed from office without just cause and only after formal investigation, in connection with which the right of the official to defend himself against charges would be recognized, it is hard to understand how an apparently honourable man like Mr. Whitney could have consented to several of the arbitrary dismissals made by the government. These dismissals are in direct violation of the premier's public promises, and each of them is a stain on the government's record. None of them—not even the dismissal of Harford Ashley, divisional court clerk at Belleville, because he was a candidate for the Legislature years ago—is more unjust and disgraceful than the recent dismissal of James Gillespie, who was for more than 30 years sheriff of Prince Edward county."

Apparently no justification is possible of an act which for cold-blooded heartlessness and disrespect for old age and faithful service is without parallel.

A WARNING

"Every just encouragement for legitimate investment, but not one farthing profit on watered stock."

The Montreal Herald, commenting on the above quotation from the recent speech delivered by Mr. George Graham, the newly chosen leader of the Liberal party in the province, says:—

"It expresses in the most practical form the doctrine which public opinion everywhere is showing itself more and more disposed to force upon those who operate public franchises: "a fair return for an acceptable service."

Mr. Graham's declaration is not socialism. It does not assume that private enterprise is incapable of giving the public a good service and it does not deny to private enterprise a suitable return for what is given. Simply, it holds to the theory that the public are not the bond slaves of those who, for gain, undertake to serve the public.

Those who put their money in private enterprise for the service of the public may, if they so choose, neglect such formal warnings as are served upon them by men who, like Mr. Graham, speak with the authority of the plain people behind them. If there is trouble afterwards they will have none but themselves to blame."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Press is the corner-stone of free institutions.—Colquhoun.

The World says that the two-cent a mile passenger rate is on the way, but the train is reported a little late.

At the dizzy pace at which business is going it is a pleasure to know that the business failures in Canada were less in January, 1907 than in the preceding January.

Statistics collected at Washington show that the value of the property destroyed by fire in the United States last year exceeded in value over five hundred millions of dollars.

Mr. A. H. U. Colquhoun, President of the Canadian Press Association, in an address to that body, says the duty of the press is "fearless exposure of wrong-doing." If Mr. Colquhoun will add a rider to tell how to evade libel suits for speaking the truth he will confer a favour.

Hon. G. W. Foster sometimes strikes a consistent key. In the debate in the House of Commons on labour he asked for a non-partizan treatment of the question. For eighteen years his party refrained from making the interests of labour a question of any kind, not to mention a partizan one.

Mr. Lavergne, of Montmagny, leader of the fifth party—Mr. McLean and Mr. Bourassa, being members and leaders of the third and fourth—has lost his love for Laurier. He brings against Sir Wilfrid the heinous charge that he (Sir Wilfrid) "has done nothing for his own constituency." Possibly. Sir Wilfrid has been busy doing something for Canada that possibly he has neglected to build a wharf in Athabaska.

OVER A THOUSAND HOGS CAME TO CITY TO-DAY

Purchased for the George Matthews Company—Animals of a Rare Quality.

The influx of hogs to the city today was somewhat above the normal, about 1,100 were brought in from different points along the line of the C.P.R. between the city and Toronto for the Matthews Company. They were all first-class animals. On arriving here they were taken charge of by Mr. W. A. Stabler.

The market during the week has been fairly brisk in hogs. The highest price paid has been $6.75.

H. LeBrun & Co's Ads. Highly Commended

The January number of the "Clothier and Haberdasher" contains a page of selected advertisements of clothing firms in different parts of Canada, with remarks by "The Ad. Critic." Among those shown is one of Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co.'s, as it appeared in a recent issue of The Examiner. Regarding the way it is set up and the wording of this ad., the critic has the following to say:

"One of the best on the page is that of H. LeBrun & Co. There is, perhaps, a tendency to put too much reading into the space, but the talk is good, and had there been more prices given, the ad. would have lacked little to make it exceedingly effective."

It should be of interest to advertisers to have the opinion of one who claims to have an expert knowledge of good advertising. The printing of an ad. is one of the most important things that make for its value. That is—it may be ever so well written, but unless it is properly set up, unless the composition intelligently and effectively brings out its leading features, it represents but waste time and expense. The advertiser should keep a close watch on this sort of thing, and on the first sign of any sort of bad work should promptly make proper remonstrance.

MRS. THAW TELLS OF HER WRONGS

"He sobbed and walked the floor. It was not crying, it was sobbing. He knelt beside me and picked up the edge of my skirt and kissed it. He stayed there all night and we just sat and talked and talked. He said mamma was very foolish and should have known better than to let me go around with a married man. He asked me if I had ever told mamma and I said no. She, like many other people, thought Mr. White was a great good man and he said that he loved me and any decent person would know it was not my fault."

Thaw Renews Proposal.

"Did he renew his offer of marriage?" asked Mr. Delmas.

"Not that night. But about two months afterwards he again asked me. He said it was not my fault and he loved me better than ever.

"I told him I could not marry him, for if I did White would know and he would laugh at him and talk. And then I told him I could not marry him because of his family. I said if I had met him before I came to New York it might have been different."

Mrs. Thaw at this point recovered her composure somewhat, and detailed the events of her early life and their struggles with poverty, after the death of her father, a Pittsburg lawyer, when she was eight years old.

She had been sent to school in New Jersey in 1902 by Stanford White, became ill there, and had to submit to an operation, the nature of which the doctors did not tell her. Thaw came to see her at the hospital, and said she should be taken abroad to recuperate. She went to Paris with her mother and Thaw.

A Letter From Thaw.

Mr. Delmas introduced a letter Thaw wrote to an attorney named Longfellow, after the Paris incident. This is what Thaw wrote:

"Mrs. N. insisted on sailing for New York when her daughter left. I kept Mrs. N. in London three months, cost over $1,000. Mrs. Nesbit sails to-morrow for New York. She thinks I kidnapped her 17 3-4 years old daughter. Before she lands she will know that I have always done the best I could. The child cannot be with her mother because when she was 15 2-3 years old she was ruined by a blackguard. Don't worry, but find her address. Telephone Mrs. N., but not in your name. Ask her if she saw Mr. Thaw aboard. As soon as she answers hang up the phone."

On a slip of paper inclosed was written:

"If you can't read this, don't worry. Please telephone her incog. and wire."

Several letters, after much argument, were ruled out for the present on Mr. Jerome's objection that Mrs. Thaw was not competent to express an opinion.

Why She Refused to See Thaw.

Mrs. Thaw testified that when Thaw returned from Europe she refused to see him because she had heard certain tales about him from Stanford White's friend. After many casual meetings at which no advance towards reconciliation was made, she finally met Thaw in the Cafe Beaux Arts, and "He asked me to tell him all about these stories. I told them all, the story of putting a girl in a bath and pouring scalding water on her; of tying a girl to the bedpost and whipping her, and I told him all the stories that friends of Stanford White had told me; that Mr. Thaw took morphine, and it was while he was under the influence of the morphine that he did these awful things.

"He said he understood why these stories had been told me, as White and the man who told them hated him."

She also told Thaw that White and Abe Hummel had shown her an affidavit charging him with certain things which they had drawn up.

"That Blackguard."

Barrister Longfellow was called to identify certain letters. One of them, written by Thaw to Longfellow just after the Paris incident, said that "the child" (Evelyn Nesbit) had been ruined by a blackguard when 15 2-3 years old.

Another written when arrangements were being made for the wedding said "Evelyn has left me six or seven letters and telegrams from the blackguard. If they wish to begin a row I am ready for it." Further on Thaw wrote:

"Remember that if I die my property is all to go to my wife, but in the event of her death it must not go to her relatives. Her wretched mother must not receive anything. I would provide for her brother, however. Poor girl, if I die she may not live to be 21."

Mrs. Thaw was still on the stand, her direct examination uncompleted, when the day was done. Once during the afternoon she was excused for an hour, while Lawyers Frederick Longfellow was sworn to fix the date of certain letters written to him by Harry Thaw.

The completion of the direct examination of the prisoner's wife possibly will require all of to-day's session.

Health of Canadian Women

A Subject Much Discussed At Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of its Women.

Miss Helena Mc Kinnon Mrs. Anna McKay

At the New York State Assembly of Mothers a prominent New York doctor told the 500 women present that healthy women were so rare as to be almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have some trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, that bearing-down feeling, painful or irregular periods, pelvic catarrh, displacement of the female organs, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored more Canadian women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of female complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing.

Mrs. Anna McKay of 326 Spadina Avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Being a mother of five children, I had had experience with the general troubles of my sex. I was lacerated when one of my children was born, and from that hour I date all of my afflictions. I found that within a few months my health was impaired, I had female weakness and serious inflammation. I became weak and dizzy, but kept on my feet, dragging through my work without life or pleasure. A neighbor who had been helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound insisted that I take at least one bottle. I did so and felt so much better that I kept on the treatment and it made me a strong and well woman. The few dollars I spent for the medicine cannot begin to pay what it was worth to me."

Miss Helena McKinnon of Sand Bay, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the best medicine in the world for a woman sick and weak from exhaustion, irregularities and overwork. I have found from personal experience that it is all and more than it is recommended to be. I only wish that every sick woman would try it, for it cured me of suppressed periods and irregularity, and has cured many of my friends of the same difficulty, in fact all who have used it have nothing but good to say of its efficacy. Please accept a grateful woman's thanks for all it has accomplished in my case."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, pelvic catarrh, displacements, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating, (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, headache, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. No other medicine in the world has received such unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

KEENE RINK WON FROM THE LOCALS

Friendly Curling Game at the Rink Last Night.

A rink of Keene curlers visited the city yesterday and played a friendly game with a rink of ex-Keene curlers last night. The game ended in a victory for the visitors by 12 points to 8 after a keen competition. In fact, the ice was very keen upon which they played, and the contest was an all-round keen event.

The second of the following games was a practice contest between two local rinks:

W G Reid	F Esson
W D Campbell	P Pitkie
W Lang	V McWilliams

COUNTER HOPPERS BEAT HALL'S ALL-ROUNDS

Score Was 2-1 in Favour of Cressman's Who Were One Up at the Turn

Richard Hall & Sons' All Rounds and Cressman's Counter Hoppers met last night and when the smoke had cleared away the latter were found to be one goal to the good, the score standing 2—1 in their favour. The half time figure was 1—0 in favour of the Boppers. The game was not a 5 o'clock tea by any means. Hall's claim that they had only six men to seven. The other man may have been on the ice but no one saw him. Titterson's coaching was the feature of the game. The line-up:—

Women's Strength Is Overtaxed

BY WORK AND WORRY, BUT GOOD HEALTH IS RESTORED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

With her strength overtaxed by too much work many a woman finds herself weak, nervous and exhausted, subject to indigestion and headaches and spells of discouragement and despondency.

Under such circumstances Dr Chase's Nerve Food comes as a blessing of great value, bringing new hope and confidence and restoring vitality to the blood and nerves.

Dizziness, heart disturbances, pale, bloodless appearance, smothering, choking sensations, heavy heart beating and palpitation are some of the symptoms which give way before the persistent use of this great food cure. The appetite is sharpened, digestion is improved, the form is rounded out to healthful proportions and gradually and certainly strength and vigour replace weakness and disease.

Mrs. D. Scott, Cobourg, Ont., states: "After recovering from typhoid fever I was left in a very low state of health and my system was very much run down. I was very weak, nervous and in fact was not fit to do any work at all and began to fear that I was of little use in the world.

"A friend of mine, Mrs. G. M. Brown, had used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and told me that it benefitted her wonderfully. I took courage and began the use of this medicine. After taking the first box I began to feel an improvement in my health, and now after using four boxes I am completely cured. I now feel like myself once more and believe that I can attribute the cure to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

For men who are suffering from headaches, indigestion and sleeplessness, for women who besides these symptoms suffer from weaknesses and irregularities of the delicate feminine organism, for children who are pale, weak and puny, there is we believe no preparation extant which will bring about such satisfactory results as the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 1

BASKETBALL TEAM WENT TO BELLEVILLE TO-DAY

They Will Play Albert College Team There To-night

A basketball team, composed of some of Peterborough's best exponents of the game, left this morning for Belleville, where they will compete with the Albert College quintette to-night. It will be remembered that when the college team was here toward the close of last year they were defeated by about two points, so that to-night's game should be a particularly interesting one.

The line-up of the Peterboroughs will be:

Backs—L. Dobson, N. Darling.
Centre—F. Richardson.
Forwards—F. Cressman, E. Best.
Referee—Gordon Miller.

HOCKEY

The Orphan Hockey team will practice at the rink to-night from 7 to 8 o'clock.

BOYS DEPARTMENT BANQUET WAS SUCCESS

Big Gathering of the Younger Members of the Y. M. C. A. Was Held Last Night

MANY ELOQUENT SPEECHES WERE MADE

The banquet of the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. last night, surpassed in every way everything of the kind held in the building. One hundred and ten members were present, demonstrating the strength of the work and the powerful factor it has become in the boy life of the city. Those who were present last evening were but one division of a small army of boys who, during the past ten years, have grown up through the Boys' Department into young manhood—going out into business and professional life to exhibit in their various fields their fourfold development received through the multiplied agencies of the Association that go to make up an all-round man in body, mind and spirit.

The tables were set in Association Hall and were very tastefully arranged under the direction of the committee of management, while they were loaded down with an abundance of good things that had been so liberally supplied by the mothers of the boys.

The menu comprised five courses, and the serving, being in charge of Messrs. Baker, Rodgraves and Northcott, was conducted in a praiseworthy manner.

Mr. R. E. Harding, president of the Association, presided in his usually happy manner, and beside him were seated Mr. J. J. Howden, treasurer of the Association, and Rev. J. R. Webb, the speaker of the evening.

On either side were grouped the members of the boys' Executive and the officers of that department.

After the boys had tested to their utmost satisfaction the virtues of the bill-of-fare, Mr. Harding called the assembly to order and proposed the toast to the King, which was heartily responded to by all singing "God Save the King."

The chairman then gave a well-worded and taking address which bristled with humour and timely anecdotes. He thanked the committee for the honour of presiding, and spoke most encouragingly of the work being done among the boys.

Mr. Fred Brown then proposed the toast of the "Officers and Directors of the Association," pointing out the need of leadership and the right men being in their right places.

Mr. J. J. Howden responded in a brief speech and said that the officers always aimed to have the building a down-town home for the boys.

Mr. Dingman also spoke to this toast, and thanked the boys for the loyalty to him thus far.

Mr. Williamson recalled the fact that it was nearly ten years ago since the boys were organized in the new building. He expressed the hope that the new boys' building would shortly come. The success of the whole work was just what the boys themselves made it.

Mr. G. L. Galley, chairman of the Physical Committee, who joined the Y. M. C. A. as a boy over fifteen years ago, proposed the toast to the "Boys' Department." the boys to-day were truly the men of to-morrow. They were the workers in the association in the coming years. The ideal member did not join for what he could get, but for what he could give.

Mr. Galley then referred to the work for boys on the continent, and cited the examples of young men who were past members, and who were living useful lives.

The toast was responded to by a group of boys representing each side of the work.

H. Payne spoke for the religious work. The greatest asset of the city was its young men and boys. The Bible classes and meetings were to build up Christian character, which always won out.

Fred Hall also spoke for this branch of the work, referring to the Social Bible Club for working boys, of which he was a member.

Dr. Middleton, leader of the Bible Club, gave a very pointed and witty speech. He said the boys were a credit to the work. The ideal boys' leader was one who was chum, boy and preacher—all combined.

Stanley Pringle spoke for the mental development side, referring to the library, reading room, and other similar agencies in the association.

George Martin and Herb Johnston spoke for the social work and its great value, and Mr. Baker the energetic steward, also spoke and was given an ovation.

Max Dobbin carried off the palm for the humorous speech of the evening as he spoke on the physical work.

Rev. J. R. Webb gave the address of the evening and showed himself much at home among the boys. He held the close attention of all with his ready humour and convincing manner. He congratulated the Association on such a boys' department and said that it would do credit to many a larger city. He then drew some excellent lessons from the life of Ruben, the son of Jacob. He said that a boy had more influence than a man—all other things being equal. Reuben's influence was magnificent but he lost much by compromise with wrong. It was the struggle up stream that brought life, and power, and conquest. There was nothing noble or manly in dealing with shady things. As Christian boys, they should laugh and enjoy themselves. He closed by urging them to use every opportunity. "You can do much if you grasp your opportunities; the day once past, never returns." He hoped none of the bright lives before him would be blighted by sin, but that they would all live their lives for the good of themselves, their country and their God.

During the evening's programme the Halpany Bros. delighted the assemblage with several cleverly given selections. Karl sang "Just for Fun," and was loudly encored. Frank gave a violin selection and responded with a recitation, and was compelled to respond to a second encore.

Mrs. Halpany presided at the piano.

SETTLED COLDS

Dangerous Because Hard To Cure.

An Offer to the People of Peterborough From Our Well Known Druggists, McDermid & Jury.

Our well-known druggists, McDermid & Jury, claim they have a cure for colds and coughs, and if it fails they will refund your money. The remedy is Vinol, and we have heard such wonderful results from it that we advise every person in Peterborough who is suffering from a cold or cough to try it on their guarantee.

A hard cold and hacking cough may be the means of undermining your constitution and terminate in in consumption. Cough syrups, while they temporarily allay the spasms of coughing, owing to the opiates they contain, upset the stomach and do not cure the cause, old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions are so nauseating that few can take them.

Vinol is delicious to take, and contains all the active curative principles of cod liver oil in a highly concentrated form, and it it, therefore, the greatest specific known for coughs, colds and bronchial troubles.

You would not eat an egg, shell and all. For the same reason you should not take old-fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions, just to get the medicinal curative elements which they contain.

The Vinol manufacturers separate them for you, throw away the useless oil and give you in a delicious concentrated form all the healing and life-giving elements which are to be found in fresh cods' livers. That is what gives Vinol its wonderful power to cure coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles, and makes it the greatest tonic reconstructor known to medicine. McDermid & Jury, Druggists. Vinol is also sold at the Market Drug Store (The Ormond & Walsh Old Stand).

OTHERDOM CLUB HELD SUCCESSFUL DANCE

Delightful Affair in the Foresters' Hall Last Night.

Another delightful dance was held last night in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, under the auspices of the Otherdom Club. Some fifty couples were present and the affair from all points of view was a splendid success. The committee in charge had made every arrangement to assure a pleasant time to all present, and in this they succeeded admirably. Splendid music was rendered by Miss McCabe and the Opera House orchestra, while delightful refreshments were provided by Mr. Potvin, who was the caterer for the occasion.

SPLENDID CONCERT IN ST. PETER'S SCHOOL

Under the Direction of Mrs. W. J. Morrow—Boy Soprano One of The Features

TORONTO HUMORIST WELL RECEIVED

The concert given in St. Peter's school last evening was one of the most refined and successful of the present concert season in the city. The function was under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Morrow, who has an established reputation for presenting to Peterborough audiences entertainments only of a creditable and refined nature, and her efforts put forth on behalf of last night's event were indeed characteristic of her numerous successful achievements in the past. Every number from the beginning to the end of the programme was excellenttly rendered, and enthusiastically received, which certainly reflects great credit on the management, and those contributing.

St. Peter's school hall, contained a large and music-loving audience, and altthough the programme was lengthy it was listened to with undivided attention and interest tthroughout.

One of the features of the evening were the contributions of the hundred or more boy sopranos, carefully trained for their work, under the supervision of Mrs. Morrow. Their singing was splendid indeed, and always elicited the hearty and well-deserved approval of the appreciative audience. Their voices blended perfectly, and their selections were certainly treats.

A number of Peterborough's prominent vocalists and musicians were among the cast, and all were very warmly received.

Mr. John King, baritone, appeared several times on the platform, in solos and duets, and easily sustained his past reputation. He is gifted with a strong and refined voice, which was probably heard at its best in "The Clang of the Hammer."

Miss Lavina Hallihan, the possessor of a fine soprano voice, was heard in a vocal solo and a duet with splendid effect. In the latter she was associated with Miss Lillian Bell, contralto, of Keene, in "The Ranchero," one of the delights of the evening. Mrs. Morrow and Miss Geraldine Rudkins contributed a charming instrumental duet—the grand concert waltz, "Radius."

Another of the local vocalists was Mr. Charles Delaney, whose song, "The Bandit," was very much appreciated. The boy sopranos who figured in vocal solos were Masters Joseph Clancy and Joseph Morrow. A number of recitations were also given and the programme closed with a tableau.

But, undoubtedly, the star of the evening was Mr. Harry M. Bennett, whose humorous songs and recitations "caught on" with the audience. He was repeatedly encored, and responded many times to the wishes of the listeners. His songs and sketches savoured of real humour, and he is certainly an entertainer of much ability. Although all his selections were excellent, he probably excelled in that humorous character, "I'm Going to be Married."

The T. A. S. Band, under the direction of Mr. F. W. Miller, was present and supplied fine music at the opening and throughout the evening. Their contributions showed they have been making excellent progress since their re-organization not long ago.

The concert was presided over by Rev. Father McCoil, who, after brief opening remarks, presented the programme which in its entirety was as follows:

Part I.

GOVERNMENT TUG PROGRESSING WELL

Planking Practically Completed—Local Firm Will Supply the Boiler For the Boat

Work is progressing rapidly on the new steam tug being built by Mr. Hickey for the Dominion Government, the planking being now well under way and it is hoped that the boat will be ready for the water by the time she is required.

The John Doty Engine Works, of Toronto, have the contract for the construction and installation of the engine, while The William Hamilton Manufacturing Company of this city, will supply the boiler, which will be of the Scotch tubular pattern.

OBITUARY

WM. THISTLETHWAITE

Early this morning Mr. Wm. Thistlethwaite passed away at his residence on Charlotte street after an illness of one month. The deceased has been suffering from a cold and la grippe, which caused his demise.

The late Mr. Thistlethwaite was born in the county of Yorkshire, Eng., 64 years ago. When a boy he came to Canada and has been a life long resident of East Peterborough his home being near Norwood. He was married forty years ago and leaves the following children: Henry and Andrew of Norwood; William, of Barley, Sask.; Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Richardson, of Hastings; Annie and Daisy at home.

The deceased removed to this city about a year ago, retiring from active business. He was a member of the Methodist church and in politics had Liberal tendencies.

The funeral will take place on Monday morning from the family residence, 473 Sherbrooke street, to the C.P.R. station and via C. P. R. 11.38 a.m. train to Norwood. Interment will take place in the Methodist Church Cemetery in that place.

THOS. HANBURY

The funeral of the late Thomas Hanbury whose death occurred on Tuesday morning of last week, took place, as announced on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Before leaving the house a short service was held by the Rev. J. J. Ferguson, after which the remains were conveyed to the church where the regular service was held.

The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in this part of the country and was a fitting general tribute to a useful and honoured life. — Dundalk Herald.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE WAR CORRESPONDENT

The production of the War Correspondent at the Grand Opera House last night was greeted by a fairly large audience which appeared to thoroughly appreciate the production. "The War Correspondent" is a musical military play in three acts written by Hough and Adams. It is a lively piece containing few dull moments and interspersed with numerous witticisms which caught on with the popular ear. The scene of the plot is laid in Egypt where the British under Sir Arthur Burkingame were waging war against the Egyptians. Dick Davies is the war correspondent and about him the story runs. He finally accomplishes his purpose—the winning of the hand of the daughter of the Britisher in command—after playing a difficult and dangerous role during which he strives to "make good." The music was bright and catchy. Miss Mabel McCane, the Princess Kalony of Egypt, sang delightfully a number of solos but probably excelled in "Kiss Me Good Night."

Altogether "The War Correspondent" is a production worth more than a passing recognition and was certainly well received by the audience at the Grand last night.

IT IS A PARASITE

That Causes Itching Scalp, Dandruff, and Finally, Falling Hair.

The itching scalp, the falling hair, and the dandrufff that annoys, are the work of a parasite hidden in the scalp. That parasite must be killed to cure dandruff; and the only preparation that will do that is Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect."

C. H. Reed, of Victor, Idaho, says: "Myself and wife had dandruff and falling hair several years. Two bottles of Newbro's Herpicide completely cured us after several other preparations had failed to do good." Makes the hair grow glossy and as soft as silk. Hundreds of other testimonials just as strong. Sold by leading druggists. Send ten cents in stamps for a sample to the Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich.

PETERBORO' PLAYERS EXONORATED BY THE O.H.A.

Morgan and Crowley Had No Trouble in Clearing Themselves of the Guelph Charges.

MANAGER A. S. PARKIN WAS EXPELLED

As was expected, Morgan and Crowley had little trouble last night in clearing themselves of the insinuations made against their amateur standing by N. E. Irving, of Guelph. A Toronto despatch says:

When the Ontario Hockey Association Executive last night got through a long investigation into the random and reckless statements promulgated by Mr. N. E. Irving, of Guelph, about the state of affairs in the association, Mr. Irving said that he was perfectly satisfied with the above-board character and searching nature of the investigation, but he forgot to apologize to the players and clubs that he had freely misrepresented.

The cases of Tyner of the Marlboros and McGinnis of Berlin are not yet finally disposed of, but all the others were gone into in the most thorough manner. The players were all subjected to the closest examination by Mr. A. H. Beaton, the association's solicitor, and former secretary, who administered the declarations, and were also questioned by Mr. Irving. The investigation confirmed the falsity of the suggestion that the clubs were anything other than amateur organizations, or that players were receiving inducements for their allegiance to any club.

President Darroch occupied the chair, and the other members present were Hon. President J. Ross Robertson; L. B. Duff, of Welland; A. M. Edwards, of Galt; H. E. Wettlaufer, of Berlin; Dr. Gilfillan, of Uxbridge; G. H. Ralston, of Port Hope; Bert Short, of Toronto; Treasurer A. W. McPherson and Secretary J. P. Fitzgerald. Francis Nelson was also present as the association's governor on the Board of the C.A.A.U.

Morgan and Crowley, of the Peterborough club, were on hand to defend themselves. They asked what charges Irving had against them, but he didn't any, and they went on to cover their cases in all the details that could be suggested, winding up by making the required declarations. Morgan said he had played several games for Newmarket Lacrosse Club last summer at the solicitation of a business friend in Peterborough, and to replace a player who was ill, but was never paid anything more than his expenses. He was not a good lacrosse player, and if Newmarket had been looking for good men he would not have been on the team. Neither was he in the habit of running around the country for $10 or $15 a game, as was the man who promoted the present inquiry.

Crowley said he had played one game of lacrosse for Newmarket at Bradford, but was never in Aurora. On the occasion of the Bradford game he was on the way to North Bay on his holidays. He paid his own expenses and got nothing. Crowley said he never got anything for playing any game. He had never violated any clause of the amateur rule, except that in the Ontario Rugby Football Union team on which he played for Peterborough there was a technical professional in the person of the physical instructor of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

McDougall, Stoddart and Sullivan, of the Lindsay Midgets, though not named in the Irving letter, were also on the carpet and were found clean in regard to their connection with one club. It was ascertained, though, that when Lindsay played Parkdale here last year, Ouellett, the Guelph professional, played for Lindsay under the name of Yarnall. For this A. S. Parkin, manager of the team, was expelled and disqualified from all connection with the game in the O. H. A.

MRS. THAW TELLS OF HER WRONGS

Young Wife Lays Bare Her Secret Soul to Save Husband.

EVELYN THAW A WITNESS

White Painted a Monster and a Blackguard—Hideous Story of Architect's Crimes—Lured to Her Ruin, She Tells the Story to Thaw and Refuses to Marry Him—On the Stand All Day In Tears.

New York, Feb. 8.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw told her story yesterday. To save the life of her husband, charged with murder, she bared to the world the innermost secrets of her soul—a portrayal for which a sanctuary were a more fitting place than the crowded, gaping court room. It was the same story she told Harry Thaw in Paris in 1903 when he had asked her to become his wife—the confession of a woman who felt there was an insurmountable barrier to her ever becoming the bride of the man she loved.

In the big witness chair she appeared but a slip of a girl and she told the pitiful story of her eventful young life in a frank, girlish way. When tears came unbidden to her big brown eyes and slowly trickled their way down scarlet cheeks, she strove in vain to keep them back. Though the lump in her throat at times seemed about to choke her, she uttered the words from trembling lips and in a marvelous display of courage which took her willingly to her struggling ordeal, she shook off a depression which once threatened to become an absolute collapse.

Thaw Cried.

In its absorption in the sympathy-impelling story of the girl and the fascination of a voice of softest quality, yieldingly clear in enunciation, the court room forgot the prisoner. But when there came a halt in the girl's fight against her tears, they saw Harry Thaw again.

With his whole frame shaking, he sat with his head buried in his hands. A handkerchief covered his eyes. Bent over the table as he sobbed he could not be seen by the jurymen at all. Thus he sat for many minutes, and when he finally lifted his head his eyes were red and swollen.

Mrs. Thaw On the Stand.

Harry Thaw smiled at his wife as she walked to the witness-stand, but she apparently did not see him at the time. After she was seated, however, she smiled faintly at the prisoner.

Mrs. Thaw, in answer to Delmas' first question, said she was born Dec. 25, 1884. She told of her going to the Cafe Martin to dinner on the evening of June 25 with her husband, Thomas McCaleb and Truxton Beale.

While you were at the Cafe Martin did you see Stanford White. A.—Yes.

At what time did you see him. A.—I don't know, it was sometime after we arrived.

Did you see him leave? A.—Yes. I saw him come in from the balcony and go out of the Fifth avenue entrance.

Wrote Note to Husband.

While you were in the Cafe Martin did you call for a pencil? A.—Yes.

Did you write a note? A.—I did.

On what? A.—A slip of paper. I think Mr. McCaleb gave it to me.

what did you do with it? A.—I passed it to Mr. Thaw.

What did Mr. Thaw do? A.—He said to me: "Are you all right?" I said, "Yes."

Mrs. Thaw, have you that slip of paper now? A.—I have not.

Have you seen it since? A.—No.

"Did what you wrote refer to Stanford White?"

Mr. Jerome objected on the ground that the note itself was the best evidence. This the court sustained.

The questions were then turned to the visit to the Roof Garden. Mrs. Thaw told how they reached the place and how they were seated.

Who suggested leaving the Roof Garden? A.—I did.

How did the party leave? A.—I went in front with Mr. McCaleb. Mr. Beale and Mr. Thaw were following us.

How far had you gone when something unusual attracted your attention? A.—We almost reached the elevator when I turned round to say something to Mr. Thaw and he was not there.

Saw Stanford White.

Who did you see when you turned around? A.—I saw Stanford White.

Where was he? A.—He was seated at a table.

How far were you from him? A.—About as far as from here to the end of the jury box.

Mrs. Thaw indicated the distance—about 25 or 30 feet.

When you saw Stanford White there did you see Mr. Thaw as the same time? A.—No. I did not see Mr. Thaw until a moment or two later.

Where was he? A.—He was standing directly in front of Mr. White, about 15 feet away.

Your husband was directly in front of Mr. White? A.—Yes.

What was his position? A.—He had his arm out like this.

Mrs. Thaw indicated the gesture of a man about to fire a pistol.

Then what happened? A.—I heard three shots.

Did you exclaim anything? A.—Yes, I think I turned to Mr. McCaleb and said, "My God, he has shot him." Mr. Thaw walked toward me.

"My God, He Must Be Crazy."

What did you say to him? A.—I said, "Harry, what have you done, and why have you done it." He came up to me and kissed me, and said, "It's all right; I have probably saved your life." Then I heard Mr. McCaleb (I think it was), say, "My God, he must be crazy."

Mrs. Thaw remembered going down in the elevator.

She and Thaw were married on April 4, 1905, in Pittsburg.

Where was the ceremony performed? A.—At the residence of the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Who was there? A.—My mother and her husband, Mr. Holman; and Mr. Thaw's mother, and his brother Josiah.

When did Mr. Thaw first propose to you? A.—It was in 1903, in Paris.

Did you refuse him when he proposed to you? A.—Yes.

Did you tell him why you refused? A.—Yes.

Was it because of any event in your life? A.—Yes, sir.

The Incident in Paris.

"In stating your reason to Mr. Thaw, did you say it was because of an incident in your life connected with Stanford White?

Mr. Justice Fitzgerald warned Mrs. Thaw that she should tell only what she told Thaw at the time of his proposal.

What did Thaw do after the refusal? A.—He came over to me, and said he loved me and wanted to marry me. I told him I could not. He asked me why. He said "Don't you love me?" I said "Yes." Then he said, "Why?" I said "Because." "But tell me why," he said, "Give me a reason." I said "Just because." He came over to me and put his hand on my shoulder and looked straight at me and said "Is it because of Stanford White?" I said, "It is."

What was Mr. Thaw's manner toward you. A.—He was kind and nice and looked straight at me. He said he would never love or marry anybody else.

What did you do? A.—I cried.

Her Meeting With White.

Did you tell Mr. Thaw how you first met Mr. White? A.—Yes, I told him that at the theatre a girl named Edna Goodrich——

Mrs. Thaw here was admonished not to use any other names than Stanford White's and Thaw's.

"This young woman," said Mrs. Thaw, "said she wanted me to go to dinner with some friends. I said my mother would not let me. She invited me again a few days later, but my mother refused. Then the young woman and her mother came and asked me to go to luncheon. The girl's mother said the people giving the luncheon were in New York society, and were all right, or she would not let her daughter go with them. my mother consented. The young lady called for me in a hansom. My mother had dressed me.

How old were you? A.—Sixteen.

When was this? A.—In August, 1901.

"When I got into the hansom," resumed Mrs. Thaw, "I remember wishing we would go to the Waldorf, for I had never been there. Instead we drove down on West 24th street and the cab stopped in front of a dingy looking house. Then I was terribly disappointed, but got out when the young lady told me to. We went up two flight of stairs and through two doors which seemed to open by themselves. I hesitated but the young lady said to come along and up a third flight of stairs. I heard a voice call 'Hello.'"

Did you see the man who said "'Hello?" A.—Yes, when we got to the head of the stairs.

Stanford White, Big and Ugly.

Who was he? A.—Stanford White. We went into a room where there was a table spread for four. The room was very pretty with rugs and pillows. Mr. White was very big, and I thought very ugly."

Mrs. Thaw told in much detail of the luncheon and of what followed. The two girls went with White to an upper room, where there was a red velvet swing, in which they were pushed up by White until their feet crashed through a large Japanese umbrella on the ceiling.

After several of these parties, White sent a carriage for her and she went to a studio and had many photographs taken in a gorgeous kimina. She was very tired and after one glass of champagne White sent her home. Continuing, she said:

Lured to Lonely Room.

"The next night I had a note from Mr. White, asking me to a party. He sent a cab for me after the theatre and I went to the 24th street house. When I got there there was no one there. I asked him where the party was. He said 'What do you think, they have turned us down.'

"I said 'Oh, I am so sorry; now there'll be no party.'

"But he said we would eat alone and we did. After supper Mr. White went out for a few minutes, but came back. Then I said it was time for me to go home, but he said there was a part of the house I had never seen and he took me to see it. One room was a bedroom with mirrors all around the walls. He told me to sit down and he poured out a glass of champagne, which he told me to drink. It might have been a minute or two later when something began pounding in my ears and the whole world seemed to go around and then everything got black.

"When I woke I sat up and screamed and screamed and screamed. There were mirrors all around the room and on the ceiling. Mr. White told me to keep quiet. I don't remember how I got home. I sat up all night.

"The next time I saw Mr. White he told me that he had not hurt me a bit. He made me swear I would never tell my mother."

Thaw Sobbed Over Story.

"What was the effect on Mr. Thaw when you told him this story?" interrupted Mr. Delmas.

"Terrible," she replied.

"What did he do?"

Don't Condemn Yourself to Bright's Disease

TAKE GIN PILLS NOW

Bright's Disease claims its thousands yearly solely because people won't heed nature's warnings.

Pain in the back and constant headaches mean Kidney Trouble. Swollen hands and ankles, and pain in the joints, mean Kidney Trouble. Frequent desire to urinate—urine hot and scalding—mean Kidney Trouble. Neglecting sick Kidneys means Bright's Disease.

If you know your kidneys are affected—or if you suspect they are affected—give them the help they need—GIN PILLS. Taking GIN PILLS regularly soothes the irritated, inflammed membranes—gives to the kidneys new strength—corrects every kidney and bladder trouble

NAPANEE, May 13, 1906.

I received the sample box of GIN PILLS and was greatly benefitted by them. My kidneys were in such bad condition I could not sit or sleep without great pain. In fact, they pained me nearly all the time. I have taken three boxes, working all the time at heavy work on the railroad, and did not lose a day. FRANK TRUMPER.

And they are sold on a positive guarantee that they will cure you or money refunded. Put them to the test with the understanding that you must be cured or you get your money back.

So sure are we that GIN PILLS are just what you need in your own case, that we will send you a free sample to try. Write, mentioning this paper, to the Bole Drug Co., Winnipeg.

ZAM-BUK PREVENTS AMPUTATION OF A PROMINENT ODD-FELLOWS' FINGER

Mr. Wm C. Edwards, P.D.C.R.A.O.F., P.G.M.I.O.O.F. and P.P.O.A. Shepherds, one of the most widely known men in Friendly Society circles it is possible to meet, has had the following sensational experience. Interviewed at his home in Peter St., Toronto, he said:—"In January of last year I cut the middle finger of my left hand severely, and blood poisoning set in. The wound was so very painful that I could not use the whole hand, which began to swell and inflame. I consulted one of the leading doctors of Toronto, and for two months I was under his care. The wound got no better, and, one day the doctor said, "Edwards, the only thing I can do with this finger is to take it off. It can never be cured". This was not very pleasant news, and at that time the agony from the wound was terrible and the swelling and inflammation extended right up the arm. I went to see another doctor, and was under his treatment for some weeks. He then told me that all he could do for me would be to cut open the whole finger and scrape the bone which, he said, had become diseased through the blood poisoning. I went away to think when I would have the operation and met a friend, who, hearing the details, said "Try Zam-Buk before you have it taken off." I did so. I bathed the wound and applied some of the balm, and that night I got a little sleep. Next morning the wound began to bleed, whereas, before it had only discharged pus. That was a good sign, so I went on with the Zam-Buk. It seemed to soothe it and draw the soreness completely away. Within a few days I could do away with the sling in which I had carried the hand, and in a few weeks time there was not a trace of the wound to be seen. To-day my finger is as sound as a bell, whereas, had I not tried Zam-Buk, I should have been a finger less. I paid over $20 in doctors fees, and when I think of the trifling cost of Zam-Buk, I am amazed at its wonderful value. My experience should help other sufferers, so I do not mind stating the facts."

A more sensational proof of the value of Zam-Buk has rarely been reported and its known to suffers from skin injuries and diseases is very clear.

WHAT ZAM-BUK IS GOOD FOR.

For all poisoned wounds, chronic sores, ulcers and abscesses, Zam-Buk is especially suitable because of its high antiseptic powers. If you have a wound or sore which has defied all ointments and salves, that is a case for Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk also cures eczema, itch, blood poisoning, ringworm, blackheads on the face and body, chapped places, cold sores, piles and enlarged veins. As an embrocation it cures rheumatism and sciatica, and rubbed on over the chest relieves tightness due to severe cold.

All stores and druggists sell at 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 3 boxes sent for $1.50.

CONSTIPATION CLOGS THE BOWELS

No other cause produces so much sickness as constipation, and therefore it is dangerous to allow the bowels to become clogged up. Bad blood, dyspepsia, headaches, biliousness, boils, pimples, and piles, are all caused by constipation.

Avoid all of these troubles by the use of nature's remedy for all diseases of the stomach, bowels and blood. It acts on the bowels and promotes their free and regular action, curing constipation and all troubles which arise from it. It has been on the market for over thirty years so you are not using a new and untried remedy. B.B.B. has cured thousands of others and will cure you. Mr. B. Woodcock, Nashwaak Bridge, N.S., writes: "For over two years my wife was troubled with constipation. She tried several physicians but could get no relief, but after taking three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters she was completely cured and is to-day in good health. My wife and I cannot speak too highly of B.B.B.

Charlotte St. Team Still In The City Hockey League Race

Defeated the Auburns by 4 Goals to 3 Last Night in a Desperately Fought Contest, in Which Honours Were About Even.

THE STRATHCONAS WON ANOTHER GAME FROM HIGH-LIFES

The Charlotte street guild team added another to their unbroken string of victories last night, when they defeated the Auburns in a desperately fought contest by four goals to three. Honours were even with three goals each at the half. It was anybody's game until time was called, and from gong to gong the play was close, not too clean and always exciting. Auburns started like easy winners, and at the end of fifteen minutes were two goals in the lead, but from that time they faded and Charlotte street, assuming the aggressive, had the better of the argument for the remainder of the game.

It was not at all pretty hockey, but it was exciting, and the fairly large crowd enjoyed the struggle. The close checking of both teams made it impossible to get away with anything brilliant in the way of hockey, but the pace was fast and the teams hammered along in a way that was decidedly interesting. Heavy body checking, tripping and slashing were prominent on the menu, and a wrestling match was thrown in as a side dish.

Charlotte street played consistent hockey all through, and although they had little to offer in the way of combination, it was enough to win for them. They were outplayed at the start, but they did not back up any and when the opportunity was given them they made good use of it, having a shade the best of it in all departments after that period. Their improved form in the second half, coupled with the slashing of the Auburns, which resulted in many penalties, enabled them to win out, but they had to extend themselves to the limit. The Auburns made a belated rally and came very near tieing up the score in the last minute of play.

The Auburns, although beaten by one goal, were always in the struggle, and if they had played the puck instead of the man, should pretty nearly have carried off the honours. When they played clean hockey they had all the best of the play, rushing nicely and checking back in a manner that rendered useless the efforts of the Charlotte street scoring division. When they dropped this style, however, the tide turned against them, and what looked like a sure victory was turned into one good defeat. They were getting in close during the first fifteen minutes, and had the Guild team pedalling backwards.

Long was the pick of the winners' forward line, playing splendid hockey throughout, while Moore put up a fine game at cover point, checking and rushing well. Campbell, who played his first game in the flags, stopped some likely looking heaves.

McDonald was the bright light for the Auburns, his scoring propensities being strongly in evidence. All three goals to the Auburns' credit were notched by him, and he was always there to take the passes from the side. Hillier, the new man, showed up well. Crough and Shaw played a good defence game, and Derocher performed in his usual effective manner.

The line-up was as follows:—

CHARLOTTE STREET.

Campbell
Roddy
Moore
Dusty
Grose — Long — Quinn
Tucker — McDonald — Hillier
Clegg
Crough
Shaw
Derocher

AUBURNS.

Auburns started at a pace that had the Methodists trailing.

The puck travelled into their territory from the start and in forty-five seconds McDonald scored on a pass from Hillier.

The Auburns were having all the best of it at this stage, sweeping their opponents off their feet. The puck rarely left the Charlotte street end of the ice, the checking back of the Auburns preventing any attempt to break away. However, Charlotte street were bound to score and Long finally did the trick on a pass from Grose. Score 1—1.

The Auburns were not long in rolling away again. The forward line were breaking outside their checks well and in three minutes McDonald scored again on a pass from Crough. Score 2—1.

McDonald made it 3—1 soon after, as a result of some pretty combination with Hillier. Grose was hurt and went off for a few minutes accompanied by Tucker. Charlotte street rallied and had the best of the argument from this stage on. Dusty made it 3—2 on a nice shot and then Grose pulled the teams up even just before time was called.

The second half was pretty much a repetition of the first. Both teams worked like beavers and although Charlotte street were a shade better the game was always in doubt. Before the half had well started Long put Charlotte street in the lead and they managed to hold their advantage until the final gong, although the Auburns were coming strong.

Strathcona's Won Second Game

The Strathconas won another game last night when they femoned the High Lifes by 4—2, and are right in the running for the championship. It was a merry battle with hockey of a little faster calibre than the first game, and although the Strathconas were superior throughout the game was decidedly interesting. It was not rough, only a few men being penalized, and the play was more open giving better opportunities for fast hockey.

The score just about represents the form displayed by the two teams last night. Strathconas won by their superior combination and especially by their shooting ability, combined with the speedy back checking of the forward line. Their shots were generally labelled right, and Sawers was given a lot of work to do.

For the winners, Seymour at centre played a splendid game. His shooting was of a cyclonic nature. McGrath did fine work at right wing and the other forwards were always in the game. White and Meagher were a strong defence, against which the High Lifes had no chance.

The High Lifes were not outclassed at all, but their lack of combination and system were in a great measure responsible for their defeat. Individually there were not inferior, but this is not the kind of work that wins games against a strong defence. Ferguson and Rose were the best of the forwards, while the defence was strong, "Ernie" Smith making some rushes that helped some in the scoring.

In the first half, White, of the Strathconas, had his face cut open by an accidental crack from Myers' stick, but was able to resume after half-time. The line-up was as follows:

STRATHCONAS.

Wilson
Meagher
White
McMillan
McGrath — Seymour — Weatherstone
Doris — Cameron — Rose
Ferguson
Myers
Smith
Sawers

HIGH LIFES.

The play was fast and at all times interesting. Strathconas showed their superiority at the start. It was not long before Weatherstone was given an opportunity on a pass from the corner and scored easily. Score 1-0.

Strathconas also got the next goal after some lively up and down the rink work, in which the red and white team had a shade the better of the argument. Seymour made it 2-0 on a pretty shot from quarter way.

The High Lifes at this stage took a brace and made things decidedly interesting. Smith got away with a nice rush, passed to Myers, who transferred to Ferguson, and the score was 2-1.

In a few minutes they scored again in almost the same way, Smith taking the puck up cleverly and passing to Ferguson, who evened matters on a nice shot. Score 2-2.

In the second half the Strathconas were always pressing. They seemed in better condition than the High Lifes, and although the latter put up a great defence game, Manager Metherel's aggregation succeeded in walking away with the game by scoring two goals, both on shots from Seymour.

Summary

1—Strathconas, Weatherstone.
2—Strathconas, Seymour.

GOT A PAIN IN YOUR BACK?

You get a pain in your back, and you wonder what is the matter. You perhaps pay no attention to it. Backache is caused by imperfect action of the kidneys, in fact, is the first sign of kidney trouble to follow.

The kidneys, proper, are composed of a close network of fibrous tissue, interlaced with tiny elastic fibres. Their object is the excretion of the uric acid, and other poisonous matter composing the urine, from the blood.

They are continuously at work to preserve the general health of the body and most people are troubled with some form of kidney trouble, but do not suspect it.

Some of the symptoms are: A feeling of weakness in the small of the back, sharp pains in back, puffiness under the eyes, and swelling of the feet and ankles, urinary troubles such as suppressed urination, excessive urination, cloudy, thick or highly colored urine, etc.

Mr. J. L. Whiting, Osnabruck Centre, Ont., writes: "I suffered for two years with kidney trouble. I had terrible pains in my back, hips and legs. I could not sleep and had a poor appetite. I took four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, and the pains left me, my appetite returned and I now sleep well. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

DEFEATED, BUT WERE ENTERTAINED ROYALLY

Local Curlers Lost on Round to Bobcaygeon Yesterday by Five Points in Great Game.

TWO RINKS GO TO FENELON FALLS

Four Peterborough rinks went up to beautiful Bobcaygeon yesterday for a little curling tournament, and were beaten by the narrow margin of five points, the totals being Bobcaygeon 94, Peterborough 89.

Messrs. Frost's, Neill's and Thompson's rinks went up by train, and Mr. Davidson's rink drove up, returning this morning. They report a splendid trip, the 'Caygeonites taking the sting out of the defeat by the royal entertainment the villagers gave the city curlers.

Three rinks played in the afternoon, with a score of 48 to 44 in favour of Bobcaygeon. Meantime the driving rink had arrived, and four rinks played in the evening, Bobcaygeon winning by the narrow balance of one shot—45 to 46.

At the conclusion of the evening's play the visiting curlers were royally entertained at a banquet at the Hotel Royal, at which there were toasts, speeches, songs and general exchange of social amenities. The visiting curlers were thoroughly delighted with their journey to the northern village. Though they were defeated, they say that they would rather be beaten by such jolly good fellows, than win over less genial and whole-souled opponents.

The "line-up" and score are as follows:

FINE ADDRESS IN CONSERVATIVE ROOMS

Mr. D. W. Dumble Delivered an Excellent Address on "John Bright, the Great English Statesman," Before a Large Audience.

CUSTOM OF THE YOUNG CONSERVATIVES

Mr. D. W. Dumble's address before the members of the Young Conservative Club last night was as successful as was predicted. The commodious club rooms were well filled with one of the largest audiences of the season. Before the address a programme of instrumental music was given, and Mr. Firth sang in a splendid voice, "The Veterans' Song," and responded to a hearty encore with "The Message of the Violet" from "The Prince of Pilsen."

The Lecture

Mr. Dumble said, in opening, that since Mr. W. H. Moore had lectured before the club on William Lyon Mackenzie and given him credit for ability and merits dealt scantily to him in his lifetime, he had not hesitated to speak before the club about John Bright and Richard Cobden. Since the world had long since accorded to them a high place amongst the splendid statesmen who had in the last century done so much to lift England into the highest place among the great nations of the world, Englishmen, regardless of politics, now generously placed them on the list of England's noblest sons. Bright and Cobden lived at a time when there were giants in the British Parliament. Lord John Russell, Earl Derby, Gladstone, Disraeli and Sir Robert Peel were there, and by them great Acts were passed, such as the Reform Bills, the repeal of the Corn Laws, Irish disestablishment, and in their days momentous events occurred, such as the Irish famine, the Russian war, the Indian Mutiny, the American rebellion, and these gave England much concern and called for her wisest efforts.

The one great matter, and that which was for England of most moment, was Free Trade and the repeal of the Corn Laws. The effect of these was to raise England's trade by leaps and bounds until she attained, and now holds her pre-eminence amongst that nations of the earth.

Life Sketch

Bright was born in the year 1811, of Quaker parents and Quaker ancestry, so that to be a lover of peace was natural to him. He got a careful English education, and at 15 went into his father's business as a manufacturer of cottons at Rochdale. As a youth, he was fond of sports, a good fisherman, and a fine cricketer. Yet he was studious and a wide reader of English history and poetry. He early developed as a public speaker and gave himself to public affairs. Cobden was born on a farm in 1804, and at 15 went into his uncle's counting house in London, but he was so studious that efforts were made to check him lest he should injure his health.

Bright had become acquainted with Cobden, as both were working to advance the cause of education. When Bright's wife died Cobden called on him to offer his condolence. Mrs. Bright was lying upstairs in her coffin. Cobden, on parting, took Bright by the hand and said, "When the first paroxysm of your grief is over come with me, and we will never rest until we have abolished these obnoxious Corn Laws." This was the beginning of seven years' toil which awakened England from one end to the other, and finally led Sir Robert Peel, who admitted that he was converted by Cobden, to bring in a bill for the repeal of these Corn Laws, which taxed wheat that entered the Kingdom to feed the millions that were perishing for food. Indeed, it is claimed that the Irish famine of 1847, which in ten years carried off half a million of her people, was the culminating force which compelled the British Parliament to pass the Act which let the perishing people of Lancashire and Ireland get bread.

The passing of the Free Trade Bill so spurred trade that soon the mills of Lancashire and the other industries of England were in full blast, and the three million paupers of Ireland and Great Britain were reduced to the normal numbers.

Stood for the People

In the great struggle, Bright and Cobden stood for the people; 150,000 people owned half of England, 10 or 12 people owned half of Scotland, while Ireland suffered from absentee landlords and an alien church, so the nobility and the landed gentry opposed the Corn Law repeal, for dear corn meant for them high rents. The clergy and the born "Tory" sided with the classes against the masses. The battle was a struggel of giants. The people had to be educated. The Anti-Corn Law League was formed. Three hundred printers were kept busy; 500 people disseminated the literature; 14 lecturers were holding meetings, and Bright, Cobden, and a host of able men, addressed great meetings, often 15,000, often more, while several times 60,000 people gathered at the London parks to demand the removal of the tax that made bread so dear. At times the tax was as high as 85 cents per bushel, and sometimes wheat was $2.50 and $3 a bushel. Millions of money was expended in educating the people, and men who loved their fellows put up the money.

Cobden was logical, argumentative, clear, gentle, but persistent, and so full of argument and illustration that he convinced and made converts of all who heard him. Bright was eloquent, clear and irresistible, his style of the highest kind, his English faultless, short, simple Saxon words, with a wealth of illustration, and all his arguments based on principle, that must be admitted, and so without questioning the principle, which was impossible, he could not be withstood. The triumph of Free Trade, the disestablishment of the Episcopal Church in Ireland, the removal of the Corn Laws, we owe to these two great men, and as time goes by the justice and merit of their action are recognized and they are accorded the praise which in most cases in the time of stress and excitement is withheld from men who introduce great reforms.

Lessons From Their Lives

We can learn from the lives of these men to be slow to condemn men who would remove old abuses that better ways may prevail — and we should learn that they who are called the "Opposition" are in most cases as loyal and as worthy as they who sit on the Treasury Benches.

We may learn, too, that what these two men, Cobden and Bright, did, without a college education, with middle class birth, and without family prestige, may be done by others. At fifteen their school days were over, yet they stood before kings — they gave the world lessons in political economy, they charmed the noblest parliament in the world by their eloquence and their virtue; they refused great titles and honours, but died, honour-of God and of men.

Conclusion

When Mr. Dumble had finished, Messrs. Jas. Kendry, W. H. Moore, Col. Miller and W. S. Robinson expressed their appreciation of the speaker's kindness in preparing such an exhaustive account of the life of John Bright for presentation to the club. They spoke in laudatory terms of the excellent address Mr. Dumble had given, and the interesting manner in which he had delivered it.

On behalf of the club, Mr. Kendry moved, seconded by Mr. W. H. Moore, that the thanks of the Young Conservatives be tendered Mr. Dumble for the practical interest he had shown in their opening meetings by entertaining them as he had done.

3c. a day will Cure Rheumatism.

The aim of most "cures" for Rheumatism seems to be to relieve the pain. When they have done that, their usefulness is gone. And the next time you take cold, or your feet get wet, or you over-exert yourself, back comes the pain.

Bu-Ju

is different. It does relieve the pain, as quickly as the best liniment. And it does MORE. IT REMOVES THE CAUSE of Rheumatism, uric acid in the blood.

Every drop of blood passes through the Kidneys. These organs should filter out impurities. When they are weak, inflamed or diseased, the impurities stay in the blood and are carried to the sensitive nerves. Rheumatism is simply this irritation of the nerves, caused by uric acid and other impurities being deposited upon them—their favorite place being the joints and muscles. Make the Kidneys filter the blood properly, keep the blood pure and rich, and there can be no Rheumatism. Bu-Ju does this.

Buy Bu-Ju on an unconditional guarantee that they will cure you or money refunded. At all druggists, 50c. a large box, or sent on receipt of price.

ANNUAL MEETING OF TWO SUNDAY SCHOOLS

George Street Methodist and Grace Church Schools Present Reports.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

The past year in connection with George Street Methodist and Grace Church Sunday Schools has been a most progressive and encouraging one, as shown by the various reports presented at the annual meeting last night. Both Sunday Schools were able to show a marked advance in the work, and both, financially, were in a splendid condition.

Besides the presentation of reports the election of officers took place, and matters of importance were discussed. Superintendents of the past year, Messrs. S. R. Armstrong and J. J. Hartley, were re-elected for another term.

Rev. Dr. Crothers, in opening the business meeting, spoke in complimentary terms of the officers in charge of the schools and the work they were carrying on. The meeting was conducted by the superintendent, Mr. S. R. Armstrong.

Secretary's Report

Mr. A. E. Dixon, as secretary of the George Street Sunday School, read the report of the school for the year ending December 31. It showed that the total number of scholars on the roll was 845, and of this number, 37 belonged to the cradle roll. Including officers, teachers, orchestra, etc., the total was brought up to 925.

The average attendance of boys was 127, of girls, 202, and of teachers and officers, 38, making a total average of 367.

The total number of verses recited during the year was 17,971, being a weekly average of 345. This report also showed that the library had recently been renewed and was in a better condition than for a great many years.

Financial Statement

The financial report for the year was read by Mr. Geo. Robertson. It showed that the total receipts during the year, including the balance from 1905, was $642.30. The expenditures were $459.35, leaving a balance of $182.95. The average collection was $6.07.

Home Department

The report of the Home Department was read by Mrs. Stubbs. It showed that there were 110 members on the roll, and that the total collections during the year were $22.18, and expenditures, $3.63.

Grace Church Financial Statement

The financial statement in connection with Grace Church Sunday School was presented by the treasurer, Mr. N. Allison. The total receipts during the past year, including the balance of $18.89 from 1905, were $100.96. The total expenditures were $75.70, leaving a balance on hand of $25.26.

Secretary's Report

The secretary's report of Grace church school showed that the total number of pupils on the roll was 76, and the total number of teachers and officers, 13, making a total of 89 altogether. The average attendance of pupils was 61, and of teachers and officers, 10, making a total average of 71.

Election of Officers

The following officers for George Street Sunday School were elected:

Superintendent—S. R. Armstrong.
Assistant Superintendent — J. S. Knapman.
Superintendent Home Department—T. W. Robinson.
Superintendent Primary Department—Mrs. Lewis.
Secretary—A. E. Dixon.
Treasurer—A. R. Mann.
Musical Director—Mr. McCann.
Pianist—Miss Chasty.

Anglican Church, Edmonton, Alta.
(See article on page 15.)

Secretary-Treasurer Home Department—Mrs. Stubbs.

All the librarians and teachers of the past year were re-elected. Miss Maynecord was added to the teaching staff of the Sunday School. The visitors of the Home Department for the past year were also re-elected.

Grace Church

The following officers were elected for Grace Church Sunday School:

Superintendent—J. J. Hartley.
Assistant Superintendent — G. W. Powell.
Secretary—Wm. Hartley.
Librarian and Treasurer — N. Allison.
Organist—Mrs. Doidge.

The teachers of the past year were re-elected.

Finance Committee

The following Finance Committee for the two schools was appointed: Messrs. Wm. Hartley, J. J. Hartley, S. R. Armstrong, E. A. Dixon, N. Allison, A. R. Mann.

Annual Meeting

It was decided by George Street School to grant $5 to the Sunday School Aid Fund, $5 to the Educational Fund, $10 to the City Association Fund, and 15 per cent. of the total Sunday School receipts to the Missionary Fund.

Mr. Garnet Galley reported that six out of the class of seven over which he has charge had asked him if they might contribute each 12 cents per month for missions. It had been their own suggestion, he said, and he wished to get the opinion of the officers and teachers. The latter believed that the boys' request should be granted, and left the matter in Mr. Galley's hands.

The career of Major Henry Sladden, who died recently in Sunderland, was marked by many acts of heroism. In front of Sebastopol Sladden, then a sergeant, volunteered to carry loose charges of ammunition, and did so under a heavy fire from the enemy. On another occasion he carried a wounded man 400 yards in imminent risk to himself. He also stood by a gun as it was being lowered into position when all the other men near it dead had been shot down. His greatest exploit, however, was when the enemy made a determined attack on the trenches and were resisted for two hours by a small party of British, of whom Sladden was one. Fifty Russians at last forced their way into the trench and were trying to get into the rear of the defenders' battery. The officer in command was shot in the neck, when Sergeant Sladden got together a party of men with a view to charging the enemy. He could find no officer to authorize the party to charge but at last he saw Capt. Hamilton, and asked if he would lead them. The captain led the party, which numbered 20, against the Russians, and forced them to retire.

A sensational fight between a boarhound and a burglar took place in Birmingham recently. Mrs. Rogers was sitting at home alone, when a man forced the back window and entered the room. Mrs. Rogers was terror-stricken, when the man demanded that she should hand over whatever money she possessed, saying, "If you don't give me money I shall kill you." Thereupon Mrs. Rogers beckoned to a dog which at that moment was lying complacently underneath the table. At the signal from his mistress, the boar-hound sprang out and fastened his teeth in the throat of the intruder. Then began a terrible struggle. The man fought desperately, realizing that his life was at stake, and the dog, following its instinct, endeavoured to worry him. After a considerable time the burglar succeeded in tearing himself away from the dog and escaping from the room. The boarhound was considerably injured during the fight.

A remarkable rescue of a seaman from fire recently occurred on the steam trawler Rinaldo, when off Grimsby. Smoke was noticed issuing from the forecastle, where two of the crew were asleep. The alarm was given and a fierce fight with the flames began. Finding himself becoming overpowered by the smoke, one of the men scrambled through the flames up the companion ladder to the deck, where he fell unconscious. Two of the crew enveloped their heads in wet cloths and rushed through the flames to the rescue of the other man. Although several times beaten back, they eventually reached the bunk and found the man's clothes in flames and the man helpless himself. They roused him and carried him through the fire to the deck. The fire was subsequently extinguished.

An extraordinary letter was written by a man who committed suicide recently at Chalk: "I have driven against this for a long time. Every hour has been a fight. I take the simplest and surest way of getting out of a world where one is not wanted. I thank God that my wife and little ones are preserved from absolute want by the kindness of her friends. Where I have sown others have reaped. It is hard to pass out of life with all its hopes and endeavours unfulfilled, but better to release one's mind of all. I want to exonerate the man who sold me the poison. I obtained it by false pretences; the only false pretenses I have ever made. Let me ask my jury not to return a verdict of temporary insanity; but let me give them a nice, new verdict, 'Weary of work.'"

SCOTLAND

An interesting incident of the Indian Mutiny is recalled by the death at Nairn recently of Sergt. Alexander Macpherson, of the 93rd Highlanders. He formed part of the force in the barracks of Lucknow when Sir Colin Campbell came to its relief. Instructions had been received from Sir Colin to evacuate the barracks, and Macpherson was the one who warned the men to be in readiness. When the call came, however, he was so fatigued that he was found asleep in his own quarters, and had to be awakened by one of his comrades. He again fell asleep, and when he awoke in broad daylight he found he was the only one left in Lucknow, with a horde of Sepoys ready to attack. The wall of the fortress were lined with Sepoys, and the loopholes glistened with muskets. Sandy relates the incident as follows: "I said to myself, it's all up with you this time, Sandy Macpherson, but it's better to be shot than to be stabbed, so I tightened my belt and shouldered my rifle, and went forth in full marching order in the face of the blacks." The Sepoys seemed bewildered by his audacity, and when they came to their senses shortly afterwards a volley was sent after him, one of the shots grazing his leg. Taking to his heels he was followed by the Sepoys, but was able to hide in the long grass till darkness set in.

Sensation has been caused in Glasgow by the number of young girls who have mysteriously disappeared from their homes in and around Glasgow within the past few months. The latest mystery is that relating to a suburban school girl, seventeen years of age, the daughter of well-to-do parents. She recently disappeared under the very eyes of her father, who was accompanying her on her way to school and since that time her distracted parents have been unable to find her trace of her. Everything has been done in the way of discovering the missing one, and both the Glasgow and district police have spared no efforts to return the young girl to her unhappy parents. That it should be possible for a girl, seventeen years of age, to disappear so completely is extraordinary. The girl and her father set out together, but at a car terminus about three miles from the Stock Exchange he lost sight of his daughter, who had got a few yards in front of him. After looking round and failing to see her, he concluded that she had gone off to school and he proceeded to business as usual. But the dinner hour came and went without any appearance of the girl, and when tea time came round and she did not put in an appearance, he raised the alarm.

The distinguished scholar and pastor, the Rev. John Kelman, of Leith, died recently. A native of Banffshire, Dr. Kelman had a distinguished career at King's College, Aberdeen. In Latin, Greek, mathematics, natural philosophy, logic, and moral philosophy, he was first prizeman, his only rival being Robert MacIray, Primate of All Canada, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, and Chancellor of Manitoba University, who was his life-long friend. From his early ministry, he threw himself with much spirit into the evangelistic side of ministerial work, and he was closely associated with the labours of the American evangelists, Messrs. Moody and Sankey. Dr. Kelman published in 1902 a volume of sermons, entitled "Redeeming Judgment," which was favourably received. Thirty years previously he published "The Sabbath of Scripture."

IRELAND

The story of an eight-year-old tragedy was told recently at Rousies, Co. Fermanagh, when John McCaffrey, was returned for trial, charged with the wilful murder of Patrick McMahon, in June, 1899. Two families had a bitter feud over the disputed ownership of a piece of land dividing their farms. The murdered man and accused quarrelled. Words were followed by blows, they came to grips in the middle of a stream dividing their land, and after a desperate struggle, McMahon was pulled out of the water, bleeding from the leg and head, and died afterwards. McCaffrey disappeared, and, although the whole country was searched, no trace of him could be found. On one occasion he was pursued by the police very hotly but escaped into a farm house, whose occupants were absent at the time. A milk churn stood in the floor of one of the rooms, and into this McCaffrey made his way, putting the cover over him, and although the police searched every corner of the house, they failed to discover their man. Afterwards McCaffrey attended an Orange demonstration wearing his full regalia, and subsequently he reached Belfast, where in the guise of a cattle drover, he embarked on one of the cross-Channel steamers. On reaching the English side he made his way to Thornaby-on-Tees, where, under the name of Patrick Boyle he was married and lived until he was arrested in December. His arrest was brought about in a peculiar manner. His mother left her home and announced her intention of settling down in England. Police scouts followed her on her journey, and thereby discovered the hiding-place of her son.

The Irish Lords Justices have commuted to penal servitude for life the the sentence of death passed upon Thomas Mason, a prisoner in Armagh Gaol, for the murder of a carman named Morris. The case was unique. Mason had induced Morris to accompany him to a wood, where an acquaintance had hidden a quantity of dynamite, as he said, to prevent its being seized by the police. On arriving at the spot, Mason got behind his companion, who, as he afterwards declared, immediately heard three explosions, which injured him very seriously about the head. He remembered nothing more until next morning, when he was found blind and unconscious on the roadside. Mason, when arrested, at first denied that he knew anything of the occurrence, but subsequently he said that on the way to the wood he and Morris had been joined by a third man, who was evidently a confederate of Morris, who had planned to kill him (Mason) because he stood between him and Morris' wife. Morris, who died subsequently, said to the hour of his death that he had been the victim of a dynamite explosion, but on a post mortem examination being made, revolver bullets were found in his head.

--The-- Crimson Blind

BY FRED M. WHITE

Author of "Tregarthen's Wife," "The Robe of Lucifer," Etc.

Copyright, 1906, by R. F. Fenno & Company.

"Complex," Rawlins muttered. "But I begin to see what is coming."

"The cases were changed, and the one from Walen's in due course became Mr. Steel's. Now note where Henson's diabolical cunning comes in. The same night Van Sneck is found half murdered in Mr. Steel's house, and in his pocket is the receipt for the very cigar-case that Mr. Steel claimed as his own property."

"Very awkward for Steel," Rawlins said, thoughtfully.

"Of course it was. And why was it done? So that we should be forced to come forward and exonerate Mr. Steel from blame. We should have had to tell the whole story, and then Henson would have learnt what steps we were taking to get rid of him."

Rawlins was quiet for some time. Admiration for the scheme was uppermost in his mind, but there was another thought that caused him to glance curiously at Chris.

"And that is all you know?" he asked.

"Not quite," Chris replied. "I know that on the day of the attempted murder Van Sneck quarrelled with Reginald Henson, who he said had treated him badly. Van Sneck had in some way found out that Reginald Henson meant mischief to Mr. Steel. Also he couldn't get the money he wanted. Probably he had purchased that cigar-case at Walen's, and Henson could not repay him for the purchase of it. Then he went off and wrote to Mr. Steel, asking the latter to see him, as he had threatened Henson he would do."

"Ah!" Rawlins exclaimed, suddenly. "Are you sure of this?"

"Certain. I heard it from a man who was with Van Sneck at the time, a man called Merritt."

"James Merritt. Really, you have been in choice company, Miss Lee. Your knowledge of the criminal classes is getting extensive and peculiar."

"Merritt told me this. And an answer came back."

"An answer from Mr. Steel?"

"Purporting to be an answer from Mr. Steel. A very clever forgery, as a matter of fact. Of course that forgery was Henson's work, because we know that Henson coolly ordered notepaper in Mr. Steel's name. He forgot to pay the bill, and that is how the thing came out. Besides, the little wad of papers on which the forgery was written is in Mr. Steel's hands. Now, what do you make of that?"

Rawlins turned the matter over thoughtfully in his mind.

"Did Henson know that Mr. Steel would be from home that night?" he asked.

"Of course. He probably also knew where our meeting with Mr. Steel was to take place."

"Then the matter is pretty obvious," said Rawlins. "Van Sneck, by some means or other, gets an inkling of what is going on. He wanted money from Henson, which he couldn't get, Henson being very short lately, and then they quarrelled. Van Sneck was fool enough to threaten Henson with what he was going to do. Van Sneck's note was dispatched by hand and intercepted by Henson with a reply. By the way, will you be good enough to give me the gist of the reply?"

"It was a short letter from Mr. Steel and signed with his initials, and saying in effect that he was at home every night and would see Van Sneck about twelve or some time like that. He was merely to knock quietly, as the household would be in bed, and Mr. Steel would let him in."

"And Mr. Steel never wrote that letter at all?"

"No; for the simple reason that he never had Van Sneck's note."

"Which Henson intercepted, of course. Now, the mere fact of the reply coming on Mr. Steel's paper is evidence that Henson had plotted some other or alternative scheme against Mr. Steel. How long before the cigar-case episode had you decided to consult the novelist?"

"We began to talk about it nine or ten days before."

"And Henson got to hear of it. Then a better idea occurred to Henson, and the first idea which necessitated getting hold of Mr. Steel's notepaper was abandoned. Subsequently, as you have just told me, the note-paper came in useful after all. Henson knew that Steel would be out that night. And, therefore, Van Sneck is deliberately lured to Steel's house to be murdered there."

"I see," Chris said, faintly. "This had never occurred to me before. Murdered, by whom?"

"By whom? Why, by Reginald Henson, of course."

Just for a moment Chris felt as if all the world was slipping away under her feet.

"But how could he do it?" she asked.

"Quite easily. And throw all the blame on Mr. Steel. Look at the evidence he had ready to his hand against the latter. The changed cigar-case would come near to hang a man. And Van Sneck was in the way. Steel goes out to meet you or some of your friends. All his household are in bed. As a novelist he comes and goes as he likes and nobody takes any heed. He goes and leaves his door on the latch. Any money it is the common latch they put on thousands of doors. Henson lets himself into the house and coolly waits Van Sneck's coming. The rest you can imagine."

Chris had no reply for a moment or two. Rawlins's suggestion had burst upon her like a bomb. And it was all so dreadfully, horribly probable. Henson could have done this thing with absolute impunity. It was impossible to imagine for a moment that David Steel was the criminal. Who else could it be, then, but Reginald Henson?

"I'm afraid this has come as a shock to you," Rawlins said, quietly.

"It has, indeed," said Chris. "And your reasoning is so dreadfully logical."

"Well, I may be wrong, after all," Rawlins suggested.

Chris shook her head doubtfully. She felt absolutely assured that Rawlins was right. But, then, Henson would hardly have run so terrible a risk for a little thing like that. He could easily have silenced Van Sneck by a specious promise or two. There must be another reason for——

It came to Chris in a moment. She saw the light quite plainly.

"Mr. Smith," she said, eagerly, "where did you first meet Henson and Van Sneck?"

"We first came together some eight years ago in Amsterdam."

"Would you mind telling me what your business was?"

"So far as I can recollect it was connected with some old silver—William and Mary and Queen Anne cups and jardinieres. We had made a bit of a find that we could authenticate, but we wanted a lot of the stuff, well—faked. You see, Van Sneck was an authority on that kind of thing, and we employed him to cut marks off small genuine things and attach them to spurious large ones. On the whole, we made a very successful business of it for a long time."

"You found Van Sneck an excellent copyist. Did he ever copy anything for you?"

"No. But Henson employed him now and again. Van Sneck could construct a thing from a mere description. There was a ring he did for Henson——"

"Was that called Prince Rupert's ring, by any chance?"

"That was the name of the ring. Why?"

"We will come to that presently. Did you ever see Prince Rupert's ring?"

"Well, I did. It was in Amsterdam again, about a year later than the time I mentioned just now. Henson brought the real ring for Van Sneck to copy. Van Sneck went into raptures over it. He said he had never seen anything of the kind so beautiful. He made a copy of the ring, which he handed back with the original to Henson."

Chris nodded. This pretty faithful copy of the ring was the one that Henson had used as a magnet to draw Lady Littlmer's money and the same one that had found its way into Steel's possession. But Chris had another idea to follow up.

"You hinted to me just now that Henson was short of money," she said. "Do you mean to say he is in dire need of some large sum?"

"That's it," Rawlins replied. "I rather fancy there has been some stir with the police over some business up at Huddersfield some years ago."

"A so-called home both there and at Brighton?"

"That's it. It was the idea that Henson conveyed to me when I saw him at Moreton Wells. It appears that a certain Inspector Marley, of the Brighton Police, is the same man who used to have the warrants for the Huddersfield affair in his hands. Henson felt pretty sure that Marley had recognized him. He told me that if the worst came to the worst he had something he could sell to Littlmer for a large sum of money."

"I know," Chris exclaimed. "It is the Prince Rupert's ring."

"Well, I can't say anything about that. Is this ring a valuable property?"

"Not in itself. But the loss of it has caused a dreadful lot of misery and suffering. Mr. Smith, Reginald Henson had no business with that ring at all. He stole it and made it appear as if somebody else had done so by means of conveying the copy to the very last person who should have possessed it. That sad business broke up a happy home and has made five people miserable for many years. And whichever way you turn, whichever way you look, you find the cloven foot of Henson everywhere. Now, what you have told me just now gives me a new idea. The secret that Henson was going to sell to Lord Littlmer for a large sum was the story of the missing ring and the restitution of the same."

"Kind of brazening it out, you mean?"

"Yes. Lord Littlmer would give three times ten thousand pounds to have that ring again. But at this point Henson has met with a serious check in his plans. Driven into a corner, he has resolved to make a clean breast of it to Lord Littlmer. He procures the ring from his strong box, and then he makes a discovery."

"Which is more than I have. Pray proceed."

"He discovers that he has not got the real Prince Rupert's ring."

Rawlins looked up with a slightly puzzled air.

"Will you kindly tell me what you mean?" he said.

"It was a forgery. Van Sneck made a copy from a mere description. That copy served its purpose with a vengeance, and is now at the bottom of the North Sea. I need not go into details, because it is a family secret, and does not concern our conversation at all. At that time the real ring came into Henson's possession, and he wanted a copy to hold over the head of an unfortunate lady whom he would have ruined before long. You told me just now that Van Sneck had fallen in love with Prince Rupert's ring and could hardly bear to part with it. He didn't."

"No? But how could he retain it?"

"Quite easily. The copy was quite faithful, but still it was a copy. But secretly Van Sneck makes a copy that would deceive everybody but an expert, and this he hands over to——"

"To Henson as the real ring," Rawlins cried, excitedly.

Chris smiled, a little pleased at her acumen.

"Precisely," she said. "I see that you are inclined to be of my opinion."

"Well, upon my word, I am," Rawlins confessed. "But I don't quite see why——"

"Please let me finish," Chris went on, excitedly. "Reginald Henson is driven back on his last trenches. He has to get the ring for Lord Littlmer. He takes out the ring after all these years, never dreaming that Van Sneck would dare to play such a trick upon him, and finds out the forgery. Did you ever see that man when he is really angry?"

"He is not pretty then," Rawlins said.

"Pretty! He is murder personified. Kindly try to imagine his feelings when he discovers he has been deceived. Mind you, this is only a theory of mine, but I feel certain that it will prove correct. Henson's last hope is snatched away from him. But he does not go straight to Van Sneck and accuse him of his duplicity. He knows that Van Sneck stole the ring for sheer love of the gem, and that he would not dare to part with it. He assumes that the ring is in Van Sneck's possession. And when Van Sneck threatened to expose part of the business to Mr. Steel, Henson makes no attempt to soothe him. Why? Because he sees a cunning way of getting back the ring. He himself lures Van Sneck to Mr. Steel's house, and there he almost murders him for the sake of the ring. Of course, he meant to kill Van Sneck in such a way that the blame could not possibly fall upon him."

"Can you prove that he knew anything about it?"

"I can prove that he knew who Van Sneck was at a time when the hospital people were doing their best to identify the man. And I know how fearfully uneasy he was when he got to know that some of us were aware who Van Sneck was. It has been a pretty tangle for a long time, but the skein is all coming out smoothly at last. And if we could get the ring which Henson forced by violence from Van Sneck ——"

"Excuse me. He did nothing of the kind."

Chris looked up eagerly.

"Oh," she cried, "have you more to tell me, then?"

"Nothing authentic," Rawlins said; "merely surmise. Van Sneck is going to recover. If he does it will be hard for Henson, who ought to get away with his plunder at once. Why doesn't he go and blackmail Lord Littlmer and sell him the ring and clear out of the country? He doesn't do so because the ring is not yet in his possession."

"Then you imagine that Van Sneck ——"

"Still has the ring probably in his possession at the present moment. If you only knew where Van Sneck happened to be."

Chris rose to her feet with an excited cry.

"I do know," she exclaimed; "he is in the house where he was half murdered. And Mr. Steel shall know all this before he sleeps to-night."

CHAPTER LI.

Bell's sanguine expectation that Van Sneck would be ready for an immediate operation was not quite correct. As the day wore on the man seemed more feverish and restless, which feverishness was followed by a certain want of strength. After due deliberation Dr. Cross suggested that the operation should be postponed for a day or two.

"The man is out of our hands," he said. "You have identified him, and you desire that he should remain here. It is pretty irregular altogether. And I hope I shan't get into trouble over it. Still, in such capable hands as yours ——"

Bell acknowledged the compliment with a smile.

"Between Heritage and myself," he said, "we shall pull him through, eh, Heritage?"

The other doctor nodded brightly. For some little time he had been directly under Bell's influence, and that had meant a marvellous change for the better. He had lost a deal of his hesitating manner, and was looking forward to the operation with the keenest interest.

"However, I will put you all right," Bell said. "I fancy the time has come when we can confide to a certain extent in Marley. And if the police approve of Van Sneck being here, I don't see that you can say any more."

Cross was emphatically of the same opinion. Later on, in the course of a long interview with Marley, Bell and Steel opened the latter's eyes to a considerable extent.

"Well, I must congratulate you, sir," he said to Steel. "I'm bound to confess that things looked pretty black against you at one time. Indeed, I should have been fully justified in arresting you for the attempted murder of Van Sneck."

"But you never deemed me guilty, Marley?"

"No, I didn't," Marley said, thoughtfully. "I argued in your favor against my better judgment. I gather even now that there is a great deal for me to know."

"And which you are not going to learn," Bell said, drily. "When we have Van Sneck all right again, and ready to swear to the author of the mischief, you will have to be satisfied."

"That would satisfy me, sir. And I'm glad that cigar-case mystery is settled. You'll let me know how the operation goes on?"

Steel promised to do so, and the two returned to Downend Terrace together. They found Heritage a little excited and disturbed.

"Do you know I have had a visitor?" he exclaimed.

Bell started slightly. He looked just a little anxious.

"I'm going to guess it at once," he said. "Reginald Henson has been here."

"You are certainly a wonderful fellow," Heritage said, admiringly. "Nobody else could possibly have guessed that. He came to see me, of course."

"Oh, of course," Bell said, drily. "Naturally, he would have no ulterior motive. Did he happen to know that we had a kind of patient under the roof?"

Heritage explained that Henson seemed to know something about it. Also, by singular coincidence, he had met Van Sneck abroad. He expressed a desire to see the patient, but Heritage's professional caution had got the better of his friendship for once. Henson had given way finally, saying that he hoped to call again later in the day.

"It's a good thing you were firm," Bell said, grimly. "Otherwise there would have been no need for an operation on Van Sneck. My dear Heritage, it's quite time your eyes were opened to the true nature of your friend. Henson watched Steel and myself out of the house. He wanted to see Van Sneck; he has probably known from the first that the latter was here."

"Matter of philanthropy, perhaps," Heritage suggested.

"A matter of murder," Bell said, sternly. "My dear fellow, Van Sneck was nearly done to death in yonder conservatory, and his would-be assassin was Reginald Henson."

"I was never more astounded in my life," gasped Heritage. "I have always looked upon Henson as the soul of honor and integrity. And he has always been so kind to me."

"For his own purposes, no doubt. You say that he found you a home after your misfortunes came upon you. He came to see you frequently. And yet he always harped upon that wretched hallucination of yours. Why? Because you were the Carfax family doctor for a time, and at any moment you might have given valuable information concerning the suicide of Claire Carfax. Tell Heritage the story of Prince Rupert's ring, Steel."

David proceeded to do so at some length. Heritage appeared to be deeply interested. And gradually many long-forgotten things came back to him.

"I recollect it all perfectly well," he said. "Miss Carfax and myself were friends. Like most people with badly balanced intellects, she had her brilliant moments. Why, she showed me that ring with a great deal of pride, but she did not tell me its history. She was very strange in her manner that morning; indeed, I warned her father that she wanted to be most carefully looked after."

"Did she say how she got the ring?" Steel asked.

Heritage did not answer for a moment.

"Oh, yes," he said, presently. "She said it was a present from a good boy, and that Reginald Henson had given it her in an envelope. I met Henson close by, but I didn't mention the ring."

"And there you have the whole thing in a nutshell!" Bell exclaimed. "Nothing of this came out at the inquest, because the ring story was hushed up, and Heritage was not called because he had nothing to do with the suicide. But Henson probably saw poor Claire Carfax show you the ring, and he got a bit frightened, and he kept an eye upon you afterwards. When you broke down he looked after you, and he took precious good care to keep your hallucination always before your eyes. Whenever he came to see you he always did that."

"You are quite right there," Heritage admitted. "He mentioned it this afternoon when I said I was going to take part in the operation on Van Sneck. He asked me if I thought it wise to try my nerves so soon again with the electric light."

"And I hope you told him he was talking nonsense," Bell said, hastily. "There, let us change the subject. The mere mention of that man's name stifles me."

Morning brought a long letter from Chris Henson to David, giving him in detail the result of her recent interview with John Rawlins. There was a postscript to the letter which David showed to Bell with a certain malicious glee.

"A nasty one for our friend Henson," he said. "What a sweet surprise it will be for that picturesque gentleman the next time he goes blackmailing to Longdean Grange."

Bell chuckled in his turn. The net was drawing very close about Henson.

"How is Van Sneck to-day" David asked.

"Much better," Bell replied. "I propose to operate to-night. I'm glad to hear that your mother is going to be away a day or two longer."

Heritage appeared to be ready and eager for the work before him. A specially powerful electric light had been rigged up in connection with the study lamp, and an operating table improvised from the kitchen. More than once Bell looked eagerly at Heritage, but the latter stood the scrutiny bravely. Once the operation was successfully through, Heritage would never suffer from hallucinations again.

"I fancy everything is ready now," Bell said, at length. "After dinner to-night and this thing will be done. Then the story will be told——"

"Mr. Reginald Henson to see you, sir."

Will be continued next Saturday.

PSYCHINE

(PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

Used in Thousands of Homes in Canada

THOSE WHO don't know what Psychine is and what it does are asking about it.
THOSE WHO do know what Psychine is and what it does are using it. They regard it as their best physician and friend.
THOSE WHO use it are being quickly and permanently cured of all forms of throat, chest, lung and stomach troubles. It is a scientific preparation, destroying all disease germs in the blood and system. It is a wonderful tonic and system building remedy, and is a certain cure for:

COUGHS,	Bronchial Coughs,
LA GRIPPE,	Chills and Fever,
Colds,	Difficult Breathing,
Pneumonia,	General Weakness
Bronchitis,	Female Troubles,
Catarrh,	Fickle Appetite,
Weak Voice,	Hemorrhages,
Sleeplessness,	Night Sweats,
Nervousness,	Consumption,
Malaria,	Catarrh of the Stomach.
Anaemia,

All these diseases are serious in themselves, and if not promptly cured in the early stages are the certain forerunners of Consumption in its most terrible forms. Psychine conquers and cures Consumption, but it is much easier and safer to prevent its development by using Psychine. Here is a sample of thousands of voluntary and unsolicited statements from all over Canada:

Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited:
Gentlemen,—I feel it my duty to advise you of the remarkable cure affected by your Psychine and Oxomulsion, which have come under my personal observation. Three men, well known to me, Albert Townsend, Hazel Hipson and John McKay, all of Shelburne County, were pronounced by the best medical men to have consumption, and to be incurable and beyond the reach of medical aid. They used Psychine and Oxomulsion, and they are now in good health.
I feel it entirely I owe to suffering humanity to state these facts for the benefit of other sufferers from this terrible disease.
Yours very truly,
ALEXANDER McKENZIE, J.P.,

ELELYN THAW AGAIN ON THE STAND

Central Figure Still In Great New York Murder Trial.

WHITE'S COILS ABOUT HER

Concocted Scandals to Poison Her Mind to Turn Her Against Prisoner —Architect's Reason for Sending Her to School — His Intrigues With Abe Hummel — Jerome On Having Dead Besmirched.

New York, Feb. 9.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw again yesterday was the central figure at her husband's trial. She was still on the stand—her direct examination unfinished—when the usual week-end adjournment until Monday morning was taken.

Picking up the threads of her life-story where she dropped them the evening before, the girl-wife of the defendant—always, she declared, telling her story just as she related it to Harry Thaw from time to time—brought the narrative down to her wedding in Pittsburg on April 4, 1905, and their return to New York following a honeymoon trip in the west.

While yesterday's testimony was lacking in the personal quality which made Thursday's recital so dramatic, so enthralling and pathetic, it served to clear away some of the doubts and inferences which remained as to the full extent of the revelations Mrs. Thaw says she made to her husband.

Thaw Honorable to Girl.

The evidence for much of the day consisted mainly of the identification by her of various letters written by her husband. If the genuineness of these communications is not disproven at a later stage, they will do much to prove that Thaw was scrupulously honorable in his dealings with the girl of whom he was enamored, now his wife. Thaw has been regarded generally as having been a worthless young fellow of wealth, who never did an honest day's work; who was wild and vicious in his habits, and overbearing in his manner. These letters indicate that towards Evelyn Nesbit he was always gentle and patient; that she appealed to all that was best in his nature, and that he desired to shield her from those who would harm her by conduct or slander.

Believed Her Most Good.

"I always believed you most good," he declared in one of several rather incoherent epistles. His reverence for her, and rapt devotion to her, are evident in many passages. In one place he declared he had not been seeing other girls as she wished him not to, except by accident. He also protested his faithfulness, that he never used morphine, and that he never lied to her. Speaking of himself in a letter to her he said, "Yesterday he saw you believed everything false people told you as you did before, but as you are absolutely honest he would do you no harm ever for it, only he was sorry. He won't trouble you at all, as he would do anything for you." He then called her his "ill-advised angel." Later he told her "You know I have always treated you with perfect respect," and "I want you to know I shall never hurt you."

The Hummel Affair.

After the letter reading, Mr. Delmas returned to the direct examination of Mrs. Thaw.

"Did you tell Harry Thaw of an episode in your life connected with Stanford White and Abraham Hummel in New York between your return from Paris in 1903 until Christmas Eve of that year?" he asked.

"No," replied the witness. "I did not tell him until later." She had arrived from Europe in October, 1903, and she told Thaw early in 1904, in January. She said: "He asked me how I came to speak to Stanford White after my return from Europe. I told him I was driving down Fifth avenue one day in a hansom cab with my maid, and we passed Stanford White. I heard him exclaim: 'Oh, look at Evelyn!' A few days later I was called to the 'phone, and it was Mr. White. I told him I could not see him. He said he had had much trouble with my family and must see me. He said it was a matter of life and death.

"So he came to see me at the Hotel Savoy. When he came in he tried to kiss me, but I did not let him. He asked me what was the matter. I told him to sit down and asked him again if my mother was ill. He said no, and at once began to talk about Harry Thaw. He told me that different actresses had told him that I was in Europe with Harry Thaw. He said positively that Harry Thaw took morphine, that he was not even a gentleman, and that I must have nothing to do with him.

White Couldn't Let Her Be.

"After that he came constantly to see me. He also sent people to me, who told me stories about Mr. Thaw; the stories I told yesterday. I told Mr. White I didn't want to see Mr. Thaw. One day Mr. White telephoned me that he was going to send a carriage for me. He said he was taking me to see Abe Hummel, the greatest lawyer in New York, who would protect me from Harry Thaw. He said I was not to be afraid of Mr. Hummel, he was a little man with a big, bald head, warts on his face and very ugly. Mr. Hummel's office walls were covered with photographs of actresses, with writing on them. He asked me how I came to go to Europe with Harry Thaw, and I told him that I didn't, I went with my mother and Thaw followed us. He asked me about my quarrel with my mother in London. I said it was a continuous quarrel between us; we simply couldn't get along. She wanted to come home to America, and I said she could come, but I was going to stay there and return to the stage, but the doctor told me I couldn't dance for a year. He said I was a minor, and that Thaw should have been more careful. He said he had a case in his office against Thaw, but the woman in the case was a very bad one. Then he said Thaw was a very bad man, and, above all things, I must be protected from him. Mr. White then said what he wanted was to get Harry Thaw out of New York and keep him out, and said I must leave everything in Mr. Hummel's hands.

Dictated a Statement.

"Then they sent for a stenographer, and the lawyer said I must not interrupt him in what he was about to say. I was very nervous and excited, and I think I began to cry. Then they began to dictate and put in a lot of stuff that I had been carried away by Harry Thaw against my will. I started to interrupt, but the lawyer put up his hands and stopped me.

"Several days later Mr. Hummel called me up and asked if I had any letters from Mr. Thaw. I said I did, but I couldn't see what that had to do with it. Mr. White also called up and said if I wasn't willing to help in every way they couldn't protect me from Mr. Thaw. He said I must do just what Mr. Hummel said. So I made the letters up in a bundle and took them down to Mr. Hummel's office. He said he just wanted to hold them over Harry Thaw's head.

"Then he asked me why I didn't sue Harry Thaw for breach of promise. I said that that was absurd, for, if there had been any breach of promise it was on my part. He said that didn't matter. Mr. Hummel said a breach of promise suit would be a fine advertisement for me. I said I didn't want to sue anybody. This made Mr. Hummel very mad and angry and he told me I was foolish."

She Signed Nothing.

"Mr. Thaw asked me if I had signed anything in Mr. Hummel's office, and I said I had not. He said that was funny, for if they wanted to cause trouble I must have signed something. I said I had signed absolutely nothing in Mr. Hummel's office, Mr. Thaw said Hummel was a shyster and I asked him what that meant. He said Mr Hummel was a disreputable man and no decent lawyer would have anything to do with him; that he was a blackmailer."

"What happened next?" asked Mr. Delmas.

Mrs. Thaw said, "A reputable lawyer" came to see her. She was not allowed to state the name, but it is generally understood to be Mr. Longfellow, the Thaw family attorney.

"Mr. Thaw and I talked frequently about the matter, and Mr. Thaw said I had no business speaking to Mr. White again. He accused me of having had improper relations with Mr. White since my return from Europe. I said it was a lie, that I had not. He then said people would think me a blackmailer if I went to Mr. Hummel's office. He said the mere fact that Mr. White had Mr. Hummel as a lawyer was against Mr. White.

Hummel Bled White.

"One night later in November of 1903, Mr. White came to my hotel, greatly excited. He just walked up and down and ran his fingers through his hair for a time and then came and sat down beside me on a trunk and said: 'My dear child, what in the world have you told Abe Hummel about me?'

"I said I had told him nothing, except when he was threatening to bring suit against Mr. Thaw, when I told him he had better look out because Harry Thaw knew a lot of dreadful things about Mr. White. Mr. White then said: 'Well, Hummel has just squeezed a thousand dollars out of be, and the Lord only knows how soon he will squeeze another.'

"Soon after this I remember having ing signed some paper for Mr. White at his office in the tower of Madison Square Garden. I began to wonder when it was and telephoned Mr. White and asked him what the papers contained. He took me to Mr. Hummel's office. When a boy brought it in I reached for it, but Mr. White got it first. Then they turned the paper down so I could see my signature. Mr. Hummel got some matches and burned the paper. As soon as I saw Mr. Thaw I told him all about it."

How Thaw Showed His Love.

"When you met Mr. Thaw in Europe in what way did he show you his love for you?"

"He took me driving every day, he carried me up and down stairs when I couldn't walk, and sent me fruit and flowers. He was very kind and attentive to me."

Mrs. Thaw said she was married April 4, 1905. Before this she persistently refused him because of her relations with White.

"Did Mr. Thaw, while you were in London, take you to see the Countess of Yarmouth?"

"Yes. She received me very kindly," she said.

"The first time I saw Stanford White after my marriage," resumed Mrs. Thaw, "was on Fifth avenue. I was driving in a cab, and as I passed him I distinctly heard him call out, 'Evelyn,' but I did not reply. I went back to the hotel and told Mr. Thaw. He made me promise never to speak to Stanford White and to tell him whenever I saw him."

"When did you next tell Mr. Thaw that you had seen Mr. White?"

"Some time later. It was on Fifth avenue again. He did not speak, but stared and stared. I was so nervous I got into the cab without looking to right or left, and drove back to the Hotel Lorraine, where I told Mr. Thaw. He was much excited. He walked up and down and bit his nails."

Witness related other like instances which added fuel to the flame in Harry Thaw's mind, and said that the reason Stanford White had sent her to school was because he realized that his attentions to her were hopeless.

Maligning the Dead.

At one stage, District Attorney Jerome protested against this defamation of the dead.

"I appeal to your honor," said the district attorney, "that this has gone far enough. Are there no limits to which the defamation of the dead may go? The prosecution has no chance to controvert one word of this testimony, and Stanford White is dead."

"Your honor," replied Mr. Delmas, "we contend that, in proving the state of this man's mind, we have the undoubted right to introduce evidence which tends to show that fresh fuel was added to the fire in things this defendant heard from other sources. We will produce documentary evidence executed by Thaw himself, showing his condition. I have no desire to say one word against the memory of Stanford White that my duty does not compel me to say. My duty is to the living."

To this Mr. Jerome replied: "So far we have not the slightest evidence to show that the defendant was ever of unsound mind in his life. If there is evidence of the insanity of the defendant it should be introduced now, before this loose tattle of the Tenderloin goes on—tattle that, under the law, we are not allowed to controvert."

Justice Fitzgerald said the suggestion was a good one, and explained to the jury the legal provision, which, where insanity is pleaded as a defence, prevents the prosecution from controverting any statements made to the defendant.

Cockfight Near Oakville.

Hamilton, Feb. 9.—The police were notified last evening that a big cockfight was in progress near Oakville, and that enough Hamilton sports to fill special Radial cars had gone down to the scene of action. The police took no steps to interfere, on the ground that the offence was committed outside of their jurisdiction.

Bert Marshall, Aberdeen avenue, a well-known young man, was arrested last evening on the charge of seduction. The complainant is Miss May Wilson.

St. George's Baking Powder

There, Madam! That's the name of the new Baking-Powder I have been telling you about — and it's a pure Cream of Tartar Baking-Powder.

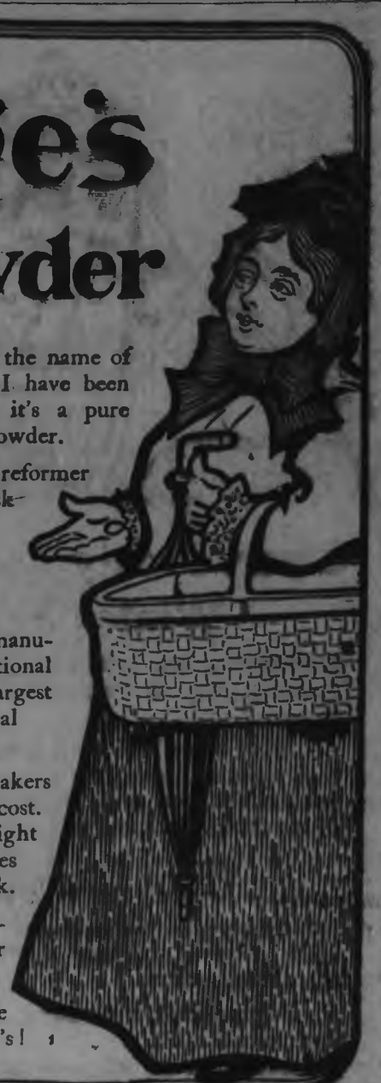
You may call me a pure-food reformer if you like—but I don't like to ask anybody else to eat what I would not eat myself—and I don't want to eat the adulterations that are put in some Baking-Powders.

St. George's Baking-Powder is manufactured here in Canada, by The National Drug & Chemical Co., Limited—the largest wholesale and manufacturing chemical house in Canada.

There's no duty to pay, and so the makers dont need to adulterate it to reduce the cost. Then, the fact that the makers are right here, where we can reach them, insures their keeping the goods up to the mark.

You know, I keep the best of everything, and St. George's Baking-Powder is what I recommend every time.

Thank you! That one can will make you a permanent customer for St. George's!



THE PREMIER'S BILL.

Meets Opposition From Liberal Leader and Labor Man—Both Express the Same Views.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—A short but interesting discussion on the Premier's motion for the second reading of his bill to amend the manhood suffrage registration act by making it applicable only to cities was the feature of yesterday afternoon's sitting of the Legislature. Mr. Graham opposed the measure, and urged extension rather than restriction of registration, as did also Mr. Studholme, the Labor member. The latter also placed himself on record as in favor of compulsory voting and the extension of the suffrage to women.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane gave notice of bills "to supplement the revenues of the Crown" (this is the mining tax bill) and "to amend the mines act."

To Settle Bridge Disputes.

Mr. Hoyle introduced a bill to amend the municipal act by providing that in the case of a dispute between a County Council and a local municipality as to a bridge becoming a county bridge the matter may be referred to the county judge instead of proceedings being taken by mandamus.

The Speaker took occasion to draw the attention of members to the rule requiring at least two days' notice of bills to be introduced for the first time.

York County Loan Affairs.

Hon. Mr. Foy, answering Mr. McCoig, said he would inquire of the liquidator of the York County Loan & Savings Co. what information could now be given as to the present condition of the affairs of that concern, and as to when subscribers might expect a distribution of the assets.

To Mr. McKay, who asked the question in the absence of Mr. Harcourt, the Premier said there had been no representations to the Government with the "object of encouraging county or other municipalities in erecting and maintaining hospitals or sanitariums, imposing such conditions (making special provision for the care of consumptives, for example) as are deemed advisable," and the matter had not been considered.

To Amend Registry Act.

The bill introduced by Mr. Thompson (Simcoe), to amend the registry act by making it clear that liens on railways can be registered in the general registry office, was advanced a stage. On Hon. Mr. Foy's suggestion the bill goes to the Legal Committee. The Attorney-General said the Government intended introducing a measure embodying what they believed to be necessary amendments to the registry act.

Volunteers' Land Grant Act.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane's bill amending the volunteers' land grant act by extending the time for applications for locations to the end of the present year was put through committee stages and will be read a third time on Tuesday.

Tangier, Feb. 9.—The insurgent chief, Zelial, in whose fortress Raisuli sought refuge, came in yesterday and tendered his submission.

ALL RUN DOWN

Weak---Nervous---Unstrung.

Thousands get run down and become invalids before they realize anything is wrong. By permitting low vitality to develop, the way is paved for fevers, pneumonia and diphtheria. To put off makes it all the harder to get well. The time to repair the system is right now, before the damage gets any worse. The remedy is Ferrozone; it revitalizes, renews, builds up vitality that outlasts old age.

FERROZONE is a genuine invigorator that banishes weakness, and instils surplus force and vigor into every organ of the body. Ferrozone sharpens the appetite, produces rich nutritious blood, and thereby contributes that sense of buoyancy that adds so enormously to one's pleasure and usefulness in life.

For all forms of debility, weakness, lack of blood or nerve tone, sleeplessness, tiredness and exhaustion, there is no medicine so vitalizing and potent as Ferrozone. Even one trial demonstrates its rapidly and certainty of action.

To restore the energy of youth, to get back your vital stamina and reserve force, there is positively no treatment so certain as Ferrozone. You have only to try Ferrozone to know the enormous benefit it invariably brings to all in poor health.

FERROZONE

Miss Dorothy E. Leduc of Chester gives the following convincing evidence of Ferrozone's power:—"My work compels me to rise early in the morning and work ten hours daily as a saleslady. Last Spring I was run down, lost my color, and fell off in weight. I seemed to lack ambition and the life was out of me. A friend recommended Ferrozone, and I took one tablet after meals, with wonderful results. Ferrozone brought back my complexion, and has given me new strength and abundance of energy and spirits. I would advise all young ladies to use Ferrozone."

Mrs. H. G. Wilder of Dexter says:—"My daughter was not very well last Winter, and lost her strength completely when the Spring came. I gave her Ferrozone, and am glad to say it did wonders. After six boxes were used my daughter was strong, and looked the picture of health."

Gave New Strength

FERROZONE

It makes the weak strong, the sick well, and assures lasting good health.

WARNING—Beware of any substitute for Ferrozone; it alone can cure you. Sold by all druggists and dealers in medicine, only in 50c boxes containing 50 chocolate-coated tablets. By mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

Clear, Frosty Winter Weather

Is so bracing, and invigorating that it often tends to over exertion, without our being aware of it.

Most of us lead such sedentary lives that when we take much exercise we often feel fatigued and depressed instead of refreshed. At such times a cup of will supply the nourishment, and stimulation required, sending a glow through the entire system.

For a change, try it some time with a dash of cold milk.

Add milk to suit your taste as if you were preparing a cup of tea.

SPOILS SYSTEM IS CRITISIZED

How It Operates In South Essex Told By Mr. Auld.

A TRENCHANT CRITICISM

Severe Treatment of Former Justices of the Peace by Whitney Administration — Qualifications of New Appointees Questioned — Veterans' Land Grants—Time for Applications is Extended.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The spoils system as put into effect by the Government will evidently be the subject of trenchant criticism by the Opposition during the present session of the Legislature. Mr. Auld (South Essex) started the ball rolling yesterday afternoon when he spoke to a motion relative to Justices of the Peace in Essex County. Mr. Auld was particularly severe in his criticism of the treatment of former Justices in his own riding, and of the qualifications of a number of those appointed by the present Administration, mentioning a hog-stealing charge in connection with one of them. Mr. Auld asked for a return showing: (1) List of names of police magistrates and justices of the peace in and for the County of Essex on Jan. 31, 1905; (2) list of names of police magistrates and justices of the peace in and for the County of Essex appointed since Feb. 1, 1905; (3) names of those who have qualified as police magistrates, or justices of the peace, in the County of Essex; (4) list of names of those who have been dropped from the list of justices of the peace for the County of Essex since Feb. 1, 1905.

Hon. Mr. Foy said there was no such thing as "dropping" justices of the peace. When a new commission of the peace is issued the law states that those on the old commission shall cease to act. Mr. Foy had heard no complaints about the character or qualifications of the men appointed.

Mr. Auld took exception to some of the views expressed by the Attorney-General, and declared that many Conservatives in South Essex did not approve of the action of the Government in this matter. He agreed to the amendment to strike out the 4th clause, and the motion was then carried.

Division Court Clerks.

Mr. Munro asked for a return showing: (1) The number of division courts in the province; (2) how many division court clerks have resigned between Feb. 7, 1905, and Feb. 1, 1907; (3) how many division court clerks have been removed from office between the said dates; the names of such persons and the cause of removal; (4) how many division court bailiffs have resigned between Feb. 7, 1905, and Feb. 1, 1907; (5) how many division court bailiffs have been removed from office between said dates; the names of such persons and the cause of removal. The order was granted.

Mr. Hoyle asked for a return of the counties that had adopted the alternative method of selecting jurors under the amendment of 1902 to the Jurors' Act; a comparative statement of expenses under the two systems from 1902 to 1906; and the counties which had repealed the alternative method. The order was granted.

Algoma Central Settlers.

Mr. Smith (Sault Ste. Marie) moved for a return showing the number and names of the settlers located in the Township of Gandette and Hodgins in the District of Algoma since the year 1900. Mr. Smith said the settlers had done settlement duties, but could not get patents from the railway. He understood that the railway was willing that the Government should grant these patents.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane said the matter had not been brought to his attention, either by the settlers or the railway, but as soon as it was he would give the matter his attention.

Volunteers' Grants.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Volunteer Land Grants Act, explaining that the object was to extend the time during which veterans may apply to the end of the year.

The Premier added that he had received a letter from a man in a remote corner of the Yukon, saying that there were two veterans there who had neglected the opportunity to apply.

The Premier also moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Manhood Suffrage Registration Act. The bill, he said, was not printed, and he would, therefore, ask that the discussion be deferred.

On motion of the Premier and Mr. Foy, Messrs. Gamey, Jameson and May were added to the special committee on the bill to amend the Ontario Companies' Act.

Three-Fifths Clause.

A number of petitions were presented asking for the repeal of the three-fifths clause of the local option law. These were greeted ironically with cries of "Carried!" Hon. J. J. Foy had charge of one of these petitions.

In reply to Mr. Preston of Brant, Hon. Dr. Pyne, said Mr. Snow, commissioner appointed to investigate charges preferred against officials of the Ontario Institute for the Blind, had not yet made his report to the Government.

First Readings.

The following bills were read a first time:

Mr. Clark (Bruce)—To amend the Ontario Election Act, and to amend the Manhood Registration Act.

Mr. Sutherland—To amend the Ontario Game Protection Act.

Mr. Clapp—To amend the Municipal Act.

Your Doctor

Can cure your Cough or Cold, no question about that, but—why go to all the trouble and inconvenience of looking him up, and then of having his prescription filled, when you can step into any drug store in Canada and obtain a bottle of SHILOH'S CURE for a quarter.

Why pay two to five dollars when a twenty-five cent bottle of SHILOH will cure you as quickly?

Why not do as hundreds of thousands of Canadians have done for the past thirty-four years: let SHILOH be your doctor whenever a Cough or Cold appears.

SHILOH will cure you, and all druggists back up this statement with a positive guarantee.

KINGSTON SCHOOL OF MINING.

Government Will Help In Maintenance and Encourage Graduates.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—Sixty members of the Ontario Legislature officially visited Kingston, yesterday by special train to inspect the School of Mining and Agriculture in that city. The Parliamentary party arrived at Kingston at 2 p. m. and were received at the station by Principal Gordon and others. A luncheon followed the inspection. At the luncheon Hon. Col. Matheson advised the university authorities to try and build the school themselves, and the Government would doubtless put it on a good basis for maintenance and equipment. Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Mines, favored the school, and will bring in a bill to encourage the refining of ores in the province as an aid to schools of mining and their graduates.

MRS. PURVIS SUES INNKEEPERS.

Supplied Liquor to Husband Just Before He Was Killed.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—A writ has been issued, claiming $1,000, by the widow of John Purvis of Winchester Village, against A. & E. MacDonald of the Bower House.

It is alleged that they supplied the deceased with intoxicating liquor and caused him, under its influence, to come to his death. He was thrown from a rig and injured his spine.

KILLED THREE MEN.

Ice In Boiler Near Selby Village Causes It to Explode.

Napanee, Feb. 8.—Early yesterday morning near Selby Village, four miles north of this town, Wilbur Bush, Stanley Raymond and Chas. Boyd were killed.

They had built a fire in a traction engine, which they were using to get power to run a circular saw.

It is supposed the engine tubes had frozen during the night, and when the fire was started the ice did not melt fast enough to allow the steam to escape, causing an explosion.

Two of the men were thrown about 50 feet, and all were badly mangled.

DEATH OF VISCOUNT GOSCHEN.

One-Time Lord of the Admiralty Is Suddenly Called.

London, Feb. 8.—Right Hon. George Joachim Goschen (Viscount Goschen) died suddenly yesterday morning at his residence, Seacox Heath, Hawkhurst, of heart failure. His death was quite unexpected.

Viscount Goschen, who was born in 1831, had a distinguished public career. He was chancellor of the exchequer in Lord Salisbury's second administration, and afterwards was first lord of admiralty, serving in this capacity for five years.

Lady Grenfell's Funeral Private.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Just a simple ceremony at Government House preceded the departure of the remains of the late Lady Victoria Grenfell to the Central Depot en route to St. John. The time and arrangements were kept secret, and everything was private.

Killed When Hack Upset.

London, Feb. 7.—Frank Chantler, cattle buyer, was instantly killed early yesterday morning as a result of a dispute with a hack driver. Chantler insisted on driving the hack and in attempting to turn around at the rear of a house upset the vehicle and was caught beneath it. His neck was broken.

Strike Off.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 7.—The strike at Sydney coal mines has been settled. All the non-union men are joining P. W. A. and work is to be resumed to-day.

Kicked by a Horse.

Hamilton, Feb. 7.—Samuel Quance, Elfrado, was kicked on the face by a horse yesterday. It is feared that one eye was destroyed. His nose was broken.

Government Sustained On Robbins Irrigation Deal.

MR. A. K. MACLEAN'S SPEECH

An Able Effort In Defence of the Grant In Reply to Mr. Borden's Plea for Government Control of Irrigation—Mr. Bourassa Votes With the Opposition—$50,000 Grant to the Jamaica Sufferers.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—By 86 votes to 53 the amendment submitted by Mr. McCarthy (Calgary) condemning the Robbins Irrigation Co. transaction was defeated in the House of Commons last night, after a spirited debate extending over six hours.

The only member on the Government side who supported the amendment was Mr. Bourassa.

The attack on the Government was renewed by Mr. Lake, who protested against the system of granting leases to political friends. Speeches by Mr. Macpherson, Mr. Herron and Mr. Carvell followed, and then the leader of the Opposition intervened. Mr. Borden's contribution was substantially a plea for Government control of irrigation.

Mr. Maclean's Able Speech.

The task of replying to the leader of the Opposition devolved upon Mr. A. K. Maclean (Lunenburg), and he enhanced his reputation as a debater by delivering a speech which carried the praise even of his opponents.

The only other feature of the debate was the contribution of Mr. Bourassa, who supported the amendment on the ground that the promoters of the irrigation scheme took advantage of the complacency of the Government on the one hand and of the British investor on the other, and sought to make the settler pay for both.

At the conclusion of the debate a grant of $50,000 in aid of the Kingston sufferers was passed, and sent to the Senate to be confirmed.

The Colonial Conference.

Mr. Monk inquired whether the Government had received any intimation from the Imperial authorities as to the subjects which would be discussed at the coming Colonial Conference, and, if so, what were the subjects.

The Premier replied that it was impossible to give the information desired in the form of an answer to a question. All the correspondence on the subject would be brought down at an early date.

Hon. Mr. Templeman gave notice that on Monday next he would submit a resolution affirming the expediency of bringing in a measure providing for the inspection and regulation of sale of proprietary and patent medicines.

Replying to Mr. R. L. Borden, Hon. Mr. Aylesworth stated that the bill amending the election act, promised in the speech from the throne, was under consideration. It was a matter of considerable difficulty, and he was, therefore, not able to name any definite date at which the measure might be introduced.

AGREE ON THE CHARGE.

That There Is General Overcrowding on Toronto Street Cars.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—"We have made up our minds already that there is general overcrowding. The city has outgrown the street railway system. The point now is: Find the remedy. The people must be carried."

Chairman Leitch, speaking as above at the conclusion of yesterday's sitting of the Ontario Railway Board, gave a hopeful indication that the city's appeal to the board will be successful. The session wound up the city's case for the present.

Mr. Osler, for the company, wanted three weeks to prepare the company's defence, and the board agreed to allow a fortnight. The hearing will, therefore, be resumed on Feb. 21.

Mayor Sent For Trial.

Brantford, Feb. 8.—Mayor Bowlby was yesterday committed for trial on the charge of libel to injure the personal reputation of A. G. Montgomery and tending to make him a subject of hate and scorn. The magistrate said that the libel was not necessarily the circular issued, but matters similar to the one left with Buskard by defendant, and which Buskard thought very much like the printed circular.

Mayor Bowlby objected to the amending of the information and may try to upset the decision.

Killed By Falling Tree.

Peterboro, Feb. 8.—Albert Condon, a 17 year old boy, son of J. R. Condon of Douro, was fatally injured yesterday while engaged in cutting down a tree. The tree fell unexpectedly. Young Condon fell over a sapling and the tree dropped on him, injuring him about the head.

The Natural Cure For Rheumatism

"Fruit-a-tives" remove from the blood the poison which causes Rheumatism.

Rheumatism means poisoned blood. The kidneys, bowels and skin should rid the system of waste matter. If either of these vital organs become weakened or diseased, the body cannot throw off this waste fast enough.

"Fruit-a-tives" will cure almost any case of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia.

One of these body poisons is UREA, which is eliminated both by the kidneys and skin. If the skin action is poor—if the kidneys are inflammed—urea stays in the system—is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to the nerves and joints—and causes Rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Rheumatism because they eliminate urea, by increasing the action of bowels, kidneys and skin.

This is the only possible way in which Rheumatism can be cured to stay cured. And "Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world that completely eradicates the disease from the system.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in which the natural medicinal action of fruit is many time increased by the process of combining them.

Then tonics and antiseptics are added and the whole made into tablets 25c. a box—6 for $2.50. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa. 111

INDIAN EMPIRE IS LOYAL

VIEWS OF PUNJAB JOURNALIST ON TOUR AROUND WORLD.

Impoverishment of People Due to Lack of Technical Education—Why People of India Sympathized With Japan In Late War With Russia—An Interesting Newspaper Personality In Canada.

An interesting personality, S. N. Sing, journalist, of Rawal Pindi, Punjab, Indian, is at present in Canada. As a writer for The Indian Review and a syndicate of Indian newspapers and journals he is on a tour of the world. Since leaving India 16 months ago he has traveled 75,000 miles, and has visited every Asiatic country on this side of India. He has also traveled in the United States and in Canada from coast to coast, during which he has addressed several clubs on invitation in the cities of the Canadian West. Educated at the State University of Punjab and under special tutors, Mr. Sing is the possessor of a highly-trained intellect. His life work, he declares, is devoted to the nationalization of India and the uniformity of caste, creed, and color.

"The Indian people," he said, "are more loyal to the British Empire than the people of Canada. Their loyalty is supported by their traditional and religious veneration of an Emperor. They are agitating for a greater measure of self-government, it is true, but it is a constitutional agitation, and the change will finally be brought about without bloodshed. They occupy much the same position in that respect as did the people of Canada fifty years ago. Just as Canada has remained an integral part of the British Empire while enjoying the largest possible measure of freedom, so will a self-governed India remain true to that Empire."

Speaking of the importation of Hindoo coolies into British Columbia. Mr. Sing said: "I have spent two months investigating the condition of Indian immigration in that province. They have been grossly misrepresented by certain interested parties and newspapers in British Columbia, and have been disgracefully treated.

Mr. Sing explained the enthusiasm of the Indian people at the Japanese victory over Russia. The Japanese were the allies of the British, and, therefore, enlisted Indian sympathy. They were glad also to see a rising young nation successful, and a third reason was that they wanted to see a vindication of the Asiatic races, which had been despised by European nations as inferior. The most potent reason of all, however, was that there had long been rumors of a Russian invasion of India. Fear of that danger need no longer be entertained, and the people of India are agitating at home and in England for a reduction of the costly military establishments, claiming that they are no longer necessary.

"In the United States had been made the assertion that British rule had impoverished India—that there were 70,000,000 starving people there. The impoverishment was not due to the British, but to economic conditions that education alone could remedy. India produced great quantities of leather. It is sent largely to Germany, and the manufactured articles come back. India pays a duty on these goods as well as the manufacturers' prices. To put it concisely, India is giving work to German artisans while millions of her own people are starving. An extension of technical education would work wonders in the cotton, leather and agricultural industries of India."

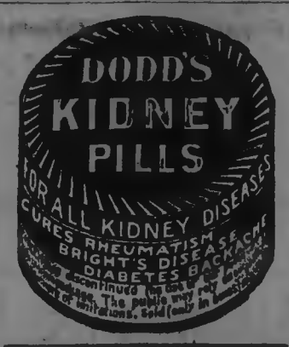
archaeologists under Professor Waldstein. Herculaneum was a richer, bigger city than Pompeii, and great finds are expected when the over-lying lava-crust that baffled the explorers of 1738, though they managed to recover many splendid art objects now in the museum of Portici.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

Develops the Arms, Lungs and Chest and Trains the Eye.

It is not only the muscles of the arm which are tested by properly organized rifle shooting. It supplies an excellent exercise for the chest and lungs. One of the first things the young rifle shot has to learn is how to take a deep breath, to fill the lungs with air, and then to hold the breath while the rifle is kept absolutely steady and the finger is gradually tightening on the trigger. A glance at any successful rifle shot will show you a man with a deep chest and full powers of breathing.

Any form of recreation which trains the muscles of the arm and exercises the chest and lungs would seem likely to be beneficial to health, but if that is not enough there is the unequaled training which rifle shooting gives to the eye and to the hand working with the eye. The writer remembers hearing a musketry instructor boast that he had lengthened not only his own sight, but the sight of scores of boys whom he had taught how to use their eyes in aiming at a target, by two or three hundred yards, simply by continued practice at long distance shooting. It is astonishing what results can be obtained in this way by placing a rifle on a sand bag raised on a tripod and making the pupil aim as accurately as he can at any distant object. The eye can be trained, of course, equally well, though the sight will not necessarily be lengthened, by aiming at objects close at hand.—London Spectator.



CHILDREN'S CRIMES.

Arson, Theft and Train Wrecking Common, Forgery Rare.

Children's crimes are recognized by criminologists as a large and important branch of criminology. The commonest of children's crimes are arson, stealing and train wrecking, and the rarest is forgery.

Arson, in the country especially, is frequently a crime of childhood. Country children set fire to haystacks, barns and sheds in order to see the great bright flames leap skyward. Children commit arson, in a word, out of a love of fireworks.

Children often wreck trains. Sometimes they do this from reading about romantic train wreckers. More often they do it out of curiosity. They pile obstructions on the track to see what will happen. They have no idea that anything very serious will happen.

Children, of course, steal a good deal. The best of men and women, looking back on their childhood, can recall many a theft. Stealing is natural.

Children now and then murder. Their motive is always jealousy. Thus in Vienna a boy of ten, jealous of his brother and sister, who seemed to be more petted than himself, killed both of them and then took his own life.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Way in Turkey.

In the days when M. Paul Cambon represented the interests of the French republic at Constantinople Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who had been touring in eastern Europe, was desirous of giving a dramatic representation at Yildiz kiosk. The sultan was willing, and the terms were duly arranged with the keeper of the wardrobe, the worthy pasha who has the control of all entertainments at Yildiz. But the pasha held out his hand for more backsheesh than La Belle Sarah felt inclined to give, and so the long looked for representation did not take place. Sarah Bernhardt lost by it £1,000 and the coveted order of the Chefekat. Hermann, the conjurer, knowing the ropes better than the French actress, squared the keeper of the wardrobe, gave his show and got his thousand pounds.—Exchange.

A LOST RIDING HABIT.

It Lost For the Empress Eugenie the French Empire.

Even Emile de Girardin, whom Eugenie welcomed as "the gravedigger of dynasties" because he had gone to Louis Philippe on the eve of his flight in 1848 to warn him as he came to warn her now, said to her very seriously that night:

"Should your majesty appear bravely on horseback in the midst of the people your majesty can still count on their enthusiasm and devotion."

Eugenie resolved to show herself on horseback. She ordered that the riding habit be chosen. It must be all black, of the severest simplicity. And she would just pin the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor on her left breast.

Often the slightest causes bring about the gravest results. The tragedy of the empire's last chance, therefore, must be sought along with the black riding skirt and corsage.

By incredible ill luck they could not find it. There had been one, but it had disappeared, "doubtless stolen." Others were at Compiegne and Fontainebleau. They found a riding habit of dark green with heavy gold braid, the costume of the imperial stag hunts.

"It will not do," Eugenie sobbed; "it will not do!"

And so for lack of a black skirt and corsage the empress of the French was forced to flee her capital and lost an empire.—Sterling Heilig in Metropolitan Magazine.

A FLY IN A WEB.

The Way a Tiny Spider Imprisoned His Big Victim.

"One morning when busy in my workshop," says a naturalist, "a large fly, double the size of a bluebottle, was caught in a spider's web in the window close to where I was at work. It was held by two of its legs only, and for some time the spider, which was about the size of the fly's head, proceeded to strengthen its hold by attaching numerous extra lines to the two captive limbs, carefully keeping out of reach of the others, which were letting out in all directions in frantic efforts to escape.

"During a short respite in the captive's struggles the spider cautiously approached and with its hind legs got several turns of its tiny rope round one of the limbs that were free. These tactics were carried on till all the legs were firmly bound. It then injected poison into one of the legs. This soon showed itself, for its deadening effects reduced the victim's struggles in a marked degree. The poison paralyzes, but does not kill.

"Shortly after a second bite resistance ceased, and the victor settled down to suck the juices of its fallen prey. The struggles lasted quite an hour. Next morning the fly was alive, and the spider was still sucking out its lifeblood."—Chicago News.

The Missing Note.

One of the leading tenors in Moscow was called upon to sing an opera in which one note was much too high for him, but he got a man in the orchestra to come in just at the right time and supply the note. In exchange the tenor was to take him to supper. The plan answered well, the applause was loud, but the tenor forgot all about the supper. Next time he sang the opera he went to the front of the stage, put his hand on his heart and opened his mouth as wide as he could. His discomfiture was great when the expectant hush was broken by a voice from the orchestra saying, "Where's my supper?"—From Iskra.

Chinese Similes.

Some of the ordinary expressions of the Chinese are pointedly sarcastic enough. A blustering, harmless fellow they call "a paper tiger." When a man values himself overmuch they compare him to "a rat falling into a scale and weighing itself." Overdoing a thing they call "a hunchback making a bow." A spendthrift they compare to "a rocket" which goes off at once. Those who expend their charity on remote objects, but neglect their families, are said to "hang a lantern on a pole, which is seen afar, but gives no light below."

Followed His Pipe.

An old Hungarian countryman had smoked the same pipe for more than fifty years and as a natural consequence had grown to love it as a companion. One day, however, his infant grandson smashed the pipe beyond all hope of repair. The old man was so broken hearted at his loss that he hanged himself on a peg. In his pocket was found a scrap of paper on which was scribbled, "My pipe is done for, and I must go too."

Patience Required.

Dr. Fusseigh—Your husband's about the same. Whatever change is coming will come very slowly.

Mrs. Barragane—Dear me—just as it comes in a department store!

Shirt Waist Flannel—Fashions In Furs—Parisian Hats.

One of the newest things in waistings is a wash flannel in challis weight. This comes in delicate background embroidered to give a pompadour effect. It washes beautifully and is urged as a rival of the ever popular white wash waist.

Fur stoles are broader than ever, and the cravat so much liked last season is pronounced out of fashion.

Nothing seems too eccentric for the hat of the Parisienne. She will combine a bunch of feathers—one brown, one purple and one green. She will have the tiniest rim imaginable, with a huge velvet crown overhanging it. She will wrap an ostrich feather round her hat and then about her neck or else let the superfluous end hang down her back, and she will make the most startling contrasts in color between her hat and its trimmings.

The new lace waists are showing bertha and harness effects of colored silks laid over them, light blue or pink or fawn color being used over the cream lace. This bertha effect is prettiest when cut in a triple sort of collar which comes down low on the bodice in front, each piece edged with tiny knife plaitings projecting from the one above it.

The picture shows a pretty bright plaid wool trimmed with collar and bands of fancy silk edged with white cloth. The skirt is kilt plaited and attached to the body of the lining, this lining being faced to form the shield.

ART IN THE HOME.

A Fad For Jacobean Effects In House Furnishing.

Period rooms are a fad of the moment, and the Jacobean effect, a style closely resembling the Elizabethan period, is very much approved of by decorators. Much skill was devoted to the construction of chimney fronts and doorways during the Jacobean period, and many of them are most elaborately treated with architectural moldings. Paneled walls and oak beamed ceilings were also features of the time, and in the early examples both paneling and furniture were inlaid with holly and sycamore. The style is very suitable for a dining room and hall and can be adapted to the modern house more easily than many of the other styles. For instance, a very handsome dining room can be made by having the walls paneled with oak in which a black and yellow inlay is introduced with a ceiling in plaster with enriched ribs of a bold design of fruits, etc. The carving of the furniture should be in low relief and peculiarly characteristic of the period, while the hangings are of rich embroidered silk and of a color in harmony with the woodwork. Needless to say, original Jacobean pieces are extremely rare, as they have been bought up by collectors and found places in museums, etc., but faithful copies are always to be had lacking nothing beyond the historical association of the originals.

DEADLY LA GRIPPE

Canada Again Being Ravished by an Epidemic of This Disease

Winter after winter Canada is swept from ocean to ocean by an epidemic of la grippe, or influenza. It is one of the deadliest troubles known to our climate. It starts with a sneeze—and ends with a complication. It lays the strong man on his back; it tortures him with fever and chills; headaches and backaches. It leaves the sufferer an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, consumption and other deadly diseases. You can avoid la grippe by fortifying your system with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can cure its disastrous after effects with this same medicine. These pills protect you; they cure you; they up-build you; they banish all evil after effects. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills ward off all winter ailments. They cure all blood and nerve disorders. They are the greatest blood-builder and nerve tonic science has yet discovered. Ask your neighbours, no matter where you live, and you will learn of someone who has been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after other medicines have failed. It is on the unbiassed evidence of your neighbours that we ask you to give these pills a fair trial if you are sick or ailing. Mrs. Emma Doucet, St. Eulalie, Que., says: "Words can hardly express my gratitude for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. I had an attack of la grippe which left me a sufferer from headaches and pain in the stomach. I used several medicines but found nothing to help me until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I began them I was weak and very much run down. The pills have not only fully restored my health, but I gained in flesh while taking them. I recommend them to all sufferers."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

VOGUE POINTS.

Hints About Dress For the Woman Who Travels.

You can always tell her instantly when you see her in a railroad car or in a hotel.

She travels with all those belongings which are necessary to keep her in the perfection of grooming and comfort, but none of those belongings which attend the showier phases of her existence.

She is not like some women who carry no impediments but a toothbrush and a "dressing sack" to sleep in.

She has her toilet array of neat necessaries, has my lady of breeding.

She has her hairbrush and nailbrush and toothbrush and clothesbrush, her comb and manicure articles, her face cloth and her personal towel of soft, snowy quality, for how does she know what lurks in the stiff, laundered towel of the Pullman company?

But her baggage, if it is inclusive in the matter of toilet necessaries, among which, too, are always her own drinking glass and her own soap, is exclusive of such fripperies as have no place on a train.

Her gown is severely tailored of some dark stuff, and with it she wears a smart shirt waist of dark silk in tailored style or of white linen or madras, with neat collar and cuffs.

Her hat is plain, small and dark and nearly or quite covered with a traveling veil.

Her gloves are tan or black.

She wears a minimum of jewelry and concentrates her effort at effects on the trimness of her belt and collar.

In hotels your woman of distinction keeps very much on her dignity.

She wears a tailored suit and silk or lingerie waist to breakfast and her hat, but not gloves or veil.

At luncheon she wears the same costume unless she is going to the matinee or some dressy affair, when she may wear afternoon dress of voile or whatever she has.

For the hotel dinner she may wear anything up to a gown of solid Irish point, only it must be high necked and not more than elbow sleeved.

Eggs For Invalids.

Here are two excellent methods of preparing eggs for invalids, either of the ways bringing them to just the proper soft boiled state:

Put an egg on to cook in a saucepan of cold water. As soon as it comes to the boiling point the egg is done and will be found neither too watery nor too dry.

The second method is slightly different. Let the water come to a very lively boiling point, take it from the fire and let the egg stand in the hot water, well covered, for exactly five minutes. The egg will be cooked to perfection without making the white hard and indigestible.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

Taffeta a Modish Trimming—Gowns of a New York Girl.

Taffeta is used more this season as a trimming than for whole frocks. A deep hem on the bottom of a cloth skirt, possibly waved at the top and edged with braid, is a popular way of employing the silk.

A picture gown of white accordion plaited chiffon in empire style is trimmed with bands and braces of ermine. The band about the waist is of black moire finished high at the back with an old world buckle, giving an empire effect. The little frilled sleeves and chemisette are of white brussels net.

Hand painted chiffon over radium silk is charming. It ought to be in view of the fact that such a gown costs as much as a half dozen ordinary ones. A New York society girl who could have gowns of spun diamonds if she took the idea into her head has a chiffon gown of pale rose with petals of the flowers and a few leaves sprinkled over the surface. The underlining is of a deeper rose, and there are many ruffles of lace as fine as cobwebs, with little rosebuds looping them in place.

Plaid coats for the wee tots are very smart. Here is an attractive little model that is trimmed with velvet bands, the colors of which are dull greens and blues. The model is one of the new ones that give the box plaited effect in front.

SARTORIAL WRINKLES.

New Skirt Models—Knitted Automobile Scarfs Latest Fad.

The new skirts are flat and broad in the back. The round, becoming effect is not considered first style nowadays.

Made by a skillful dressmaker, the empire skirt is one to be sought after by the woman who likes to keep in the front rank of fashion. It is empire from the bust to the long sweeping train without seams or darts except down the back and center of front. It must fit smoothly at the sides and over the abdomen or all style is lost. With the skirt are worn an attached blouse of some thin material and a short square bolero jacket just reaching to the top of the empire skirt.

The new automobile scarfs are very attractive. They are knitted of silk, like coarse purse silk, in the plain stitch they used to knit wash rags in pastel shades as wide as an old fashioned woolen scarf. On each end is a fringe of silk about half an inch deep. They come in blue, green, brown and other colors.

There are plenty of new shapes in muffs, but the flat pillow muff is the most popular. The bigger and softer the better, so far as fashion is concerned. Of course the elbow or three-quarter sleeve is at the bottom of this increasing size in muffs.

All the deep rich shades of red are in vogue for indoor wear this season, and they are especially desirable in henrietta and cashmere. The gown in the cut is of red henrietta, known as geranium color, and is trimmed with velvet ribbon and string colored lace.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

A Pretty Story About the Dainty Bridal Flower.

The orange blossom is so typical of weddings that few ever stop to wonder why it has attained its position as the bridal flower.

The custom of wearing orange blossoms on the wedding day originated in Spain. The story goes that an African potentate once gave a Spanish king a magnificent orange tree whose fragrant blossoms were the admiration of all who were permitted to see them. In vain many people begged for a sprig of the lovely plant, and most persistent of all was a foreign ambassador, who wished to send a cutting to his own country.

It so happened that the head gardener, who had charge of the orange tree, possessed a charming daughter who was courted by a young artisan. The girl, however, lacked a dowry, so there seemed no prospect of their marriage taking place. One day her father accidentally broke off a spray of orange blossom from the precious tree and gave it to his daughter, who placed the creamy flowers in her hair, where they attracted the attention of the ambassador. He promised to give the young girl a sum sufficient for her dowry if she would give him the spray, and, needless to add, she willingly did so. She was soon afterward married, and in remembrance of the luck brought by the orange blossom she secretly broke off another piece, which she wore on her wedding day, an example followed by brides of our own and most foreign countries.

FORECAST OF FASHION.

Cravats For the Tailor Made Girl. Coats For Wee Ones.

Cravats form a large element in the wardrobe of the girls who revel in tailor mades. For wear with the fashionable linen turnovers very small jaunty cravats are made. They are fastened on a piece of pasteboard matching the material used in the bow and attached to the collar button with a bit of elastic. Plain silk bows less than two inches across, one sewed above the other, and small double bows in a light shade of blue, green, brown or red on a deeper tint of the same color are worn with plain silk waists.

CASHMERE JACKET—5117.

Bits of plaid ribbon, knife plaited into single butterfly ends, with a tight knot in the center, are worn by young girls.

Handsome cut cloths and heavy white plush are excellent substitutes for the coats of white astrakhan and caracal every mother longs to see her small darling tricked out in. Raccoon fur lines some well built coats for little men and women, and these models are guiltless of any fur on the outside. Corduroy lined with cony skin will find favor among some mothers, and neither the material nor the lining is too expensive to be placed on the prohibitive list.

A most becoming effect is given this season's hats by facing the brims with some light color. The face is brought out and softened, and the hat remains dark.

The breakfast jacket illustrated is of embroidered cashmere. In this instance the color is pale blue, and the trimming is cream colored lace. Albatross and similar lightweight materials are to be recommended also. Scotch and French flannels are not to be despised.

TWO COUNCIL MEETINGS WERE HELD

Special to The Examiner.

Douro Council met in special session Monday, January 28, 1907.

There were present the reeve and Councillors Leahy, Farley and Walsh.

Bylaw, No. 656 to repeal bylaw No. 652, appointing Wm. Garbutt an auditor for the current term, received its several readings and was passed.

Moved by Coun. Walsh, seconded by Coun. Leahy, that bylaw, No. 657, appointing Geo. E. Wilson an auditor to audit the treasurer's books for the year 1906, at a salary of $10, be read the usual number of times and passed.—Carried.

On motion of Coun. Leahy and Farley, Council adjourned.

Minutes of Feb. 4, 1907

Council met Monday, February 4, pursuant to adjournment. Members all present. Minutes of two previous meetings were read and confirmed.

On motion of Coun. Walsh, seconded by Coun. Quinlan, the auditor's report of receipts and expenditures for the year 1906 was received and adopted, and the clerk authorized to have 200 copies printed for distribution among the ratepayers; also to have abstract statement advertised.—Carried.

The Council was presented with a petition from a number of the ratepayers, asking to have the bridge known as Dixon's bridge re-built, as the present bridge is not considered safe for public travel.

On motion of Coun. Walsh and Leahy, the whole Council was appointed a committee to examine the said bridge with a view to having it put in proper condition for travel.—Carried.

The orders on the treasurer were as follows:

Michael Mahoney, $2, for work done on Allen's hill.

Mrs. T. McMurray, $40, being payment in full to date for attendance on Mrs. Christie.

Michael Mahoney, $16.70, for gravel.

On motion of Coun. Walsh, seconded by Coun. Leahy, that Patrick Farley be appointed commissioner to dispose of trees on side road between lots 5 and 6, and road used in lieu thereof in con. 6.—Carried.

On motion of Coun. Leahy, seconded by Coun. Farley, M. D. Sullivan was re-appointed collector to collect the balance of taxes for the year 1906, the same to be collected forthwith.—Carried.

Moved by Coun. Walsh, seconded by Coun. Quinlan, that the reeve have Mrs. Christie and daughter placed in House of Refuge.—Carried.

On motion of Coun. Walsh and Quinlan, the Council adjourned to meet at a call from the reeve.

NO POCKET IN THE SHROUD

O! ye who bow at Mammon's shrine,
Whose hearts with greed are growing cold,
Who turn your backs on things divine
And worship but the god of gold—
What will it profit you when death
Lays low the head so kingly proud
And robs the wasted form of breath?
There are no pockets in a shroud.

Your thoughts by day, your dreams by night,
Are but of grasping golden gain;
Your guide is but the beacon light
Of riches burning in your brain.
You cast all nobler aims behind
And struggle as a madding crowd
To clutch the dollars, but you'll find
There are no pockets in a shroud.

Ye usurers who grind the poor
Beneath a cold, relentless heel,
Who overshadow many a door
With clouds of misery and feel
No sympathy to see them lie
Beneath the hand of sorrow cowed,
Remember, when you come to die,
There are no pockets in a shroud.

What is the profit to a man
Whose life to Mammon has been given?
A bridge of gold can never span
The gulf between the earth and heaven!
What will it be to him to find
The wealth with which he is endowed,
At death's gate must be left behind?
There are no pockets in a shroud.

This life is but a span; to-day
We're here; to-morrow we are gone—
Have faded from the earth away
Into eternity's strange dawn!
Yet in the hungry greed for gain
Too many at the gold shrine bowed
Forget that when the life-spark wanes
There are no pockets in a shroud.

LABOR QUESTION IN HOUSE

Two Points of View Stated In Mr. Borden's Motion and Mr. Ralph Smith's Amendment — Chicago Drainage Canal—The Golspie Investigation—Minister Gives Information on Hudson Bay.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—After a very short speech from Dr. Schaffner of Souris yesterday afternoon the motion introduced by Mr. Herron for the appointment of a select committee to inquire as to the existence of a lumber combine in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan was adopted.

The remainder of the afternoon was occupied by the resumed debate on Mr. R. L. Borden's motion for the appointment of a select committee to inquire into the conditions prevailing in Canada with a view of the introduction of legislation for the prevention and settlement of disputes between employers and employes. When the motion was last before the House a month ago Mr. Ralph Smith moved an amendment to the effect that the conciliation act of 1900 and the railway labor disputes act of 1903 having greatly aided in the settlement of labor troubles, legislation extending the principles of those acts should be passed. The debate was not concluded when the House rose.

Chicago Drainage Canal.

In reply to Mr. Bickerdike, Mr Fisher said the Government were aware that the Chicago Drainage Canal was diverting a large volume of water from Lake Michigan, and that there was a proposal for an additional canal for the purpose of draining South Chicago. It was probable that a large diversion of water would be prejudicial to the St. Lawrence River route, and the Government intended to take all possible steps to protect the route.

Alleged Lumbermen's Combine.

Debate was resumed on Mr. Herron's motion that a select committee should be appointed to inquire as to the existence of a combine amongst lumber manufacturers and dealers in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Mr. Schaffner briefly supported the motion, which was carried.

Mr. Crocket moved for a return of all letters, accounts, vouchers, etc relating to any amount paid to Mr. R. T. MacIlraith, barrister, of Halifax, for legal services, by the Government from 1902 to 1906.

Mr. Alex. Johnston moved as an amendment that the return should include all payments made to the Government legal agent in Halifax during ten years previous to the period mentioned in the original motion. The motion was carried as amended.

The Golspie Investigation.

Mr. Boyce inquired whether the Department of Marine and Fisheries had received any report with respect to the investigation of the Golspie disaster, and, if so, whether it would be laid on the table of the House.

The Minister of Marine said that a preliminary investigation had been made, and a report received by the department, but as the investigation was not concluded it would be necessary to make a more formal investigation, and therefore in the meantime he did not think that it was desirable to bring down the report.

Hudson Bay Route.

Mr. Claude Macdonell proposed a series of questions to ascertain the feasibility of the Hudson Bay route, and to obtain as much information in regard thereto as the Government could afford.

In reply the Minister of Marine said that reports upon the navigability of Hudson Bay and Straits had been made by the Canadian Government expeditions in 1884-5, 1897 and in 1903, which showed that the route was practicable for from three and a half to four months in the year, or about from July 20th to November 15th. Churchill was the most southerly of the harbors on the west side of Hudson Bay, where the water was deep enough to allow the entrance of moderately deep draught steamships. The mouths of the larger rivers south of the Churchill were blocked by bars and shoals, and to cut a deep channel through them and keep it open would be very expensive. The route would be shorter, but the Government had no data on which to base an opinion as to whether the Hudson Bay route would be cheaper than the existing routes or not.

LONDON PILGRIMS GIVE FAREWELL BANQUET

All England Testifies to Country's Pride in James Bryce.

WHITELAW REID'S EULOGY

Selection of Mr. Bryce as Ambassador to the United States Accepted as a Compliment From the Mother Country to Her Giant Offspring in the West—Mr. Bryce Says Message is of True Sympathy.

London, Feb. 7.—The London Pilgrims gave a farewell banquet last evening at the Savoy Hotel in honor of James Bryce, the new Ambassador of Great Britain to the United States. Ambassador Whitelaw Reid in proposing the health of Mr. Bryce, referred to the presence of the Primate of all England (Dr. Davidson, the archbishop of Canterbury), and of conspicuous representatives of the Government, Parliament, the great universities, English literature, journalism and business, all testifying to the pride with which his countrymen saw Mr. Bryce set forth on his new duties.

In concluding, Mr. Reid said: "The selection of Mr. Bryce has been accepted as a compliment from the mother country to her giant offspring in the west. I can assure him a welcome as cordial as ever fell to the lot of a British representative, and I wish him in his new field, as I confidently anticipate, another distinguished and successful career."

Mr. Bryce said he was encouraged by the thought that the message he had to deliver was a plain and simple one. It was a message, he said, of true sympathy in weal and woe; a message of friendship between Great Britain and America that both countries trusted would stand unbroken through all the ages.

Sir Mortimer Durand toasting the visitors, said that President Roosevelt's last words to him on leaving America were of congratulations upon the relations of the two countries. In the president's own words, "nothing could be more satisfactory," said Sir Mortimer.

War Secretary Haldane, Lord Roberts and others spoke, and a cable message from Jos. H. Choate for the Pilgrims in the United States, was read.

Field Marshall Lord Roberts presided at the banquet.

Will Sail on the 13th.

London, Feb. 7.—James Bryce, ambassador of Great Britain to the United States, and Mrs. Bryce, will sail for New York from Liverpool on the steamer Oceanic, Feb. 13.

SWETTENHAM SUSTAINED.

Legislative Council Passes Motion By Four Votes to Two.

Kingston, Jamaica, Feb. 7.—At a meeting of the city council, held Tuesday, at which the attendance was small, Philip Stern, the representative of Kingston in the legislative council, proposed a motion expressing unabated confidence in Gov. Swettenham.

After a short debate the motion was carried by four votes to two. The passing of this motion has created much indignation in Kingston, and notice has already been given that it will be rescinded.

What Canada Sent Jamaica.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—A return brought down to the House yesterday shows that 1,000 tents were shipped to Kingston, Jamaica, by the Dominion Government, and also complete supplies, including flour, oatmeal, pilot bread, pork, beef, potatoes, fish, condensed milk butter, lard cheese bacon, ham and vegetables to the amount of $17,744.

Will Return Donations.

New York, Feb. 7.—It is announced that funds secured by the New York Kingston relief committee will be returned to the donors.

IN THE SENATE.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—In the Senate yesterday Hon. D. Ferguson made a speech in which he urged the Hudson Bay ocean route and advocated opening communication by rail with west and centre of the Dominion. Senator Power thought it would be well to pause in view of the heavy expenditures of the last few years and the financing of the National Transcontinental road.

Accidents to Railway Men.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—The Railway Commission is considering means for reducing the possibilities of accidents to a minimum, and yesterday listened to representatives of the railway organizations and of the railway companies. The questions discussed were the block system and the imposition of too arduous duties on employes.

Had to Use Troops.

Bordeaux, France, Feb. 7.—Troops yesterday were used to keep back an infuriated crowd, while the teachers and students were ejected from a local seminary. Many arrests were made.

French Revenue Measure.

Paris, Feb. 7.—It was stated yesterday that the Cabinet had completed the new revenue measure and that it had been decided not to impose a tax on rentes.

SHORTAGE OF M'GEE.

Placed At $80,000, With Ample Securities Surrendered.

Montreal, Feb. 6.—The total defalcations of William McGee, formerly secretary-treasurer of the People's Mutual Building Society, now on remand, charged with fraud, are $80,000.

Against this, the accused is said to have surrendered securities amounting to $79,000, and this may be increased by some debts which are due to McGee.

The securities surrendered, and now held by the society, consist of real estate equity $30,000, life insurance $21,000, stock in an electrical company $18,000, mortgages and book debts $10,000.

The story that the defalcations amounted to more than a quarter of a million dollars is denied.

Canadian Press Association.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The forty-ninth annual convention of the Canadian Press Association opened yesterday morning in the Temple building, under the presidency of A. H. U. Colquhoun. The president delivered a thoughful annual address. J. R. Bone, secretary, showed receipts totalling $690, and a membership of 337, of whom 43 were enrolled during 1906. These officers were elected by acclamation: President, J. T. Clark, Tpronto; first vice-president, D. Williams, Collingwood; second vice-president, L. C. Channell, Sherbrooke, Que.; secretary-treasurer, J. E. Bone, Toronto; assistant secretary-treasurer, A. E. Bradwin, Toronto. Nominations for the executive committee, of whom five are to be elected to-day, were made. Several topics of newspaper interest were discussed.

In the evening the annual banquet was held, A. H. U. Colquhoun, the retiring president and Deputy Minister of Education, in the chair. Speeches were made to various toasts by Messrs. Willison, Atkinson, Cooper, Williams, Climie, Mitchell, Jaffray, Clark (president), G. F. Graham, M.P.P., Harrison Parker of The Chicago Tribune, Col. Clark, M.P., and T. H. Preston.

Six Killed In Wreck.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 5.—At least six were killed and probably fourteen injured in a wreck on the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, near Des Moines, last night. The accident was caused by derailment. Most of the victims are coal miners, and several of the injured may die. The wreck is on fire and several persons are said to be caught under the wreckage.

Close of Romantic Career.

London, Feb. 5.—Florence Cecelia Paget, Marchioness of Hastings, died yesterday, at Windsor, after a romantic career. She was the greatest beauty in the mid-Victorian period. The marchioness in 1870 married Sir George Chetwynd. She was born in 1842, and was the third daughter of the second Marquis of Anglesey.

York Ginger Ale

is made of ideally pure York Springs Water and sugar, with pure vegetable aromatics and Jamaica ginger-root. There is hardly another drink so allaying of thirst; and it is a mild and healthful stimulant.

The quality of the ginger and aromatics used accounts for the spicy pungency, the fragrant aroma, and the delicious flavor of York Ginger Ale. The purity of all the ingredients accounts for the good this beverage does people with weak stomachs.

But all ginger ale doesn't owe its flavor to ginger root. Too much of it gets pungency from cayenne pepper (capsicum).

Too much of it has the harsh, corrosiveness of vitriol, instead of the healthful acidity of lemons.

Some ginger ale is sickly-sweet with saccharine. The use of saccharine is prohibited in those countries where pure-food laws are enforced. Pure sugar, of the best quality, sweetens York Ginger Ale.

You run risks when you drink cayenne-peppered ginger ale—and the more of it you drink, the dryer your throat gets. It burns, not refreshes.

You run risks when you drink ginger ale dosed with glucose or sugar-substitutes,—upsets your digestion, affects your kidneys.

But you run no risk when you drink this pure, honest, wholesome York Ginger Ale, though you pay about the same for it as for spurious ginger ale. Look at the label so you can be sure you get the purest, most aromatic, most refreshing ginger ale made. It is safe to drink, inexpensive to buy, sure to satisfy, when it is labelled

Most Beautiful Spectacle Ever Presented In Peterboro'

The Gorgeous Extravanganza, "Queen Zephra," Presented Last Night to an Enthusiastic Audience.

LAVISH DISPLAY OF COSTUMES

Beautiful Dances, Splendid Vocal Work and Grand Scenery Made the Production a Veritable Fairyland.

No more beautiful spectacle has ever been produced in this city than the magnificent extravaganza, "Zephra," presented under the auspices of the 57th Regimental Band, at the Grand Opera House, last night. A reminiscence of English pantomimes, the production was to the audience like an entrancing vision of Fairyland, a whirling kaleidoscope of dazzling yet, daintily, beautiful pictures. Yet while the spectacular predominated, there were other features, that proved a source of delight to every person who witnessed the spectacle. A well-acted story, full of dramatic climaxes, sparkling music, charmingly presented by a capable orchestra, and chorus, magnificent scenes, and delightful vocal work, all these combined to make the production one that pleased the eye and entranced the ear.

As one watched the presentation, it was hard to realize that all this was the work of amateurs, many of them children, and all local people, whose rehearsals have lasted but a month. The work was not only a credit to themselves but to Mr. H. J. Booth, of Boston, under whose management and direction, the spectacle was produced. He has faithfully laboured to make the affair a success, and the result must have indeed been gratifying to him, as well as to the two hundred local people who took part. For the work of the latter, the highest praise is due. Every part was well taken, and from the smallest youngster in the prologue to the leading principals, the acting was decidedly clever, with none of the gaucherie, and stage-fright, so often displayed by amateurs. The work of the chorus and dance ensemble is worthy of special mention. The singing was splendidly rendered, and the merry dances magnificently presented.

In fact, "Zephra," in its character, magnitude and method of presentation, is distinctively an unique entertainment. An old legend of Norseland furnishes the story of the spectacle, which is full of dramatic climaxes and situations, with a multitude of brilliant drills and dances, and a lavish display of costumes, scenery and electrical effects. The scenery is especially magnificent, comprising, as it does, ten complete scenes, all of them of the most beautiful character.

There was such a wealth of clever and enjoyable features, that it is a hard task to give praise to them all. The best advice that can be given to those who did not witness the spectacle last night is to go and see for themselves. You will be as surprised, and as pleased, and as delighted, as was the large audience last night. The opera house was well filled, and "Zephra" drew the greatest enthusiasm from the audience, whose applause, at times, was uproarious.

As has been already stated, the acting was decidedly clever throughout. Every part was well taken, and there was not the slightest hitch in the acting of the play. Miss Bertha Parnell as Neyera gave a splendid portrayal of that character. Her winsome face and unaffected acting won the audience from her first appearance. Miss Nellie McCabe made a dignified and stately Queen, and Miss Mona O'Shea was happily cast in the role of the fairy Godmother. Miss Florence Butcher's work as Flora was exceedingly good throughout.

In the male characters Mr. Vernon Morphett was most successful in his presentation of the part of Prince Juna, the lover of Neyera. Mr. Walter Wesley's work as as the traitor, King Decius, was fine. His role gave an opportunity for dramatic climaxes which was not lost sight of. Mr. George Lynch was cast as Sir Alexis, Minister of State, a part which he handled perfectly, as did Mr. W. Mellroy, in his role of Sir Solon, in which his work was good at all times. The other parts were in capable hands.

The child principals in the prologue performed their parts in a very clever manner, a solo by Master Harold Hatcher being especially worthy of mention.

The special features introdured were greatly enjoyed by the audience, and all of them were warmly applauded. The music was of a sparkling nature and both solo and chorus work was splendidly rendered. Miss Parnell had several songs in which her fine soprano was displayed to great advantage. Her numbers were "Tell Me, Cupid," and "Farewell, until the Morrow."

Highway Robber Sentenced To One Month In Jail

Herron, the Man Who Brandished Whiskey Bottle Over Friend's Head, Goes to Jail.

WATCH AND $20 WAS STOLEN

Edward Herron was sentenced by Judge Weller to one month in the county gaol with hard labour for having stolen a watch and the sum of $25 from Wm. White, of Westwood.

It will be remembered that last Saturday's issue contained a full account of the evidence given at the preliminary hearing before Magistrate Dumble. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared in behalf of the prisoner and put the complainant through a rigorous cross-examination. White's story was practically the same as that told in the police court. Police Officer Newhall's testimony was also similar to that previously given.

His Honour, Judge Weller, said he was determined to stamp out all such actions and that the offence deserved a term in Central Prison. For the sake of Herron's mother he would change the sentence to gaol with hard labour. Herron took his sentence very much to heart and wept bitterly when he heard it passed on him. His pleadings for dismissal were in vain. Judge Weller stating that the custom of parasitic friendship with strangers who flash money and jewellry was altogether too prevalent and generally lead to crime.

Actress Denies Statements Made By Mrs. Evelyn Thaw

Swears She Was Not the Means of Bringing About the Introduction to Stanford White.

Examiner Special.

New York, Feb. 9. — A despatch from Meriden, Mass., says: Miss Edna Goodrich, leading woman with Nat Goodwin's company, denied today that she was the medium through which Evelyn Nesbitt met Stanford White for the first time. Miss Goodrich said: "Evelyn Nesbitt and I were members of the same theatrical company at one time, and this was the only association I had with the girl. I was never a member of any social gathering that included Miss Nesbitt. It is not true, as Miss Nesbitt testified yesterday that I invited her out to dinner for the purpose of meeting Mr. White for the first time."

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION BETWEEN TWO BODIES

As to the Manner in Which Water Rates on Vacant Lot Should be Charged.

There will be a meeting of the Committee of the Whole, and also a special meeting of the council, on Monday night, when Ald. Morgan will be assigned a position on the two committees of which ex-Ald. Ball was a member.

The appointment of a member of the Court of Revision will be taken up, and there are others matters as well, including some of the legislation that will be contained in the city's private bill.

In reference to the request of the Water Commissioners for power to charge water rates on vacant lots, there is a disagreement between the council and the commissioners. The council think that so much should be charged per foot frontage, while the commissioners think that the charge should be according to the assessed value of the land.

BEAN CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Guessing Contest at Stroud's Closed—Mrs. J. Hanna the Successful Contestant.

The coffee bean guessing competition closed on Wednesday night, at Stroud's Tea Store, and the winners have now been named. The contest was to guess as near as possible the number of coffee-beans in a jar which hung in the window for the past number of weeks.

The successful contestant was Mrs. J. Hanna, who came within 8 of the exact number. She estimated the number to be 12,755, while the correct number was 12,747.

The other prize winners in order were Gladys Pentland, 12,730, Mrs. Crocker, 12,768, and Mrs. Johnston, of Douro, 12,725.

The prizes were a dinner set, chamber set, tea set and jardiniere.

Some of the guesses were of an amusing character. One lady estimated the number to be 78, while another's ticket showed the huge number of 1,129,129,109.

The judge of the contest was Mr. R. M. Glover, who has made the following affidavit that the above number was correct:—

County of Peterborough,
Province of Ontario.
TO WIT:

I, R. M. Glover, of the City of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, business manager, do solemnly declare:

1. That I have counted the coffee beans contained in the tin on exhibition in the window of the Stroud Tea Store, and find tthat it held 12,747 coffee beans.

2. On looking over the estimates, I find the nearest estimate to be that of 12,755, the second 12,730, the third 12,768, and the fourth 12,725.

3. And I make this solemn declaration, conscientiously believing the same to be true and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of the Canada Evidence Act, 1891.

R. M. GLOVER.

Declared before me at the City of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, this 9th day of Feb., A. D., 1907.

S. T. MEDD,
Notary Public.

PETERBOROUGH TO BE NEXT MEETING PLACE

Of District No. 5, Ancient Order of Foresters—Presentation to Prominent Forester

The annual meeting of District No. 5, Ancient Order of Foresters, was held in Belleville on February 5, to which Mr. R. J. McWilliams was the delegate from Peterborough. At the banquet following the business session, Mr. George Dulmage was presented with a Past Chief Ranger's Jewel. Mr. Dulmage was elected to represent the district at Galt High Court meeting in August.

Collar Bone Broken While Attempting To Replace Belt

Aaron Mann, of Bridgenorth, Was the Victim—Stick Flew From Pulley, Striking Him Violently.

BELT SLIPPED OFF THE WHEEL

Aaron Mann, of Bridgenorth, met with a very painful accident while at a threshing in Smith township yesterday, and will be laid up for a few days as a result. A belt flew off a pulley, and Mr. Mann undertook to replace it. In order to do this he picked up a piece of a stick, which he placed inside the belt and on the pulley while the machine was still in motion.

The stick caught in the spokes of the wheel, and after a few revolutions it broke. Part of it struck Mr. Mann on the shoulder, breaking his collar-bone. Dr. Morgan was summoned to set the fracture, and the injured man is now recovering.

FARM HAND FROM DOURO AT THE POLICE COURT

Charged With Having Been Drunk and Being Without Means of Support—Allowed to go Free.

At the police court this morning, a farm hand appeared before Magistrate Dumble on the charge of being without any place of abode, and for having been drunk in a public place. He works for a farmer in Douro, and on promising to return there at once, was allowed to go, without any fine being imposed.

NON-COMS. DANCE LAST NIGHT WAS A SUCCESS

Annual Affair Proved a Most Enjoyable Event

The Non-Coms. of the 57th Regiment held their annual dance in the Foresters' Hall last night, and it proved a grand success. Some thirty couples were in attendance, and the evening proved one of great enjoyment. The gallant Non-Coms. had spared no effort to give everyone a good time, the result attained being highly satisfactory. The Misses Doris contributed enjoyable music. Delightful refreshments were served between 10 and 11 o'clock.

FIFTY-SEVEN CARCASSES OF BEEF FOR SALE

"Alas! My Poor Brother," Might the Mournful Bovine Truly Exclaim.

That the market this morning was a record breaker, in at least one respect, was evidenced by the large quantity of beef that was for sale. The market clerk stated that there were fifty-seven carcases brought to the city this morning by farmers. The most of this was readily disposed of, bringing 5 and 6 cents a pound and 5 1-2 and 6 1-2 cents a pound for fore and hind quarters respectively.

The poor bovine that is lithographed in many parts of the city, may well exclaim, "Alas! my poor brethren!"

THE PORTER BROTHERS ARE BRANCHING OUT

Have Secured the Lease of the King Edward Restaurant, Which is Being Renovated.

Porter Bros., the George street meat marketers, are making arrangements to open a branch store farther south. They have secured the lease of the King Edward Restaurant, near Charlotte street, for a term of years, and they intend to have it renovated and fitted by the first Saturday in March.

It will contain every convenience, and will be one of the finest meat markets in the city. Owing to the increase in business of Porter Bros. they have found it necessary to cater more particularly to the south end public. They will have nothing but the best goods on hand, consisting of the choicest western beef, canned goods and cooked meats. They have also obtained a competent staff to handle the business of the southern store.

DEPUTATION NOT WELL RECEIVED

Hopes That Some Indirect Assistance Will be Given Northern Townships.

The deputation from the County Council which waited on the Hon. Dr. Reaume, Minister of Public Works, in Toronto yesterday, returned to the city last night. One of the members of the embassy, in speaking to The Examiner this morning, stated that they were not given very much assurance that their request would be granted.

The deputation, however, believe that something will be done in an indirect way to assist the northern townships in paying off the $1,200 debt incurred by the smallpox epidemic.

DR. M. A. MORRISON TO BE CHAIRMAN FOR YEAR

Appointed to Chairmanship of License Commissioners for the Present Year.

The License Commissioners held a meeting in Dr. Morrison's office last night for the purpose of appointing a chairman and for general organization. Messrs. Jas. Kendry, H. LeBrun and Dr. Morrison were present. Owing to Mr. Kendry's absence in the South the meeting had to be deferred until he returned home. Otherwise it would undoubtedly have been held sooner.

Dr. Morrison was unanimously appointed chairman for the ensuing year. This was the only business transacted.

AN OPENING FOR STATESMANSHIP

Ontario has so recently emerged from forest conditions, and the memory of the battle with the trees, which were regarded by the pioneers as enemies to be ruthlessly cut down, and cast into the fire, is so green, that the question of reforesting operations is not given its due weight, and importance. But it is a very important one. The destruction of the original forests has changed climatic conditions, and affected the success of farming operations. Crops have been deprived of a very beneficent shelter; rainfall is fitful, and less regular than in early days. These circumstances not only point to the necessity of effective measures to protect existing forest growth from reckless destruction, but to encourage replanting. On almost every farm in the country, there are spots of cleared land which have proven unfit for profitable culture for crop-growing. If on every farm these now useless places were planted with trees, and the broken rocky country, similar to that in the north of this county, were planted with trees, or sown with tree seed, in a very few years the face of the country would be changed, in relation to climatic conditions, and a profitable tree crop be in process of maturing. One of the last official acts of Hon. John Dryden, when he was minister of Agriculture was to establish at the Ontario Experimental farm, nurseries for the growth of forest tree seedlings, to be distributed for planting throughout the province.

Of course this is just a beginning but if the work is continued, and a supply of seedlings grown for distribution, and planted year after year on waste farm spots, and in places unsuited to agriculture, the result would represent, in time, a valuable source of profit. While our remaining forest growths are being laid low in the course of industrial exploitation, new forest growths will be coming on.

The success of forest culture, and conservation, in Germany, are at once an encouragement and an example, to us. So great is the care exercised, and so skilful the management, that it is stated that in the little German principality of Saxony, only 5,787 miles in area, (including cultivated lands) or one-fortieth the size of Ontario, the Government derives a revenue of two million dollars per year from its Crown forests. It is to be remembered, too, that the land upon which much of this forest grows, had to be purchased at a large cost from private owners, only a generation ago, and so well has it been handled that it is producing more, and better, timber to-day, than it did seventy years ago.

Now, what has been done, so successfully in Germany, can be done in Ontario. All that is needed is systematic endeavour, and intelligent care. In Alsace-Lorraine, though settled and cultivated nearly a thousand years ago, last year nearly eighteen million cubic feet of timber of all kinds — building and fuel — were reaped from the State forests. The timber is cut each year on the Crown lands. The mountains are never entirely cleared of timber over any large area. The Government indicates what trees are to be cut, and thick forests are frequently thinned out. Besides, large areas are planted every year to supply the wants of future generations. Here is an example which Ontario can profitably imitate. Here is a chance for the Ontario Government to show real statesmanship. There is little statesmanship involved in collecting money, and spending it — it is mere routine administration. Statesmanship means more of looking forward, and reaching forward, more of creative activity, not merely doing the work of the hour, but looking to the future—working for the good of future generations. When the Fathers of Confederation did their work, they were playing the role of statesmen—not working for themselves alone, but for the future, for few of them have lived to see anything like the ripened fruit of the seed they sowed. The Ontario Government, by instituting the beginnings of a system of forestry, will not only be benefitting the present generation, but confer benefits for many generations to come. A forest planted to-day will yield a magnificent crop at the beginning of the twenty-first century. Here is a work ready for the hand of the statesman.

THE DOMINION BANK

In another place in this issue appears the thirty-sixth annual report of the Dominion Bank. It is very satisfactory in that it indicates a condition of gratifying and progressive prosperity of all the interests of the Bank, indicating in turn, both careful management and judicious enterprise on the part of the responsible officials, and the abounding prosperity of the country at large. A forecast of future prosperity for the bank is warranted by the fact of the strengthening of its resources for aggressive operation. The directorate has been increased by addition of two directors—Mr. James Carruthers, Montreal, and Mr. A. M. Nanton, Winnipeg, and the Board has authorized the increase of the capital to $5,000,000. The new stock is to be allotted to shareholders at the figure of 210. The earnings last year, including the balance carried forward, amounted to $788,798.33, and after paying dividends amounting to 12 per cent., $400,000 has been transferred to reserve and $28,798.33 carried forward. The reserve is now $3,000,000; the assets $49,694,379, and the deposits nearly $37,000,000. The increased directorate is composed of Messrs. A W Austin, W R Brock, James Carruthers, R J Christie, T Eaton, J J Foy, K C., M.P.P., Wilmot D Matthews, A M Nanton and E B Osler, M.P. Mr. Osler was re-elected President, and Mr. Wilmot D. Matthews, Vice-President. The branch of the bank recently established in Peterborough, with Mr. John Crane, as local manager, who is so well known and so high in public favour, promises to fill an important place in our local financial activities, especially when it shall have been installed in the handsome new offices now being prepared for it at the corner of George and Simcoe streets.

BANKS OF CO-OPERATION.

Levis Man Tells House Committee of Six Years' Growth.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—A special committee of the Commons met yesterday morning to consider the bill promoted by F. D. Monk, M. P., for the encouragement of co-operative societies and banks.

Mr. Desjardines of Levis, manager of the Levis Co-operative Bank, which has been six years in existence, told the committee of the remarkable success that has attended that enterprise. At the beginning, the witness said, the credit on the right side of the ledger was $240. To-day the assets are $48,000 over liabilities. During the six years $44,900 had been collected in shares at $5 per share, and of this sum only $10,159 was withdrawn, leaving a balance of $34,797. In the savings department $28,519 had been received, and $18,186 paid back, leaving a balance of $9,333. Loans had aggregated $126,527, of which all but $31,917 had been paid.

The society had never lost a cent in connection with loans. At the present time the society had a surplus of $16,000, which is deposited in a bank at 3 per cent.

THE MEXICAN OCELOT.

A Great Jumper Is This Strange Little Spotted Jungle Cat.

One of the most interesting animals of the new world and yet one of which little seems to be written, even by sportsmen who have spent much time in Mexico and the Central American states, is the ocelot, the strange little spotted cat of the dense jungles of tropical parts of the two Americas.

They are not nearly so heavy as the average lynx of the eastern woods and are infinitely lighter on their feet. They run with the greatest agility up and down the almost perpendicular trunks of trees and follow a crippled bird out on limbs too slender, it would seem, to bear the weight of the parrot, let alone the cat. Parrots are the ocelot's principal food, and their hunting is done almost altogether by day, though, like all the cat tribe, they are thoroughly at home in the blackest night.

The parrots which they hunt frequent the thickest of forests, coming to the ground only in the rare open spaces and along the banks of the many small streams where they drink. In order to follow them it is necessary that the ocelots be great jumpers, and so they are. When I was following the hounds through the southern California hills after wildcats and an occasional mountain lion I was wont to say that the latter was the greatest jumper on earth. The ocelot has any mountain lion that ever walked beaten a block, length for length and weight for weight.—Forest and Stream.

LUNCHEON WAS EXPENSIVE.

Instead of 15 Francs It Really Cost 40,000 Francs.

One day three friends in Paris were taking a walk together.

"I should like to have an exquisite lunch," said one of the three.

"I should be satisfied with a lunch," said the second, "which is a little short of being exquisite."

"And I," remarked the third one, "should be content with any kind of lunch."

Unfortunately none of them was possessed of the necessary money. Presently one of the trio was struck by an idea. He led his friends to a music publisher and made him an offer:

"Buy from us a song. This gentleman wrote the text; that one set it to music, and I shall sing it, as I am the only one of us with a good voice."

"Well, sing it for a trial," replied the publisher.

The young man complied, and the publisher seemed to be satisfied. He paid 15 francs for the song, and the friends hastened joyfully to a restaurant.

The author of the text was Alfred de Musset, the musician was Monpou and the singer Dupre. The song, which was bought and paid for with 15 francs, "The Andalusian Girl," yielded the publisher 40,000 francs.—Harper's Weekly.

Strength of a Bear.

Few people know that a grizzly bear can give points to any other carnivorous animal in point of strength. A grizzly bear weighing just four hundredweight has been watched carrying a heifer of more than two-thirds its own weight for two miles up the most steep and rugged mountain side, and this without pausing one instant for rest. The grizzly bear is the largest and most powerful of all the bear tribe, but his cousin, the cinnamon bear, runs him very close, and the big white polar bear, though not really so dangerous a customer, is capable of performing the most extraordinary feats of strength.

Practical Illustration.

"My dear," said the caller, with a winning smile, to the little girl who occupied the study while her father, an eminent literary man, was at his dinner, "I suppose you assist your papa by entertaining the bores?"

"Yes, sir," replied the little girl gravely. "Please be seated."—Washington Journal.

The Wise Man.

"This popular fiction is all rot. In real life the girl's father seldom objects to the man of her choice."

"You're wrong there. He often objects, but he's usually too wise to say anything."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Any time is the proper time for saying what is just.—Greek Proverb.

THE COUNTRY HOUSE.

A Room Apart That Should Be Known as the "office."

The most privately conducted home must communicate with increasing frequency with the world outside. The coal man, the ice man, the automobile repair shop must be upbraided or cajoled. Reports must be reviewed, accounts kept, bills examined and the senders occasionally treated with a check. From a room removed from the rest of the house one must speak with the railway station, settle with the expressman or deliberate with the chauffeur or coachman, for none of these things should disturb the tranquility of the home or the equanamity of guests. If the house is to minister to all the activities of a home it is high time that space be devoted to this mechanism of living. For want of a better term a room devoted to such a purpose may be called the "office" of the house. Here the telephone stands on a table that bears also the miscellaneous utensils and printed matter that are always wanted in a house when they cannot be found. Here are cookbooks, gardening books, dictionaries, time tables, while a few old plates, a cast or two, bits of Dresden, water colors and a few cherished photographs relieve an otherwise humdrum collection of necessities. Here arriving parcels are placed and the daily mail opened. Mysterious cupboards there are and drawers with locks that work.—Indoors and Out.

No Need For a Leader.

The society reporters always speak of a bride being "led to the altar," just as though a bride couldn't find her own way there blindfolded.—Philadelphia Record.

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of TWO full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland-Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east and the running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

BIG VEINS OF SILVER QUEEN MINE

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M. F., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "a strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim, he submits, is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." . . "The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt."

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER and COBALT.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, marked on the envelope "Tender for Construction," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, until twelve o'clock noon of the 14th day of February, 1907, for the work required for the construction, in accordance with the plans, profiles and specifications of the Commissioners, for the following sections of the Transcontinental Railway, viz.:—

(1) District "A."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners at or near the City of Moncton, in the Province of New Brunswick, westerly for a distance of about 90 miles.

(2) District "A."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the town of Grand Falls, in the Province of New Brunswick, westerly to the boundary between the Provinces of New Brunswick and Quebec, a distance of about 62 miles.

(3) District "B."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the Quebec Bridge, easterly for a distance of about 150 miles.

(4) District "B."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners about 150 miles west of the Quebec Bridge westerly to a point known as Weymontachene, a distance of about 45 miles.

(5) Districts "C" and "D."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners about eight miles west of the Abitibi River crossing easterly for a distance of about 150 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz.:—Guy C. Dunn, St. John, N.B.; A. L. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; and S. R. Poulin, North Bay, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners.

A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenders shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners, and before submitting any tender, bidders should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications, and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept and agree to be bound by the terms and conditions contained in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada payable to the order of the Commissioners of the Trans-continental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 1, District "A." $75,000.
For Section No. 2, District "A." $90,000.
For Section No. 3, District "B," $225,000.
For Section No. 4, District "B," $75,000.
For Section No. 5, Districts "C" and "D", $375,000.

Any person whose tender is accepted shall, within ten days after the acceptance thereof, furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure, and all contract rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

Attention is called to the following clauses in the form of contract:—

"All mechanics, labourers or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final."

"This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are or shall be applicable to such works." (The schedule of Minimum wages determined upon by said department will form part of the contract.)

"The contractor shall, in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply and upon as good terms in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price."

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners; and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different Provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

The Valentine Token

Come to the Peterborough Bookstore and inspect the endless array of dainty and artistic, yet inexpensive valentines, and valentine gift books, and numerous appropriate gifts to "My Valentine." Don't forget your Sunday reading tonight. A. H. Stratton & Co.

Specialist Teaching Opticians

J. W. Browett, Dr. of Optics, teaches opticians throughout Ontario advanced methods of eye examination for glasses, the fitting of artificial eyes, etc. This gentleman is visiting Uxbridge in this capacity until February 25. Appointments are now being made for the week following this date at Mr. Browett's permanent office, McDermid & Jury's drug store, Peterborough.

George Street Epworth League

The meeting of the George street Methodist Epworth League, Monday evening next, Feb. 11th, will be of special interest. Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, of the Collegiate Institute staff will talk on "Great Hymns of the Church." A short musical programme will also be given. A very interesting and instructive evening will be spent and all are welcome.

BABIES SLEEP SOUNDLY

Babies who are given an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets, always sleep soundly at night and it is not the drugged sleep produced by sleeping drops or soothing powders either the sleep is natural, healthy and restful, and baby wakes up in the morning bright and cheerful. The Tablets are the best medicine in the world for the cure of all the minor ailments of little ones. Mrs. L. Gagne, Edmundston, N. B., says: "My baby was cross and fretful and I hardly ever got a good night's rest until I began giving Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets removed the cause of the trouble and now baby sleeps well at night." The Tablets are sold by druggists or by mail at 25 cents a box, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MESSRS. STOREY & LEARY ADD FLOUR AND FEED

To Their Agricultural Implement Warehouse on Water Street—"Will Make Things Hum."

Messrs. Storey and Leary, the hustling agricultural implement warehouse proprietors, of Water street, have added a new department to their business, which they intend pushing with their usual vigour. The front half of their premises has been fitted up for a flour and feed store, and is already well stocked with various high class brands of family flours, also grain and chop, specially prepared poultry and stock foods, timothy and clover seeds, etc. Also harness, whips and stable sundries, robes, horse blankets, etc. The firm is agent for the Deering and other harvesting implements, as well as ploughs and cultivating machinery and being well known should make things hum in their new lines.

The Evangelistic Band

The Band will have charge of the Men's Meeting at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday at 4 o'clock. A very interesting meeting is promised. The Torrey-Alexander songs will be used. Mr. Stuart Laing will be the soloist. A hearty invitation is extended to all men to attend.

Women's Strength is Overtaxed

BY WORK AND WORRY, BUT GOOD HEALTH IS RESTORED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

With her strength overtaxed by too much work many a woman finds herself weak, nervous and exhausted, subject to indigestion and headaches and spells of discouragement and despondency.

Under such circumstances Dr Chase's Nerve Food comes as a blessing of great value, bringing new hope and confidence and restoring vitality to the blood and nerves.

Dizziness, heart disturbances, pale, bloodless appearance, smothering, choking sensations, heavy heart beating and palpitation are some of the symptoms which give way before the persistent use of this great food cure. The appetite is sharpened, digestion is improved, the form is rounded out to healthful proportions and gradually and certainly strength and vigour replace weakness and disease.

Mrs. D. Scott, Cobourg, Ont., states: "After recovering from typhoid fever I was left in a very low state of health and my system was very much run down. I was very weak, nervous and in fact was not fit to do any work at all and began to fear that I was of little use in the world.

"A friend of mine, Mrs. G. M. Brown, had used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and told me that it benefitted her wonderfully. I took courage and began the use of this medicine. After taking the first box I began to feel an improvement in my health, and now after using four boxes I am completely cured. I now feel like myself once more and believe that I can attribute the cure to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

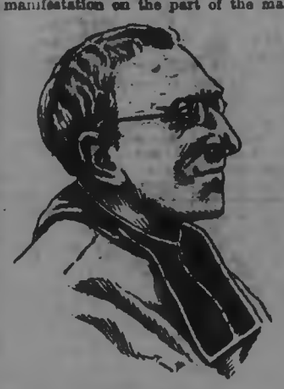
For men who are suffering from headaches, indigestion and sleeplessness, for women who besides these symptoms suffer from weaknesses and irregularities of the delicate feminine organism, for children who are pale weak and puny, there is, we believe, no preparation extant which will bring about such satisfactory results as the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

AN IMPRESSIVE SCENE.

Mgr. Richard Quits Palace—Aged Archbishop of Paris Accepts Hospitality of a French Deputy.

Cardinal Richard, Archbishop of Paris on the 17th Dec. voluntarily vacated the Episcopal Palace and temporarily accepted the hospitality of M. Denys Cochin, a Conservative Deputy, at the latter's residence in the Rue de Babylone.

Departure of the Primate was the occasion for an imposing Catholic manifestation on the part of the majority of the priests of Paris, many members of the nobility and about three thousand men, women and children. The gathering completely blocked the street in front of the Episcopal Palace, and those present sang hymns as the Cardinal was assisted into his carriage by the Coadjutor Bishop, Mgr. Amiette, and his two vicars general.



CARDINAL RICHARD,
Archbishop of Paris.

The crowd knelt and chanted as the Cardinal seated himself in the vehicle, and the venerable prelate, who was much moved, then stood up and blessed the multitude. A number of young Catholics thereupon approached the carriage, detached the horses and with difficulty dragged it through the dense masses of people lining the streets.

Already the deserted palace and the empty convent adjoining at which the vast majority of the daughters of the French aristocracy have been educated, are already covered with the flaring advertisements of motor car manufacturers, brands of goose liver, music hall attractions and large confectionery establishments.

The entire Cochin family awaited the venerated Cardinal on his arrival, happy to give hospitality to a prince of the Church in such dolorous circumstances. The police had no occasion to intervene, although a fairly large force had been prepared in case of need.

MME. CABRA.

First White Woman to Cross Africa in Traveling Costume.

Mme. Cabra, wife of one of the leading officers of the Belgian army, has just arrived at Brussels, after eighteen months' adventurous travel and experience in journeying across Africa. Mme. Cabra left Belgium early last year with Coramandant Cabra for Dar-es-Salaam, in German East Africa, traveling thence through Zanzibar, Mombassa, and Entebbe. From the capital of Uganda she and her husband went to Lake Albert and to Mahaji, crossed the Ruwenzori range, so recently exploited by the Duke d'Abruzzi, and took several weeks in journeying down the Congo river to the coast. Mme. Cabra adopted the rational dress (in which she is seen in her photograph) for her travels through the uncivilized wilds.

MME. CABRA.

His Flowers.

"I heard in my youth," said Sir Charles Murray, "one of many curious stories of Sir John Shaw. "He was most eccentric in his appearance and dress and cared nothing for tidiness in the grounds immediately surrounding his house. One day he invited two gentlemen from Edinburgh to dine with him at Carnock. As was the custom of the time, they appeared before dinner in knee breeches, silk stockings and thin shoes. The weather being fine, Sir John invited them to take a turn in the garden. Civilly and thoughtlessly they followed their host and soon found themselves skipping among nettles and thistles, to the great discomfort of their unfortunate calves. Sir John, who was clad, as usual, in corduroy breeches and top boots, said to them, with polite gravity, 'Step oot, step oot, gentlemen. Ye'll no hurt my flowers.'"—Cornhill Magazine.

The Privilege of Peers.

There is a curious case in Fortescue's "reports" relating to the privilege of peers, in which the bailiff who many years ago arrested a lord was forced by the court to kneel down and ask his pardon, though he alleged that he had acted by mistake, for that his lordship had a dirty shirt, a workout suit of clothes and only sixpence in his pocket, so that he could not believe that he was a peer and arrested him through inadvertence.—Green Bag

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Feb. 9. — In anticipation of a bad bank statement the market was rather soft to-day, although declines were for the most part confined to fractions in the early trading. The bear party was inclined to put out new short stock but was a little wary about aggressive operations before the bank statement appeared, while there was selling on the part of London and holders here who did not want to carry stocks over until Monday, especially on account of the holiday next week.

The very best kind of buying is going on in General Electric, which is generally looked upon as a good investment. No matter what takes place in the copper metal market General Electric's prospects are bright for the increasing business as well as profit.

Remodeled.

After being injured by a bull of peculiarly savage temper John Wesson was under a doctor's care for a considerable time and thereby incurred a heavy bill for medical attendance. When he was almost well one of his old friends who had called upon him said he congratulated him on looking so well after such a long illness.

"Looking well!" echoed John. "I should be looking well. There's been $150 spent in repairs on me lately, and I'm not finished yet!"

Just one girl. The one he was looking for. The new moving picture programme includes among others the story of the young man of 25 who did marry when he found his affinity, and did it quick. He saw her on the platform waiting the arrival of the train for Buffalo. He introduced himself, proposed, was accepted, found a clergyman on the train, was married and they spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and lived happily ever after. Special mention may also be made of the "Mysterious Dream." Johnny Rich left his club and found him elf floating high in the clouds over New York City. You should see it for yourselves. It was real to him, but was it possible? And again another picture of the po r orphan boy who coveted his neighbour's apples. SPLENDID CONCERT BY THE JUNIOR CHAPTER

Pleasant Social Gathering Held Last Evening—Mr. R. Fair Presided.

ENCOURAGING ADDRESSES WERE GIVEN

The annual entertainment of the Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was held last evening in the St. John's Church School house. The boys were given a supper in the basement at seven o'clock and a large number of the members partook of the many good things provided.

The second part of the entertainment began at 8 o'clock and was open to the parents and any friends who wished to come. It was regretted that not many of the older people turned out, but those who were fortunate enough to be present were treated to a most excellent programme.

Mr. Robt. Fair acted as chairman in a very efficient manner. In his opening remarks he expressed his regret at there not being more present as the programme to be given was well worthy of a larger audience, but it was probably owing to so many counter attractions that there was such a lack of numbers. As a Church Warden of the church Mr. Fair said he was glad to hear of the good work the Junior members were doing and it gave him great pleasure to be present with the boys and he hoped they would enjoy a pleasant and profitable evening. Mr. Fair then introduced the following excellent programme:—

Overture, Halpany Orchestra.
Club Swinging, Mr. Drysdale.
Violin solo, Master Frank Halpany.
Comic song, Mr. Coleman.
Banjo solo, Mr. W. Dundas.
Vocal solo, Cyril Dewey.
Accordion solo, Mr. Chas. Goodacre.
Recitation, Jack Denison.
Recitation, Mr. Williams.
Overture, Orchestra.
Recitation, Frank Halpany.

The numbers were all well received and almost all were encored. Mr. Coleman had to reply to an encore. Too much cannot be said of the clever elocutionist, Frank Halpany. He was repeatedly encored and his selections certainly were excellent.

During the evening short addresses were given by Rev. Canon Davidson, Mr. R. J. Dewey and the honourary director, Mr. Jas. Bell.

Mr. Dewey said it gave him great pleasure to be present. He spoke encouraging words to the Junior members. He urged them to persevere in the work they were endeavouring to carry out and not feel discouraged. All great things, he said, had small beginnings, and because their membership was small that did not indicate their work would be unsuccessful. He paid a hearty tribute to the good work of Mr. Jas. Bell and referred to the great interest he took in the boys.

Mr. Jas Bell, honourary president of the chapter, said the Junior branch was doing good work and in the Sunday school especially. Mr. Bell referred to the systematic way in which they worked. They were not only doing good work for the church but also for themselves by preparing themselves for the work which will come to them to do as they grow older. Mr. Bell closed by thanking the chairman for his services and also those taking part on the programme.

A very pleasant evening was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

VERY GOOD MARKET THIS MORNING

Large Attendance and Abundance of Many of the Products—Reasonable Prices Demanded

The morning market was rather satisfactory from the citizen's standpoint the prices being nearly normal considering what is demanded in other places. Good "fresh" eggs sold sold from 27 to 29 cts. a doz; butter was disposed of at 26 and 27 cts. a lb. Northern Spy apples were sold at $1.50 a bag, while potatoes are down to 90 cts. There was a good supply of fowl mostly chickens, as ducks, geese and turkeys were rather scarce. One woman had a turkey for which she was asking $2.75. It weighed over 25 lbs. and if one was not told to what class the bird belonged, one might honestly say that it was an Australian ostrich. "It certainly was a rare old bird," and might have been sold for any price at Christmas time, thus demonstrating "Ant it funny what a difference just a few weeks make!"

The outside produce was also of a fairly large supply, especially meat and wood. Beef was for sale in abundance at 5 and 6 cents. There was but very little pork; as it was it sold at 10 and 11 cents. There were many loads of hay and wood selling at various prices. An extra large supply of winter apples was also exhibited, Northern Spies being in abundance. The prices were about as follows:—

Potatoes, per bag		to	90
Apples, per bag		to	1 30
Onions, per peck	25
Beets, per peck	15
Cabbage, per head	5
Parsnips, per peck	15
Butter, per lb.	26	to	27
Eggs, per doz	27	to	29
Ducks, per pair		to	1 00
Chickens, per pair	65	to	1 00
Geese, each	1 10	to	1 25
Hay, per ton	11 00	to	14 00
Pork, per lb.	10	to	11
Beef, "	5	to	6

HEALTH OFFICERS SEEK PHYSICANS' HELP IN FIGHT AGAINST CONSUMPTION

The Kansas and Minnesota State Boards of Health have made a new move against tuberculosis. Letters have been mailed to both physicians and patients, requesting that the former co-operate with the board in its fight against consumption by supplying full information relative to each case that comes under their observation, and advising the latter as to the best known method of treatment. Among the instructions offered to tuberculosis patients are the following:

Men with consumption should not wear beard or mustache. Sleep alone. Keep the windows open day and night; fresh air is essential. Dress warmly, and don't be afraid of the cold. Eat plenty of nourishing food. Don't spit on the floors or in public places. Stay out of doors all you can; remember that sunshine kills the germs of consumption.

These are wise instructions, and should be observed by every one afflicted, as the most important duty is to get well. Colds and coughs should not be neglected, as colds inflame the lungs, and the cough is extremely wearing on the system.

An eminent authority on lung trouble says that the following simple formula will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; glycerine, two ounces; good whiskey, a half pint. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses every four hours. Great care should be exercised in securing pure ingredients, and, to avoid substitution, it is best that they should be purchased separately and the mixture prepared by yourself. The Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) can be secured from any good prescription druggist in the original half-ounce vials, as purchased for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Windsor, Ontario—plainly printed thereon. There are many rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), which are put out under similar names and style of package. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine, as they will invariably produce nausea, and never effect the desired result.

MOST BEAUTIFUL SPECTACLE GIVEN IN PETERBORO'

In the first of these little Muriel Moran made a capital Cupid.

Mr. Morphet sings the serenade "If Thine Eyes," in splendid fashion, while Mr. Wesley has an opportunity to display effectually his powerful bass in the solo "I am The King." The male chorus sings well and the work of the whole chorus throughout is splendidly rendered.

The prologue was an unique and beautiful act in which the children won unstinted applause. The dance of the court attendants and courtiers and the petite cotillion were splendidly performed, and the little ones who took part in the good-night dance brought down the house.

Miss Howell sang a lullaby song in good voice in this act.

One of the features of the evening was the scene in the Golden Grotto of Neera, where a beautiful dance divertissement was given in a manner that drew wild applause from the audience. It opened with a dainty little Japanese song, "Karama," charmingly sung by Miss Pearl Morgan, aided by a chorus attired in Japanese costumes. The number was a pretty one and was heartily enjoyed. Then came the dances of the Blackbirds, followed by the Rosebuds, Venetian castanets and Graces. All of these were effectively presented, the grace and agility of the young girls winning them round after round of applause. The costumes were lavish in the extreme. Little Miss Jessie Spence in her solo dance made a decided hit. It was charmingly and gracefully performed. This was followed by an operatic pot pourri by the Yeoman and Peasants in which the songs,—'Tis Set of Sun; Ding Dong; Dina; Far Over the Sea, and Come Where the Lillies, were rendered with precision and spirit by the large chorus who made a pretty picture which filled the stage. Miss Nellie Graham sang a rag-time number in splendid fashion, and executed a cake walk very effectively. The act ends with a shower of shooting stars and a beautiful allegory "The Chariot of Sleep."

The drill of the White Hussars in the third act was one of the most enjoyable and clever events of the entire programme. Twenty-four young ladies attired in costumes of white performed many pretty march movements in splendid fashion, their marching being almost perfect. This was followed by a sparkling song, "Miss Commodore," effectively sung by Miss Ruth Dawson. Then came the grand finale, the most novel and spectacular feature of the operetta. Upon the crowd of gayly costumed girls that thronged the stage, came a perfect shower of serpentine confette of all hues, which wrapped itself around the dancing figures until they were entangled in a veritable maze.

The spectacle was brought to a close by a grand transformation scene, showing the home of the fairies. It was a fitting close to an event that for spectacular features has never been equalled on the local stage.

Credit and praise is due to the 57th Band for having given the people of Peterborough an opportunity witness such a treat, to Mr. H. J. Booth to whose instructions and painstaking efforts the success of the affair is due, and to the local people who took part.

The Peterborough hockey team were the guests of the management and of Mr. Turner, occupying boxes which were artistically adorned with their colours. The young ladies of the chorus recognized their presence by all wearing blue and white ribbons.

The orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Gliddon, rendered the music in a charming manner and their playing was heartily enjoyed.

Zephra will be repeated to-night and on Monday and Tuesday and should be greeted with magnificent houses throughout.

THE WRONG DIAGNOSIS

Prompt the Use of Worthless Remedies

Even an experienced physician will sometimes make a mistake in diagnosis, in which event his entire treatment is wasted and may even be injurious to the patient.

The advocates of all other hair restoratives save Herpicide have wrongly diagnosed the cause of dandruff and falling hair.

They figure on a functional disease, whereas it is now known and generally accepted that hair loss is due to a parasitic germ which Newbro's Herpicide destroys.

There is no substitute for Herpicide, accept none.

THE STORE THAT NEVER DISAPPOINTS

Our Liberal Exchange Policy

ANOTHER FACTOR that contributes not a little to the development of this business is Our Liberal Exchange Policy. If a firm cannot afford to be liberal at this point, is it not a fair assumption that something must be radically wrong with its merchandise? If anything purchased at this store doesn't prove satisfactory, we want it to be returned, Indeed, a favor is conferred on us by so doing, for we are anxious to be told of our deficiencies that we may correct them. In other words, we want our customers to be entirely satisfied with purchases not only for their own sake, but also for our own. And if there are instances where employees evince a contrary spirit, we would thank the customer concerned to acquaint us with the facts which will be treated confidentially.

COMMENCEMENT OF SOCIALS BY MEN'S GUILDS OF CITY

Barraca Club of Murray Street Baptist Church Instituted the Movement by a Successful Meeting Last Night

WAS HELD IN THE Y.M.C.A. PARLOURS

The Barraca Club of the Murray street Baptist Church entertained the members of the Young Men's Guilds of the various churches of the city in the Y.M.C.A. last night. This was the institution of a series of socials which should prove successful from every standpoint. Each Guild will be the host in turn and if they are all as successful as were the young men of Murray street church the series should prove one of the most interesting and beneficial that could be desired. In this way many acquaintances are made and a great deal of good may be done for the guilds and their members.

Although there were many counter attractions last night there was a good attendance. A musical programme was rendered, a synopsis of which is as follows:—

Chairman's Remarks.
Song, Mr. Campbell.
Reading, Mr. Lang.
Address, "The Study of Spiders," Mr. Elcome.
Song, Mr. Campbell.
Recitation, Mr. Walter Garbutt.
Instrumental.
Game of location.

The instrumental number was given by Messrs. A J Tovey, A Cranfield, J Brightman, B Holland, Mandolins, and H. Theobald, piano.

Rev. J R Webb occupied the chair and explained the purpose of the meeting, mentioning the good it might do if properly carried out.

Mr. D. Campbell's vocal numbers were good. He sang "The Island of Dreams," and "My Little Irish Girl."

Mr. E. Elcome's address on "The Study of Spiders" was very interesting and educational and elicited queries from his listeners. The game of location was also enjoyed.

The Murray street Club fittingly closed the evening by serving refreshments which were greatly appreciated. On the whole the Baraca Club commenced the series in a splendid manner, and deserve great credit for instituting the movement.

St. John's young men are to conduct the next social and will provide whatever kind of entertainment appeals to them.

Mr. Coleman moved a vote of thanks, seconded by Mr. Williamson, to the hosts for the splendid social they had provided. Mr. Garbutt, president of the club, responded, saying that he was glad they had succeeded in making it pleasant for the young men and hoped that the series of socials would serve their intended purpose. Mr. G. Schneider accompanied at the piano, while the Doxology was sung.

The assistance lent by Rev. J. R. Webb of Murray street church and Mr. Williamson, of the Y.M.C.A., were appreciated by the gentlemen present.

MORAL STOCK-TAKING TIME

By Rev. R. A. Torrey

Wealth.—At this time of year every careful business man and farmer takes an inventory of his stock-in-trade, finds out precisely how much his assets exceed or fall below his liabilities. If he is in debt, he wants to know it in order that he may conduct his business accordingly. Many a man has made shipwreck in business through unwillingness to face facts and find out just where he stood financially.

Health.—Every man wants to know what is the condition of his lungs, of his heart, of his stomach, of his nerves. He may think his heart is sound when his heart is defective. But if that be the case, he wants to it, because if he knows that his heart is defective he will not subject it to the strain that he otherwise would. Many a man lies to-day in a premature grave who might be doing good work on earth; he was not willing to find out what his real physical condition was and act accordingly.

Eternity.—We are all sailing across a perilous sea toward an eternal port. "Where art thou?" Where do you stand as regards spiritual and eternal things? As regards God, as regards heaven, as regards Christ, as regards eternity? Are you on the road to heaven or the road to hell? You are on one or the other. If you are a professing Christian, what kind of a Christian are you? Are you a mere formal Christian, or are you a real Christian? You know there are two kinds. Men and women, there are many of you whose sympathies for years have been with the Church of Jesus Christ, but you have never taken an open stand. Take it now and confess Him before the world. "Where art thou?" It is not a question to trifle with. There is one thing that makes it exceedingly important why you should face this question, and that is the fact that where you are now will in all likelihood determine where you shall spend eternity.

Compiled from a sermon, "Where Art Thou?" by Rev. R. A. Torrey.

The formation of a society supported by voluntary contributions to carry on this work in several departments through the entire press of Canada is under consideration. — Compiler.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT ON THE MARRIAGE QUESTION

would submit this piece of poetry as a solution of the question.

If ever a poor fellow led a miserable life it's me. I wish that I was in my grave, for I am married to a woman who is hotter than cayenne, and who treats me absolutely as a slave. For instance, only yesterday, I arose at 4 o'clock, and worked like a nigger till 10 o'clock at night, and then went off to "bye-bye." I had just got into bed when in she walked and yelled with all her might, "How dare you go to bed, without my sanction! Do you want to sleep your senses all away? And there's heaps of work about the house that somebody must do—and you don't suppose I'll do it—do you, eh? Remember, I'm your wife, and not a servant! We've lost the dog, and burglars I dread; when your place is in the kennel as protection for the house—how dare you have the cheek to go to bed?"

Some time ago the wife said, "I'm going the have some friends to dine, and as I want to do the grand, I'm going to buy a duck, which you, of course, will have to carve as well, you understand." The bird was bought, I cooked it, and then having served it up, I carved for everybody who was there. Then, thinking I would like a taste, I carved myself a piece. Then the wife said to me, "Well, I declare—

How dare you go and help yourself
to poultry,
When you know I don't allow you
even meat;
There's the bacon rind I put by
for the cat,
And several bits of fat I couldn't eat
Where's that half an egg that mother left last Monday!
And all the stale crusts baby could not suck!
When you know there's lots of odds and ends
That must be eaten up—
How dare you go and help yourself to duck!"

Yours respectfully,
SHERBROOKE STREET.

MARRY FOR LOVE AND WORK FOR HOME IS GOOD ADVICE

To the Editor.

As to young men not marrying after 25, I may say that the girls are quite a lot to blame. The girls seem to want men who will make them comfortable without much of the young lady's help. Don't we all understand that Joseph and Mary did not marry on such terms? Joseph took Mary because God told him to. Mary did not ask questions, but held her peace and thanked God, and went where her husband wished her to, and had no servant to wait on her in sickness or in health. I am married since I was 19, and went with my husband to a farm which he rented. He was one hundred dollars in debt when he married me. I helped him with the farm work, took the place of a hired man as often as I was needed, and did my housework either early in the morning or late at night in order to help my husband out of debt and make a home for us and our little one. Marry for love and work for a home, is my advice. Learn home duties and help a husband. Work will not hurt any woman. I am 38 years of age, and will venture to say that I feel as young and look as young as any girl from 22 to 30 years of age, if dressed like a girl between those ages, and I have certainly worked hard for my time. Why, work is a pleasure to me, and I hope will be to my daughters. I do not like the wide path of amusement that leads to destruction. Hard work keeps us in the narrow way.

MARRIED LADY.

Norval Baptie, the Champion Skater of the World, will give an exhibition in Fancy, Acrobatic and Speed Skating in the Brock Street Rink on Wednesday evening, February 13th. Baptie is the undisputed champion of the world. Skating before and after the exhibition. Admission 25c. Children 15c. This will be the most wonderful exhibition of the kind ever given in the city.

INSTALLATION OF LADY OFFICERS

Lady Lansdowne Lodge No. 22 Installed Officers for the Coming Term—An Oyster Supper Afterwards.

The installation of officers of the Daughters of England, Lady Lansdowne Lodge No. 22, was held Thursday night in the S.O.E. Hall, Hunter street. There was a large and enthusiastic audience and everything was carried out in a satisfactory manner.

After the ceremony, Brother Dr. Young very hospitably entertained the ladies to an oyster supper, and needless to say, they greatly appreciated it.

The following officers were duly installed by Bro. Dr. Young:

Worthy Past President—Bro. Dr. Young.

Outer Guard—Bro. Wm. Taylor.
Worthy Surgeon—Bro. T. W. H. Young, M.D.
Auditors—Sisters Tovey, Oliver and Thomas.
Trustees — Sisters Gaskins, Shaw and Leat.

A NINE DAY'S WONDER

That's what the shoppers of Peterborough think of Mr. Patrick T. Murphy, who has the management of the gigantic sale at the B. Y. Moyes store, 408 George street. He has cut the prices down, down, away down, on everything. He must sell the goods, and he knows that to do it the prices had to be cut, hammered and slashed. Well, he did it, and the thousands of happy faces seen every day, coming out of of the Moyes store, wearing the smile that wont come off, is the best proof of his success. Remember the last few days. Look for large red sign, B. Y. Moyes, 408 George street.

THE PEOPLE'S POPULAR SUNDAY SERVICES

Will Be Continued at the Park Street Church To-morrow Evening

The People's Popular Sunday Evenings at the Park Street Baptist church, are being continued through February. The programme is proving attractive and helpful. The subject slated for to-morrow night is "The Resurrection: Will a Limb Lost in Ireland, rise with that Body in Canada?" This subject has awakened considerable interest; all are concerned. Subjects on the inspiration of the Scriptures will follow. The male quartette are helping during the month.

RUSSIAN GOVERNOR SHOT AND KILLED

Alexandrovsky Killed By a Youthful Terrorist.

KILLS 2 OTHERS; WOUNDS 1

Then Shoots Himself When Entrapped In Theatre Loft — He Afterwards Dies in a Hospital, But His Name Remains Unknown — New Feature Is That Bullets Used Were Poisoned—Jew Baiting.

Penza, Russia, Feb. 9.—S. A. Alexandrovsky, governor of Penza, was shot and killed by a young man as he was leaving the theatre Thursday night. In attempting to escape, the assassin also killed the assistant chief of police and a policeman, and wounded the manager of the theatre. The terrorist then shot himself and died in a hospital. The assassin was not identified. The bullets which he used subsequently were discovered to be poisoned.

M. Alexandrovsky, who was well-known as chief commissioner of the Red Cross in the field during the war between Russia and Japan, had just stepped out of the door of the theatre when a youth pushed his way through the crowd and shot the governor in the neck.

Seeing that it was impossible to get through the crowd outside the building, the murderer dashed into the theatre, firing wildly. In a second attempt to capture the assassin, the manager was severely wounded.

The terrorist fled through what he evidently believed to be one of the exits, but found himself in the ladies' cloakroom. An attendant, realizing the situation, pointed to the stairs as a means of egress, and so soon as the assassin disappeared the attendant locked the door behind him. The stairs, however, only led to the loft, and the murderer subsequently was found there unconscious from a bullet wound.

Japs Honor Russ Soldiers.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 8.—A despatch from Harbin, Manchuria, says that the Japanese are erecting two monuments on Peropelochny Hill, Port Arthur, to the memory of the Russian and Japanese soldiers who fell in the siege.

In proximity to the monument to the Russians, a Russian chapel will be built, bearing this inscription: "In memory of the heroes who met their death in defence of Port Arthur."

Jew Baiting During Election.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 9.—The elections at Gomel Thursday were accompanied by general anti-Jewish excesses, organized by the local reactionists. Jew-baiting began on the eve of the elections and continued the whole day. Bands of reactionists patrolled the streets in the vicinity of the polling places, clubbing the Jewish voters. The chief of police refused to intervene.

TO PREVENT BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION

Do not neglect a cold or cough no matter how slight as the irritation spreading throughout the delicate lining of the sensitive air passages sooner or later will lead to fatal results.

If on the first appearance of a cough or cold you would take a few doses of you would save yourself a great deal of unnecessary suffering.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies.

It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations.

Miss Belle Campbell, Long River, P.E.I., writes: "For some time I was troubled with bronchitis. A friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. So I procured three bottles but it only took two to cure me."

Be careful when purchasing to see that you get the genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark and the price 25 cents at all dealers.

TOP AND BOTTOM.

To Combine In Britain to Defeat the Aristocracy.

London, Feb. 9.—The Attorney-General, Sir John L. Walton, who presumably spoke with the full knowledge of the intentions of the Government, made an important declaration in a speech at Leeds Thursday night, foreshadowing the Government program for a reform of the House of Lords.

In his remarks, the Attorney-General said that "the grim and serious work" upon which the Liberals were entering "would mean a revolution and involve two or three dissolutions."

He added that the House of Lords was entirely "out of harmony with modern democratic institutions and must go." The Government would endeavor to give effect to the will of the people by bills, which the peers would probably throw out, leading to a "combination of the crown and people to defeat the aristocracy."

Attorney-General Walton recognized that the struggle would be prolonged and exciting, and would mean a complete re-arrangement of the constitutional and political forces.

SIR WILFRID'S STATEMENT

Although Canada's Sympathy For Newfoundland Is Deep and Genuine—Resignation of Hon. C. S. Hyman Announced by Prime Minister — Will Retain Portfolio and Will Run Again.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—There were three crowded hours of interest in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. Members had barely settled in their seats before the Deputy Speaker submitted to the House the resignation, properly attested, of Hon. C. S. Hyman as member for London.

The Prime Minister then presented the correspondence which he had with Mr. Hyman on the subject of his resignation, and read a telegram from the Minister of Public Works announcing his willingness to retain his portfolio.

This brought the leader of the Opposition to his feet with a complaint that Mr. Hyman's intentions had been disclosed at a Liberal meeting in London on Saturday last, and a protest against lack of frankness on the part of the Government, which, he declared, had characterized their communications to the House on the matter.

Mr. Foster followed with a characteristic speech, in which he charged the Prime Minister with disfranchising the electors of London, and suggested that on the ground of ill-health, if on no other, Mr. Hyman should be relieved of office.

The Prime Minister strongly repudiated the idea that because a Minister fell into bad health he should be expected to resign his portfolio, characterized Mr. Foster's suggestion as cruel, reiterated his contention that the disclosures in connection with the London election afforded no sufficient reason for Mr. Hyman's resignation from the office of Minister of Public Works, and pointed out that the electors of London would have an opportunity of passing judgment on what had taken place.

No Fighting Over Fish.

From the Hyman resignation the House passed to the question of the relations of Great Britain and the United States with reference to the Newfoundland fishery dispute, which drew from the Prime Minister a pronouncement as to the attitude of Canada.

The most important feature of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech was his reference to the fact that the home market for Canadian fish would be ample to make the fishermen independent of the United States market the moment the problem of transporting fresh fish in cold storage to the big centres like Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and Quebec is solved.

He added: "When the day comes to which I look forward the problem of Newfoundland and Canada will be solved. We shall be able to offer to our brothers in Newfoundland a market in our own country. It is true that that day is yet at some distance. But in the meantime the difficulty that they have at present is in the hands of the diplomatists. The Right Hon. James Bryce has instructions to deal with this matter, and he is sailing on the 13th of this month for the United States. He will deal with the question, I hope, in a manner satisfactory to the people of Newfoundland. Now we have come to this position in our relations with the people of the United States: We never can conceive of war between us, or of war between Great Britain and the United States. We mean to settle all our difficulties with that nation by peaceful means, by diplomatic action, by negotiation, but never by war. That is the condition. I have only to say, and I believe that in this I voice the feeling of every citizen of Canada, that toward the solution of their difficulty we desire to help the people of Newfoundland as far as in our power lies."

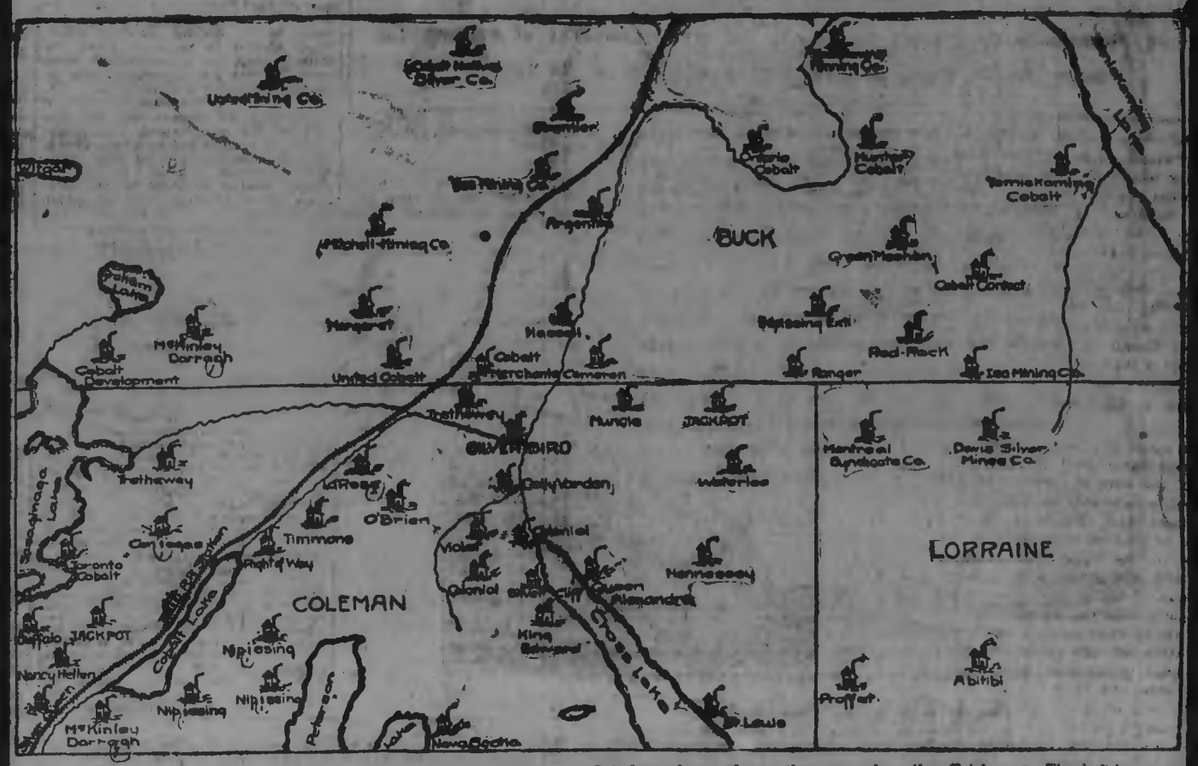
Thaw Trial In Canada.

Dr. Stockton took exception to the report of the Thaw trial as it appeared in the Ottawa Free Press.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux said he had not had an opportunity of reading the newspaper mentioned by Dr. Stockton, but he commended his action in bringing the matter up, and, for his part, he quite agreed with what had been stated by the member for St. John. He did not know what interest Canada as a nation and the Canadian people had in the filthy trial which was now taking place in the State of New York. Remarking that the law on the subject was very clear, Mr. Lemieux read section 103 of the post-office act, and, proceeding, said he had no hesitation in saying that any Canadian newspaper publishing at present the very immoral evidence which was appearing in the New York papers was guilty of a misdemeanor, and could be brought to punishment before any court of law. The department over which he presided had always taken proper proceedings in such cases, and he recalled the action that had been taken in two cases. He thought, however, that the discussion would serve the purpose of the hon. gentleman and recall the Canadian press to a sense of its duty at present. He hoped the immoral evidence which was being published in the State of New York would not find a place in any of the Canadian newspapers.

BUY SILVER BIRD

At 15 Cents Per Share



This map can be relied upon for accuracy as to location of the mines indicated. It is drawn from and upon the same scale as the official maps. The shaft-houses indicate the correct locations of the working of the mines. Silver Bird may be seen in the centre of the map.

SILVER BIRD is surrounded by the greatest producing mines in the Cobalt District.

SILVER BIRD is absolutely inside property, consisting of twenty acres (patented), being the west half of the north-east quarter of the north half of Lot 3, concession 6, Coleman.

SILVER BIRD is a mine in full operation, with two 95 h.p. boilers, steam hoist, steam drills and all machinery and buildings necessary to complete an operating mine.

SILVER BIRD is working two shifts and is in full operation both day and night, sinking upon three veins and in the same formations identically as in the O'Brien, Timmins and Right of Way mines and lying immediately between these mines and the Green-Meehan, Red Rock, Cobalt Contact and Nipissing Extension. The veins are broadening out and are increasing in values, with depth now 40 ft. in shaft.

SILVER BIRD has no indebtedness; there are no incumbrances against the property or stock of the company. The capitalization of The Silver Bird Cobalt Mines, Limited, is but $1,500,000.00, par value of the shares $1.00 each, with 500,000 shares in the treasury, of which 900,000 shares are now offered to the public for subscription at 15 cents per share.

Considering the inside location of the property, development done, results obtained, low capitalization and the large amount of shares in the treasury, this is unquestionably one of the best bargains (if not the greatest bargain) that has been offered in Cobalt mining shares.

We predict this first allotment will be largely oversubscribed and we urge that early application be made.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO MAKE MONEY

Buy Trout Lake Shares at 25 Cents Now

The history of the Hudson Bay Co., The Nipissing and other great mines is going to repeat itself in the Trout Lake, Cobalt Mining Co., of Montreal.

Hudson Bay Co's shares are now worth 1000 times their original value.

$1,000 invested in the Calumet and Hecla Mining Stock 36 years ago is to-day worth in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. (The $1.00 shares are now worth $900 each.)

The Nipissing Mines, which actually sold for $350,000 reached a market value of $25,000,000.00.

These are opportunities that you have failed to grasp, but

Your Opportunity Now is Trout Lake at 25c a Share

Wake up! Don't fail this time! Don't let this opportunity go. Buy before the limited number of shares at this price are all taken up.

The claims owned by the Trout Lake Co. will be shipping mines during the summer. Handsome dividends are in sight. Similar enterprises are paying as much as 30% to 40%. The three claims of 40 acres each, owned by the Trout Lake Cobalt Mining Co., of Montreal, are in the Temagami Forest Reserve. It is significant that all the richest finds of Gold, Silver and Copper were made last summer in this immediate vicinity. The claims are in the same rich mineralized circle as the Nipissing and Edison Mines.

The Ottawa Free Press (Feb. 1, 1907) Commenting on the latter says:

"The T. A. Edison Mines on the Montreal River have about as big and rich bodies of silver ore in the bottom of their shafts as any that have been found in Cobalt district."

The three Trout Lake claims are in the immediate neighborhood of the Edison Mine and the two claims that have been prospected show extraordinary rich mineralization quite close to the surface.

Don't let your money be idle in a bank, earning only 3 per cent. This is your opportunity now to make money. No one ever becomes rich by leaving their money in a bank.

The men behind this enterprise will push the development work to the utmost. The limited issue of shares at 25c is to enable them to push ahead with the work. They are just as desirous of making money as you are and they must make profits for you if they are to make profits for themselves.

A STRONG RESOLUTION.

Western Municipalities Want C.N.R. Branch Taken Over.

Rosthern, Sask., Feb. 9.—Rosthern is sending a strong resolution to Ottawa urging the Government to operate the Prince Albert branch of the Canadian Northern, which was acquired last fall.

Mayor Nevison has wired all the towns on the line, including Prince Albert, Saskatoon and Regina asking for co-operation.

The intention is to bring all power possible to bear upon the Government and Railway Commission to induce the railway company to resume operations on the branch line or else have the Government take it over.

The "Listener" Again.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—The salient features of yesterday's proceedings were brought out in Inspector Maw's evidence. He apparently wished to convey the impression that the "listeners" only recorded conversations when requested to by the subscribers, and that these records were always guarded by the company as strictly private.

Mr. Maw admitted that the company had been drawing 60 hours every day in overtime from the girls, for which nothing was paid. In the three exchanges 82 girls were forced to work an extra hour and a half or two hours after doing the 9-hour shift, for nothing.

An Indian Superintendent.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Frederick O. Loft has been appointed as superintendent of the Six Nations Indians. He is a full-blooded Indian and well educated having graduated from Belleville Commercial College ad afterwards received a thorough newspaper training. His position will be much like that of a consul between the Government and Indians, and he will have ministerial power as well.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

THE MISSIONARY CONDITIONS AND NEEDS OF THE WEST

A Young Peterborough Clergyman's Summer In The West—Conditions of Carrying The Gospel To The Widely Scattered People—The Duty Of The East.

The following article, written by an old "Peterborough boy," Rev. Fred J. Sawers, son of Mr. Augustus Saw- J. Sawers, son of Mr. Augustus Sawers, of this city, will be read with interest, both for personal reasons and because it pictures the conditions in relation to mission work in the West and the responsibility of the Church. The interesting article is taken from the Canadian Churchman, to which The Examiner is indebted for the illustrations used:

A Summer in Alberta

(By Rev. F. J. Sawers, B.A.)

I am asked by the editor of the Missionary Department to tell something of the work of a missionary in the West, presumably because I have taken some part therein. I am requested to confine myself as far as possible to the things I have seen and known—the products of my own experience. I am to dwell upon fact and tightly hold the reins of fancy; and I am to endeavour to interpret the nature of the call which the West sends to the East, first of all for workers, and then for contributions to help on the great work of the Church in a new country. In such an undertaking it is necessary that the personal element should enter in largely, but it will be quite understood that this experience is really typical of that which is met with by those who have made up their mind s to have some part in this great work, and for that purpose, from time to time, offer themselves to one of the Westernbishops for missionary service in his diocese. I at all then attempt, briefly, to give an insight into the character of my work for the four months which I spent in Alberta during the past summer, and after that shall point out one or two objections which are made by a few people in the East, especially in regard to the missionary contributions to the Western work, answering them in the way my experience in this work would suggest.

The Starting Point

There were eight men who went out from the Diocesan College last May to take up mission work in the great Northwest. Three of these worked in Rupert's Land, three in Saskatchewan, one in British Columbia. I, myself, had chosen to work in the diocese of Calgary, and after a journey of nearly four days I reached my destination. My first step was to see the bishop, and Bishop Pinkham informed me that I was to go to Stettler, a new town, which had sprung up at the terminus of the Lacombe branch of the C. P. R. From Lacombe, which is 110 miles north of Calgary, this line runs east for 50 miles, and it is here that the town of Stettler is situated. The bishop had sent me to work at Stettler, but my work was not to be confined to the town by any means. I could work just as far to the east, north or south as I wanted. I was given a perfectly free hand in this district, so that I might choose my work as I thought best. It was to be real pioneer work. Only on the west was I in touch with one of our own posts, at a town called Alex, 25 miles west of Stettler; and north of Alex, on Buffalo Lake, is the little village of Lowerton, near which we had a log church, built some years before. I was appointed to take charge of the work here, as well as my work in Stettler, for they had not a clergyman available to carry on the work. However, after a month the bishop was able to send a man for this charge, and I was left free to devote all my attention to the new work in the district about Stettler. It was about the middle of May when I arrived, after taking some four hours to travel that 50 miles along a railway, the greater part of which had not been graded.

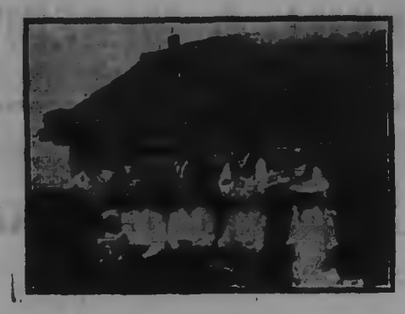
Typical Western Town

Stettler, in its appearance, is a good type of a new Western town; one wide street, with wooden buildings on either side—just the plain boards—very little paint—the roads showing signs of the recent clearing of the bush — and everything brand new. A great many of the newcomers had not yet built their houses, and a large portion of the population were living in tents, with household furniture strewn everywhere over the prairie. It is almost incredible to the Eastern mind that Western towns can grow as rapidly as they do. Stettler is a fine type in this respect. In November, 1905, two men had come in to start the town. They knew the location from the railway maps, but the railway had not yet arrived. After searching for nearly two days they found the township stakes at last, and the first shack was put up on the town site.

Wonderful Growth

This was in November. Inside of seven months a wonderful transformation had taken place. In November it was a bare stretch of wooded prairie. In June it was a thriving Western town, with a population of over 600 people, five hotels —two of them licensed—five general stores, seventy-five places of business, including bank, real estate offices, etc., and to cap the climax, a newspaper. Such, then, was the town which was to be the centre for my work. My first step was to look up our own people in the town. I found that we were comparatively few in numbers, but the people were very glad to have the services of the Church brought to them. From everyone I received a hearty welcome, and wherever I went throughout the summer the same feeling was manifested. Of my own people in Stettler there were just about twenty-five, who would naturally come to the services. The average congregation in Stettler throughout the summer was about twenty, so you may see from that that the attendance was by no means discouraging. We had no church, of course. It was necessary to make arrangements for our services every time. We had also to arrange for chairs and an organ if possible. The chairs had to be brought in for almost every service, and for a few Sundays we had an organ, but later this was taken into the country and we were left without an instrument. However, to have an organ for the services was quite an exception.

Christ Church, McLeod, Alta.



Service at the Red Deer River, thirty-five miles from the railway

120 Miles From A Doctor

There was only one place of all the preaching stations at which I held services at which we had an instrument to accompany the singing, so that one became quite accustomed to that aspect of the work. We first held our services in Stettler in a fair-sized hall. This was also the town school room, but later the hall was divided off to make offices. Next we had our services in the dining-room of an hotel which had just been built, but which was not yet opened. After this, another hall was built, and here we held our services during the rest of the summer. Just when I was leaving we made arrangements to hold a service every other Sunday evening in the Swedish Lutheran Church, and it is in this church that the services are now being held. Such was the character of the work in the town of Stettler, but this was but a small part of the summer's work. I had been given a great district in which to work. I might easily have gone 80 or 100 miles east, and still found many of my own people to minister to. The land-seekers had gone quite that far east, and one man had ridden 120 miles from the east country to Stettler in order to get a doctor. But, after all, there is a limit to the work of one man, and one must

Rev. Fred. J. Sawers' Sunday Outfit; Surplise in case in front of Saddle and Books, etc., in a Bag Behind, Starting on a Forty Mile Ride

many from Eastern Canada—quite a good proportion of these Anglicans, and besides these many Western American, many of whom "make no profession of religion," as they themselves say, and to them the Church has a very real duty. There were in addition, many Germans and Swedes, but they had in some cases their own ministers to attend to their spiritual wants. A start was made, then, on the first journey. This first ride was a good 100 miles. I called at different places, finding out especially the people who belonged to the Church of England. When I found one of our own members, the next thing was to find out from this household where there were others who belonged to the Church. In this way the names were procured of those who belonged to us in the east country. As a result of this trip, which lasted about a week there were five different places in which it was arranged that services should be held. These places were about ten miles apart, and, of course, all the services were held in the farmhouses, which, in this eastern section, were better than usual, because there had been people ranching here for seven or eight years. They told me however that I was the first clergyman that had come into that country. At one of these places at the first service there were thirty present; at another eighteen, and so the work went on. After thus working up the east country my next trip was into the south, and this meant a ride of seventy-five miles. Here I went down as far as the Red Deer River. The people in this part were much more scattered and I was only able to arrange one service; that was about fifteen miles south of Stettler, one fifteen miles south, and five in the east country. I therefore considered that my parish covered about seventy-five miles. There were people in the south country who came one Sunday fifteen miles to church. The services were held in Stettler every other Sunday, it being quite impossible to cover this field with a service every Sunday and on the Sunday that I had service at Stettler, I rode south fifteen miles for the afternoon service.

Services Appreciated

For the other services I would generally make a start on Saturday, or sometimes on Friday, when I had to go farther west. There were two services every Sunday, and sometimes three. That meant a ride of forty miles. Some of the stations I could only visit once in three weeks, but the others more frequently. During the summer I held some thirty services, and the average attendance for the whole summer was about seventeen — a good attendance one must admit when it is considered how scattered the people are. People value their church services when they put themselves out to attend them, as these people in most cases did. Going to church really means a lot of trouble in that western country, and that so many people were willing to take that trouble is the best proof possible that the services were welcomed.....These are the hardy people who are making of an almost boundless prairie country that which is destined to be a veritable treasure house to Canada in the years to come, and the people in the East in the meantime owe it to these pioneers to see to it that they shall not be deprived of the services of that Church which they own as their mother.

Will Help Themselves

But do not think that the new settlers are doing nothing, I believe that they are trying to do their part. During the summer, with thirty services, although no offertory was taken up they contributed to the missionary funds some sixty dollars in all. This, when we consider the average attendance of seventeen, shows quite tangibly that the people in the West do not intend to be looking to the East for charity all the time, but that when they can they will raise the money for themselves. In the town of Settler the members of the church showed that they were willing to do their share towards helping on the work. We decided that something should be done to place the church work on a permanent basis here. It was not considered wise to attempt to build a church for a little time, but it was decided first of all to buy an organ, and for this purpose $85 was raised, almost entirely by private subscriptions among our own people, few as they were, and in addition to this $40 was promised, looking forward to the purchase of a building lot, on which the church was to be erected later. You may see quite plainly from such a statement as this that when funds are given to the M.S.C.C. they are are not expended on any unworthy object but are spent in order to help people who are, as it were, starting life all over again, and who are doing their best to help themselves.

NOTICE is hereby given that it is the intention of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada after the expiration of four weeks from the first publication of this notice to apply to the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, under sections 221 and 222 of the Railway Act, for authority to construct a branch line or siding, extending from a point on the Grand Trunk Railway east of Gladstone Avenue, Peterborough, thence on a curve and crossing Landsdowne Avenue to the property of the Toronto Savings & Loan Company, and the Factory of the Brinton Carpet Company, Limited, situate on Park Lot No. 16 in Lot No. 15, in the 11th Concession Township of North Monaghan, as shown on plan, profile and book of reference deposited in the Registry Office for the County of Peterborough on 22nd December, 1906. Dated 31st January, 1907. W. H. Biggar General Solicitor, Grand Trunk Co., of Canada.

IN MEMORIAM

Lines written on the death of Mr. Isaac Garbutt, who died January 18th, 1907, aged 64 years:—

Another brother whom we loved,
Has left us here below,
To join the ransomed hosts above,
Where all the righteous go.

For many years he served the Lord,
And walked in wisdom's way,
But now he rests with Christ in Heaven,
Where pleasures ne'er decay.

His labours are all ended here;
His work on earth is done,
And he has heard his Master say:
Thou faithful one, well done.

The blest assurance here he had,
Of sins on earth forgiven,
And oft he spoke about it here
While on the way to Heaven.

Sorrows no more will trouble him
In that fair land on high;
For God will wipe, in Heaven above,
All tears from every eye.

He loved unto God's house to go,
To worship Jesus there,
And lift his heart to things above
In earnest heartfelt prayer.

He freely gave here of his means
Unto the cause of God,
That others here may help to spread
The Gospel news abroad.

The home it is so lonely now—
His place is vacant there;
No more we'll hear his voice engaged
At morn or evening prayer.

He did rejoice while here on earth,
Of Jesus' love to tell;
And when nearing th hour of death
He said that all was well.

His happy spirit now is free
From all distressing care;
He rests from all his labours now
In mansions, bright and fair.

May his dear wife and family here
Each serve the God of love,
And, when the storms of life arte o'er,
Meet their loved one above.

Farewell, dear brother, here we part
Upon this earthly shore;
But hope in Heaven to meet again
Where we shall part no more.

LAZARUS PAYNE.

Dummer, 1907.

GROWING OLD WHILE YET YOUNG

What a number of women there are who feel that these words exactly suit their case.

There are thousands of females all over our land, broken down in health and dragging out a miserable existence, overburdened with disease peculiar to their sex, apparently growing old while yet young.

From early morn till late at night they have been on the go year after year, attending to the household duties. Is it any wonder then that sooner or later there comes a general collapse? Palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, smothering and sinking spells, weakness, dizziness, sleeplessness and many other troubles follow. What a woman wants is something to build up the system and for this purpose you cannot equal

Mrs. W. J. Russell, Vasey, Ont., writes: "At one time I suffered greatly from my heart and nerves, and the shortness of breath was so bad I could scarcely do my housework. A friend of mine advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did and I only took them for a short time before I was better.

The price of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Burton, Victor Cawthra, W. Mulock, jr., F. J. Stewart, A. H. Campbell, jr., J. D. Tress, A. Ball, Richard Brown, C. A. Bogert and others.

It was moved by Mr. L. Baldwin, seconded by Mr. F. D. Benjamin, that Mr. W. D. Matthews take the chair, and that Mr. C. A. Bogert do act as secretary. Messrs. A. R. Boswell and W. G. Cassels were appointed scrutineers.

The secretary read the report of the Directors to the Shareholders, and submitted the Annual Statement of the affffairs of the Bank, which is as follows,—

TO THE SHAREHOLDERS:

The Directors beg to present the following Statement of the result of the business of the Bank for the year ending 31st December, 1906:—

Balance of Profit and Loss Account, 30th December, 1905		$249,437 97

Transferred to Reserve Fund	400,000 00	760,000.00
Balance of Profit and Loss carried forward		$28,798 33

RESERVE FUND.

Balance at credit of account, 30th December, 1905	$3,500,000 00
Transferred from Profit and Loss Account	400,000 00
	$3,900,000 00

With great regret we have to record the sudden death in May last of Mr. Theodore G. Brough, the late General Manager, who had been in the service of the Bank continuously since 1875. He was the Chief Executive Officer for seven years, during which time he accomplished much for the development and welfare of the Institution.

Mr. C. A. Bogert, Manager of the Montreal Branch for Night years and who entered the Bank more than twenty-five years ago, was appointed to succeed him.

On account of the continued expansion in the business of the Bank, your directors have decided that it is an opportune time to issue the remaining one million dollars of authorised Capital Stock; and, having in view future requirements which may reasonably be expected, have approved of a bylaw to be submitted for your consideration at the annual meeting, which provides for a further increase in the Capital Stock to the extent of one million dollars. This will make the total authorized Capital five million dollars.

You will also be asked to consider a bylaw increasing the number of Directors from seven to nine, which it is thought to be advisable owing to the diversity of our interests throughout Canada, and the gradual extension of our operations.

During the twelve months just closed Branches of the Bank were established at the following points, and, when expedient, desirable sites were purchased and suitable offices erected:—In the Provinces of Ontario, at Chatham, Dresden, Peterborough, Tilbury, Windsor, and in Toronto, at the corners of Avenue Road and Davenport Road, and Queen street and Broadview avenue; in the Province of Alberta, at Calgary and Edmonton, and at Regina, Sask.

In addition we have to inform you that in December last the private banking business of Messrs. John Curry & Company, at Windsor, was acquired under terms advantageous to the Shareholders, which transaction included the purchase of a commodious building, well situated in this important centre.

It was found necessary to provide larger premises for our North End Branch, Winnipeg, and for this purpose a valuable property has been secured.

The Directors, following their usual custom, examined the Securities and Cash Reserves of the Bank as on December 31st, 1906, and found them to be correct; they also verified the Head Office Balance Sheet, including all accounts kept with Foreign Agents.

Every Office of the Bank has been carefully inspected during the past twelve months, and each branch has been visited by the General Manager since his appointment in May last.

E. B. OSLER,
President.

The Report was adopted.

Bylaws were passed increasing the number of directors from seven to nine, and providing for an increase of $1,000,000 in the Capital Stock which will make the total authorized Capital of the Bank $5,000,000.

The thanks of the Shareholders were tendered to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their services during the year, and to the General Manager and other Officers of the Bank for the efficient performance of their respective duties.

The following gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year;—Messrs. A. W. Austin, W. R. Brock, James Carruthers, R. J. Christie, T. Eaton, J. J. Foy, K.C., M.L.A., Wilmot D. Matthews, A. M. Nanton, and E. B. Osler, M.P.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors, Mr. E. B. Osler, M.P., was elected President, and Mr. Wilmot D. Matthews, Vice-President, for the ensuing term.

MORE FOOD FOR THOUGHT ON THE INTERESTING MARRIAGE QUESTION

One Writer To The Examiner Thinks That Peterborough Men Are Too Much Struck On Themselves—A Tribute To The Worth of Womanhood—Moral Questions Should Be Given First Consideration.

The Examiner is again permitted to-day to present to its readers another group of letters on the marriage question, "Why do not more men marry after the age of 25?"

These letters have now become, metaphorically speaking, a Saturday standing ad., and, as far as can be learned, are read with interest and, it is hoped, have created impressions to the advantage of the readers from a moral standpoint.

The offerings to-day appear to be written from the heart and not the writings of persons with changing whims. One contributor believes there are plenty of womanly women in the city who would make good wives, and yet they never have the opportunity. Another pays a tribute to the worth of noble womanhood. A third refers to the moral questions underlying the marriage problems and thinks they should be carefully considered before the important step has been taken.

A LOVER FIRST; FRIEND AFTERWARDS; IDEAL CONDITION

Editor Examiner—

Domestic love and happiness are supposed to be one of the leading themes to interest the intellectual mind, subjective to religious, social and political questions.

Yet while there are thousands of people who fail to find entertainment in the discussion of the graver subjects, there is scarcely a mind on earth that does not respond to the thought of home life, with its innumerable associations, sweet or sad, grave or gay, agreeable or painful.

The old idea that all greatness of intellect must be linked with crankiness of disposition has never appealed to me. It is a pernicious doctrine and ought not to be preached in the hearing of the young. One of our most brilliant literary men in the line of wit and humour was a miracle of love and devotion to a hopelessly crippled wife during her long years of invalidism.

Such men are worthy of having a modern society established in their honour, entitled "The Knights of the New Round Table," where the chief pride of each member should be that he kept a clean name and an unsullied home-life.

The great endearing loves of life are not composed of passion, admiration, romance and sentiment alone.

All these elements are contained in a great love, but under all must be the solid foundation of friendship.

A husband must be his wife's best friend; in wife a husband's best friend, if either expects to live up to the highest ideal of love and companionship to the end of life.

To begin as the friend, and to develop into the love is not so ideal a relationship as to begin as the lover and to have the element of friendship evolve like a flower out of the coarser stalk of passion.

All the lover realizes in the first ardent phases of his infatuation is his desire to possess the woman he loves.

But after he becomes her husband, if she is a strong and noble character, and she is in any degree worthy of this love, he should feel an impulse to be her friend—to help her in every way possible to grow toward lovely and perfect womanhood; to protect her from unnecessary trouble, and to sustain her through all the ills and trials which fall naturally to the mortal lot.

When the wife realizes that this is the husband's wish and purpose, and meets his counsels, suggestions and protective impulses with confidence and gratitude, domestic love reaches an altitude impossible to be attained through any other course.

Only when the wife realizes that she must not be the mere sweetheart, home-keeper or playmate of her husband, but his best friend, looking toward his highest good in every way, even when it means temporary forgetfulness of self and personal pleasure, can she know what the perfection of domestic union is.

MEN'S SANA.

PAYS A TRIBUTE TO THE WORTH OF NOBLE WOMANHOOD

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have been reading the different views on the marriage question and do not think the young men or to-day know the value of a woman in the home. If a man treats his wife in the proper manner, places his trust in her, treats her as an equal and companion, not as a slave, and bestows on her his heart's purest affection I am sure they can sail peacefully together down the stream life without having any little troublesome waves to mar their pleasure. I think the following lines will give at least a faint idea of a woman's worth:—

From man's birth, his cradle bed she tends;
The first, the last, the faithfullest of friends,
And still oft is she at times deceived,
Outraged, insulted, slandered, crushed and grieved;
Too often made a victim or a toy,
With years of sorrow for an hour of joy.
Too often forgot 'midst pleasures dazzling wiles,
Or only valued for her rosy smiles—
When she should hold in the heart of any man
The highest place to accord with Heaven's plan;
And in his sad and serious hours of life,
He can turn to sister, mother, friend or wife,
Who with a heart of fond and trustful pride
Waits to comfort him by his calm fireside.
And oft, when bared by fortune's fickle grace;
Blank ruin stares him darkly in the face,
He can lean his head upon her kindly breast
And with words of love she soothes him now to rest,
And she does all that's in her loving power
To be his consoler in his heaviest hour;
And he knows then what a woman's love is worth
To cheer his toils and trials upon this earth
She is the guardian angel of all this life,
What more should he look for in a wife?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I am,

Sincerely yours,
Cheyenne.

PETERBOROUGH MEN TOO MUCH STRUCK ON THEMSELVES NOW

To the Editor.

It is with great interest that I have been reading in your paper why men over 25 do not marry. It is my thought that the young gentlemen of our city are too stuck on themselves, and think that no girl is good enough for them. Of course, there are a few exceptions, and these may have so little respect for themselves that no honourable girl would marry them. The men seem to expect too much from our young girls. Because they work in factories, that is no disgrace. These girls who work may be the bread-winners of a family of small children who have no others to look to. It is my humble opinion that if a girl is successful in factories and shops, it should likewise follow that they be successful in performing domestic duties.

The men are too fickle. What harm is there in any girl going out to enjoy an evening? But, oh, no! The men must have their say! They are so stubborn! They would prefer to spend their money over the bar or in the pool rooms. Shame! Fie! That is greediness! Can't you see for yourself the numbers of drunken men going about the streets, even in our own city. A respectible man will go to the girl's own home and woo her, instead of standing on the street corners.

Our girls must have sport. They must be able to hold their own with other girls. Athletics and sight-seeing, no matter about the expense, are rays of knowledge to the young housewife.

Young men! for goodness sake spur up and have more courage and self respect, and I think the girls will think more of you.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, and wishing your paper success, I am

Faithfully yours,
TRIXITY.

MORAL QUESTIONS SHOULD BE GIVEN CONSIDERATION

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir, — It seems amusing to read over the different reasons some give why young men over 25 do not marry. Well, in my opinion, there are as many reasons as there are young men and women; everyone has their own reason, and to get at the average reason is almost impossible. As far as my judgment serves me a great many young men think that they are not men if they can't smoke, chew, drink a little on the sly, and every other evil that is immoral; and show me a good sensible girl that would want to marry a man addicted to all these things, and I will show you twenty that wouldn't. Why do not the young men be what they wish their parents had been as far as their ability serves them; the same applies also to young women; and then the young men and women would have fewer reasons for not marrying earlier in life.

A young man hasn't any business to ask a girl to marry him unless he is in a position and his prospects are bright enough for him to give that girl as good a home as she would leave; nor would a good sensible girl give a young man any encouragement, unless there was something lacking about their morality. If morality were taken more into consideration there would be more happy marriages nowadays.

My motto is, "Treat a girl as you would wish a young man to treat your sister," also girls the same to the young men; and there will be more kindness and good wishes extended to each other, which goes a long way towards happy marriages, which is very noticeable in a moral character.

As far as the Peterborough girls that would make good wives are concerned, there are dozens and dozens of them, but probably what would suit one young man wouldn't suit another; bu I am sorry to say that not as many young men that would make good husbands as there are girls who would make good wives.

Watch the young men and women that are fond of their home, their parents, sisters and brothers, and they are the ones that will make a home happy; to encourage this, morality is necessary. Some of the writers seem to look at the girls about housework. Well, now, I consider a good sensible girl that would also make a good wife, wouldn't be ashamed to let a young man see her at her kitchen or housework, and, indeed, it would not hurt him a bit to help her if he was capable; but some young men want to be entertained in the parlour, and some girls are just as willing.

I believe in a young man giving his wife a good time, both before and after marriage—not beyond his means—and that young woman, I say, will make her home happy to show her appreciation of a good husband. Girls, don't marry a man, for pity's sake, or for money, or because he is a doctor, or a lawyer, or something worse, but marry him because you can look up to him; and trust him to love you forever.

It's not the house that makes the home,
But it's the love that is inside,
For many a home would be happier to-night,
If their love to each other they could confide.

MORALITY.

LOTS OF WOMANLY WOMEN IN THIS CITY WILL MAKE GOOD WIVES

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I commenced reading the letters in answer to "Why do men over 25 years of age not marry?" from amusement, and certainly some of them were very amusing, and some were but the sentiments of the "befuddled" brain or the words of the man with no backbone.

I am a bachelor of 35, and for some of the reasons advanced am I still in that "blessed state." Neither is it because there are no suitable partners—"the world is full of 'em."

When I do take the matrimonial step I shall look upon my wife as a companion—a chum—my affinity, one who is intellectually and physically strong. The head and heart should be studied in this matter, of so grave importance. The woman who is intellectual enough to be intellectual has surely got common sense enough to pick up the rudiments of housekeeping, even after she is married. I would not give a brass farthing for the woman who could not, and thank heaven there are but few who are not endowed with a certain degree of that factor in sensible womanhood—the other "butterflies," of course, are not worth considering.

There are lots of real womanly women in Peterborough who are women in every sense of the term, and I don't blame them for being in that state of "undefined blessings," because if the letters written are an index to the character and disposition of the young men of Peterborough, it is time some "real" manly men were imported, so that the young women of Peterborough might have a chance of displaying their virtues, and, yes, intrinsic worth.

So, boys, it's up to you to claim these fair treasures, or let the "outsider" step in ahead of you.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I remain,

Yours,
FAIR PLAY.

THE YOUNG MAN ON MATRIMONY BENT IS GIVEN AN ANSWER.

To "Canada"—

Dear Sir,—Having read in The Examiner your ad. in regard to meeting a young woman, with a view to matrimony, I am taking the opportunity of writing.

I am 23 years of age, without either father or mother, and have always lived at home.

I am very fond of children, can play the piano, and manage things around a house, and as regards to smoking, why, it doesn't annoy me in the least.

About dancing, I never did do it, and don't like a person that does it.

I am,

CANADIAN.

WHAT RIGHT HAS A BACHELOR TO LIVE ANYWAY?

To the Editor of the Examiner:

What right has a bachelor to walk about Peterborough watching married men pushing baby carriages? What does a bachelor do? Just walks about and "baches" that's all! What right has a bachelor to sleep peacefully at night, when the happy married man is walking about with the baby, warming its food, and rubbing its gums to get its teeth through? A bachelor passed the church when we were being married. He said, "What's up, what's the row?" Some one told him: "A wedding." "Oh!" he said, "poor chap," and passed on. When he saw us going on our honeymoon he wept. Ah! but he wasn't in the carriage with the wife. He didn't hear her say, you'll always love me, won't you?" He's never had to say, "Yes." He's never been tempted to tell lies like we have. He smiles, does the bachelor. He thinks we married men can't smile. We can, but we don't want to. Look at the bachelor. He has his breakfast by himself, his dinner by himself, his tea by himself and his supper by himself. Look at the happy married man,—He has his breakfast with his wife and kids, his mother-in-law pops in to dinner, and his wife's three brothers, who are out of work, come in to supper. What does he care that he gets nothing, so long as the rest of the family are happy? If a bachelor likes he can stay at his club till three in the morning; but when he gets home, he's got nothing but the cat to talk to. Look at the happy married man. Why, if he stays out till three in the morning, when he gets home, she talks to him! and what a row! What a cataract! The Government ought to compel bachelors to get married. Why should we have all the mis—I mean happiness? Its worth all the money in the world to see a woman in the house, balancing curl-papers on her head, watching the egg-boiler with her mouth full of hair-pins; with one hand toasting the bread, and the other hand winding the clock; with one foot rocking the cradle, and the other one kicking the cat. Bah! What is there about a bachelor? An old pair of braces, one button, and a safety pin. Why, his very reputation hangs on a thread. Then they say they're bachelors from choice. I like that! Where does the choice come in if they've never been married. You must taste chocolate before you can say whether you like it or not. Why if everybody was a bachelor this place would only be half full, but the girls in this town are to blame they think themselves above everybody.

PETERBOROUGH HAS SHARE IN THE PROGRESS

Of the Electric Power Development at Niagara Falls—Immense Generators Manufactured at Local Works in Operation There

PRESS ASSOCIATION TRIP ENJOYED

Peterborough's interest in the power development at Niagara Falls, and the part which this city has played and is playing in that development is greater than most persons, even those residing here, imagine. Could they see, as 250 members of the Canadian Press Association saw on Saturday in the power house of the Electrical Development Company at the Falls, the two immense turbine-generators—the largest ever made in Canada, if not in America—with the words "Canadian General Electric Company, Peterborough," cast on their sides, they would feel perhaps the truth of the statement that to Peterborough this marvellous development of nature's gift of power has a special significance.

As a fitting close to the most successful annual meeting in the history of the Canadian Press Association, which now enters upon its fiftieth year, the members of that association, with their wives, took a trip, as the guests of the Grand Trunk Railway System, to Niagara Falls, which now is at the height of its winter beauty.

Everyone has seen the falls in summer, and know that nowhere can there be found such a wealth of scienic beauty, but, while it is of a somewhat different character, the falls in winter, with the spray frozen into fantastic shapes, are equally, if not more beautiful.

No trip in the memory of the oldest member of the Association, has been as thoroughly enjoyed as was that of Saturday. So far as the officers of the Association were concerned, nothing was left undone which would contribute to the pleasure or comfort of the members — President Clarke and Secretary Bone saw to that while Mr. J. D. McDonald of the Grand Trunk Railway, who accompanied the party made things as pleasant as possible while they were under his charge.

At the station Mayor Slater met the party and officially welcomed them to the city.

Naturally a body of men interested so deeply in the material progress of the country, and seeking to advance its best interests, as the newspaper men are, it is not to be wondered that to them, a visit to the fountain-head of one of the most potent contributors to that progress—electric power—would be one of absorbing interest.

What they saw was a revelation to the great majority of them, and emphasized more than ever the fact that the problem of the development and utilization of the Niagara power in order that it may be devoted to the conservation of the best interests of the people is an important one, and one which should claim the best thought of Provincial legislators.

The maximum power development possible on the New York side of the falls will shortly have been reached, then what? Shall the power developed in Ontario be used to build up industries on the American side, or will it be used as a means to induce the American manufacturers to locate their plants in Canada in order that they may have the advantage resulting from the use of Ontario-generated power?

The plants of the two power companies now in operation were visited. The Ontario Power Company, with a power capacity of 42,000 horse power, developing and transmitting probably one-third of that amount, and the Electrical Development Company, familiarly known as the Pellatt-Nicholls Company, with two generators running at part load, and sending power to Toronto, where it is anticipated that the greater proportion of the power generated will be used.

It will be several months before the plant of this Company will be fully installed and in operation, the building itself not being completed yet. When finished, however, it will be a very handsome structure, much more pretentious and imposing than that of the Ontario Power Company. Though the latter is an orante structure, both having been built from plans which were first approved by the Niagara Falls Park Commission, and designed to add to, and be in keeping with, the natural beauty of this particular beauty spot.

The Electrical Development Company's plant is of considerably greater power capacity than that of its sister, the generators being much larger.

The two plants furnish an interesting comparison of the two systems of development.

In the Ontario Power Company's plant the water is taken into an immense conduit from a forebay situated about a mile from the power house located below the falls, where the water is discharged through the German-made turbines, the latter connected with horizontal shafts with the Westinghouse generators.

In the Electrical Development plant the power is generated at the point at which the water is taken from the river, the generators being connected with the turbines by vertical shafts, and the water discharged through a race-way about half a mile below the power house under the falls. A visit to this power house was made by the newspapermen, who explored its inmost depths, going into the cavernous passages 140 feet below the surface and seeing the turbines at work, and others in course of installation.

At luncheon the visitors were the guests of the directors of the new Clifton House, the manager of which had prepared a most delightful luncheon, served in a way for which the Clifton House, under its present management, has become deservedly famous. Mayor Slater, in a neat speech, welcomed the visitors to his city and expressed the hope that they would come again. On behalf of the directors of the hotel company, Mr. H. C. Hammond gave the newspapermen welcome to the hotel and expressed his personal pleasure, as well as that of the other directors, at receiving them as guests of the Clifton House.

One of the most interesting features of the day was the visit to the plant of the Natural Food Company at Niagara Falls, N.Y., where the different processes in the manufacture of Shredded Wheat Biscuit and Triscuit were explained, as well as details of the factory management practised by the company. Refreshments were served by the company.

The special coaches provided for the members of the association were attached to the regular train and arrived in Toronto shortly after 10 o'clock. The trip this year was in many respects the most enjoyable in the history of the association, and was one, the memory of which will linger long with those who were fortunate enough to participate in it.

GOOD PROGRAMME AT SECOND "POP"

Mr. R. M. Denniston Told Story of Jean Valjean to Good Audience at Y. M. C. A. Saturday.

A large and appreciative audience attended the second Y.M.C.A. "Pop" on Saturday evening. Mr. H. R. N. Konner most capably occupied the chair. Miss Gumpricht opened the programme with a piano solo, which was given with that grace and display of her well-known musical talent. She was very heartily encored.

Mr. Gilbert Markle is also always popular with Peterborough audiences, and gave his violin selection in his usual noble manner.

Mr. R. M. Denniston's lecture on Victor Hugo's famous character, Jean Valjean, was the main feature of the evening. Mr. Denniston's excellently prepared synopsis of the story, together with the masterly style of delivery which he possesses, makes the telling of this story always appreciated by his listeners. For an hour and a half he held the most marked attention of the audience.

The chairman, at the close of the meeting, tendered Mr. Denniston the hearty thanks of the audience, noting with regret his decision to leave the city in a few months.

Mr. Denniston gave a well-worded reply, expressing his appreciation of the work being done by the Y.M.C.A.

The singing of "God Save the King" brought the meeting to a close.

The programme for the third "Pop." will be supplied by well-known popular local talent.

CECIL SHANNAHAN HAD TO PAY OUTSTANDING FINE

Has Been Living in Port Hope for the Last Few Months But Was Arrested On His Return.

Cecil Shannahan who was wanted by the local police since Dec. 5th, but who has been sojourning in Port Hope returned to Peterborough last Wednesday. A fine has been hanging over Shannahan's head and it was to escape this that he left this city. He was captured on Saturday night by Police Officers Newhall and Mc-Harry and was placed under arrest. He remained at the police station a few hours when his fine, amounting to $8.35, was paid, and Cecil allowed to go.

EXTENSIVE ADDITION PROPOSED FOR ROUND HOUSE

Havelock Likely to Become an Important Railroad Centre—A Dozen New Engine Stalls

NEW SIDINGS ALSO CONTEMPLATED

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Feb. 10.—Plans have been prepared here by Mr. Grout, C.E. for the C. P. R., for an addition to the round-house, which will almost double its present capacity. It is proposed to add twelve more engine stalls to the fourteen already in the building. The round-house will be extended south and will necessitate the expenditure of several thousand dollars.

It is also understood that the C. P. R. intend making Havelock the central power station. This will mean that the engines will all be located here and sent out both east and west wherever needed. In the past, only the engines needed for the eastern trade have been stationed at Havelock, so that, if this proposed scheme is carried out, the population of Havelock will be greatly increased, as the Toronto trainmen would have to bring their families here.

The engineer's plans also show that many new sidings are proposed, as well as a "lead."

It is not considered probable, however, that the work will be commenced before the winter closes.

MUSIC AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH YESTERDAY

Royles' Anthem Was Well Rendered at Evening Service.

On Sunday the music at St. John's church, all shadowed forth Lent. At Evensong a large choir turned out and the singing was bright and hearty. During the offertory, Royles' anthem, "Praise the Lord," was exceedingly well sung. It is a long heavy anthem, with solo and quartette. The solo was intrusted to Cyril Devey and Arthur Horsfield, and the little fellows sang well, the expression and tone-placing being of a high order. Mrs. Devey, Mrs. Seward, Mrs. H. Morphet and Mr. Jos. Halpany, sang the quartette, "Yea, Like as a Father," beautifully. The choir held a special "Crucifixion" practice after the service.

SLIGHT MISHAP TO THE NOON TRAIN FROM LINDSAY

Caused a Delay of Forty Minutes in its Trip to Peterborough—Accident Near Omemee.

A slight mishap to the engine on the noon express from Lindsay caused a delay of five minutes near Omemee and resulted in a loss of forty minutes in the remainder of the run to this city. When it reached here the engine of the Lakefield train took the place of the first mentioned and proceeded to Port Hope. The yard engine was attached to the Lakefield train and everything was quickly adjusted and the trains sent on their different routes. The mishap that occurred can be readily repaired.

WAS REGULAR DUEL ACCORDING TO HOYLE

Two Youths Settled Their Differences in Old Time Fashion.

Two youths, one from North Monaghan and the other from Cavan, it is stated, settled their differences after the manner of the old-time duel on Saturday night. Bare fists were used, instead of the rapiers or pistols, and it is said that the combat was a lively one. The two met on George street in the afternoon and got into an argument which grew so warm that a challenge was issued and as promptly accepted. Each securing the services of a second, they drove to th eold toll-gate in North Monaghan, and here the battle royal took place. The North Monaghan man had all the better of the argument. Just what the casus belli was is uncertain, but it is said it is a case of "cherchez la femme."

Has Taken a Thousand

Zutoo

Always Cured Headache. Never Affected her Heart.

Here is a testimonial from the wife of Doctor W. L. Shurtleff, K.C., of Coaticook, Que., who has taken a thousand Zutoo Tablets (the Japanese Vegetable Headache remedy.)

It should convince any doubting one, that while the tablets cure headache, they do not, like the drug cures, affect the heart, nerves or stomach. No one would or could take such a number if they were not perfectly harmless. Mrs. Shurtleff herself had to discard the drug cures.

Here is what she says:

I have always been a great sufferer from headache, and have taken a great many headache cures. I found that after taking them for a time they caused palpitation of the heart. Three years ago I began using Zutoo. I have likely taken over a thousand tablets. I have never yet felt the least ill-effect from using them and they cure my headaches as quickly as any remedy I ever took.

They are Harmless as Soda.

Saleswomen's Peril

GRAVE DISEASES, DUE TO STANDING

Facts About Miss Merkley's Dangerous Illness and Complete Cure.

Have you ever thought why so many women or girls rather walk an hour than stand still for ten minutes?

It is because most women suffer from some derangement of their delicate organism, the discomfort of which is less trying when they are in motion than when standing.

In some states laws compel employers to provide resting places for their female employees.

But no amount of law can regulate the hard tasks of these women. They must get the strength which this work demands or run the risk of serious diseases and the surgeon's knife.

Read about the experience of Miss Margret Merkley, 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Gradual loss of strength, nervousness, bearing-down pains and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said I had diseased organs and ulceration, and advised an operation if I wanted to get well. I objected to this and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I soon found that all the good things said about this great medicine were true. The ulceration soon healed, backache, headache and nervousness disappeared, and in a short time I was strong, vigorous and perfectly well. I wish every working girl who suffers would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a vegetable tonic which invigorates and strengthens the entire female organism, and will produce the same beneficial results in the cases of other sick women as with Miss Merkley.

UNION LABELED

MONDAY, FEB. 11, 1907.

INVESTIGATION MANIA

A tedious and expensive investigation into charges in respect of the management of the Ontario Institution for the Blind has just been concluded without any result, other than the expenditure of a large sum of money and the disproof of a long list of frivolous charges, inspired, perhaps, by political motives. Now, Mr. A. J. Russell Snow, who conducted the Brantford fishing expedition, is to investigate the Belleville Deaf and Dumb Institution. Mr. Snow will be accompanied by a legal adviser and the whole matter will be managed regardless of expense. This is to be done in face of the fact that much time and a large sum of money were spent on investigating ill-digested and foundationless charges at Brantford, and in spite of the fact that there is, so far as known, no reason to think that there is anything wrong in the management of one of the best conducted public institutions in the province.

Dr. James Kerr Love, the distinguished aurist, of Glasgow, Scotland, has just issued his report on visits to European, Canadian and American institutions for the education of the deaf during the years 1904-1906, and speaks in terms of praise of the management of the Belleville Institute which is referred to in his report as follows:—

"Belleville Institution, Ontario, Canada. (Principal Matheson).—Two hundred and fifteen pupils. This is a 'combined' school, and but little oral work is attempted. The course is seven to eight years. Canada is peculiarly fitted for the deaf-mute. It is labour which is wanted there more than anything else, and, during the short school course existing at Belleville, it is possible to make the deaf child fit to earn a living worth a certainty not known in Britain. The school course is too short for anything but the production of wage-earners, and the classes are too large. But the Principal accomplishes his avowed object, viz., to make his deaf children earn a living in a country where labour is plentiful and workmen scarce. Aside from the question of system, THE SCHOOL IS ONE OF THE BEST MANAGED ON EITHER SIDE OF THE ATLANTIC. The cost per head is £43 per annum."

Mr. Love is an expert and high authority upon the education of the deaf and dumb and his opinion as given above is another contraindication of the holding of an expensive and unnecessary investigation.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Last week the Ontario Government issued charters to mining companies with an aggregate capitalization of eighteen million dollars.

Rockefeller may take an interest in Sunday schools, but he contradicts the wisdom of Solomon, who says, that "he who loveth wine and oil shall not be rich."

Toronto's High School Trustees propose separating the sexes in the new High School, apparently forgetting the moral of the proverb that "Love laughs at locksmiths."

Hon. Mr. Graham gets back neatly at Mr. Whitney who declared that Succession Duties were "robbery of the dead," when he declares that the Provincial university "should not have to depend for its existence upon money that comes through the coffins of dead men."

The Brantford county branch of the Dominion Alliance announces that it will only support such candidates as will pledge themselves to support legislation providing that a simple majority shall rule in local option contests.

John D. Rockefeller's alleged gift of thirty-two million dollars to education shows that the oleaginous money monarch is beginning to waken to his responsibilities as a trustee. He has got his hands on a lot of the people's money and is simply giving back to the people, in a spectacular way, a little of what was taken from the people by quiet questionable methods.

Some papers, says the Hamilton Times, talk of the telephone "listener" as if it were something new and horrible. As a matter of fact it is in use everywhere. Moreover, every telegraph message is known to at least two operators, yet telegraphing is tolerably secret. It might have added that several bank clerks in each bank have knowledge of the standing of business men, yet as far as they are concerned nobody is any the wiser.

Canada is still troubled with sewer politicians. Hon. C. S. Hyman has been very seriously ill in California, where he went for the benefit of his health. Now some of the Conservative sewer sheets say that Mr. Hyman was kept in hiding, with the inference that he wasn't sick, but merely malingering. Mr. Hyman was seriously ill, and he and his family need the sympathy of all civilized persons. Mr. Hyman was an able administrator of the Department of Public Works, and his illness was the result of his intense devotion to his duties. It is a pleasure to learn that his services as a minister will be again available. He has withdrawn his resignation of his portfolio, and will again contest the London seat, which he also resigned.

A SPEECH OF PEACE

When Mr. E. N. Lewis, of West Huron, attempted on Friday to make party political capital out of his sympathy for the people of Newfoundland in their fishery dispute with the United States, he did not, probably, imagine that he would produce from the Premier one of those speeches which will add to Sir Wilfrid's reputation as a conciliator and a friend of peace.

The speech, reported on Saturday, speaks for itself. It was at once a message of international amity and of national independence. As Sir Wilfrid pointed out, the day has gone by when Canada goes hat in hand to the United States. Our population is increasing, and with it our home market. Indeed, as the Premier pointed out, we may soon be in a position to give to Newfoundland an equivalent for the market which they may lose in the United States.

It was a typical Laurier speech—Canadian development of home markets; independence of the United States, but an independence marked by cordial sentiment; confidence that Imperial diplomacy will settle the questions at issue through Mr. James Bryce; and sympathy with the people of the ancient colony in the difficult position with which they are confronted.

It was one of those speeches which, like that of Mr. Elihu Root in Ottawa a few weeks ago, makes for the peace of the world. — Ottawa Free Press.

Severe Form of Asthma

"I first used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with my little girl, who suffered from a severe form of asthma. The least exposure of cold would lay her up, and she would nearly suffocate for want of breath. I must say that I found it to be a most satisfactory treatment and it has entirely cured her."—Mrs A. A. VanBuskirk, Robinson street, Moncton, N.B.

WARM PRAISE FOR THE "ZEPHRA"

"One Who Was There" Writes in Complimentary Terms of Work of Clever Local Artists

To the Editor—

Having seen the performance of "Zephra" on Saturday night, I desire to heartily congratulate Mr. Booth upon the excellent production of this charming fairy tale. The work of training so many, some of them so young, must have been overwhelming, especially in so short a time. As citizens of Peterborough, we should feel proud of having such talent among our young people. It is a delightful evening that one can spend in admiring the graceful playing and the charming and natural movements of the young men and maidens. The scene of the babies was especially fine. Among the players, Miss Bertha Parnell deserves special mention. Mr. George Lynot and Mr. Wm. Mollroy act as if they were quite at home on the stage. Miss McCabe, as Queen Zephra, understands her part well and exhibits a queenly and truly womanly character study. Miss Nellie Graham's and Miss Pearl Morgan's solos were inimitable and produced much laughter and applause. The drill of the ladies was well executed and a special attraction of the evening's play. On the whole, the play is worth seeing, and since our attendance means a support of our regimental band, no one should fail to go. In every respect it is a charming production.

Yours truly,
ONE WHO WAS THERE.

HAPPENINGS AT POLICE COURT

Sunday Grist of Drunks—Another Case of Insanity and an Assault Case

A young man was charged with having been found drunk in a public place on Sunday, at this morning's session of the Police Court. He said he found a flask near the C. P. R. station and had a "loner" with the contents. He was fined $5, to be paid forthwith.

On the charge of having been drunk and disorderly on Saturday night, another man appeared before His Worship and pleaded not guilty. After a delay until P. C. Newhall, who arrested him, arrived, the case was continued. P. C. Newhall stated that accused was causing a disturbance at his residence on Saturday night, and that a call was received at the police station to go there. From the evidence presented, the Magistrate fined him $2 and costs, amounting to $5.75.

The other case brought before the Worship was that of Mr. Robt. Cox, who was charged with having assaulting Emily Westlake on February 8. A counter charge was simultaneously laid against Mrs. Westlake for using abusive language.

Mr. Cox, through his counsel, Mr. R. F. McWilliams, pleaded not guilty. The case was enlarged until Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

IMPOSSIBLE TO STOOP OR BEND

SEVERAL DOCTORS COULD DO NO GOOD.

PAIN IN BACK AND KIDNEYS.

People often say, "How are we to know when the kidneys are out of order?"

The location of the kidneys, close as it is to the small of the back, which is not affected materially by other organs, renders the detection of kidney trouble a simple matter.

The note of warning comes from the back. Backache is the signal sent out by the kidneys the minute they become overtaxed. Those who heed the warning when it first comes, usually have but little trouble. The danger lies in delay. A few doses of taken in time, often saves years of suffering, and in many cases life itself.

They stimulate the action of the kidneys, enabling them to perform their duty perfectly.

Miss S. G. Pye, Econ Secum, N.S., writes: "For the past three years I have been troubled with a very bad pain in my back and kidneys. It was so bad it was impossible for me to stoop or bend. I had several doctors attend me, but found no relief until I picked up one of your Egyptian Dream Books, and found out about your remarkable remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured two boxes and their action surprised me, for they completely cured me. I don't think they have an equal for kidney trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Subject announced for next Sunday—"The Bible: where did it come from, and of what use is it in the world?"

OBITUARY

JUDA ENGEL

The death occurred yesterday of Juda Engel, the nine-months-old daughter of Mr. H. Engel, the proprietor of a fancy goods store on Simcoe street. The remains were taken to Toronto on the early train this morning to the Jewish Synagogue. The funeral will be conducted according to the Jewish rites.

OLIVE PEARL GODFREY

A sad death was that which occurred on Saturday when Olive Pearl, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Godfrey passed away. The funeral was held to-day to the Little Lake Cemetery, from the family residence corner Lock and Landsdowne streets.

RUNAWAY WAS STOPPED ON CHARLOTTE STRETT

Dr. Robinson's Men Stop a Fleeing Equine in a Wild Attempt to "Do" Something.

A runaway occurred to-day from the vicinity of the G.T.R. station in which Mr. Elliott's horse tried to do the grand, but made a dismal failure. It was probably scared by a train and dashed up King street and turned at Aylmer and again at Charlotte street. It was caught by Dr. Robinson's men who have the happy faculty of corralling all such attempts to do the grand. Mr. Elliott is minus a buffalo robe which has very much changed the nature of the joke; otherwise no damage was sustained.

LUDICROUS STUNTS BY FORMER ARMY OFFICER

Made George Street a Parade Ground—Was the Whole Army Himself.

Much amusement was caused on Saturday evening, by a former English Army officer, who was "under the influence," and who believed he was putting a number of soldiers through a strenuous drill. The drilling ground was George street, and the young man certainly furnished a little fun for the bystanders.

He had the "stand at ease" down to perfection, but his "right and left turns" were badly mixed. "Form fours" was attempted but was totally out of his limits. Among his other stunts, was "shoulder arms," "form companies," and "left dress," at which he would under other circumstances be very adept. He was advised to save his energies until the 57th Regiment turned out for the summer.

A couple of weeks ago he was in the police court charged with being drunk, and he will likely occupy similar seats there unless his ways are changed.

THE ELEVENTH HOUR

Don't wait until the eleventh hour before you pay your shopping visit to the gigantic sale at B. Y. Moyes' store, but fall in line with the crowds at once. Remember the motto, "Never put off until to-morrow, what you can do to-day." You want to save money, don't you? Well, get wise to yourself and do your shopping where you get a run for it. Patrick T. Murphy, the noted bargain giver, made the prices for this sale and they are right; if you don't want to believe us, ask any of the people who have shopped with us during the past week. Remember, last few days of sale. B. Y. Moyes, 408 George street.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Feb. 11.—Stocks were very strong all day to-day. After a quiet opening, gradual improvement set in under the lead of the Coppers and Sugar. Anaconda had a phenomenal rise of 11 points on heavy buying, the explanation of which was not forthcoming. Shorts were good buyers, and a scarcity of stocks was noted.

Secretary Straw announced that he would buy $10,000,000 worth of 4 per cent. bonds maturing in July, and this had a fine effect on the money market. To-morrow, Lincoln Day, is a holiday, and all markets are closed.

The strength continued right up to the close, which was strong at about top for the day.

Just one girl. The one he was looking for. The new moving picture programme includes among others the story of the young man of 25 who did marry when he found his affinity, and did it quick. He saw her on the platform waiting the arrival of the train for Buffalo. He introduced himself, proposed, was accepted, found a clergyman on the train, was married and they spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and lived happily ever after. Special mention may also be made of the "Mysterious Dream." Johnny Rich left his club and found himself floating high in the clouds over New York city. You should see it for yourselves. It was real to him, but was it possible? And again another picture of the poor orphan boy who coveted his neighbours apples. If you want a comfortable spot to spend a pleasant half hour and see the possibilities of modern invention, come. Beautiful illustrated songs. Don't miss them.

The Story of the Spectacle

The story of the spectacle is as follows: King Decius, the storm king, while passing through his kingdom one day, discovers in the hut of an old witch a beautiful orphan girl, whom he adopts, and giving her the name of Neyera, decrees that she shall succeed him to his crown and kingdom. Between the clans of King Decius and Prince Juna, who are both subjects of Zephra, the Queen of Myth, there has existed for years a bitter feud, but Juna, being a true type of noble manhood, endeavours to effect a reconciliation with the haughty Decius; but each overture is repulsed, until at last the doughty Prince dons disguise, enters the storm king's castle, determined to so ingratiate himself into his affection as to win his favour. He fails in this, but instead meets the beautiful Neyera, who has now grown to be a handsome maiden. He wins the promise of her hand in marriage, goes back to his own country, and at the grand annual fete of the Queen, at which time are held all the dances, games and revels of the Queen's subjects, he presents himself at court and demands the hand of Neyera in marriage. Enraged at this, Decius banishes away the Princess to the ice caves of Norseland. Juna is acquainted of this by the fairy godmother of Neyera. He hastens to Zephra, obtains assistance from her, and after many perilous attempts, rescues the Princess from her captors and reveals the perfidy of Decius to the Queen, who banishes him forever from her presence.

"Zephra" will be presented again to-night, and the farewell performance will be given to-morrow night, when the attendance and enthusiasm of preceding evenings should be duplicated.

A CROWN OF GLORY

As Well as a Mark of Beauty is Luxurious Hair

It has been truly said that the crowning glory of our race is a luxuriant head of hair.

It used to be thought that this was one of the blessings which the gods bestow capriciously, and it is only recently that scientists have discovered that its beauty is dependent upon the absence of a minute germ which flourishes in the hair follicles, where it destroys the life of the hair.

To restore this life and kill the germs which cause the mischief is the mission of Newbro's Herpicide.

Herpicide surely kills the germs and is the best hair dressing on the market.

It contains no grease or oil, neither will it stain or dye.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

Two sizes — 50 cents and $1.00.

MISSION WORK IN WESTERN CANADA

Representative of Queen's University Missionary Society Will Give Address in St. Paul's Church

On Friday night two representatives from the Missionary Society of Queen's University will be at St. Paul's church, and give addresses on some phases of the work of the Society in New Ontario, and in Western Canada.

The addresses will be illustrated with limelight views, and the evening will doubtless be one of much interest.

THE MISSIONARY ENTERPRISES OF CHURCH

Warmly Advocated in Special Services Held Yesterday in Mark Street Methodist Church

REVEREND L. S. WIGHT'S SERMONS

Large congregations were present morning and evening at the Mark street Methodist church yesterday, when special missionary sermons were preached by Rev. L. S. Wight, B.A., of Brighton.

Mr. Wight is a very forcible and interesting speaker, and made a strong appeal on behalf of the Missionary Society of the Methodist church.

In the morning he preached an inspiring sermon from the words founded on the 28th verse of the 10th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, "But God has shown me that I should not call any man common or unclean."

The reverend gentleman began by referring to several reasons why we should contribute to missions. He said Christ's commands told us we ought to give something to the spread of His kingdom on earth. The speaker asked the question: "Are the heathen worth saving?" He said most of us were too apt to think like Peter did. Peter thought religion was only for the Jews. It is also for the Gentiles. "No man should be called common or unclean." They are all worth saving, but we are so wrapt up in ourselves that we neglect others. Mr. Wight spoke of two principles which should mark every Christian life. The acteristics every Christian life. The principle of generosity was the first one referred to. God in his great goodness bestows many blessings upon us, and we in turn ought to give to less fortunate ones. The Chinese, Japanese and Indians, all have the spirit of generosity, and what they now need is for someone to tell them of Jesus Christ. The second principle was that of self sacrifice and enthusiasm. The Christian should be enthusiastic and endeavour to bring someone within the reach of the Gospel. The Christian ought to be prepared to make sacrifices. speaker said we were not merely asked to give money to missions, but some could go themselves, into the mission field. Rev. Mr. Wight referred to the great devotion of some heathen people. Their great devotion and loyalty to their own religion would be turned to the Gospel of Jesus Christ, if they only had some one to tell them of Him.

The speaker urged the congregation of the Mark street church to study the mission question, and learn more of the many thousands of persons who are without the word of Jesus Christ. He asked them to pray for missions and to do their part for the spread of Christ's Kingdom.

The success of the services being held at Auburn by Mr. Mapledon have been so encouraging that it has been decided to continue them another week. During the past week the attendances have been large, and deep interest manifested in the services.

PRIZE LIST REVISION COMMITTEE MET

Decided to Make a Less Number of Classes for Horses—Exhibition to be Confined to Four Counties

The committee to consider the prize list revision for horses, met on Saturday afternoon and covered a good deal of work. There were present: President Leary, and Messrs. S. Deyell, W. B. Stewart, J. H. Garbutt, and William Collins.

Although the prizes were practically left the same as last year, the committee decided to eliminate a number of the classes. They also decided to prevent horses being exhibited in too many classes. For instance, roadsters cannot be also entered as carriage horses, or vice versa. This will give opportunities to a larger number of exhibitors of winning prizes.

The committee also adopted a resolution to confer with the committee on cattle and swine prize list revision and assist them in presenting before the entire Board of Directors the advisability of confining the Peterborough Industrial to four counties.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday we had a small edition of a Northwest blizzard, although it lacked the low temperature that generally accompanies stormy weather in the Northwest. The strong wind, however, brought in its rear much colder conditions last night. This morning the thermometer was at 7 below zero; later on in the forenoon it went down to 9 below, and at noon stood at 5 below. There was a stiff breeze blowing in addition. It is not likely that the cold spell will be protracted, although to-night we shall have a low reading particularly if the wind should subside.

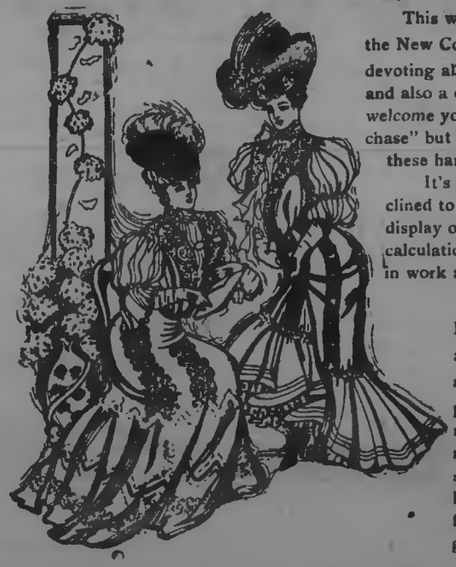
FIRST GLIMPSE OF NEW COTTON DRESS FABRICS



This week we are making a special showing of the New Cotton Fabrics for Spring and Summer devoting all our Show Windows for this purpose and also a display on the counters, and will gladly welcome your early visit to this store "not to purchase" but to inspect and become acquainted with these handsome Fabrics.

It's not Spring-time yet but you will be inclined to think so when you see this immense display of Cotton Fabrics and it's high-time some calculation is being made to have these Fabrics in work and in readiness for the warm weather.

This is the largest shipment of Cotton Fabrics we ever imported, the colorings and patterns from a point of art surpass all previous seasons, so dainty—flower patterns so natural in tone of shading—materials so lustrous in finish, that nothing is lacking to make these Fabrics superior in every particular and we will be disappointed if your praise is not forthcoming when you get the first glimpse of these Fabrics TUESDAY.

THE LENTEN SERVICES FOR ST. LUKE'S

The Meetings for the Coming Week—An Advisory Board Meeting

Meetings of the Girls' Auxiliary and Men's Guild will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Infant Class Room and Vestry, respectively.

To-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock the members of the Advisory Board are requested to attend a meeting at Mr. Peck's office.

The annual Pancake Social and Sale of Work, under the auspices of the Mothers' Guild will be held on Shrove Tuesday, beginning at 7 o'clock. Useful articles will be for sale. A fish-pond for the little ones is provided. Mrs. T. H. G. Deane is President. An excellent programme has been prepared. The Rev. Dr. Crotheis and Rev. W. L. Armitage, of Picton will give addresses.

The services on Ash Wednesday are as follows: Holy Communion at 10 o'clock. Evensong and sermon at 8. Rev. W. L. Armitage is the special preacher. After the service a meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be held.

The W. A. meets on Thursday at 2.30 in the Infant Class Room.

The rector gave notice yesterday of the Lenten services at St. John's Church on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, afternoon at 5 o'clock, to which he had given his co-operation. He urged the members of St. Luke's to attend them.

Friday evening at 8 o'clock, Evensong and sermon at St. Luke's. Special preacher, Rev. Wm. Burns of Hastings.

The Mission Band meets on Friday at 4.15, at the home of the President.

After services yesterday Rev. E. A. Langfeldt urged his people to enter faithfully and conscientiously upon the solemn duties of the Holy Lenten season. Not merely to enter upon the formalities of it and to observe it only by external practices, which had no meaning, but to enter into the spirit of it and to practice true self-denial and self examination. Lent, with its many opportunities was intended to be like a spiritual stock-taking, to let a man know how he stood in relation to his God and Saviour. It was a help to an advance in personal religion, like Pentacostal revival, which the prayed would be the case with his people. A pamphlet has been issued setting forth the duties of Lent.

A PRIZE OF $30.00

Orange Meat is made of the best wheat. By a special process all the starch cells of the wheat are converted into wheat sugars. Analysis proves that "Orange Meat" contains over 45% of wheat sugars.

No wonder it makes weak people strong and puny children robust.

The Orange Meat Company will give $30.00 to the person sending in the largest number of coupons taken from the 15c packages in addition to the valuable premiums. The coupons must be mailed or delivered on or before March 30th, 1907. Letters must reach the office of Orange Meat Co., Kingston, before April 9th, when the prize will be awarded.

ASH WEDNESDAY OPENS LENT

The Services Which Will be Held on the First Day in the Lenten Season

Lent opens on Wednesday, when the customary Lenton services will be held in the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches. The services arranged for that day are as follows:

LINDSAY OPERA HOUSE HAS CHANGED HANDS

Mr. Walker Has Acquired the Interests of Mr. R. H. Bradburn

Mr. R. H. Bradburn who recently disposed of the local Opera House to Messrs J. J. Turner & Sons, has also disposed of his interest in the Lindsay Academy of Music. The Lindsay Post of Saturday says:—

Our citizens will be interested in the announcement that Mr. Wm. Walker has acquired the interest of Mr. R. H. Bradburn, of Peterborough, in the Lindsay Academy of Music, and hereafter will manage our pretty theatre.

As most of our readers know, Mr. Walker has had a lengthy experience in theatrical matters, having been connected with the Academy since it was first opened, and he will no doubt make a capable manager.

WEDDING BELLS

O'LEARY--O'BRIEN

This morning a wedding took place at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, when Miss Maggie O'Leary, daughter of Mr. John O'Leary, of Otonabee, was united in marriage to Mr. Michael O'Brien, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Kelly, in the presence of a number of the friends of the contracting parties. The bride was dressed in a blue travelling suit and was attended as bridesmaid by Miss Minnie O'Sullivan, of Douro, while Mr. Thos. O'Brien, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman. After the wedding, the bridal party, with the guests, drove to the residence of the bride's father, where the usual breakfast was served and congratulations tendered the happy bride and groom.

The bride was the recipient of a number of handsome and useful presents.

CAVANAGH--CHRISTIE

This morning in the Roman Catholic church at Norwood, an interesting wedding took place when in the presence of a large number of friends of the contracting parties, Miss Clara Christie daughter of Mr. John Christie, of Asphodel township, was united in marriage to Mr. William Cavanagh, son of Mr. Thos. Cavanagh, of Otonabee. The wedding was performed by Rev. Father Conway, of Norwood parish, and after the ceremony the party repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, where a few hours were spent in the festivities incidental to such occasions. Mr. and Mrs. Cavanagh will reside in Otonabee.

SEVERAL HUNDRED POLES WERE IN DANGER

Fire Broke Out Among Some Shavings on Saturday Night

A disastrous fire was narrowly averted on Saturday night by the promptness of the Fire Brigade. The blaze started among a pile of chips at the corned of Dalhousie and Bethune streets where Mr. Matthew Neill was preparing some cedar poles for the Bell Telephone Company.

There wereover 1,000 in the pile altogether, and, had the brigade been a few minutes later the flames would have spread amongst them. As it was, no damage was done except the burning of a quantity of shavings and chips.

It was reported that the workmen had a fire to keep themselves warm in the evening and had forgotten or neglected to extinguish it.

OPPOSE PROPOSAL TO INCORPORATE BOARD of Water Commissioners—A Citizen Writes Pointing Out Objections to This and Other Legislation Asked For

THE CAPITAL ACCOUNT EXPENDITURES

To The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Reading one of the local papers to-night I find that it is proposed to apply to the Legislative Assembly to incorporate the Water Commissioners, no valid or sensible reason being given. This should be carefully considered by the ratepayers. It is to be regretted that the members of the new Council and the public were not taken into the confidence of the Commissioners who, after all, are but the paid servants of the city.

By the same bill it is proposed to levy a special tax on vacant property, to form a fund to benefit future generations at the expense of the taxpayers of to-day.

Why a class of ratepayers should be taxed annually from $6,500 to $10,000 for goods not delivered, and that may never be, is something that one of that class considers iniquitous and unjust. Remember, the reason given by the Mayor, who placed himself on record in an interview, for publication, was not that the present rates did not pay the interest and sinking fund, maintenance, etc., of the waterworks, but that in time to come a new dam might be needed, or a filtering basin. And this extra tax on vacant land was to be placed on one side or the other and form a nucleus from which to build any old thing that may be needed in connection with the waterworks system.

Without giving the Commissioners, whose pictures and respective abilities have been before a long-suffering public for some time past, credit for all of the guilt that has been thrown at them, but allowing that they have the ability of the everyday business man,—we will take it for granted that they have not been running the waterworks at an actual loss and have met running expenses, including their own new salaries, interest and sinking fund. Would it not be a proper business proposition, when adding necessarily to capital account, that new debentures should be offered for sale to obtain the money to enable them to pay for the new capital expenditure. Business corporations generally do business on that basis.

Perhaps, too, but that may be almost inconceivable, that after this extra tax has been collected for a number of years from this unfortunate class of humble citizens, the people might not wish to vote another quarter of a million for the purpose of experimenting with.

I hope that owners of vacant property will voice themselves through the press and call a meeting to have themselves represented before the Private Bills Committee, as there is no right, rhyme nor reason for obtaining this legislation, and many reasons why this money, not needed, should not be filched from the pockets of people who obtain no value whatever for same or any part of it. The people were given, at a public meeting, a promise that there never would be any reason for taxing vacant property to run the waterworks system, that the rates were far beyond what was or should be required.

Thanking you, I am,

"ONE OF THE UNFORTUNATES."

DIED.

WEEK'S COLD SPELL IS BROKEN

Thaw, Owing to Chinook, General Through Saskatchewan.

DIE FROM INTENSE COLD

Several Fatalities Reported From the Canadian Northwest — How Sympathetic Settlers Propose With Grim Determination to Help Lift Horrors of Fuel Famine—Manitoba and Fuel Question.

Regina, Sask., Feb. 11.—After several weeks' bitter cold weather, with the thermometer never showing above 25 below zero, and frequently dipping into the fifties, Saskatchewan is basking a spell of mild spring, the thaw being general.

Telegrams received in this city Saturday from various points in the range country show that snows have completely disappeared before the Chinook, and that starving herds have again obtained sustenance.

It will be impossible for weeks to gain any accurate idea of the loss to ranchers, but the proportion of damage will be extraordinary high.

Temporary supplies of fuel have been provided for most needy points, such as Davidson and Bethune, and there is every prospect that the C. N. R. will be able to keep the road open till the time of the spring floods, which this year threaten to be unprecedentedly heavy.

Young Couple's Adventure.

Maple Creek, Man., Feb. 11.—John Duncan, a well-known rancher, was married on the 4th inst. and started for his ranch on Skull Creek, with his bride. Their team wandered from the trail, and they were found Tuesday almost dead. They are in the hospital here, and Duncan's feet will have to be amputated. Many reports of people perishing in the storm are being received here.

English Barrister Perished.

Weyburn, Sask., Feb. 11.—At Goose Lake, Aeneas McIntosh, a member of the English Bar, a man of prominence, whose presence in the west has been a mystery for some months, has perished in a blizzard, with a companion he was driving from the post-office. They got off the trail. The mounted police found this companion nearly dead, near the sleigh, but the lawyer will not be found until the snow melts. He evidently wandered out on the plains and was covered up.

Grim Fighters These.

Prince Albert, Feb. 11.—One hundred teams are hurrying southward, loaded with cordwood. Each carried one cord, and farmers are supplying relay horses. The fuel will be sent as far south as Saskatoon, 100 miles. It will not be sold, but a strict account kept, to be settled for on some basis at a later date. To those destitute there will be no charge. The whole country in the north has turned out with grim resolution, in spite of the very low thermometer, to volunteer for this appalling hundred mile drive. As each team will be required to make but 20 miles, however, it may not be past human endurance.

Manitoba Fuel Question.

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—An important addition to the Municipal Act in regard to the prevention of fuel famines in Manitoba towns was passed by the law amendments committee of the Provincial Legislature Saturday morning. Power will be given each municipality to solve its own fuel question. The legislation provides that on a two-thirds favorable vote of duly qualified voters in a municipality power is given to issue debentures to borrow money for the purpose of purchasing land and erecting coal and wool sheds. Power is also given to purchase a year's supply of wood and coal and to expend moneys for weighing the same. The councils may not sell the coal at less than cost and may make reasonable charge for delivery.

Carried Away By Snowslide.

Coal Creek, B.C., Feb. 11.—The car repair shop of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. was wiped out and one life lost by a snowslide which occurred here on Friday morning at 10 o'clock, when a gigantic mass of ice and snow hurled down the mountain's side and demolished the shop. Several men were at work in the building, but all got off with slight injuries, except Charles Douglas, who was instantly killed, being buried under the ice and the debris. Douglas was a married man, 28 years old, and a carpenter.

Fell and Is Killed.

Coal Creek, B.C., Feb. 11.—Another fatality on the local railway occurred Saturday morning, when Geo. Prill, foreman of the boiler-house, attempted to alight from the train coming in from Fernie and fell beneath the wheels of the last coach. The body was frightfully mangled. Prill was 22 years of age and unmarried, his home being in Fernie.

Hopeless, Confused and Depressed in Mind, Forgetful, Irresolute, Drowsy, Languid and Useless.

This disease assumes so many forms that there is scarcely a complaint which it may not resemble in one way or another. Among the most prominent symptoms are constipation, sour stomach, variable appetite, heartburn, water-brash, gas in the stomach and bowels, distress after eating, etc.

is a positive cure for dyspepsia, and all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels or blood. It stimulates secretion of the saliva and gastric juices to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood and tones the entire system to full health and vigor.

Mrs. M. A. McNeil, Brock Village, N.S., writes: "I suffered from dyspepsia, loss of appetite and bad blood. I tried everything I could get but to no purpose; then finally started to use Burdock Blood Bitters. From the first day I felt the good effects of the medicine. I can eat anything now without any ill after effects and am strong and well again."

Price $1.00 per bottle or 6 bottles for $5.00.

SAD STORY OF SUFFERING.

Head of the House Dying—Wife and Children Starving.

Belleville, Feb. 11.—A sad story of suffering and destitution comes from North Hastings.

Neighbors found James C. Kelly of near L'Amble dying and his wife and five children actually starving. There was no fire in the house, and the thermometer registered 25 below zero. Kelly died, and but for the arrival of neighbors the whole family would probably have perished.

Locomotive Boiler Explodes.

Chester, Mass., Feb. 11.—The boiler of the locomotive of a westbound freight train on the Boston and Albany division of the New York Central Railroad exploded near here yesterday. Three men were injured, one of them, Engineer J. Murphy of Aby, probably fatally. The injured were taken to the Springfield hospital.

Wreck Through Undermanning.

Halifax, Feb. 11.—A head-on collision occurred Saturday on MacKenzie & Mann's Halifax & Southwestern Railway, at Mahone Bay, in which three train-hands were killed.

A runaway freight train from Bridgewater, composed of 17 cars of lumber, crashed into the Lunenburg and Middleton passenger train, which was standing at the station in Mahone.

The crew of the freight train had lost control a short distance outside of Mahone, on a steep down grade.

The engines struck head on and were badly damaged.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict the substance of which was that the train was overloaded and undermanned, and this was what caused the accident.

Killed by Coal Gas.

Orono, Feb. 11.—Mrs. John Kivell, 87 years of age and an old resident of Clarke Township, died here yesterday morning, from the effects of coal gas. She was living with her sister, Mrs. Brightwell, also an aged lady. Both women were discovered in an unconscious condition on Saturday morning by neighbors. The stove had not been properly closed.

Society Favorite Killed.

New York, Feb. 11.—His ambition to become a practical railroad man cost Alfred Armitage his life. The millionaire's son, working as a fireman, was one of two men killed in a collision between the Adirondack and Montreal express and a freight train near Ossining, Friday night. Half a dozen others were injured. Armitage was a college man.

EXPLOSION AT WOOLWICH.

All the Windows In Town Broken—No Lives Lost.

London, Feb. 11.—A terrific explosion at 3.30 o'clock yesterday morning wrecked the chemical research department of the Woolwich arsenal.

All the windows in the town were broken.

It is believed no lives were lost.

HARRY THAW AS WITNESS.

Said That Defendant's Testimony Will Eclipse His Wife's Story In Dramatic Interest and Intensity.

New York, Feb. 11.—The culminating sensation in the trial of Harry Thaw will be furnished by Thaw himself, who, it is announced, will be put on the witness stand in his own defence.

Even the soul baring story which his wife has told, it is now predicted, will be eclipsed in dramatic developments by the testimony of the defendant himself. For he will swear that from the hour of his first proposal of marriage, when Evelyn Nesbit sobbed out to him her shameful confession, he had been tortured by visions which came to him by day and by night—visions which warned him that unless he killed Stanford White his wife's life should be taken by slow poison.

Now, it is plain why all along the defence has attached such deep importance to the seemingly meaningless phrase of Harry Thaw when he kissed his wife five seconds after he had shot Stanford White in Madison Square Garden, and cried out to her, "It's all right, dearie; I have probably saved your life."

Strain Tells Severely on Her.

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw may not return to the stand Monday morning when the trial of her husband for the murder of Stanford White, is resumed, as had been expected.

The strain of the last few days, during which she has been made to live again the hours when, according to the confession she testified she made to Harry Thaw, she was the victim of the architect, has told severely on her. Last night it was stated that the prisoner has come to her rescue and of his attorneys has demanded a respite for his wife.

If the defendant's plans do not miscarry, Mrs. Thaw will not be recalled until Tuesday. The cross-examination by District Attorney Jerome will, therefore, begin Wednesday, a day later than had been anticipated.

THE BURDEN OF GREAT SORROW

Lightened For Their Excellencies By Friends Sharing It.

COMFORTED AND TOUCHED

By the Kind Expressions of Sympathy Which Have Reached Them From All Parts of the Dominion—Too Long a List to Publish — The King and Queen Remember Lord and Lady Grey.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Cablegrams and messages of condolence have been received by their excellencies from all parts of the empire, the United States and other countries, as follows:

From the King to Lord Grey: "The Queen and I feel deeply for you and Lady Grey in your great sorrow, and offer you our deepest sympathy. (Sgd.) Edward, R. I."

From the Prince and Princess of Wales: "Deeply distressed at your great sorrow: offer warmest sympathy. (Sgd.) George, Victoria Mary."

From the Princess Louise: "Deepest sympathy with you and yours in your great sorrow. (Sgd.) Louise."

From Princess Christian: "Heartfelt, truest sympathy. (Sgd.) Helena."

Messages were also received from the Viceroy of India and Lady Minto, the Viceroy of Ireland and Lady Aberdeen, Earl Elgin, Mr. Balfour, Joseph Chamberlain, Lord Strathcona, Earl Rosebery, the American Ambassador in London and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, the Prime Minister of Cape Colony, Secretary Root, Hon. Joseph Choate, General Booth and many others.

The following was given out Saturday evening at the Government House:

"The telegrams and letters from public bodies and private individuals in Canada have been so numerous that the list would be too long to publish. They will be gratefully acknowledged as soon as possible.

"Their excellencies would like the people of Canada to know how much comforted and deeply touched they have been by the kind expressions of sympathy which have reached them from all parts of the Dominion. The feeling shown for their excellencies has lightened for them a sorrow, the burden of which has been shared by so many friends."

A CHILD can clean house with "SURPRISE" Soap. It loosens up the smoke and dirt and fly-specks on woodwork and paint so that no hard rubbing is necessary.

Simply take a cloth and some hot water, make lather of "SURPRISE" Soap, and then rub the doors and window-sash very lightly. It will surprise you to see how quickly and easily the dirt comes off.

"SURPRISE" Soap is the best to clean everything washable. It never injures anything or makes the hands sore or rough.

SURPRISE A PURE HARD SOAP It is a pure, hard soap, and costs no more than common kinds.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed, "Tender for Public Building, Owen Sound, Ont.," will be received at this office until Monday, February 25, 1907, inclusively, for the construction of a public building, Owen Sound, Ont.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this department and at the office of Messrs. Foster & Clark, architects, Owen Sound, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 31, 1907.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, marked on the envelope "Tender for Construction," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, until twelve o'clock noon of the 14th day of February, 1907, for the work required for the construction, in accordance with the plans, profiles and specifications of the Commissioners, for the following sections of the Transcontinental Railway, viz.:—

(1) District "A."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners at or near the City of Moncton, in the Province of New Brunswick, westerly for a distance of about 50 miles.

(2) District "A."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the town of Grand Falls, in the Province of New Brunswick, westerly to the boundary between the Provinces of New Brunswick and Quebec, a distance of about 62 miles.

(3) District "B."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the Quebec Bridge, easterly for a distance of about 150 miles.

(4) District "D."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners about 180 miles west of the Quebec Bridge westerly to a point known as Weymontachene, a distance of about 45 miles.

(5) Districts "C" and "D."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners about eight miles west of the Abitibi River crossing easterly for a distance of about 150 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz.:—Guy C. Dunn, St. John, N.B.; A. E. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; and S. R. Poulin, North Bay, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners.

A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenderers shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners, and before submitting any tender, bidders should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications, and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept and agree to be bound by the terms and conditions contained in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners of the Trans-continental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 1, District "A." $75,000.

For Section No. 2, District "A." $90,000.

For Section No. 3, District "B." $225,000.

For Section No. 4, District "D," $75,000.

For Section No. 5, Districts "C" and "D", $270,000.

Any person whose tender is accepted shall, within ten days after the acceptance thereof, furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure, and all contract rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

Attention is called to the following clauses in the form of contract:—

"All mechanics, labourers or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final."

"This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are or shall be applicable to such works." (The schedule of Minimum wages determined upon by said department will form part of the contract.)

"The contractor shall, in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply and upon as good terms in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price."

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners; and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different Provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

HOW PETERBORO' CURLERS WON OUT AT LINDSAY

R. Hicks' Rink Stuck to the Game and Pulled a Victory From Defeat

The Lindsay Post, in reporting the curling game there on Friday night, says:—

The game at the rink last night, Peterborough vs. Lindsay, attracted quite a large crowd that watched the short game with much interest. The game was close from the start to finish, though the visitors seemed to catch on to any grooves or twists in the ice, and were voon very much at home. As the Peterborough men had to catch the flyer the game closed at 9 o'clock. R. Hicks was the last man to stop; he played his last end amidst a chorus, "Come on, you'll be left!" but he had too good a thing in sight to leave before he had seen it through, and by adding four in this end to the Peterborough score he brought the score all around 3 up for Peterborough.

GOOD PROGRAMME OF RACES FOR HARWOOD

Houdrey Pea Co., City, Offer a Prize for Special Races.

On Thursday afternoon, February 21st, a very interesting programme will be run off at Harwood, which will likely be attended by a number of local horsemen. The programme consists of a free-for-all trot or pace for a purse of $50; a race for 3-minute class horses, purse $30; and the Houdrey Pea Company's race for farm horses in the vicinity of Harwood. The latter event will be known as "Louis' race." Mr. A. Johnston is the secretary of the committee.

PLAY THE STANLEY CUP GAMES IN WINNIPEG

Whitcroft's Team Play First Game Since Return From the East To-night.

If the Thistles win the League championship and are called on to defend the Stanley Cup this winter, as they no doubt will be, the games will be played in Winnipeg, says the Winnipeg Free Press. This statement is made on the authority of a prominent officer of the Kenora club. He points out that the Winnipeg rinks have two advantages over Kenora. One is that on the larger ice surface the Thistles can use their speed to better advantage; and the greater accommodation for spectators is also an important factor. A special train with a very low rate would be run from Kenora.

In the event of Stanley Cup games the Thistles will again play Arthur Rose of Brandon.

The Thistles' next game is on Monday night, when they play at home against the Strathconas.

THE CHIEFTAINS EASILY DEFEAT THE GROVE

Game at Lakefield on Saturday—Score Away up in the Teens

The Chieftans, of this city, added another victory to their list by defeating the Grove School team of Lakefield on their own ice to the tune of 16-2, the half-time score being 9-0. The Chiefs won the game on their good combination and accurate shooting, while the Grove team had little combination and only two men that could shoot. The Chiefs' forwards are very fast and they have a strong defence behind them. Lees played his usual good game in goal, but had little to do, as everything was stopped before it came to him. Patterson, Lakefield's centre, was very fast, and dangerous when he got away. Quigley, of Lakefield, gave good satisfaction as referee. The line-up:

Grove		Chieftains.
	Goal.
Clarke		Lees
	Point.
P. Nellis		Munroe
	Cover Point.
Glass		Fortye
	Centre.
Patterson		Hall
	Rover.
N. Nellis		Crane
	Right Wing.
Wiralow		Wallis
	Left Wing.
Lumsden		Burritt

The return game will likely be played next Saturday at the Brock Street Rink.

HAVELOCK HOCKEY TEAM DEFEATS HASTINGS SEVEN

On Friday night in Havelock, the Hastings hockey team were defeated by 5 goals to 2. Even with the services of a couple of Campbellford men the Hastings boys were unable to pull off a victory. The half-time score was 3 to 1. For Hastings Shannon and Garvey, were the principals, while Stibbs and Ferguson starred for the home team.

The teams lined up as follows:

Hastings — P, ————; c. p., Shannon; r, Garvey; c. Rice; r. w., Wansborough; l.w., B. Hill.

Havelock. — P., Neal; c.p., Stibbs, r., Barlow; c., Ferguson; l. w., Curry; r.w., Rose; referee, Geo. Mathison.

MR. J. SIMONS WAS THE WINNER OF 17 LB. TURKEY

Scored the Highest Number of Points at Yeates' Shooting Gallery During The Past Week

A large 17 lb. turkey was won by Mr. J. Simons on Saturday as a result of his shooting at the shooting gallery conducted by Yeates Bros., on George street. The turkey was given to the person who obtained the largest score in shooting during the past week. This is a weekly custom and as the scores indicate, the competition is always keen. There are many local marksmen who practice at the shooting gallery and at the same time endeavour to secure the bird.

The following are a few of those who ran up some of the highest scores:—

J. Simons (winner)	58
Stanley Russell	55
Hugh Mackay	55
Bert Lang	55
Alex. Windower	54
F. Martin	54
Elmir Davis	54

GREAT GAME FOR THURSDAY NIGHT

To those interested, the greatest game of hockey of the season will be that to take place at the Brock street rink on Thursday night, when the Toronto Branch of the B.A.C., with Sam Moore, Norman Jolliffe and Maurice Vanderwater, as the stars, will play the home team, the bunch trained by Ernie Best, who won fame by his handling of the "Happy Thought" team. The game will take place at ten o'clock, following the City League fixtures, and will no doubt be productive of some sensational features.

HOCKEY

The management of the Peterborough team has elected the following team for the game in Midland to-morrow night:

Goal—Lang.
Point—Glover.
Cover—Crowley.
Rover—Moore.
Centre—Morgan.
Right—Parnell.
Left—Graham.

Miller will also accompany the team, who will leave on the 8.20 a.m. train to-morrow.

CURLING

Peterborough curlers can easily boast of having a couple of the best rinks, in the matter of good ice, if not the best, in the Province. Mr. Angus McIntosh contributed a good deal of his time and energy Friday morning and afternoon to make rinks Nos. 1 and 2 as perfect as possible, and by the verdict of those who had the pleasure of testing them on Friday night, he did not fall much short of the idea. The rinks were marked out particularly for the points games which are now in progress.

The sheets of ice in these rinks were made in record time. Mr. McIntosh applied the first sprinkling of water at 1 o'clock, and at 3 o'clock, before which time two more applications were made, the curlers were wielding their brooms on an excellent sheet of congealed water.

PETERBOROUGH CLUB SMOKER ENJOYED

The smoker given by the Peterborough Club to its members on Saturday night was a most enjoyable event. There was a large number of members of the fashionable club present, and a delightful evening was spent.

DECIDES TO FIGHT THE LORDS

Preparations In Britain For a Mighty Struggle.

THE GOVERNMENT IS READY

Will Provoke Lords to Reject Several Popular Measures and Finally Force a Dissolution—First Will Be Resolution of Ministry Laying Down Inalienable Rights of Commons — Against Aristocracy.

London, Feb. 11.—The reassembling of Parliament on Feb. 12 arouses intense interest here, as the Government intends to immediately inaugurate measures to check the powers of the House of Lords, making it subordinate to the will of the people, as represented by the House of Commons.

This is nothing less than a revolution in the present constitutional methods, and foreshadows a bitter contest between the two houses, with the Government already prepared for a dissolution and an appeal to the country upon the necessity of curbing the power representing the aristocracy in the interest of the democracy. Recent councils of the Ministers have determined the main lines of the Government's action, which is expected to begin with the introduction of a resolution laying down the House of Commons' inalienable rights.

A similar historic resolution was adopted in the 17th century, upon which the rights of the commons to control money matters was based. This will be merely preliminary to a series of measures, by which Premier Campbell-Bannerman proposes to frame a clear issue against the Lords, and then appeal to the people upon it.

The Government's determination to make the fight now is due to the defeat of the education bill by the Upper House, and the prospective defeat of all other features of the existing Ministerial program. It is seldom that a speech from the throne has been awaited with such eager interest, as it is asserted that the Ministry has induced the crowd to make an allusion to the constitutional deadlock between the Lords and Commons. Whether King Edward is ready to take such significant action is open to doubt. It is probable that any reference His Majesty may make on the subject of the House of Lords will be couched in moderate, uncontroversial language, because the speech is addressed to both Houses.

The proposed Government resolution challenging the powers of the House of Lords can have little effect in itself, as the Lords' powers remain, despite resolutions, but the passage of such a resolution is designed to give the keynote of the Ministerial plans. These will consist chiefly of sending the Lords a number of popular measures, including a drastic land bill, affecting the estates of peers and other members of the aristocracy. These measures are sure to be rejected by the House of Lords, thus giving the Government the opportunity to appeal to the country. Members of the Ministry openly discuss these plans, and predict several dissolutions before a reform of the House of Lords can become effective.

THE ANNIVERSARY SERMONS WERE PREACHED

In Connection With George Street and Grace Church Sunday Schools Yesterday

REV. MR. HENDERSON THE PREACHER

Special services in connection with the Sunday school anniversary were conducted in the George street Methodist church yesterday, when Rev. G. W. Henderson, of Port Hope, occupied the pulpit. In the morning the members of George street and Grace church Sunday schools, with their teachers and officers, were present in a body, the central pews of the edifice having been reserved for them. The service was of a nature suitable for such an occasion. The choir was composed of girls from the Sunday school, whose singing was very effectively rendered.

The remarks of the preacher were addressed particularly to the little ones, and his remarks were such that they were easily understood by the smallest child present. The text was from Proverbs viii, 17:—"Those that seek me early shall find me."

The subject was divided into three parts: Why people should seek God; How they should seek Him; and when they should seek Him. In the first place, the speaker said that people should seek God because of what He is to them, and what He has done for them. Here Rev. Mr. Henderson made reference to the wonderful sacrifice Jesus Christ had made in order that people might be redeemed. The point was made plain to the children by little anecdotes of everyday life, which illustrated the spirit of self sacrifice.

The speaker next dwelt upon the question of How God was to be sought, and the first means taken up was that of prayer. He addressed his little hearers as they would come to their earthly father in time of need, they should also seek their Heavenly Father in the same way. The prayer, however, must be earnest and sincere. In order to seek God also, they would have to repent of their sins; and in this connection the speaker emphasized the fact that it was of no use to say that they had repented and then go on and do the same things all over again. This, he said, was often the case. People would wipe the tears from their eye on Sunday, and say that they were sorry for what they had done, and the next day would find them in the same old grooves, and doing the very thing of which they had professed repentance.

In conclusion, the speaker asked the little ones, when God should be sought, and the answer was "Now."

MAKING EXPERIMENTS IN FRUIT GROWING

Ontario Agricultural College Will Send Out Fruit Trees for Farmers to Test on Their Own Farms

For a number of years extensive variety tests with fruits have been carried on at the Ontario Agricultural College and the various fruit experiment stations in the Province. These tests have given a good idea of what are some of the best varieties for the sections where the tests have been made.

The following list gives the names of a number of these, which are now offered for co-operative testing. One of the objects of this co-operative testing is to distribute these leading varieties more widely that they may be tested in every township of the Province and that each grower may select for himself and grow more extensively those which give the best results on his own farm. Over 2000 experimenters are engaged in this work, and are profiting because of its practical and educational value. The co-operation of all who are interested in fruit growing is invited.

Any resident of the Province who wishes to take part in this work may select any one of the experiments in the list, and the plants for the same will be furnished free of cost. All we require is that each applicant must promise that he will try to follow the directions furnished, and will report the results each year on forms which will be furnished for the purpose. The experiment selected should be indicated by giving its number in the list:

Experiment No. 1, Strawberries — Splendid, Fountain, Ruby and Parsons—12 plants of each.

Experiment No. 2, Raspberries — Cuthbert, Golden Queen, Marlboro', and Columbian—6 plants of each.

Experiment No. 3, Black Raspberries—Gregg, Kansas, Palmer and Older—6 plants of each.

Experiment No. 4, Blackberries — (Adapted only to *Southern sections of Ontario) Agawam, Eldorado, Kittatinny and Snyder—6 plants of each.

Experiment No. 5, Currants—Fay, Red Cross, Victoria, and White Grape 2 plants of each.

Experiment No. 6, Black Currants—Champion, Lees, Naples, and Black Victoria—2 plants of each.

Experiment No. 7, Gooseberries — Downing, Pearl, Red Jacket and Whitesmith—2 plants of each.

Experiment No. 8, Grapes — (For *Southern Ontario) Concord, Wilder, Niagara, Lindley, Brighton and Vergennes—1 vine of each.

Experiment No. 9, Grapes — (For *Northern Ontario) Champion, worden, Winchell, Delaware, Lindley and Moyer—1 vine of each.

Experiment No. 10, Apples — (For *Southern Ontario) Primate, Gravenstein, McIntosh, Blenheim, Rhode Island, Greening and Northern Spy—1 tree of each.

Experiment No. 11, Apples — (For *Northern Ontario) Transparent, Duchess, Wealthy, McIntosh, Scott's Winter and Hyslop Crab—1 tree of each.

*This Division of the Province into North and South may be approximately made by a line running from Collingwood to Kingston.

Address all applications to H. L. Hutt, Agricultural College, Guelph.

DELICATE CHILDREN.

Parents Should Know How to Keep Children Well—Expert Advice by a Peterborough Druggist

Said Mr. McDermid of the firm of McDermid & Jury, during a recent interview:—

"If we could only make all fathers and mothers in Peterborough regard what we say, especially if their little ones are delicate, how glad they would be afterwards. They can make their children strong and well. They can lay a foundation stone in their little lives that will give them joy and happiness in years to come and they will become strong and hearty men and women, if they will only believe what we say about Vinol and follow our advice."

Remember Vinol contains all the active curative principles taken directly from fresh cods' livers without grease or oil, and its taste is delicious, and that is what gives it such power to assist the stomach of the little ones to properly assimilate the food which they eat. It is the means by which rich, red blood is made; strong sone structure is built; hard, firm flesh tissue is created, and healthy, sound nerves maintained.

Not only for children but for adults do we recommend Vinol as the greatest strength creator and rebuilder of health, without reservation, and stand prepared to refund all money to those who do not find absolute satisfaction in its use. McDermid & Jury, druggists. Vinol is also sold at The Market Drug Store, (The Ormond & Walsh old stand.)

FOR THE PREVENTION OF TUBERCULOSIS

Annual Meeting of the Canadian Association Will be Held in Ottawa During March

The seventh annual meeting of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Consumption and other forms of Tuberculosis will be held in Ottawa on the 13th and 14th of March next. A public meeting of the members of the association and of the citizens generally, at which His Excellency will preside, will be held in the Assembly Hall of the Normal School here on Wednesday evening, March 13, at which Dr. Sheard, the chairman of the Ontario Provincial Board of Health, will deliver a lecture upon "Home Treatment of Consumption."

SUCCESSFUL BALL HELD IN CAMPBELLFORD

The Young Men of Lakefield Will Also Give a Ball on Wednesday Evening Of This Week

A successful ball was held in Campbellford on Friday night, under the auspices of the Separate School Board, for the purpose of raising funds for a new school. It was certainly one of the social events of the little town, and was attended by over three hundred persons. Wilson's orchestra from this city supplied the music, and Mr. Archie Moore acted as Master of Ceremonies. The latter said that there were at least one hundred and fifty couples in the dances and in every respect it was a most enjoyable affair.

On Wednesday evening of this week, Mr. Moore and Wilson's orchestra will be engaged at a ball to be held at Lakefield. It is to be given by the young men of the village, the spacious town hall being used for the purpose.

There will probably be a large number from this city in attendance.

COSTS MONEY TO GET INTO SOCIETY.

A Sensation Sprung Among Kingston Smart Set—One Man Said to Have Paid $8,000 for His Daughter.

A Kingston, Ont., despatch says: A sensation has been created by the appearance of one of the local papers of a statement that in order to gain admission to society some parties have been paying money. This money has been paid to those who were in, for the purpose of their acting as an intermediary to those desiring to enter. In one case as much as a thousand dollars was paid by the father of a girl to a matron for her services as introducer of the debutante.

Norval Baptie, the Champion Skater of the World, will give an exhibition in Fancy, Acrobatic and Speed Skating in the Brock Street Rink on Wednesday evening, February 13th. Baptie is the undisputed champion of the world. Skating before and after the exhibition. Admission 25c. Children 15c. This will be the most wonderful exhibition of the kind ever given in the city.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

Rosthern, Sask., Feb. 11.—The provincial government has offered a reward of $200 for information leading to the capture of the murderer or murderers of Michael Kaminsky, killed at Rosthern on Jan. 3. Detectives in connection with the mounted police are now at work on the case. The authorities are in possession of startling evidence, and say it is only a question of time before the guilty parties are brought to justice.

NO CONTRACTS FOR G.T.P. IN 1907

Scarcity of Labour the Cause Attributed to Decision of Company to Let no More Contracts.

Special Wire to The Examiner

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—It is announced from Montreal that The Grand Trunk Pacific have decided not to give out any more contracts during the present year, owing to the fact that they are not at all sure of those which they did give being carried out during the present year owing to scarcity of labour.

G. T. P. Route in British Columbia

In British Columbia Mr. Tatlow, acting Minister of Lands and Works, has accepted the plans showing the route of the Grand Trunk Pacific in British Columbia. The line will enter at present there are five inmates of and will run along the south branch from the Fraser River to the Nechaco River, north along the Nechaco to Headquarters Post, where it will cross the divide to Bulkley River and continue along the north bank to Bulkley opposite the Telqua River. It will cross the Skeena River at Hazelton and run along the river to the coast at Prince Rupert.

WESTERN FARMS ARE INCREASING

The Census Blue Book Shows a Large Advance Over Figures of 1901—Field Crops Statistics.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—A census blue book, giving the population of Manitoba and the new provinces by sexes and a summary of the statistics of field crops and live stock for 1906 as compared with the census of 1901, was issued to-day. In Manitoba the census of last year showed 200,183 males and 160,506 females. Winnipeg has 50,461 males and 39,692 females; Brandon, 5,756 males and 4,652 females; Saskatchewan has 152,793 males and 104,970 females; Alberta has 108,1811 males and 77,131 females.

In 1906 there were in the three provinces males and 312,604 females.

ASSAULT WAS BRUTAL

Brandon Young Lady Was Held Up by Unknown Man on City's Streets—A Timely Rescue.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

Brandon, Feb. 11.—An inhuman brute, who is unknown at present, made a cowardly attack on the six-teen-year-old daughter of a well-known citizen to-night. The young lady was on her way home, going Louise avenue, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, about 10.30, when she became aware of a man following behind. The girl hastened, but her assailant caught her and made a brutal attack. The girl fought hard, and managed to remove a rag which he had placed in her mouth sufficiently to scream, which was heard by a woman in a near-by house, who ran into the street to see what was the matter.

FIVE INMATES NOW IN HOUSE OF REFUGE

County Treasurer Ed. M. Elliott visited the County House of Refuge yesterday in company with Mr. Scott, the Reeve of Smith. He reports that at present there are five inmates of the House—one from Dummer, one from the village of Norwood and the other two from Smith. The latter two just entered yesterday.

Rev. Richard Hobbs Will Not Support Mr. Whitney

Because of the Three-fifths Clause on Local Option—Well Known Clergyman Who Fought the Ross Government Disappointed With Its Successor.

(From Toronto Star.)

"If the three-fifths clause stands, Premier Whitney will go."

The speaker was Rev. Richard Hobbs, pastor of the Gerrard Street Methodist Church, and he was regretting the handicap from which local optionists suffered in having to poll 60 per cent. of the votes cast before their cause could succeed.

Raps for Government.

"At the last Provincial election, which resulted in Mr. Whitney's elevation to power, I was stationed at Strathroy. Strathroy was in Mr. Ross' own constituency, and, as you know, I took the platform against him. I opposed Mr. Ross, and supported Mr. Whitney, but I said at the time that, in all likelihood, two or three Governments would have to be turned out before we temperance people came to our own. I am of that opinion still.

Mr. Whitney Not Absolute

"Premier Whitney said, on assuming the reins of power, that the Conservatives had not elected him, that Liberals and Independents had helped to place him where he was. This being so, I would like to remind Mr. Whitney that what we did we can undo. I don't think for a moment that the people of this Province will submit to that three-fifths clause. I know strong Conservatives that are stronger temperance men, and they feel as I do. The three-fifths clause, which seems to satisfy Premier Whitney, does not satisfy the temperance people; it does not satisfy the people that gave him his present position. Why do we object? Because he is not showing us British fair play. All over, wherever local option has been voted on, there is indignation.

Mr. Hobbs Disappointed

"As I have told you already, it was plain to me when Premier Ross went down that the battle was not entirely won, that Governments would require two or three setbacks before they would come to their senses, but I did think that the present Government would modify that three-fifths clause somewhat this session. I was given to understand, and my information came from a reliable source, that the Government would do something for us. When Mr. Whitney announced the other day, in effect, that the clause would stand I was disappointed. Mr. Whitney will discover his mistake, or I don't know the people from here to Windsor.

A Double Blunder

"Mr. Whitney has blundered in policy, as well as in principle, by continuing the three-fifths clause. A new Government should consult the people. Mr. Whitney has not consulted public opinion in placing the three-fifths burden on local optionists. We give the Whitney Government credit for its enforcement of the license law, but the three-fifths clause is out of harmony with good government, with British justice. Why should the Government require three temperance voters for every two antis, liquor voters? The temperance man thinks he is just as loyal, just as good a citizen, as the whisky man. Evidently the Whitney Government does not think so. That's the way we look at it, and rightly so.

A Live Question

"When the Dominion Alliance meets here this month you will hear a protest. This three-fifths matter will come up; you can rely on that. I can't tell you definitely what the Alliance members will do, but they will emphasize the complaint I have made to you. There will be a large attendance and great enthusiasm. Eighty municipalities gave local option a clear majority last month but because of the three-fifths clause only about one half carried the bylaw. You see therefore, that forty more would have had local option if there had been no three-fifths clause to deprive us of our rights. About forty municipalities that failed to get the Three-fifths vote had a clear majority of about 3,000, enough to sustain any government in the world. The municipalities were knocked out so to speak, on a technicality that ought not to exist.

Not Afarid of Antis

"I believe in majority rule. It obtains in everything else. There is no reason that it should not apply to temperance. I am quite willing that local option should stand or fall on a simple majority. If the antis can muster a majority against a bylaw, let that bylaw be repealed. We temperance people don't want favours. All we want is our own. In January last only one local option bylaw was repealed. Under the present law it requires three fifths to repeal it as well as to pass, but we want that three-fifths done away with. Even with a simple majority prevailing the antis could not harm us.

"Again, I say, we are going to have majority rule. Of course if the legislators themselves subscribe to the three-fifths rule and the principal is carried to a logical issue, I'll withdraw my objection. What would it mean? Simply that a member of the Legislature would have to poll three-fifths of the ballots before he could take his seat. How many of the present members would sit in Queen's Park to-day if that were the case? I have known many a man to get his seat and keep it too, on a majority of one. A Government might remain in power on a majority of one. One is enough to elect a president of our conference, and so on. Why should an exception be made of local option?

"If Mr. Whitney were to appeal to the people to-morrow, I would like to support him, but I could not. I would take the platform against him. No other course would be open to me. The three-fifths clause is the most important matter before Ontario to-day. Mr. Whitney has a large majority but majorities have faded before to-day."

The Premier's View

"I have so far only received a single nicely worded letter offering objection to the three-fifths clause," said Premier Whitney to the Star, "and so far as we can learn it seems to meet with general approval."

"Then there is no intention of altering or appealing it on the Government's part?" asked the Star.

"If there had been," replied the Premier, "it would have been outlined in the speech from the throne."

From the premier's remarks it would appear that from a governmental standpoint the clause appeared to be working smoothly.

"From all we can learn it is possible the temperance people may memorialize the Government regarding the matter," continued the Star.

"Oh, well," replied the Premier, "we are always ready to listen to any kind of reasonable request, but I haven't heard anything of it."

STOPPAGE OF SEWER PIPE AGAIN TO THE FRONT

Some Members of Council Think Mr Mr. Coughlin Should be Recouped—Fire Escapes Necessary.

EXTENSIVE BURLEIGH POWER SCHEME

At the conclusion of the Committee of the Whole meeting last night a Council meeting was held when a number of bylaws were passed and communications received.

Mr. M. Coughlin's request for the refunding by the city of an expense incurred by a stoppage in a sewer pipe was again a topic for debate and the question has again gone to the Board of Works.

Ald. Morgan was first admitted to the Property and Fire, Water and Light Committees on motion of Ald. Johnston and Elliott. These were the two committees upon which ex-Ald. Ball was a member.

Big Power Scheme

A communication from the Central Ontario Power Company was read, offering to supply power to the city from Burleigh Falls. It explained in the telegram sent to the Mayor that the Company could supply power by the thousands of horse powers and that there would be no trouble with anchor ice or anything else in transmitting it to Peterborough.—The communication was received.

Mr. Coughlin's Request.

In reference to the loss of $8.00 to Mr. M. Coughlin on account of some defect in the sewer some time ago, Ald. Phelan considered that he should be refunded as the stoppage was in the main sewer and not in the private pipes to the house. Ald. Bradburn and Elliott also believed that on this account Mr. Coughlin should be refunded. It was moved by Ald. Phelan that the receive the $8.00 expense he was put of.

Ald. Duncan stated that the Plumbing Inspector had reported that the city was not liable for the expense and that the council should stand by the report.

Ald. McIntyre had heard that the plumbing inspector spent three or four days investigating the source of the trouble. Ald. Wilson stated that Mr. Coughlin had stated the same to him last evening and he considered there must be something wrong.

Ald. Bradburn believed that the city was morally wrong and that Mr. Coughlin should be refunded.

Ald. Duncan suggested that the question be again considered by the Board of Works at its next meeting and that Mr. Coughlin, Mr. Thompson and the City Engineer be present. This was decided upon and Ald Phelan withdrew his previous motion.

Ald. Leary brought up the question of a better system of fire escapes for certain buildins. This was left in the hands of the City Solicitor.

Bylaws Passed

Bylaw No. 1,280 was passed, appointing A. E. Dixon, Bernard Morrow and Wm. Langford members of the Court of Revision and fixing the remuneration of the members.

Bylaw No. 1,281 was passed licensing places of amusement in the city.

THE ELECTRIC WIZARD QUITS WORK

Thos. Edison Will Now Experiment With Electricity for the Fun Of It, He Says.

Examiner Special.

New York, Feb. 11.—Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, is 60 years old to-day. In an interview yesterday he said it was now time for him to knock off work and play for a while.

"For 45 years I have been making experiments with electricity," said Mr. Edison, "but all those years I have been turning these experiments to commercial value so fast that I have not had a chance to play with electricity for the fun of the thing, just to see how much I can find out about it. But from to-morrow on I am going to give up the commercial end of it and work in my laboratory purely as a scientist. That will be the pleasure I have long been promising myself."

WOULD PUBLISH THE CITY'S ASSESSMENT ROLL

The publishing of the assessment roll was a question brought up by Ald. Johnston last night. He believed that this was a necessary requirement considering the many requests from citizens. The cost, he stated, would be in the neighbourhood of $350 or $400. There were so many dis-satisfied, he stated, that this ratepayer generally wanted to know just what his neighbours were being assessed for and suggested that a committee be appointed to enquire into the cost and advisability. It was moved that the Mayor, Ald. Johnston, and City Clerk be the committee and that they report to be council on their decisions.—Carried.

TWO MEN TO MARVEL AT

WM. MACKENZIE AND DONALD C. MANN, RAILWAY BUILDERS.

Their Achievement In Railroad Construction Has No Parallel — Are Working to Own Complete Transcontinental Railway Extending From End to End of the Dominion —How Idea For the Project Came.

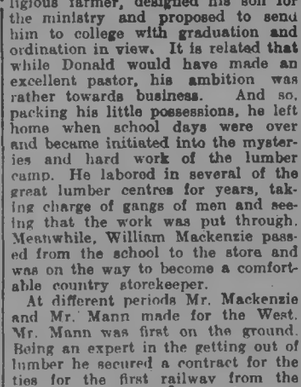
The banquet given by the Toronto Board of Trade to the notable railway builders, Mr. William Mackenzie and Mr. Donald C. Mann awakens renewed interest in the remarkable enterprise these gentlemen are prosecuting. That two individuals should set out to construct and own a railway from the Atlantic to the Pacific is a marvel; that they should have built nearly 4,000 miles within the space of ten years is more extraordinary still. The history of railroad construction furnishes no parallel to this achievement.

While the undertaking and success with which it is being carried through challenge public attention, much interest must also be experienced touching the men themselves. What of the individuals who are working to own a complete transcontinental railway and who will yet be able to boast the proprietorship of a road extending from end to end of the Dominion and branching out in many directions? In the year 1848, and in the Village of Kirkfield, Victoria County, was born of Highland parents William Mackenzie, and in Kirkfield the lad received his schooling. Five years later, or in 1853, there was born in another Scotch family, living between Acton and Rockwood, on the Grand Trunk Railway, and in the County of Wellington, Donald C. Mann. At Rockwood Donald, a barefooted boy—for it seems that all successful railway magnates are barefooted when young—went to school. What were the intentions of the Mackenzie family regarding William is not recorded; but it is known that the boy selected the teaching profession as his first step in life.

WILLIAM MACKENZIE.

The aspirations of the parents of Donald C. Mann are better understood than are those of the Mackenzie family. Mr. Mann's father, a deeply religious farmer, designed his son for the ministry and proposed to send him to college with graduation and ordination in view. It is related that while Donald would have made an excellent pastor, his ambition was rather towards business. And so, packing his little possessions, he left home when school days were over and became initiated into the mysteries and hard work of the lumber camp. He labored in several of the great lumber centres for years, taking charge of gangs of men and seeing that the work was put through. Meanwhile, William Mackenzie passed from the school to the store and was on the way to become a comfortable country storekeeper.

At different periods Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Mann made for the West. Mr. Mann was first on the ground. Being an expert in the getting out of lumber he secured a contract for the ties for the first railway from the frontier to Winnipeg. Further contracts of a similar nature were entered into for portions of the Canadian Pacific both east and west of Winnipeg, and later on Mr. Mann undertook the construction of section after section of the C.P.R. Mr. Mackenzie in the meantime had abandoned the idea of presiding over either a school or a store, and had taken contracts on the Credit Valley and Midland Railways in Ontario. Here he met with marked success. When the determination to push the Canadian Pacific through rapidly was reached, Mr. Mackenzie hastened to the West and effected some successful strokes in the contracting line. One of his biggest operations is said to have been the providing of labor for the mountain section of the road. It was while in the West that he and Mr. Mann met. Both were in the same business—that of railroad building—and both joined forces.



DONALD C. MANN.

The firm built certain of the branches of the Canadian Pacific in the West, among them the road from Calgary to Edmonton and that from Regina to Prince Albert. It also constructed the short line of the Canadian Pacific from Montreal, across Maine, to St. John. It was while the road to Prince Albert was being built that the two contractors learned of the richness of the great Saskatchewan Valley, through which the Canadian Pacific was originally designed to run. They concluded that there was room for a railway there and took into consideration the means of building one in the not distant future. It happened that a charter had been granted for a road, called the Lake Manitoba Railway and Canal Co., the line to begin at Portage la Prairie, and to run north through the Dauphin country—a very rich section. In 1895 Mr. Mann heard that this charter could be acquired, and he and his partner, Mr. Mackenzie, bought it.

The two contractors built the road, aided by a guarantee of bonds from the Manitoba Government. Then land grants and guarantees were secured for an extension westward through the Saskatchewan Valley to Edmonton. Later on the system of the Great Northern in Manitoba was acquired and added to the Western lines. This gave the partners an entrance into Winnipeg and a large business in Manitoba. Meanwhile the railway from Port Arthur to Winnipeg was constructed. Thus, within a very short period, the two contractors had secured control of a great line in the West. Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann now turned their attention to the east, and we have as a consequence their projects in Ontario, Quebec, and Nova Scotia. There can be no doubt that within a few years the two railway magnates will have a complete railway from ocean to ocean.

The designing, the financing, the building, and the operating of the Canadian Northern scheme — all by two men—constitute a really wonderful achievement. The work called for marvelous forethought, for skill in the management of affairs, and, above all things, for faith in the enterprise and in the country it was designed to serve. Possibly it was facilitated by the circumstance that there are no outside shareholders to question or to obstruct the managers. An enormous railway, spanning a continent, with but two proprietors—the farmer's lad from Kirkfield, Victoria County, and the other farmer's son from the County of Wellington—is a unique enterprise, and the men who are carrying it through certainly deserve commendation.

USEFUL SPIDERS.

Where They Are Made to Weave Webs For Silk Gowns.

The spider is commonly considered a nuisance, and the housekeeper usually sweeps its webs ruthlessly out of the way, but there are places in the world where its industry is considered of value. Gowns made of spiders' webs are now obtainable, and the spiders which flourish in Madagascar are carefully encouraged in their habits of thrift and kept in specially prepared cells. The webs which they weave for their homes in these cells are gathered, unwound and woven into silken, shimmering fabrics. The industry in Madagascar is under the management of M. Gallieni, the governor, who has been appointed to superintend the factory by the French authorities.

SPIDERS AT WORK IN CELLS.

A Curious Test For Beer.

At Munich an ancient custom still obtains of the burgomasters and town councillors going annually to Salvator cellar in order to test the quality of the beer consumed by the people. The test is a very primitive one. The officials attend in their leathern breeches, and beer having been poured over the wooden benches the civic dignitaries plump down upon them. While there seated they sing an ancient song, the same that their predecessors have sung for ages, and in order to subject the beer to a fair test they sit long enough to sing the song through three times. Then they essay to rise up. If now they find their breeches sticking to the benches the beer is voted good and sound. Having stood this test, the beer goes through the formality of being tasted, and then its sale to the public is duly sanctioned.

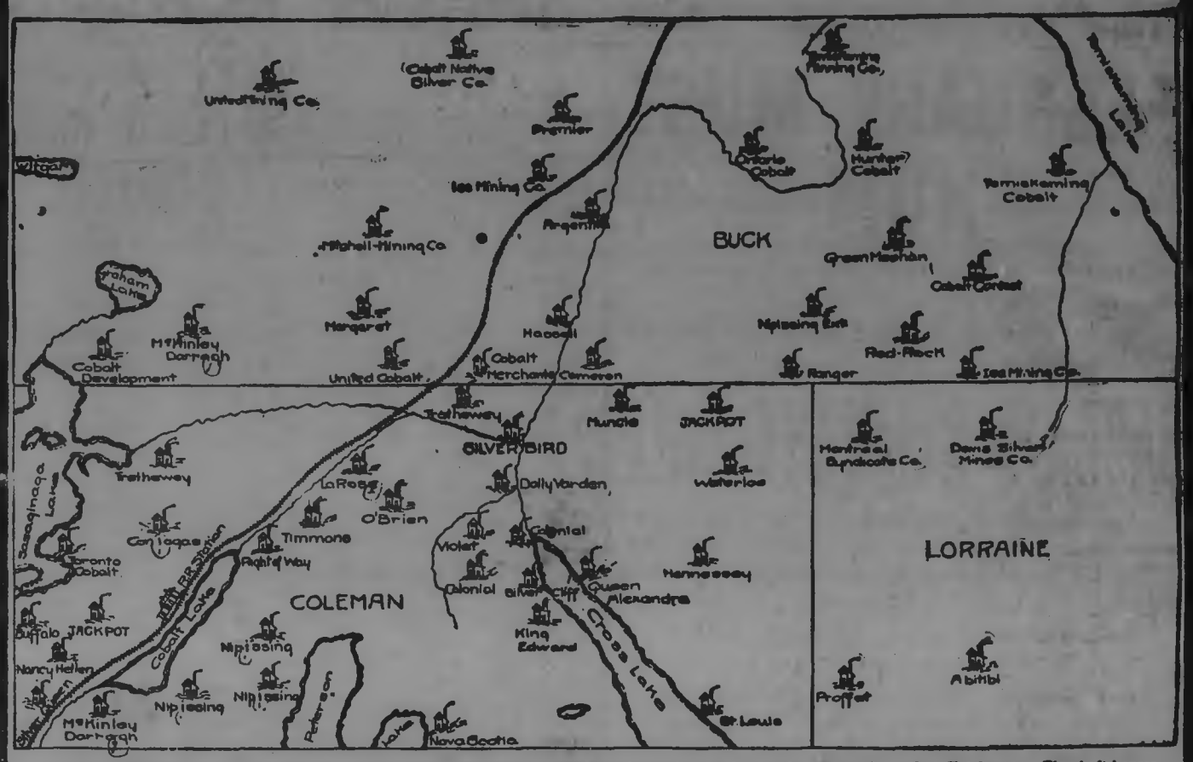
BUY SILVER BIRD

At 15 Cents Per Share



This map can be relied upon for accuracy as to location of the mines indicated. It is drawn from and upon the same scale as the official maps. The shaft-houses indicate the correct locations of the working of the mines. Silver Bird may be seen in the centre of the map.

SILVER BIRD is surrounded by the greatest producing mines in the Cobalt District.

SILVER BIRD is absolutely inside property, consisting of twenty acres (patented), being the west half of the north-east quarter of the north half of Lot 3, concession 6, Coleman.

SILVER BIRD is a mine in full operation, with two 25 h.p. boilers, steam hoist, steam drills and all machinery and buildings necessary to complete an operating mine.

SILVER BIRD is working two shifts and is in full operation both day and night, sinking upon three veins and in the same formations identically as in the O'Brien, Timmins and Right of Way mines and lying immediately between these mines and the Green-Meehan, Red Rock, Cobalt Contact and Nipissing Extension. The veins are broadening out and are increasing in values, with depth now 40 ft. in shaft.

SILVER BIRD has no indebtedness; there are no incumbrances against the property or stock of the company. The capitalization of The Silver Bird Cobalt Mines, Limited, is but $1,500,000.00, par value of the shares $1.00 each, with 500,000 shares in the treasury, of which 200,000 shares are now offered to the public for subscription at 15 cents per share.

Considering the inside location of the property, development done, results obtained, low capitalization and the large amount of shares in the treasury, this is unquestionably one of the best bargains (if not the greatest bargain) that has been offered in Cobalt mining shares.

We predict this first allotment will be largely oversubscribed and we urge that early application be made.

Men's Hats and Women's Veils.

"I see here that a woman writer wonders why a man always looks in his hat before he puts it on," said the reflective man as he looked up from his paper. "Here is what she says: 'When a man puts on his hat he most always looks inside it first. What he expects to see remains a mystery, but he looks for it, all the same.' That's easy. He looks in his hat to see if the knot holding the inside band together will be at the back of his head when he puts it on. Now, if she'll tell me why a woman always pulls down her veil and purses up her mouth before she steps out of doors we'll call it square."—New York Press.

Side Whiskers.

In her last novel, "The Dream and the Business," Mrs. Craigie, I regret to note, used the expression "side whiskers." The redundant "side" is to be found also in Meredith, Dickens, the greater Richardson, Bronte, Caine, Corelli, Sims and Shorter. As a matter of fact, unless otherwise stated, the least intelligent reader would take it for granted that the whiskers were worn on the side of the face, as indeed is the usual practice. The terms "lip whisker" (mustache) and "chin whisker" (beardette) are Americanisms.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Giving Impressively.

There are diversities of giving as well as of gifts. To give a little with a grand air sometimes seems to make more of an impression than to give much modestly. The world has not changed in this respect. Samuel Pepys wrote in his "Diary" in 1660: "There was a great number of merchants and others of good quality (at a dinner) on purpose to make an offering (to two newly married servants), which, when dinner was done, we did, and I did give 10 shillings and no more, though I believe most of the rest did give more, and did believe that I did so too."

Convicted by Sleep.

A Paris woman who was arrested for picking pockets and who pretended to speak an unknown language betrayed herself in her sleep. When brought before the magistrate she was interrogated by Turkish, Russian, Polish and Hungarian interpreters, but none could understand her, although one believed she spoke a little known dialect of Persia. The magistrate was not convinced and ordered her to be kept in the prison infirmary under strict surveillance. In her sleep the woman talked fluent French, with the true Parisian accent.

MODISH MATTERS.

Fetching Ermine "Throater"—Useful Peter Pan Pocketbook.

For the woman who would like to take a little "flier" in an ermine set a tiny ermine throater, or stock, only a few inches wide, is just the thing. This stock is finished with a tiny bit of mink and a small mink head. The muff is trimmed with a group of tails held in place with two heads.

Peter Pan pocketbooks are very useful. They have little places for coin and a place for bills and fold and fasten with two snaps. They are small and are worn suspended from the belt.

One of the newest conceits of femininity is a perfumed cap to be worn at night. This little piece of vanity is dainty in the extreme and is made of china silk in the shape of an old fashioned mob cap ornamented in front with a rosette of ribbon. It is heavily perfumed throughout with scent put in between a thin lining of sheet wadding.

To be worn with light dresses there are belts of woven gold or silver threads. Some look like simple braid, and others are woven in fanciful designs. An exquisite belt of this kind is to be found in dull old gold. The girl who wants something to harmonize with her antique bracelet would do well to invest in a woven gold belt. She must be careful to have a buckle that is in keeping.

The suit illustrated is of golden brown broadcloth made with the fashionable pony coat. The walking skirt is very graceful and trimmed at the foot with a fancy soutache braid. The same kind of braid trims the coat which is further elaborated with a tiny vest.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

Adornments For the Coiffure—Tiny Buttons a Smart Trimming.

Single bows in spangled silver, gold or jet are very attractive when worn at the side of the head. For women with small faces they are more becoming than the ornaments that have aigrets or bands that fit around the coils of the hair. Combinations of green tinsel ribbon, made like a tiara, with tufts of rosebuds fastened at either side of the head and at the back, are pretty for young girls to put in their tresses.

All over lace waists and lingerie blouses will be worn, but they are not as new or smart as the ones matching the suit.

APRICOT CREPE DE CHINE—5333, 5322.

Small buttons as tiny as the end of a pencil of colored enamel studded with steel are used in clusters on waists and skirts.

The peculiar new shade that is known as apricot is exceedingly beautiful and is much in favor for evening wear. The gown in the cut is of this color in crepe de chine, while the trimming is velvet ribbon and the yoke cream colored lace over chiffon. The blouse is quite simple and is closed invisibly at the back. Either elbow or three-quarter sleeves are equally appropriate. The skirt is gored and tucked in groups over the hips, but trimmed at its lower edge with applied bands of the material that serve the double purpose of finishing and giving the needed weight to the lower portion of the skirt.

Pin and Ring Case.

A useful case for hatpins, pins and rings is made of a piece of fancy ribbon with one of soft flannel tacked on to it and the two bound with narrow ribbon. At one end are sewed two or three little pieces of chamois leather, scalloped round the edges. This is to stick the pins into. At the other end a little bag is made, which draws together at the rim and is intended for rings. The hatpins are run into the lining, and the whole case is rolled and tied with ribbon.

Hair Tonic.

The following tonic is excellent for the hair: Bay rum, one ounce; ammonia, one dram; cantharadin, one ounce; alcohol, two ounces, and distilled water to fill an eight ounce bottle. Apply this at least three times a week for a month. It is useless to hope for any good results in less time. Massage the scalp in the meantime as often as possible.

Relief For Toothache.

A strong hot brine of salt and water held in the mouth generally gives relief in the most acute attacks of toothache.

Furniture Polish.

If a little vinegar be added to furniture polish it will be found to obviate the dead, oily look so often perceptible after cleaning furniture. Always rub the way of the grain when polishing a smooth piece of furniture.

Baking Hints.

If you want your cakes and pies to come to table with that glossy, brown baked appearance which is so appetizing to look upon sprinkle the oven with sugar and close the door tight. To prevent meat burning stand a cup of water in the oven.

FASHION WRINKLES.

Opals Adorn Ball Costumes—Revival of Crochet Buttons.

In spite of the superstition regarding them, opals are much worn, and ball costumes are being adorned with turquoises and coral. Silver is much used as a setting for pearls. Another style of headdress consists of gold or silver lace work set with pearls.

Silk crochet buttons are revived and are to be had in all the fashionable colors.

There is a new neck ruching that resembles the glove garter. To make this little article, which has become so fashionable as an accessory to the shirt waist, one has only to take enough elastic to go around the neck snugly. On the end of this there are hook and eye. Some inch wide ribbon is now shirred over the elastic, and a very tiny ruching is sewed to the top. At the back there is a little bow of velvet to match the ribbon shirring.

Another pretty accessory is the coat set embroidered on either white or colored linen. It is shaped to fit the coat and lapels. The neck piece is pointed at each end and elaborately worked in eyelet embroidery. The cuffs are broad bands of linen worked and finished square upon the corners, so they can be lapped with good results.

The illustration shows one of the latest exercising costumes of dark blue serge trimmed with black braid. The bloomers are decidedly novel.

Fooled the Doctors and Got Well

GIN PILLS CURE RHEUMATISM

They certainly were a surprised lot of doctors out Tyneside way. They had been treating Mrs. Harris for years. Gave her about everything that was ever heard of for Rheumatism—and then told her the disease was chronic.

A friend told Mrs. Harris about GIN PILLS. Just to oblige her friend, Mrs. Harris took a box. When that was gone, she dismissed the doctors and bought another box of GIN PILLS. By the time these were gone, she was so much better that she bought the third box and laughed every time she saw a doctor.

Tyneside P. O., Aug. 6, 1906.

I received your sample box of Gin Pills, but as there was only enough for a trial I got a box from our druggist, and now I am taking the third box. The pain across my back and kidneys has almost entirely gone, and I am better than I have been for years. I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism, but it has all left me.

MRS. T. HARRIS.

The doctors can't explain it. They don't try to. They said Mrs. Harris could not be cured. GIN PILLS cured her. Proof beats explanation all to pieces. Do YOU want proof? Write, mentioning this paper, for a free sample of Gin Pills and try them yourself. Then you will see what Gin Pills will do for YOU. Write now to the Bole Drug Co., Winnipeg, for a free sample.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

Velvet Fashions Ceremonious Gowns. Coquetry of Slippers.

Terry velvet is just now occupying an important place in the affections of the woman who dresses smartly. Many afternoon gowns for ceremonious occasions are made of this material, and it is to be found in exquisite shades. I saw a charming costume of terry velvet not long ago in a lovely tone of bois de rose. The skirt had two bands of sable at the hem, and the jacket was made after the style of a Russian blouse and held in at the waist by a suede belt of the same shade as the velvet. A band of sable ran down the left side where the coat fastened. The hat worn with the suit was of black silk beaver, with flat choux of black satin massed round the crown and a large plume of cock's feathers.

Silver and gold shoes still decorate the feet of fashion, and there seems no truth in the rumor that the white stockings and black leather shoes so beloved of our great-great-grandmothers are to reappear. And, by the way, remembering what a world of coquetry may be expressed by the white stocking and the small black slipper with the red rosette, it is a pity we have passed them by unnoticed.

Yellow in all its tones deepening into orange and golden brown is in the lead for evening wear. White is very little seen, as this is distinctively a season of colors. Pale blue and pink are popular for the debutantes.

The one piece dress is a boon to mothers of all small folk. It is so simple that several dresses can be made with very little trouble. The illustration shows a suit of this kind appropriate for boys of two and four and for girls up to the mature age of six.

Pretty Color Scheme—Embroidered Suede Collar and Cuff Sets.

Where belt, hat and muff are part of a color design the usual connecting link is flowers. Roses trimming a mushroom shaped hat for evening wear have their colorings repeated upon the ends of wide satin sashes in hand painted clusters. The accompanying muff is made of hand painted satin edged with chiffon flounces, while the seemingly hand painted pistoles displayed in the center of one of these painted roses are really yellow knobs belonging to a cleverly concealed purse, so very tiny that one of the red rose petals covers its hiding place.

A brown checked tailor made suit with plain flare skirt and three-quarter coat is made smart with an embroidered collar and cuff of tan suede. The silks used are in different harmonizing shades of brown. Under the name of "Japanese cat" our household pets have been slaughtered in great numbers to make long, comfortable auto coats that should haunt their possessors with the piercing wails of the fifty or more pussies whose furry hides go into the making of one garment. They are light and warm and, if one can forget their origin, pretty. They sell for about $40.

Silk rubber raincoats are very popular and are made large enough to slip on easily over Eton jackets. One of the most beautiful of these coats is of cherry red silk rubber with full skirts. There is a deep yoke, from which the skirt hangs full, box plaited back and front.

The little girl's frock is very smart and lends itself beautifully to the new soft materials. The box plaited waist is arranged over a smoothly fitted lining and is joined to the plaited skirt, the entire dress closing invisibly at the back, so there is all the merit of a one piece costume.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

BLUECOATS' BUSY LIVES.

17,000 London "Cops" Cover a Beat of 699 Square Miles, and Make 127,- 317 Arrests In One Year.

The many and varied duties which fall to the lot of the London policeman and the vast interests which he has to protect form the subject of a blue-book issued containing the annual report of the Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police.

The total strength of the force at the end of last year was 17,210, and their "beat" extended over an area, excepting the city, included in a radius of fifteen miles from Charing Cross. This gives a total area of 699.-43 square miles.

The population of this wide district is 7,096,638, or, roughly speaking, about 412 persons to every policeman. The rateable value of the district is £50,999,879, but of the enormous total value of the property in charge of the police it is impossible to form any estimate.

Police Were Busy.

The principal duty of this large army of policemen was, of course, the prevention and detection of crime. The following table gives an idea of the extent of their work in this direction:

	1905.
Number of persons arrested	127,317
Convicted by magistrates	103,362
Convicted at sessions	3,176
Discharged by magistrates ..	20,068
Acquitted at sessions	631
Criminal offences reported..	21,176
Persons arrested	15,474
Number of thefts of property	18,515
Persons arrested	12,850
Persons convicted	9,865
Persons acquitted	2,963
Summonses issued by police	32,469
Persons convicted	20,209
Persons discharged	2,260

It was not only in obtaining the conviction of offenders that the police were busy, however, for not only did they succeed in capturing the 9,865 thieves mentioned above, but of the £181,018 worth of property stolen by these light-fingered persons, they restored £32,915 worth to the owners.

Work Is Varied.

In many other ways, too, the police were busy, as the following record of a portion of their work during the year shows:—

	1905.
Lost people found.....	13,814
Suicides prevented	635
Fires extinguished	221
Fires attended	2,835
Door and windows found open	26,618
Unknown bodies photographed	49
Runaway horses stopped	216
Dogs seized	38,191
Policemen bitten	60
Summonses obtained by private persons and served by the police	78,604

Courage is a necessity in a police man, judging by the records found in the report. It is stated that special commendation was given to policemen in 279 cases for the display of exceptional bravery, varying from the stopping of a runaway horse to rescuing a man from a cellar in which he had been overcome by fumes. In forty of these cases the policemen received serious injuries.

Sore Feet.

Among other interesting facts contained in the report are the following:—

Sixty per cent. of the force are on duty at night.

The withdrawals from the men on duty owing to sick leave during the year average 423 daily.

The wage bill of the force amounts to £1,483,676 yearly, and the total cost is £1,908,430.

The number of motor-omnibuses in London, which at the end of 1904 was thirty-one, had risen by the end of 1905 to 241.

There were 6,996 hansoms, 3,935 four-wheelers, and nineteen motor-cabs in London at the end of 1905.

There were 213 policemen off duty during the year owing to "sore feet."

Four policemen committed suicide during the year.

Two policemen were specially commended by magistrates for "humane treatment of destitute families."

Helping Out Mamma.

About a dozen people dropped in unexpectedly at a country house in the evening, and the fluttered hostess did her best in the limited time at her disposal to make a good show at the supper table.

But she had only just begun to flatter herself that things were passing off swimmingly when her youngest daughter, aged six, remarked to the gentleman next to her:

"Aren't these nice tumblers we've got, Mr. Brown? They all came from the grocer's full of marmalade. Didn't they, ma?"—London Express.

THE THINGS TO EAT.

Man's Anatomy Suggests a Fruit Diet As the Most Suitable—What the London Lancet Says On Subject.

Those who do not want to rank as extremists will do well to eschew the glandular organs, such as sweetbreads and liver, to pin their faith to mutton and one or two kinds of fish, to give up coffee and drink weak China tea. Those who wish to go further should reflect first that man is neither carnivorous nor herbivorous. For long scientists have obscured the view by useless arguments as to whether or not a man was meant to live like a cow.

There are other species than the flesh and grass eating animals. All students of comparative anatomy know that the teeth of human beings are identical with those of the frugivorous apes, who live on fruits and nuts. Not only so, but the proportion of bowel length to body length in man corresponds exactly with that in the same species in marked contrast to what obtains in all carnivorous animals where the bowel is proportionally short.

A study of anatomy therefore suggests a fruit diet as the most suitable. Further confirmation is afforded by the obvious predilection of nearly all children for such food. The best fruits for food are apples, bananas, grapes, nuts, dates, raisins and figs.

Nuts are especially valuable owing to the large amount of fat they contain. The old fashioned idea that they are indigestible is due partly to the error in taking them at the end of an already more than ample meat meal and partly to insufficient mastication. Chestnuts are the easiest to digest and make an excellent food. Many other fruits may be taken, always remembering that stone fruits sometimes disagree and that acid fruits should be taken in moderation. Strawberries contain a considerable amount of purins and should be avoided by all with a gouty or rheumatic tendency. Among fruits we include those of the cereals, such as wheat and rice. White bread is free from purin, but brown bread contains a varying amount derived from the husk. The most wholesome form of bread is unleavened.—Lancet.

The Junius Letters.

No fewer than thirty-seven persons have had the "Letters of Junius" assigned to them, but since the publication of Taylor's "Junius Identified" in 1816 Sir Philip Francis has generally been regarded as their author. Sir Philip, who was at school with Woodfall, the publisher of the letters, was a clerk in the Secretary of State's office and wrote for the papers under various names. It is upon the similarity of his known writings to the style of Junius that his claim is principally based, though experts have also identified his writing with the feigned hand in which the letters were written. The most famous of the other claimants are Burke, the statesman; the American General Lee, who is said to have himself claimed them; Lord George Sackville and Horne Tooke.—London Answers.

His Humor.

He prided himself on being a humorist. He was running down the steps of the hospital in which he was working when he met a fellow student leisurely climbing up.

"Hello, Brown!" cried the slow one, noticing his friend looked pleased. "You're in a hurry. What's the matter? Any good cases?"

"I should think so!" cried Brown, just bursting with a new pun. "We've got a woman in the ward upstairs who is so cross eyed that the tears run down her back."

"What!" said his friend. "Could not do anything for her, could you?"

"I should think we could," replied Brown. "We treated her for bacteria." And away he rushed to fire it off on some one else.—London Tit-Bits.

His Hereditary Foe.

An Irishman, a Scotchman and an Englishman on the unemployed list were once tramping the country in search of work. On coming to a field of turnips they took several in order to appease the pangs of hunger. For this they were dragged before the judge, who took a lenient view of the case. Before sentencing each to 12 lashes on the bare back he agreed to confer a small favor according as each requested. The Englishman asked the favor of his overcoat, the Scotchman his own as well as that of the Englishman, while the Irishman, casting a sly glance at the judge, said, "May it please your honor, I would just like the Englishman across my back."

A Driller.

An Irishman looking for work took his stand in a group at the gate of a large engineering establishment. By and by the foreman came up to the gate and asked:

"Are there any drillers here?"

"Yes," said Pat, stepping forward.

He got the job at once, but he had not been working long at the machine when it broke down. The foreman, in anything but a pleasant mood, then inquired:

"Where, man, did you learn drilling?"

"In the militia," was Pat's reply.—London Express.

A Bear In Parliament.

The young ladies on the ground floor of the Langevin Block, Ottawa, were in a state of fright the other day when a bear made its appearance in the corridor. The animal belonged to Mr. Sam Cassidy, and had escaped from a shed nearby. It was soon in custody again.

OLD YEAR'S RECORD.

The Great Convulsions of Nature In 1906—The Vesuvius and San Francisco Disasters.

A glance back over the year 1906 prompts the hope that 1907 may witness fewer great catastrophes and convulsions of nature than marked the year that is gone. Many notable achievements in the fields of moral and social progress and in science, art and literature have been recorded during the past year, but perhaps 1906 will be best known for its remarkable and disastrous earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. It seemed as though old Mother Earth were determined to remind those who dwell in fancied security upon her broad bosom that nothing is certain in this life except death and taxes and that wrinkles in the terrestrial crust or a little ebullition of lava may make quite a difference in the location of home sites and the value of real estate.

Last spring the unusual activity of Mount Vesuvius began to attract more than local attention, and before the inhabitants of its then green and flowering slopes were scarcely aware of what was doing an eruption was in progress that covered a vast area with smoke and ashes, drove thousands of people from their homes, destroyed several towns of considerable importance and for a time threatened even the city of Naples itself. The hero of that episode was Professor V. R. Matteucci of the Royal observatory on the slope of Vesuvius, who remained at his post during all the dangers incident to the eruption in order to encourage or warn the people and to make scientific observations. During much of the time he was assisted by a young American scientist, Frank R. Perret of New York. Professor Matteucci even succeeded in taking photographs of the masses of fiery stone as they were thrown out of the crater and in taking his snapshots stood unconcernedly on the very edge of the great caldron.

The shakeup on the Pacific coast, involving the practical destruction of the great city of San Francisco, followed not long afterward by the shock affecting South American cities on the Pacific ocean and doing great damage in Valparaiso, Chile, set people to studying about earthquake belts, seismometers and seismology in general and to wondering whose turn was coming next. The disaster to San Francisco and the wholesale suffering occasioned by the conflagration which followed the earthquake caused a wave of sympathy to flow over the land in the train of the rumble and trembling of the strata, and the measures of relief so promptly taken showed again that a touch of nature—especially a heavy touch like that—makes the whole world kin.

Rewarded the Rogue.

Von Moltke was an early riser and loved early risers. Once while roaming around his Silesian estate at daybreak he found a peasant woman bearing on her back a sack of potatoes which she had just dug, making a load heavy enough for a mule. "Here's a thaler for you," said the great field marshal. "You see, the early bird catches the worm." Afterward he found out that she was a night thief who had ravaged his fields persistently, but whom his steward had never got up early enough to catch.

Not Discouraged.

Doesn't it sometimes discourage you to find so many of your scientific theories inaccurate?"

"Not at all," said the learned man. "There are always plenty of new ones to discover. And theories are always more interesting than demonstrations."

He Died Anyhow.

This was the way a native physician in India filled out a death certificate: "I am of a mind that he died (or lost his life) for want of foodings or on account of starvation. Maybe also for other things for comfortables, and most probably he died by drowning."

The Original "Village Blacksmith"

Dunchurch, near Rugby, claims that its smithy is the original forge which inspired the famous verses on "The Village Blacksmith." It is a picturesque old place, and the "spreading chestnut tree" still flourishes in front of it.—London Strand.

TO IMPROVE YOUR APPEARANCE

Retain your youthful freshness so that no one can remark, "she is past her prime." To appear younger and more attractive than the average woman, you must be particular that your Hair shows no sign of being thin, short or scrawny. A DORENWEND TRANSFORMATION, POMPADOUR, WAVE, CURL or SWITCH will substitute nature's defects. Even if you have plenty of your own hair, these light and airy artifices may be worn over it, saving you the worry of arranging your hair in the prevailing style. Your hair can be perfectly matched in color and texture, so that detection is out of the question.

Now, if you have in your mind any prejudice regarding artificial hair, it will forever be dispelled after seeing how natural and becoming our productions will prove in your case.

CONSULT PROFESSOR DORENWEND
DURING THIS VISIT

Advice regarding your hair and how you can make the most of it, also a personal demonstration of the newest styles in transformations, will be given the same as at our establishment in Toronto. Bear in mind that our styles are originated and designed by Professor Dorenwend and they cannot be procured from any other makers. Their equal have yet to be produced.

MAN TO MAN—ABOUT BALDNESS

If you are bald, or partially so, you must realize that it makes you look old. Notwithstanding the desire to have back your one time bushy head of hair, you hesitate before wearing a natural hair covering simply because you imagine it is going to be noticed by others. Now you never made a greater mistake. Thousands of men, who thought the same as you do, are to-day wearing a and instead of carrying the handicap, that baldness proved to them, they are now enjoying the advantage of "looking young"—and that is what counts to-day in business and social life. Our Patent Toupee is a featherweight fac-simile of your own natural hair and may be worn without fear of detection—impossible to remove from the head unless at will—not the least clumsy or uncomfortable. They act as a protection, preventing colds and catarrh, so common to bald men.

Now do not neglect this opportunity—come and see for yourself. A few minutes' demonstration will convince you that a Dorenwend Patent Toupee is not like the clumsy, wiggy affairs that are claimed to be "just as natural."

REMEMBER PLACE, DAY AND DATE

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, marked on the envelope "Tenders for Construction," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, until twelve o'clock noon of the 14th day of February, 1907, for the works required for the construction, in accordance with the plans, profiles and specifications of the Commissioners, for the following sections of the Transcontinental Railway, viz.:—

(1) District "A."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners at or near the City of Moncton, in the Province of New Brunswick, westerly for a distance of about 88 miles.

(2) District "A."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the town of Grand Falls, in the Province of New Brunswick, westerly to the boundary between the Provinces of New Brunswick and Quebec, a distance of about 63 miles.

(3) District "B."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the Quebec Bridge, westerly for a distance of about 150 miles.

(4) District "B."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners about 150 miles west of the Quebec Bridge westerly to a point known as Weymontachene, a distance of about 45 miles.

(5) Districts "C" and "D."—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners about eight miles west of the Abitibi River crossing easterly for a distance of about 150 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz.: Guy Dunn, St. John, N.B.; A. B. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; and S. R. Poulin, North Bay, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners.

A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenderers shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners, and before submitting any tender, tenderers should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications, and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept and agree to be bound by the terms and conditions contained in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners of the Trans-continental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 1, District "A." $75,000.

For Section No. 2, District "A." $90,000.

For Section No. 3, District "B," $225,000.

For Section No. 4, District "B," $75,000.

For Section No. 5, Districts "C" and "D", $225,000.

Any person whose tender is accepted shall, within ten days after the acceptance thereof, furnish such additions to approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure, and all contract rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

Attention is called to the following clauses to the form of contract:—

"All mechanics, labourers or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final."

"This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are or shall be applicable to such works." (The schedule of Minimum wages determined upon by said department will form part of the contract.)

"The contractor shall, in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply and upon as good terms in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price."

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners; and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different Provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

MOHAMMED ALI MIRZA.

The Progressive Crown Prince of the Kingdom of Persia.

Mohammed Ali Mirza, who succeeds to the throne of Persia on the death of the Shah, is a young man of progressive ideas for one belonging to Oriental royalty. As heir apparent he has enjoyed considerable power as Governor-General of Azerbaijan. It is an unwritten law of the Persians that the valiahd (or heir apparent) shall be governor of this province and reside at Tabriz. Mohammed Ali was born in 1872, and is the son of a princess distantly related to his father. Persian monarchs have numerous wives, but the successor to the throne must be the son of a legitimate wife of royal blood. The prince was educated under the supervision of European tutors, acquired a fair knowledge of French and in many ways is an example of the progressive spirit of the last decade in Persia, which has recently resulted in the change in the rulership from an absolute despotism to a constitutional monarchy. His taste is for military affairs. He is fond of sport, courteous in his relations with others and yet inherits from his grandfather, Nasr-ed-Din Shah, much firmness of character.

An Alaskan Romance.

A touching reunion between husband and wife, after a separation of more than 22 years, was effected recently, says The Nome Gold Digger, when Michael Kobevitch, the proprietor of a miners' hotel on the Pilgrim River, was re-introduced to his wife, whom he had last seen in Prussia more than a score of years ago. Mr. Kobevitch left Prussia at that time for the purpose of seeking his fortune in America, and she has patiently waited his return ever since. Husband and wife corresponded all the time, and a year ago Mr. Kobevitch sold some property in the Kougazok district and sent for his wife with a portion of the proceeds. The couple had changed so greatly since their parting that it was necessary to introduce husband and wife to each other.

A Fee From the Ameer.

Two Englishwomen, a physician and her sister, were attending the women of the palace of the Ameer of Afghanistan. One day when Miss Brown was sitting with the Queen the Ameer came in. He chanced to have got a bit of coal in his eye and was suffering considerably. Miss Brown offered to remove the irritant and did so deftly, her sister holding a lamp to enable her to see. His highness at once called for his purse and forthwith presented Miss Brown with 50 gold tillas (about $175) and her sister with 30 tillas.

Disease Born of Carelessness

BECAUSE POISONOUS IMPURITIES ARE LEFT IN THE BLOOD WHICH CAN BE REMOVED BY THE USE OF

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Disease results in most cases from the presence of poisonous waste matter in the body, and may, therefore, be said to arise from ignorance or carelessness.

Bilious spells, sick headache, attacks of indigestion, kidney pains and backache—such are the indications of failure on the part of the liver to remove the poisonous waste matter as rapidly as it accumulates.

By the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills the situation is promptly relieved, because, liver, kidney and bowels are set in vigorous action and the filtering and excretory system thoroughly cleansed and strengthened.

Neglect to afford assistance at such a time is to invite the attack of such ailments as Bright's disease, dropsy, rheumatism or appendicitis.

Mr. John Wilson, 918 Esplanade avenue, Montreal, Que., writes: "Last February I was taken sick and had to have the doctor, who said that my ailment was a disordered liver. A few weeks after completing this treatment I began to notice symptoms of kidney disease. The urine took on a reddish appearance and continued to get worse until there were brick dust deposits, and then I knew that the kidneys were seriously affected, and that I was threatened with Bright's disease.

"I obtained some of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and as a result of this treatment was completely cured. My water became a natural colour and is still so. The cure was thorough and lasting."

By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose at bedtime, as often as is necessary to keep the bowels in regular, healthful action, you insure yourself against kidney disease and the subsequent suffering from Bright's disease, dropsy, apoplexy or other equally dreaded ailments. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

SOMEBODY.

Somebody's courting Somebody
Somewhere or other to-night;
Somebody's whispering to Somebody,
Somebody's listening to Somebody
Under this clear moonlight.

Near the bright river's flow,
Running so still and slow,
Talking so soft and low,
She sits with Somebody.

Pacing the ocean's shore,
Edged by the foaming roar,
Words never used before
Sound sweet to Somebody.

Under the maple tree,
Deep though the shadow be,
Plain enough they can see
Bright eyes has Somebody.

No one sits up to wait,
Though she is out so late,
All know she's at the gate
Talking with Somebody.

Tiptoe to parlor door;
Two shadows on the floor!
Moonlight, reveal no more—
Susy and Somebody.

Two, sitting side by side,
Float with the ebbing tide,
"Thus, dearest, may we glide
Through life," says Somebody.
Somewhere Somebody
Makes love to Somebody
To-night.

CARLYLE ON JUSTICE.

"Nothing Is Ever Settled Until It Is Settled Right."

From Carlyle's "Past and Present": "Parchment records, fixed forms and poor terrestrial justice, with or without horsehair—what sane man will not reverence these? And yet, behold, the man is not sane, but insane, who considers these alone as venerable. Oceans of horsehair, continents of parchment and learned sergeant eloquence, were it continued till the learned tongue wore itself small in the indefatigable learned mouth, cannot make unjust just! The grand question still remains, Was the judgment just? If unjust it will not and cannot get harbor for itself or continue to have footing in this universe, which was made by other than one unjust. Enforce it by never such saluting, three readings, royal assents, blow it to the four winds with all manner of quilted trumpeters and pursuivants, in the rear of them never so many gibbets and hangmen, it will not stand, it cannot stand.

"From all souls of men, from all ends of nature, from the throne of God above, there are voices bidding it away, away! Does it take no warning? Does it stand, strong in its three readings, in its gibbets and artillery park? The more woe is to it, the frightfuler woe. It will continue standing, for its day, for its year, for its century, doing evil all the while. But it has one enemy who is almighty. Dissolution, explosion and the everlasting laws of nature incessantly advance toward it, and the deeper its rooting, more obstinate its continuing, the deeper also and huger will its ruin and overturn be.

"In this, God's world, with its wild whirling eddies and mad foam oceans, where men and nations perish as if without law and judgment for an unjust thing is sternly delayed, dost thou think that there is therefore no justice? It is what the fool hath said in his heart. It is what the wise, in all times, were wise because they denied and knew forever not to be. I tell thee again, there is nothing else but justice."

The O'Gorman's Retort.

Major O'Gorman, the man "of stupendous girth and volcanic voice," was a notable figure in the House of Commons. "He was indescribably funny," says Toby, M.P., "the real Irishman in flesh and blood—and a good deal of both—whom Charles Lever used to draw. When he stood up the House began to laugh. If he coughed, it hilariously cheered. When he cried, 'Hear, hear!' everybody roared." He was the only man who could always be relied on to make Dizzy's sphinx-like face relax into a smile. The major (there was only one "major" in his day) said many a witty thing, but the cleverest of them all was his retort to a member who querulously demanded in the House, "Why are Irishmen always laying bare the wrongs of their country?" "Because," thundered the O'Gorman, "they want them redressed."

Just Like Him.

The Rev. Walter Colton, author of "Ship and Shore" and other books, gave a most forcible illustration of the character of an officer on board the ship to which he was attached as chaplain. The officer was always meddling with other people's business and was seldom in his own place. Consequently he was most unpopular with the sailors. One of them, goaded to unusual irritation, said one day, "I do believe that at the general resurrection the lieutenant will be found getting out of somebody else's grave."

An Insulting Supposition.

Bess—Yes, the engagement's off. He told her she ought to give up novels and read something more substantial!—something that would improve her.

Ben—Well?

Bess—Gracious! Don't you see? The idea of a man intimating to his fiancee that she could be improved in any way.

A CONTRAST.

French and English Women as They Cross a Muddy Street.

See a Parisienne cross a muddy street. She advances tiptoe to the edge of the pavement, poises like a bird ready for a flight, deftly raises her dress more than enough to show her embroidered skirt, the dainty hose and elegant bottines, and without more delay she trips across, toe and heel barely touching and the mud refusing to cling to the fairy feet that hardly leave an impression on it. Landed on the other side, she gives her fine feathers a little shake into place and passes on with shoes that look as if just put on at that moment.

Watch an Englishwoman immediately afterward. She reaches the curbstone, comes to a dead standstill and stolidly contemplates the muddy road. Finally she selects a route. Then, very cautiously, she lifts her dress, making sure that the tops of her shoes are under cover; then, slowly advancing, she puts her right foot out. Plump it goes, the water oozing over it, and then splash, splash, splash, until the other side is reached, when, with soiled skirts and soaked shoes, she proceeds on her wet and muddy way.

Nothing could be more characteristic of their respective nationalities, and nothing could be more amusing than their mutual contempt for each other's ways. — Translated From the French For St. Louis Republic.

Treatment of the Insane.

Dr. J. G. Fitzgerald, who has been for the last two years pursuing a course of instruction in psychiatry and pathology in the Johns Hopkins and Sheppard and Enoch-Pratt Hospitals has been appointed to the position of clinical director and pathologist in the Toronto Asylum.

The appointment of Dr. Fitzgerald is a very important scientific step in advance in regard to the treatment of the insane, says The Globe. It means that attention is to be devoted to the study of the causes of insanity and the history of the various cases coming under his notice. The result of this study, to which Dr. Fitzgerald will give the greater part of his time, will be made known to those in charge of other provincial institutions for the insane, in some others of which it is probable pathologists may also be appointed. This will be of great benefit in treating the patients in the institutions and people not confined there, but under surveillance.

Dr. Fitzgerald is a Canadian. He was born near Harriston, Wellington County, and is a graduate of the University of Toronto and the Toronto Medical College. After graduating he was for some time on the staff of the Buffalo asylum, and late at Johns Hopkins.

Buffalo Will Never Disappear.

Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton has been making an estimate of the number of buffalo which once roamed over the plains of the central part of this continent. His estimate is 60,000,000, and this is believed to be fairly accurate, though some estimates put the number at almost double this. An accurate census of buffalos living at the present time puts the number at 1,697. These are nearly all in captivity, only about 400 roaming free in the wilds of the far Northwest. The number in captivity has increased from 256 in 1859 to 1,297 in 1906. Mr. Seton says that the number of bison in captivity is rapidly increasing, and that there is no reason why this should not go on so long as there is a desire to maintain the increase. Considerable success has attended the attempts to interbreed bison with common cattle. The hybrid is called a "catalo," and the advantage it possesses over common cattle is that its hide, or "robe," is worth more than the entire body of the steer. It is also very hardy, and lives out on the plains during winters that would be fatal to domestic cattle.

Value of Advertising.

Fair Visitor—"So you have really decided not to sell your house?"

Fair Hostess—"Yes. You see, we placed the matter in the hands of an estate agent. After reading his lovely advertisement of our property neither John nor myself could think of parting with such a wonderful and perfect home."—Tit-Bits.

A White Cobra.

A milk white cobra some five feet long was killed with great difficulty, so says a vernacular paper, by some peasants at a jhular near the canal bridge on the Lahore-Mian Meer road recently. Hooded snakes of this tint and size are very rare in the Punjab.

A BAD COLD SETTLED ON THE LUNGS

All the most serious affections of the throat, the lungs, and the bronchial tubes, are, in the beginning, but coughs and colds, and failure to take hold at once and get rid of them will cause many years of suffering.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree and will certainly cure all coughs colds and lung troubles.

Mrs. Jas. McDowell, Langton, Ont., writes: "In November, 1905, I caught a bad cold that settled on my lungs, so I got two bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and used one and a half of them and by that time I was cured. I laid he balance of the bottle away for future use. A few days after our eight months' old baby took the whooping cough.

He was so bad we had to call the family physician, but he said he could do but little.

I commenced using the Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and to my great satisfaction the baby was cured. I only used four 25 cent bottles; a small doctor bill.

I believe there is no other remedy for coughs, colds, etc.

Price 25 cents a bottle at all dealers.

If You Wore Them Last Winter This Is No News to You —

People who wore "Daisy" Rubbers last winter will wear them again this winter, even without reading our ads. For no amount of talk about "Daisy" Rubbers tells so much as a season's wear of the rubbers themselves. The good service they give under the test of every day ruff-scuff hard usage, in all kinds of bad weather,—that's what shows the honesty that backs "Our Daisy" advertising. But even that test doesn't tell why there's double wear in every pair—though it proves there is. It's a simple matter of using toughened honest rubber in the right way, in a factory that's as modern as the idea of honest quality is ancient.

"Klingsole" Made for Men and Women

You'll hardly know you've got rubbers on when you wear the Klingsole,—they are so light in weight. But they will outwear common rubbers that are twice as heavy. Klingsole Rubbers don't heat the feet; they can't slip off until you want them off—and then a touch removes them. Made in the right toe shape for the shoes you wear

MANY CHANGES IN THE TARIFF

Proposed Bounty On Binder Twine Made From Manila.

EXTENSION OF FREE LIST

Duty on Potatoes Increased and Tomatoes Are Placed on the Ad Valorem Basis—Imperial Union Partnership Discussed in House of Commons—Col. Hughes' Motion—Time Is Not Ripe.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—Hon. Mr. Fielding gave notice last night of a long list of changes, some 120 in all, in the new tariff schedule brought down in the House on November 29th last. No official explanation of the changes will be given until the resolutions are moved in the House. Some of them are of considerable importance to the general consumer, in increasing or decreasing the duties on certain staple articles, but for the most part they are of a technical or relatively unimportant character, designed to meet the objections of manufacturers and others on minor points.

To Encourage Binder-Twine Making.

The first resolution provides that a bounty may be authorized on binder twine manufactured in Canada from Manila fibre, such bounty not to exceed 3-8 of one cent per pound, and to be equal to the amount paid as export duty in the Philippine Islands on Manila fibre. This answers one of the chief demands of the binder twine and cordage manufacturers, while at the same time not increasing the cost to the consumer. A second resolution exempts from the dumping clause provisions binder twine manufactured from New Zealand hemp, [illegible] grass, etc.

Some Important Changes.

Some of the more important changes in the tariff schedules may be briefly noted. The British preferential duty on cocoa and chocolate is reduced 2 1-2 per cent. To meet the requests of the market gardeners the duty on potatoes is increased 2 1-2 cents per bushel, and fresh tomatoes are placed on the ad valorem [illegible] of the specific basis.

The duty on plums is increased from 20 cents to 30 cents per bushel. There is a small decrease in the duty on dates and figs.

There is a reduction of one cent per gallon on the general tariff duty on crude petroleum, benzine, gasoline, etc.

Imperial Union.

The House of Commons gave [illegible] up yesterday afternoon and evening to the discussion of one of its perennial topics, that of Imperial federation. As usual, it was Col. Sam Hughes who sounded the first note with his familiar resolution affirming the necessity of a full partnership union between Great Britain and the colonies. The Prime Minister, while welcoming the discussion, thought the idea of a full partnership union was premature, contending that it could not be realized until they had free trade within the empire. The leader of the Opposition replied that Imperial free trade was not essential. He believed that the establishment of closer relations between the mother country and the dependencies would be a gradual process, and admitted that there were difficulties in the way of the formation of an Imperial Parliament.

Col. Hughes' Motion.

Col. Hughes in presenting his resolution said:

"That in the opinion of this House the interests of Canada and the British empire would be best served by a full partnership union among Great Britain and her colonies."

He congratulated the country on the growth of imperialism. We no longer heard any talk about the treaty-making power or about a Canadian navy, and a British general still commanded the armies of Canada. Col. Hughes favored one great Imperial Parliament to be above all the subordinate Parliaments. The Imperial Parliament was not to supplant the present British Parliament. It might be small in numbers and confine its labor to what might be termed international questions. It should also provide for a preferential tariff. Only some such scheme could prevent the various colonies from striking for independence. Neither South Africa, Australia nor Canada could long retain its place as an independent nation if cut off from the protection of Great Britain.

An Age of Combination.

Dr. Chisholm (East Huron) said that this resolution looked too larger confederation. Some opposed it as likely to dwarf them or to destroy their liberties. Many in Quebec had similar fears respecting confederation in 1867, but what had happened? The French-Canadians really dominated the situation, and one of them now rules this country. This was an age of combination, an era of big nations. He did not believe that Canada could stand alone without Great Britain and Great Britain would soon sink to the rank of a second-class nation if her colonies were lost to her. There were misapprehensions to be cleared up. It was not pleasant for a Canadian to hear himself alluded as "only a colonial." It was unreasonable to expect Canada to contribute money to the imperial navy when she was allowed no voice on its disposition, and yet we were wounded by constant reference to the "meanness of Canada." He complained of the cattle embargo and of the fact that British subjects here had no voice in settling any imperial question. What was the remedy? Would it not be found in an elective Imperial Parliament to be above the present British Parliament and the various colonial Parliaments? With our improved methods of transportation such a federation was entirely feasible.

An Old Subject, Says Devlin.

Mr. Devlin (Nicolet) said the subject had often been before the House. When he left Canada in 1897 it was an old subject. He failed to find any "growing sentiment" towards imperial federation.

Mr. Smith (Wentworth) was in favor of any feasible scheme that would consolidate the British empire. Canada should contribute to the imperial defence, and for this contribution and proportioned to it should be representation for Canada.

Mr. Lake (Conservative, Saskatchewan) also favored some sort of imperial federation.

Looking to the Future.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that it was proper for the people of this young country to give some thought to their future. But what was precisely meant by the resolution? In France the colonies have their deputies on the floor of the French assembly, and their local laws are made in Paris. British colonies would not submit to a system like that. The basis and strength of the British empire consisted in the freedom and autonomy of its several states. It would be a grand idea to have a Parliament with members from Canada, New Zealand, South Africa and India, but was it practicable? Such a Parliament must control the fiscal affairs of these nations, and between them all must be absolute free trade. Could there be any union otherwise? It was the zollverein that made the German empire; it was free trade between the states that made and makes the American Union. No union such as contemplated by the resolution could exist without placing fiscal control in this new Imperial Parliament, and this would mean free trade between large parts of Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and North and South America.

The idea proposed by Col. Hughes was not new. It had engrossed the attention and the study of the best minds in Great Britain. It had long ago been renounced as premature, if not impracticable. No great change ever came about in English-speaking countries until there was some grievance to be remedied, but in Canada we had no grievance.

Free Trade Unnecessary.

R. L. Borden was not prepared to dispute the argument that self-government should be zealously guarded, but he repudiated the notion that free trade was needed to build up the empire. He anticipated that close relations between the various parts of the empire would come gradually and naturally as a growth and development. It could not be hurried or manufactured. He anticipated such growth and close union, and he believed it would contribute to the peace and prosperity of the world.

Canada First.

W. F. Maclean (S. York) said that he was for Canada first and empire next. Canada should make her own constitution, always respecting the treaty rights of Lower Canada, make her own court of final resort; make her own treaties; define Canadian citizenship, and eventually select her own chief magistrate, be he king or president. Canada must steadily advance along the line of nationality, on which she was now entered, and she must not be afraid to think of her own defence, her own fighting men and her own ships.

John Bain Resigns.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—John Bain, assistant commissioner of customs and secretary of the Tariff Commission, has resigned from the Government service. He intends going into business, and will be associated with Hon. Clifford Sifton. Mr. Bain was secretary of the Tariff Commission, and at the colonial conference in London drafted the Canadian reply to Hon. Joseph Chamberlain on preferential trade.

Three Years for Small Theft.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—An immigrant boy named William Fisher was arrested on Friday in Montreal, for stealing $130 from his employer Mrs. McGovern, at Templeton. He had spent all the money in Ottawa and Montreal within 24 hours. At Hull he was yesterday morning sentenced to three years in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

Deer Lodge Burned.

Winnipeg, Feb. 12.—Deer Lodge, built in 1859, possibly the oldest of the few historical buildings in Manitoba, and one of the city's most popular suburban hotels, was entirely destroyed by fire Sunday night. The origin of the fire is unknown. The inmates had to make their escape in scanty night clothing.

WHAT EVELYN THAW'S NOTE SAID

Jerome Produces It On Demand of Defence On Monday.

AN EXPERT ON INSANITY

Swears Thaw Did Not Know That His Act, In Shooting Stanford White, Was Wrong—Gives His Opinion on a Hypothetical Question Covering Every Detail of Evidence Given So Far—Objections.

New York, Feb. 12.—Answering a hypothetical question covering every detail of the testimony up to this time in the Thaw trial, including Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's narration of her life history to the defendant, Charles G. Wagner, superintendent of the state hospital for the insane at Binghamton, N. Y., declared on the witness stand late yesterday that in his opinion Harry K. Thaw did not know that the act was wrong when he shot and killed Stanford White on the roof of the Madison square garden.

Mr. Jerome effectually blocked the completion, for the time being, of the direct testimony of Mrs. EvelynThaw. He insisted that before she went further, competent testimony as to Thaw's unsoundness of mind should be placed before the jury. Mr. Delmas tried to carry forward the young wife's story, but the district attorney was ready with an objection to every question asked.

Mrs. Thaw had been recalled as the third witness of the day. One of her predecessors was J. D. Lyon, vice-president of the Union National Bank of Pittsburg, who testified that he received Harry Thaw's will from the latter's own hands some time prior to April 1, 1906, and held it in a safe deposit box until late in November last, when he directed his secretary to forward it to John B. Gleason of Thaw's counsel.

Mr. Gleason said he received the will by mail on Dec. 11, 1906, and that obsolutely no changes were made in the instrument during the time it was in his possession. Mr. Delmas did not offer the will in evidence yesterday, however, because it has not in its entirety been proved as having been legally executed by Thaw.

The Note Produced.

When young Mrs. Thaw was called to the stand Mr. Delmas turned to the district attorney and renewed his demand of Wednesday last, that the note which was passed by Mrs. Thaw to her husband at the Cafe Martin the night of the tragedy, be produced. Mr. Jerome produced it, and it was identified by Mrs. Thaw and was then read by Mr. Delmas, as follows:

"The b—— was here a minute ago, but went out again." Mrs. Thaw testified yesterday that "the b——" meant "blackguard," as Thaw is alleged always to have referred to Stanford White, whom she had seen on the balcony of the cafe.

The only other essential point Mrs. Thaw was allowed to bring out in her testimony was that the defendant never carried a pistol except when in New York City. She was asked many other questions by Mr. Delmas, embodying various stories she discussed with Thaw, including the alleged fate of a girl known to them as "the pie-girl," at the hands of Stanford White, but Mr. Jerome nullified everyone of these questions with sustained objections.

An Expert Witness.

After compelling the defence to resort to expert testimony as to Thaw's insanity by his objections to Mrs. Thaw's testimony, Mr. Jerome confined Dr. Wagner, by a fusilade of objections, to testifying what he actually observed, and he delcared his observations were so closely related with his questioning of the defendant that he did not know whether he could differentiate them.

A long argument over the point resulted in Mr. Delmas withdrawing any further questions as to the tests and his contenting himself with asking Dr. Wagner for his opinion upon the hypothetical question covering the evidence in the case. The question was almost record-breaking in length—a comprehensive resume of the whole case, including Mrs. Thaw's personal narrative.

Jerome Objects.

In this hypothetical question Mr. Delmas accused Stanford White of having "drugged" Evelyn Nesbit and of having attempted renewed "communication or relations" with her subsequently to her marriage. Mr. Jerome objected to these features of the question.

He said the evidence did not show that one of Thaw's uncles was insane, but that he was of unsound mind, and that Evelyn Thaw did not state that she was drugged, but that the wine tasted bitter and that in two minutes at the outside she became unconscious. Both of these points were changed to agree with Mr. Jerome's demands.

He also objected to saying that White was attempting to renew the relations with Mrs. Thaw. After considerable argument the question was amended to conform with the testimony.

Held Him Guiltless.

"Now, doctor," said Mr. Delmas, "considering the question as amended, what is your opinion as to whether the man who committed the act complained of knew it was right or wrong?"

"I believe his reason was so defective, he did not believe the act was wrong," came the reply.

"That is all," said Mr. Delmas.

Mr. Delmas announced that tomorrow he would call a second alienist, Dr. Evans, to the stand. Mr. Delmas also stated the defence would not take up much more time. The statements that several weeks would be required to put in all the evidence for the defence, he asserted, was not true.

Cost of U. S. Army.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The Senate yesterday passed the army appropriation bill carrying $81,600 '00.

INQUIRY BY JUDGE CARMAN.

Into Truth or Falsity of Lachance's Charge Against St. Kitt's Alderman.

St. Catharines, Feb. 12.—At the meeting of the city council last night a letter from Octave Lachance charging Alderman L. C. Bradt with attempt to birbe him was read.

Lachance claims that Bradt offered to divided $300 if he would tear up his asphalt block petition and start a new one for brick. This Lachance refused to do, saying he could not be bought. Lachance asserts that his son William had also resisted a bribe of $100 to steal the petition and hand it over to be destroyed.

Bradt occupied his seat in council and made an excited speech, claiming the statements were false and that he had never offered Lachance anything improper. He claimed he would be willing to have an investigation, provided all dealings regarding last year's pavements were also included.

A motion to refer the charge of Lachance to County Judge Carman for an enquiry was made by Ald. Southcott and Nicholson, on suggestion of Mayor Riddell. The resolution carried without objection.

A NEW CREED FOR NEW CHURCH

Rev. Dr. Symonds Submits a Statement of Faith to Meet the Needs of the 20th Century.

IS NOT A RIVAL TO OTHERS

It Would Supplement the Apostles and Nicene Creed—The Essentials of United Worship.

An exceedingly interesting feature of the fifth of the series of Sunday evening sermons addressed especially to students on the subject of Church Union, by the Rev. Dr. Symonds, Vicar of Christ Church Cathedral, before a large congregation last evening, was the promulgation of a new creed which, as a supplement to the apostles' creed and the Nicene creed, would, he thought, meet the needs of a twentieth century church, says the Montreal Herald.

The special subject of last evening's discourse was the "doctrine and worship in a united church," and the new creed which had been adopted by a college class at a leading university came better within the requirements of a united Christian church to-day than anything that he knew. It was, he explained, not in opposition to any other creed and not a rival to any other creed, and he believed that there was not an earnest and sincere Christian whose mind was entirely free from prejudice who would not assent to it.

The New Creed

The creed was as follows:

"I believe in one God, present in nature as law, in science as truth, in society as sympathy, in conscience as duty, and supremely in Christ as our highest ideal.

"I believe in the Bible as the expression of God's will through man in prayer, as the devotion of man's will to God, and in the church as the fellowship of those who try to do God's will in the world.

"I believe in worship as the highest inspiration to work; in sacrifice as the price we must pay to make right what is wrong; in salvation of growth out of selfishness; into service; in eternal life as the survival of what loves and is lovable in every individual, and in judgment as the obvious fact that the condition of the gentle, the generous, the modest, the pure and the true are always everywhere preferable to that of the cruel, the sensual, the mean, the proud and the false."

NEW THEORY ON BIRTH RATE

London, Feb. 11. — In a report on British vital statistics for 1906, the Registrar-General, Sir William Dunbar, enunciates what reads like a revolutionary theory regarding the steady fall in the birth rate, which is generally held to be a sign of a nation's decay. Sir William asserts that a high birthrate does not necessarily involve a larger, effective addition to the population than does an average, or even a low, birth rate. In too many cases, high birth rates are associated with excessive sickness and mortality during the first few years of life, the result being that fewer than the normal proportion of children survive for five years, while those that do survive have fallen below the normal standard of physical fitness. There is some ground for the opinion that moderate birth rates, associated with low mortality among children, may be more effective towards keeping up the population than high birth rates associated with high mortality. Sir William's theory is based upon facts revealed by a remarkable inquiry undertaken with the object of taking the histories of children born, and these are set forth in statistical form.

Among other outstanding facts, the death rate in England and Wales in 1905, was the lowest on record. Only four European countries had lower birth rates. Fifty-eight reputed centenarians, of whom 47 were women, died that year.

First Year's Business Was Most Satisfactory

Annual Meeting of Shareholders of Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company, Ltd., Held Monday—Reports Showed Business to be in Flourishing Condition.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company, Limited, was held at the office of the company, Peterborough, on Monday, February 11th, 1907, at 2 p.m.

There was a large attendance of the shareholders, over four-fifths of the paid-up stock being represented.

The president, Hon. J. R. Stratton, occupied the chair, and Mr. R. H. Fortye acted as secretary.

The directors submitted to the shareholders a statement of the assets and liabilities, trading and profit and loss account, which was adopted.

The statement showed the company to be in a flourishing condition, especially for a new industrial enterprise, being practically only one year in operation.

The directors' report predicted that a dividend from the earnings of the operations of the company for the ensuing year would be available. The net profits for the year just expired were in the neighbourhood of $2,000, a very satisfactory result considering the heavy initial expense of placing the products of the company upon a market extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The bylaw, passed by the Directors and approved at a special shareholders' meeting, reducing the number of Directors from seven to five, was considered.

Mr. W. R. Morris, C.A., was reappointed auditor.

As it was legally necessary, before the bylaw, decreasing the number of directors, could be acted upon, to have it published in the Ontario Gazette and a certified copy transmitted to the Provincial Secretary, before the election of Directors could take place, the meeting adjourned for three weeks to enable the legal formalities to be carried out.

A special meeting of the shareholders previous to the annual meeting was held to consider the bylaw of the Directors respecting the reduction of the number of Directors, which bylaw was confirmed and subsequently dealt with at the annual meeting.

Will Set The Persistent Rumours In Right Place

Deputation Will See if Statements that Coates Works Would Locate in Toronto Are Well Founded or Otherwise

Whether the persistent rumours to the effect that the Coates Company intend to locate in Toronto, instead of in Peterborough, are true, or not, will likely be known in the course of a few days, when the deputation appointed by the City Council will go to Toronto for the purpose of interviewing Mr. Dunwoodie, who has arrived in that city from Scotland, where he went with Mr. Coates to make arrangements to open the Canadian branch factory.

There is no fear expressed among the members of the council, nor by those who were associated with these gentlemen when they were in the city some months ago, that the works will go by Peterborough, but persistent rumours circulated, doubtless for a purpose, have been coming to Peterborough from Toronto to the effect that the company had changed its mind and that the Queen City would be chosen as the location for the Canadian branch of the company.

Clever Young People Praised

"But for the able assistance given me by the clever young people of Peterborough, it would have been impossible for me to have given what the public of this city has been good enough to characterize, as a successful production of Zephra."

Between acts last night at the Grand Opera House, Mr. Booth, who has had charge of the Zephra production, and trained the participants, made the above statement, and added that in no place where Zephra had been given by him, had he found a class of young people who so readily became proficient, and paid a warm compliment to the cleverness of the young people, of Peterborough.

That the performance last night was one which found favour with the public, was demonstrated amply, by the vigorous applause which came from all parts of a packed house. Every seat was sold early in the evening, and many were glad to get standing room—all that was available at eight o'clock.

Nothing ever given in Peterborough, has taken on with the people like Zephra, and its popularity is richly deserved, as any who have seen it will readily testify. The last performance will be given to-night.

A Former Peterborough Man's Narrow Escape

Edward Rowland Almost Suffocated With Gas and Smoke at Port Hope Saturday.

Edward Rowland, who is referred to in the following article from the Port Hope Guide, was for some years a resident of Peterborough, and will be remembered by many in this city. The Guide says:—

Mr. Edward Rowland narrowly escaped suffocation at the Standard Heal, on Saturday evening. A fire of coke had been started and the gas and smoke from this gradually found its way into the enameling room. It soon took effect upon all the men and they left the room, but Mr. Rowland endeavouring to finish his tub and was overcome. Fortunately the other men were near at hand and brought him out doors, or in a very few minutes he would have been suffocated. Drs. Aldrich and McKinley were summoned and were busy all night administering to the patient. He did not regain consciousness until Sunday morning, but to-day is feeling fairly well.

THE GZOWSKI MEDAL WON BY MR. FRANCIS

His Paper on the Peterborough Lift Locks Was Adjudged the Best Read Before Canadian Society of Civil Engineers.

A SIGNAL HONOUR SHOWN

Former Engineer on Trent Canal Describes Hydraulic Locks on Canal System—Former Peterboro' Man Gets Medal.

Special Wire to The Examiner

Montreal, Feb. 12.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers recently held in Montreal the Gzowski Gold Medal for 1906 was awarded to Mr Walter J.. Francis, C. E. (Tor. Univ.) M. Can. Soc. C. E., M. Am. Soc. C.E., of the Dominion Engineering and Construction Company, Limited, of Montreal.

Best Paper

The Gzowski Gold Medal is awarded annually by the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers for the best paper read before the Society during the preceeding twelve months, and the medal for 1906 was won by Mr. Francis for his masterly paper on "Hydraulic Lift Locks in Canada."

Lift Locks

The paper deals with the construction of the famous hydraulic lift locks on the Trent Canal at Peterborough, Ont., in the building of which Mr. Francis played a most prominent part, not only in the actual construction work, but also in the designing and planning of the scheme.

The building of the hydraulic lift locks at Kirkfield, Ont., is also dealt with, and the paper is not only valuable from an engineering and scientific standpoint, but is also of great interest to the lay reader, giving as it does many interesting details concerning one of the most notable engineering feats accomplished in Canada in recent years, and showing the possibilities of concrete for hydraulic and general construction work.

The Gzowski Medal

The Gzowski Medal Fund was established in 1892 by Colonel Sir Casimir S. Gzowski, when he retired from the Presidency of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, and is controlled by the governing body of that Society, the medal only being awarded in the event of papers of sufficient merit being submitted during the year, and the medal now being made for presentation to Mr. Francis is the fourteenth which has been awarded since the institution of the Fund.

Mr. Francis, although a Torontonian by birth, is a Montrealer by adoption, and is now Assistant Manager and Chief Engineer for the Dominion Engineering and Construction Company, of Montreal, and as such has sole charge of all their engineering and construction work.

Pleasant News

To Mr. Francis' many friends in Peterborough the intelligence that he has won this signal honour will be pleasant indeed. During the years that Mr. Francis spent in Peterborough the lift lock here and that at Kirkfield were under construction, he demonstrated his cleverness as an engineer, and that he has given this further evidence of that fact will be gratifying news of his friends here.

His work in connection with the construction of the two lift locks mentioned, the only ones on this continent and the largest in the world will be appreciated, especially by those who are in a position to know the difficulties attending an entirely new project, carried on along lines never before attempted by the engineering profession.

To none of his friends will the recognition of his skill be more pleasant news than to those in this city.

HAND NAMES WITH COSTUMES AT DOOR

Persons attending the Carnival to-night in costume are requested to hand their name, with the character they represent to the person at the door. This will enable the committee to hand to the newspapers a correct list of those appearing in costume, and will greatly facilitate the work of those in charge of the affair and the newspapers.

FIRST PLANS FOR THE NEW COLLEGIATE PRESENTED

Were Approved of by the Board of Education at the Meeting Last Night.

WILL BE A VERY MODERN STRUCTURE

The first drawings for the new Collegiate Institute, submitted by the architect, were approved by the Board of Education last night, and the committee will go on to have the plans completed preparatory to advertising for tenders.

The plans, which were explained by Dr. Morrison, chairman of the committee, showed that the new Collegiate will be a most modern building. It will be three storeys high. The basement walls will be constructed of concrete work to the depth of three feet six inches, and above that of Langford stone for eight feet six inches. The superstructure will be of red brick, with window sills of Longford stone. The roof will be of wood, with metal covering.

In the basement, large chemical and physical laboratories will be situated, and also an instrument room, the floors in all three of which will be of hardwood. The boiler and coal rooms, situated in the basement will have concrete floors. The lavatories for boys and girls will also be placed in the basement, and there will be halls leading to them from the outside.

On the first floor there will be five large class rooms, as well as a library and board room; also a principal's room, two large cloak rooms and a type-writing room.

There are six class rooms on the second storey, with rooms for both male and female teachers, and a full complement of lootlea closets.

On the third floor there will be a large class room and an assembly room, the latter containing a stage and being fitted up with dressing rooms, etc.

On motion of Dr. Morrison, seconded by Mr. Hayes, the committee was instructed to have the plans transcribed on linen ready to advertise for tenders.

Provides For Bounty On Our Binder Twine

Changes Announced in the Tariff in House of Commons by Finance Minister.

WILL AFFECT LOCAL WORKS

In the House of Commons last night Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance announced some changes in the tariff, brought down in the House on November 20th last, and at least one of these changes will have an effect, though to what extent is not known yet, on a local industry, that of the Canadian Cordage Company.

Referring to the changes, the Toronto Globe in a special despatch from Ottawa, says in connection with the changes so far as they relate to this industry:—The first resolution provides that a bounty may be authorized on binder twine manufactured in Canada from Manila fibre, such bounty not to exceed 3-8 of one cent per pound, and to be equal to the amount paid as export duty in the Philippine Islands on Manila fibre. This answers one of the chief demands of the binder twine and cordage manufacturers, while at the same time not increasing the cost to the consumer. A second resolution exempts from the dumping clause previous binder twine manufactured from New Zealand hemp, sisal, grass, etc.

Decayed Carcass Of A Hen Resurrected From Bottom Of City Furnace

Had Followed the Narrow Cold Air Pipe to Destruction—Boarders Had at Last to Go Without Dinner—Family Thought That Dead Rats Were Cause of The Annoying Odour.

FURNACE MEN DISCOVERED SOURCE OF THE TROUBLE

Deep down in the dark corners of a city furnace was unearthed yesterday a carcass of a hen which had probably lain there for months, making itself known to no other human senses but the olfactory. It was an incident which has probably no parallel in Peterborough, and it tells the silent story of the sufferings of Her Majesty the Hen, who followed the straight and narrow path — not to salvation, but to destruction.

The owners of the house, at which a number of boarders are stationed, wanted a hurry-up call from a local furnace dealer yesterday to discover the fountain of the odour which grated no much upon the olfactory nerves. They had diligently tried in vain for several weeks to ferret out the source of the annoyance, which had spread consternation among the boarders. Yesterday a climax was reached in the strength of the pungent smell. It was solemnly agreed upon that the cause of the trouble was from rats which had found some opening to the inner caverns of the furnace, but had lost their way in the intricate turns of its construction.

The Hen's Remains

The furnace men lost no time in relieving the situation. Three times while on their way to the home the telephone rang for them to hurry up, so great was the necessity.

The furnace casings were lifted, and hidden beneath were the putrid remains of the hen, half cooked, and so decayed that the discoverers could scarcely remove it from its unwilling grave.

A Narrow Path

The trouble eliminated, the next question was how the hen got there. It was noticed that a cold air pipe ran through the wall underneath the verandah and into the vacancy between the furnace and the casings. The hen had probably weeks or months ago wandered into the pipe in search of food. It was so narrow that she could not turn around, so the next best thing to do was to head on wherever the opening followed. She dropped down between the casings, where, without food and light, she had succumbed.

The discovery of the remains have cleared away the mystery, and the little rodents accused of the annoyance have been honourably acquitted.

Scores Of Lives Lost In A Disastrous Collision

Two Schooners Collide off Rhode Island in the Atlantic—About 200 Passengers on Board but Only Eight Escape—A Terrible Morning Tragedy

Examiner Special

Block Island, R. I., Feb. 12. — The steamer Larchmont, of the Joy Line, with many passengers on board, bound from Providence for New York, sank off the northwest side of Block Island early to day, after having collided with the three masted schooner Harry Knowlton. Between 150 and 200 passengers were aboard, and only eight are known to have escaped, while so far 18 bodies have come ashore. The schooner was run ashore to prevent her sinking. The crew of seven men including Captain Haley, reached shore safely. The cause of the collision is not known.

Township Council Will Ask For Railway Station

Request of Residents to Have Kendry Siding Made Regular Stop by C. P. R. will be Dealt With

WILL BE A GREAT CONVENIENCE

"It was moved by Mr. Howden, seconded by Mr. Dobbin, that the clerk is hereby directed to communicate with the general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., requesting him to arrange an appointment to meet a committee of this Council and delegates from the residents interested, to consider the matter of extending 'Kendry siding' and establishing a flag station thereat, and that a committee, consisting of the Whole Council, is hereby appointed to act with a committee of the residents, to gather information in regard to this matter."

The above motion appears in the report of the last meeting of the Council of the township of North Monaghan, held yesterday in the town hall, and was made as a result of a request from Mr. F. E. Wilson, of Springville, who waited on the Council and submitted the request on behalf of the residents of the section affected. The desire of the residents of that vicinity to have Kendry siding established as a station with regular stops has already been referred to in these columns, and it appears that they are taking every possible means to have their desire gratified.

It is understood that two of the large shippers will, if the station is established, erect a large warehouse, and Mr. Madill, who is an extensive fox shipper, will make his shipments from that point in the future.

The motion quoted above was passed by the Council, and the matter will, as a result, be taken up actively in the near future.

HAS THIRTY-TWO WIVES

Detroit, Feb. 111. — Alleging that her husband, Dr. A. Reider, alias Dr. George Wittkoff, has a trifling matter of 32 wives to account for before the courts, Mrs. Jennie Reider of Logansport, Ind., to-day asked County Clerk Himes to enter the fact upon his records that her marriage in Detroit was not legal, and to give her a certificate to that effect. Mrs. Reider says Reider confessed to her that she was only the thirty-second wife he had had.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It looks as if there was a disposition to play "Hobbs" with the Whitney Government's local option legislation.

The Rev. Richard Hobbs, of Toronto, one of the best known Methodist Clergymen of Ontario, who fought the Ross Government on the temperance question is greatly disappointed with the legislation of the Whitney Government and he has stated that he can no longer give them his support or confidence.

The Whitney Government seem to believe that their legislation giving the votes of 40 electors opposed to local option, the same value as 60 votes of those in favour of it, is working smoothly. Mr. Whitney says he has only received a single "nicely worded letter" offering objections to the three-fifths clause. The objections that count will come, if there is anything like consistency left in the world, from persons who will gush a nicely worded "X" in a ballot box, offering objections to the Government's three-fifths legislation.

THE COBALT SITUATION

The New York World contains the following:—

The Cobalt situation is showing steady improvement, and the great value of many of the properties there is now being demonstrated. The great drawback of this camp up to this time has been the fact that primitive methods have been used entirely at the mines, and that those who have control of these properties have concerned themselves more with the speculative exploitation of their shares in the New York and other markets than with the legitimate development of the mines themselves. While some of these properties have undoubted intrinsic value, many of them have been over capitalized and their affairs conducted under business principles that have not been up to the standard. This mismanagement of Nipissing, which is undoubtedly one of the richest properties in the whole section, has been notorious, and has done much to discredit Cobalt in the public mind. Fortunately the property has now come under the control of Samuel Newhouse, and there is every promise that the best business methods will be applied to its development. Mr. Newhouse, during the course of the week, said:

"The Nipissing mines will need a systematic course of development by the most expert talent. I believe from the reports of many reliable engineers that the Nipissing property can be placed in a position to yield from $500,000 to $1,000,000 a month. In order to do this, however, there will be needed an installing of a great amount of machinery. It will necessitate the driving of at least three different main shafts with a most complete cross cut development, on account of the scores of rich veins that cross the property."

NOTHING LEFT BUT HUGE HOLE

Destruction of the Cordite Magazine At Woolwich.

THOUGHT EARTH QUAKED

Thousands of Terror-Stricken Persons, Half-Clad, Thronged Towards the Arsenal After the Explosion, Concussion of Which Was Felt 40 Miles Away—No Loss of Life as Night Shift Was Off.

Woolwich, Eng., Feb. 12.—A huge hole in the ground is all that marks the site of the chemical research department of the Woolwich arsenal and the cordite magazine, which exploded early yesterday morning with such terrific force that the concussion was felt in towns forty miles away, and the whole countryside was thrown into a panic, owing to the belief that a violent earthquake had occurred.

There was no loss of life, but buildings for miles around were wrecked to a greater or less degree by the explosion.

Within a few minutes after the explosion, thousands of terror-stricken persons, many of them half clad, thronged towards the arsenal. There were large holes in the walls of neighboring houses, and on all sides shattered doors and windows and wrecked roofs testified to the appalling force of the explosion of cordite and chemicals with which the arsenal and magazine were stocked.

These buildings were practically swept away, the big blocks of stone of which they were constructed being scattered for hundreds of yards on all sides. There was no night shift working, hence the absence of casualties.

The people of Baintree, forty miles away, were thrown into a panic by the shock of the explosion, while nearer towns had windows shattered and chimneys demolished.

The cause of the disaster is not known.

Fatality at Arnprior.

Arnprior, Feb. 12.—A fatality occurred here yesterday afternoon when Charles Wurm, an employe of McLachlin Bros., was fatally injured. He was driving a team attached to a freight car, and endeavored to unhitch from the car, bu could not do so readily. He jumped and was caught between the pole and the car. His body was badly crushed, one of his ribs piercing his heart. He leaves a widow and seven children.

Brakeman Killed.

Hamilton, Feb. 12.—W. Ryder Harley, a G.T.R. brakeman, was killed at the Junction cut just west of the city last evening. He was on a freight train that was stalled at the cut, and ran ahead to flag the 7.35 passenger train from Toronto. As the train stopped he stepped out on the other track and was struck by the 8.10 passenger train from Hamilton and instantly killed.

PLOT AGAINST WITTE.

Infernal Time Set Machine Discovered In Chimney of His House.

London, Feb. 12.—A special despatch received here from St. Petersburg says an infernal machine was discovered accidentally last night in a chimney of the house occupied by Count Witte, the former premier.

The machine was timed to explode after the family had retired for the night.

Hard Labor For Life.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 12.—Miles, Klimova and Terentiava, implicated in the plot to blow up Premier Stolypin Aug. 25, 1906, yesterday were sentenced to hard labor for life.

Robbed of $25,500.

Moscow, Feb. 12.—A messenger belonging to the Government spirit depot here, while on his way to the bank yesterday morning, was held up by ten armed men and robbed of $25,500. The highwaymen in their flight dropped a bag containing $3,500, but got away with the balance.

Russia Opens Customs.

Newchwang, Feb. 12.—M. Konovaloff, Russian commissioner of customs, has gone to Harbin to arrange for the opening of custom houses along the Russian frontier at once. The Japanese are said to be causing a delay in the collection of customs at Dalny until the port of Newchwang is opened, in order to save duty of shipments by Japanese.

DUTCH PARTY AHEAD.

Ten Elected by Acclamation For the Transvaal Parliament.

Johannesburg, Transvaal, Feb. 12.—The first election to Parliament under the new Transvaal constitution, will be held Feb. 20, with every prospect of the Boers obtaining a working majority in the House of Representatives.

The nominations for 69 seats occurred Feb. 9, and yesterday ten Hetvolk (Dutch party) candidates were declared elected unopposed. These include ex-President Shalkburger and Generals Delarey and Erasmus.

The campaign has been a heated, straight fight between the Progressives (British party) and the Hetvolk. The latter secured the support of a number of British labor men, mine workers, who are opposed to Chinese labor, while the Progressives were largely under the leadership of the mine owners.

Sir Richard Solomon, former lieutenant-governor of the Transvaal, has joined the Hetvolk and probably will be the first Premier.

DEATH OF SHERIFF DAVIS.

Haldimand Mourns Official Who Served County For 30 Years.

Cayuga, Feb. 12.—Robert H. Davis, sheriff of Haldimand, expired suddenly at the court house last evening about 6.30.

He was at his work yesterday as usual and was returning from down town when he went into his office at the court house, before going home. He dropped on the floor and passed away in a few minutes.

He had been sheriff of Haldimand for nearly 30 years. Previous to his appointment as sheriff he practiced medicine in York, about six miles from here. He was one of the early settlers of Haldimand and always took an active interest in the militia, being a veteran of the Fenian raid and for many years colonel in the 37th regiment.

He was 70 years of age, was charitable to the poor and will be sadly missed.

TRIBUTE TO LATE MR. KIDD.

Member for Carleton County Eulogized in Ontario Assembly, Which Adjourns Out of Respect.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—A large floral wreath on the desk of the late George N. Kidd, M. P. P., gave silent evidence of the cutting off of one who was one of the most popular men in the Ontario Legislature. The wreath was presented by the members of the House. The Premier deposited a beautiful spray.

The Premier's Speech.

The adjournment of the House was moved by the Premier, out of respect to the late member. Mr. Whitney said he was not anxious to make a precedent in adjourning the House on account of a matter of great seriousness such as the present, but the work before them could very well be postponed. The House was shocked when it received intelligence of the death of George N. Kidd, whose life had been out off at an early age, 42. He was well known in the constituency, which he represented and throughout Eastern Ontario, and like many other young men of the province he very early made his mark in public life. He became well known as an authority on agriculture and on this question was always listened to with a great deal of attention. Socially and in private life his point of view stood high in the estimation of those who knew him. Of a very sunny temperament, he always brought with him an atmosphere of cheerfulness. He was an earnest and loyal friend and a fair-minded and generous opponent. His life was put to the test, namely, the appreciation of his neighbors, and judged by the test, he was one of the many instances of good Canadian citizenship, of which he had no reason to be ashamed. Mr. Kidd would be missed, especially in the Legislature, and heartfelt sympathy would go out to the family in their bereavement.

Mr. Graham's Eulogy.

Hon. George P. Graham added his appreciation. Mr. Kidd, he said, came from a family of strong characteristics, of wide influence and a family greatly admired throughout Eastern Ontario, where they are known. He was a man of strong views, who gave those who differed from him wide latitude in the expression of their views. Mr. Graham spoke of Mr. Kidd's interest in agriculture. He was one of the men who contributed much to the success of the Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa. In Eastern Ontario he would be greatly missed, and those on the Opposition side of the House would heartily join in tendering their sympathy to the bereaved.

Allan Studholme, the Labor member from East Hamilton, also contributed to the eulogistic references to the deceased.

A number of members of the Legislature left at 10 o'clock last night for Carleton to attend the funeral, a special car being attached to the regular express. Among them were Hon. Col. Matheson, Messrs. W. R. Smythe, Gamey, Carnegie, Dunlop, Lewis, Dr. R. F. Preston, McCowan, Smellie, Bradburn, McDougall and May.

The Provincial Secretary tabled a return asked for by Mr. Hoyle in regard to the Toronto Electric Light Co.

STATEMENT ORDERED.

Bell Telephone Co. to Produce Earnings and Profits.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—Despite the vigorous opposition of the company's counsel, the Telephone Commission yesterday ordered General Manager McFarlane of the Bell Telephone Co. to prepare a statement of the earnings and profits in Toronto, so that their relation to the salaries of the operators might be considered.

The balance of the day's testimony was of girl operators, who swore the work was not only hard and detrimental to health but that it was in some cases dangerous through shock.

Sir Robert Hart Goes Home.

London, Feb. 12.—It is announced that Sir Robert Hart, director-general of Chinese imperial customs, will leave China for England at the end of February on a two years' leave of absence, and that he is not likely to return. This is regarded as the outcome of the appointment last summer of Chinese as customs commissioners.

Dominion Forester Resigns.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—E. Stewart, Dominion superintendent of forestry, has resigned his position for the purpose of becoming managing director of a company which is being formed in Montreal to operate in British Columbia lumber. Mr. Stewart has held his post for seven years.

Bryce "Kissed Hands,"

London, Feb. 12.—Ambassador James Bryce and Mrs. Bryce had a farewell audience of King Edward and Queen Alexandra yesterday, when Mr. Bryce "kissed hands," as the ceremony is termed, on his appointment to the British embassy at Washington.

Mr. Snow's Investigation.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—A. Russell Snow, Ontario Government commissioner, will go to Belleville to-day to conduct an investigation into charges against the management of the Deaf and Dumb Institute.

Suspended Sentence.

St. Catharines, Feb. 12.—Mennow W. Culp, charged with forgery by the manager of the Bank of Toronto, was let go on suspended sentence by Judge Carman.

$25,000 Fire at Brantford.

Brantford, Feb. 12.—Fire, which broke out as a result of an overheated journal at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, totally destroyed the western wing of the Goold, Shapley & Muir factory in this city. The damage amounted to $25,000, of which about $12,000 was in stock.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Feb. 12.—(Special by Cable from Liverpool and London reported the markets for Canadian cattle weaker and noted a decline in prices of ½c per lb., with trade very slow at 11¾c. Advices from Glasgow stated that the market was better for prime steers and reported sales at 41⅞ to 42 per head. Exports from Portland and St. John, N.B., last week were 3213 cattle, 2811 sheep. Receipts today were 1500 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 100 calves, 1100 hogs. A feature of the market was the advance in prices for hogs of 15c to 20c per 100 lbs. Demand from packers was good and sales of selected lots were made at $7.30 to $7.40 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. There was a good attendance of the butchers. Good cattle were rather scarce and brought firm rates, but the common stock were slow of sale owing to the near approach of the Lenten season. Prime beeves sold at 5c, pretty good cattle, 4c to 4¾c, and the common stock, 2¾c to 3¾c per lb. There were several superior milch cows on the market, which sold at $50 to $60 each; the others sold at $25 to $45 each, but some of them were rather poor specimens of milk-producers.

Calves sold at $3 to $8 each; sheep sold at 4c to 4¼c lb. and lambs at 6c per lb.

he Influence Of What We Eat

ung People Are Especially Susceptible To This Influence.

The nourishment taken by body and nd, the extent to which this nourment is assimilated, the form and sportions in which it is taken into e system, the amount of food and ink consumed, and the care given to e body and its various functions—all profoundly affect the health.

Some individuals think they can ause the laws of nature with impuity, but even generous endowments of ysical vigor eventually succumb, hile the great mass of people, especially the young, are peculiarly susptible to the food they consume.

As "Good Housekeeping" in an editrial suggests, health depends not so uch on the nourishment taken into e stomach as on the extent to which nourishment is taken up by the stem. Malta-Vita, the perfect maltd whole-wheat food, so rich in nourment, containing every food element ecessary to the sustenance of the man body and mind, is readily assiilated, even by the weakest stomchs, because of the large percentage maltose, or malt sugar, which it ntains. Maltose is a natural sweetng agent and forms rich, healthy od.

Malta-Vita is especially beneficial for ildren, and it is so good to eat! ow for sale by all grocers. 10 cents.

JOKE ON REAL ESTATE AGENT

Thought He Was Making a $3,250 Sale, But it Was Only a Boarder Who Wanted a House at $3.25 a Week

A story is going the round to-day at the expense of one of the local real estate agents. It seems that a deaf and dumb person asked one of the members of the society of Agricultural Research, whose headquarters are at the market clerk's office, where he could obtain a house with lots around it. The renowned agriculturist called a real estate agent, and when he saw the paper with the non-communicative man's request, he marked on it $3,000. The dummy marked $325. The real estate man thought he had a find and drove his customer about town pointing out some very fine residences. When he marked the price below $385 the dummy would think of acquessing.

When the real estate man had exhausted his exhibit he wanted his supposed purchaser to make a choice. What was his surprise when he was told on paper by the dummy that he was boarding at 329 —— street at $3.25 per week.

The joke was certainly on the real estate man who thought that he was about to make a sale of a $3250 house and lot!

PROPOSED NORMAL SCHOOL SITE TOO EXPENSIVE

Special Committee Appointed to Get Options—Report That the Property Wanted is Too Dear.

ORIGINAL SITE WILL BE MAINTAINED

The Normal School site will remain on the site in the Dixon Park, as originally selected. A sub-committee of the City Council was appointed to try and secure three lots to the south of the park for the site, but reported that the prices asked by the property owners were too excessive. The committee had reported these prices to members of the Board of Education, and the latter were also of the opinion that it would be too expensive to purchase these lots.

The sub-committee, of which His Worship the Mayor was chairman, reported that they had investigated the proposal to purchase the lands lying south of Dixon Park for a site for the Normal School. They approved of lots 16, 17 and 18, plan 71, as a splendid site, from which the new school could be seen over the whole northern half of the city, and the upper portion from most of the rest of the city. If these lots were purchased it would be necessary to purchase also lots 5 to 10, which lie between the site and the brow of the hill, as if these were permitted to be built on, the site would be ruined. It would also be necessary to buy Mr. Blackwell's, and one vacant lot between the actual site and Benson avenue. Options on the ten vacant lots required were secured from Mr. S. Clegg, which figured at over $4,900, considerably more than double the estimate of the committee, and if the same rate had to be bid for the Blackwell house and lot, the whole property would cost about $7,500. The committee considered the prices excessive, and recommended that no further action be taken in the matter. The Board of Education were also agreed that at the prices asked the purchase could not be considered.

This report was adopted by the Council.

The site for the Normal School will consequently remain as originally selected, to the north of this locality.

The Evangelistic Band

There was a good attendance of men at the meeting at the Y.M.C.A. Sunday, when the Evangelistic Band of the Association had charge. Messrs. Northey and Williamson gave short addresses. Mr. A. E. Walker read the lesson and Mr. Thornton led the song service. Mr. Stewart Laing sang "I Stood Outside the Gate," in a way which added much to the impressiveness of the meeting. It was one of the heartiest and most convicting meeting of the season.

Bad Attack of La Grippe

"A year ago I had a bad attack of la grippe and all the doctors' prescriptions proved of no avail. I was told to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and found it a great blessing as it thoroughly cured me. I told the doctor that I intended to recommend it to all my friends." — Mrs. R Hutton, 12 Claremont street, Toronto.

THE FUNCTION OF HYMNS IN OUR WORSHIP

Interesting Address by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner on the Hymns of the Methodist Church Given Last Night.

POPULAR HYMNS AND THEIR WRITERS

At the regular meeting of the Epworth League of George street Methodist church held last night the feature of the evening was the admirable address delivered by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, B.A., of the Collegiate Institute staff, on "The Hymns of the Methodist church."

Mr. Garnet Galley, the president, occupied the chair. Miss Reesor contributed a solo in good voice.

Mr. Kenner's remarks showed a wide range of study and research, and were much appreciated. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was tendered him by Messrs. W. E. McCann and John Carlisle for his instructive and entertaining paper.

In the course of his remarks the speaker of the evening said in part: Among poetic compositions the hymn occupies a unique and peculiar place. It is not every poem, even though it be sacred and religious, that is necessarily a hymn. The essential thing is not sparkle of fancy, not picturesqueness of form, nor yet that crystallization of doctrinal truth which would make it distinctly didactic. Its function for the most part is to express religious feeling. Someone has said: "People cannot think and sing: they can only feel and sing." A careful attention to this profound remark will help the student of hymnic literature to determine the relative merit of the church's ministrels.

The father of the English hymn is Isaac Watts. He was the first of our poets that successfully applied his talents to such lyrical compositions as are adapted to the use and edification of Christian assemblies. During his life time (1674-1740), he sent out from the ark of his genius to initiate a new era of song, not one, but eight hundred, of these white-winged lyric messengers. Many have since taken up Watt's harp of solemn sound. Methodism is not unrepresented. On the contrary it is a nest of singing birds.

Carlyle says: "You may judge how a man would fight by the way in which he sings." Methodism will never turn back in the day of battle, so long as she retains her pre-eminence in the matter of song. Her hymns are her martial airs, her drum beats and her bugle calls; and under their inspiration her battalions in serried ranks shall march from end to end of Wesley's parish, leaving in her wake as the proudest symbol of her triumph, that scriptural holiness, which it is her mission to spread. Believing that a knowledge of the origin of those sacred lyrics would tend to a larger enjoyment, he gave an account of the origin and suggestive incidents connects with a few of our best known hymns.

A good deal of interest will be found to gather around the genesis of many of them. The occasion that gave them birth is often curious, sometimes romantic and always exegetical. Their historic settling will lend an added charm to their intrinsic merit.

On December 10th next, the bicentenary of the birth of Charles Wesley, the noted hymn writer, will be observed.

A PURE BRED CATTLE AUCTION SALE

Thirty-five Head, the Property of Messrs. G. J. Jopling & Sons, Will be Sold March 7th.

CASTELLO SHOWS HERE OVER FORTY YEARS AGO

Interesting Reminiscences of Old-Time Wagon Show Which, Nearly Half a Century Ago, Came to Peterboro'

THE EXAMINER RECALLED INCIDENT.

Forty-one years is a long time, but it is not long enough to put the Castello shows out of business. A somewhat unique coincidence has been reported to the Examiner this week in connection with this show, which the older residents of the city will remember as one of the annual visitors to Peterborough.

The other day a gentleman in the city who has been a reader of the Examiner for nearly half a century, picked up by accident, a copy of this paper, dated August, 1866, over forty years old, and, in that issue he noticed an advertisement of the Castello Shows, which were shortly to appear in town, on the market square, which was at that time the only show ground which Peterborough possessed. This was of course before the buildings were built on that property. On reading a current issue of the Clipper, this gentleman noticed that the Castello Shows were wintering at Racine, Wis., and thinking that they would be interested sent them a copy of the Examiner of the date mentioned, with the advertisement referred to.

Time had wrought changes with the show people, and, while the name was the same, Dan Castello, who was the proprietor, forty years ago, had died, though his sons are still carrying on the father's business. Harry, who is the present head of the business was, at the time the advertisement appeared in the Examiner only a year old. Upon receipt of the copy of this paper he wrote to the sender, thanking him for the evidence of his interest, and expressing his pleasure at receiving this reminder of the old days. In his letter he stated that his father, and his brother Dan, jr., who were running the show at the time it visited Peterborough, were both dead, and he, and his mother and sister, were the sole surviving members of the famous show family.

At the time of its appearance in Peterborough it was a wagon show, but has now branched out as a railway show, and does the best cities on the continent.

Norval Baptie, the Champion Skater of the World, will give an exhibition in Fancy, Aerobatic and Speed Skating in the Brock Street Rink on Wednesday evening, February 13th. Baptie is the undisputed champion of the world. Skating before and after the exhibition. Admission 25c. Children 15c. This will be the most wonderful exhibition of the kind ever given in the city.

Just one girl. The one he was looking for. The new moving picture programme includes among others the story of the young man of 26 who did marry when he found his affinity, and did it quick. He saw her on the platform waiting the arrival of the train for Buffalo. He introduced himself, proposed, was accepted, found a clergyman on the train, was married and they spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and lived happily ever after. Special mention may also be made of the "Mysterious Dream." Johnny Rich left his club and found him self floating high in the clouds over New York city. You should see it for yourselves. It was real to him, but was it possible? And again another picture of the poor orphan boy who coveted his neighbour's apples. If you want a comfortable seat to spend a pleasant half hour and see the possibilities of modern invention, come. Beautiful illustrated songs. Don't miss them.

THE FRONTAGE TAX SYSTEM ENDORSED BY COUNCIL

Although Water Commissioners Requested That the Tax be According to the Land Value

LENGTHY DISCUSSION ON THE SUBJECT

The question of the Water Commissioners' request to have the City Council apply for legislation to place a tax on all properties fronting upon water mains, was among the matters considered last night by the Committee of the Whole. The Water Commissioners were present, and addressed the council, advancing their views as to what they considered the best plan of making the assessment to pay for the mains. Their idea was to place a tax on the land value of the property, and not according to the frontage plan. number of the committee agreed with their opinions, but it was finally decided to ask for legislation according to the frontage system.

T. F. Matthews

Mr. Matthews first spoke on behalf of the Commissioners, explaining the Board's opinions. All properties, as had been endorsed by the Council and Board of Trade, he said, bordering on the water mains, should be assessed. There were several ways, he said, of having the properties taxed, but the commissioners had decided that the assessment be on the land value only. There were some objections to taxing the land by the frontage rate, and mentioned the town of Windsor as having applied in this way in 1898 to the Legislature, and their request had been refused.

W. H. Moore

Mr. Moore said that in 1861 Ottawa obtained an Act upon which they were permitted to tax all properties fronted by mains. He also mentioned other cities which had the same act. He had communicated with many towns and cities which had water works, and read their replies. There were many things in favour of paying the direct frontage tax. He thought the fairest way, however, and the one which the commissioners had considered the must better plan was to assess a certain rate against all property on the land value only, and suggested a rate of 3 mills on the dollar. He also spoke in reference to having the commissioners a body corporate, which some people were objecting to, and stated that this was merely a convenience to them. He believed that all those whose properties were benefitted by the mains should pay a tax to help to cover the cost, even if they were not taking water. The Legislature, he said, had refused to consider the "so much per foot" problem in the past, as all towns and cities he had been in communication with had the properties assessed according to the land values, which he considered a very equitable plan. By the frontage tax plan a lot 100 feet frontage on the outskirts of the city would have to pay exactly the same tax as a lot 100 feet wide in the centre of the city, where the most benefit is received. He did not believe that there should be a limit made as to the rate of assessment, but thought that this should be left for the commissioners to decide. They would do all they could to have the rate as equitable as possible to the property owners.

The Mayor brought up the question of which would be the more fair, to have a property on the outskirts of the city, 160 feet wide, assessed at $1900, pay the same tax as one nearer the centre, assessed for $5800, or only about one-third as much if the tax were according to the land value. A three mill rate on the first property would bring the tax up to $6.70, while the same rate on the second mentioned property would be $16.10—almost three times as much.

Ald. Elliott considered that the plan suggested by the commissioners, to place a tax on the value of the property would be the more equitable way. Ald. Johnston concurredd in the same idea.

Ald. Stevenson thought that the commissioners were working on a wrong basis. He did not think that the building of a water main in the centre of the city cost any more than the laying of a main the same distance in front of a property towards the outskirts of the city. He believed that the assessment should be made according to the number of feet of main laid.

The city solicitor thought that there were other objections to the taxes being made on the assessment plan. There were many properties near each other which are assessed according to improvements, and he did not believe the one should have to pay more taxes for the mains than the other. Also, if the tax was according to the frontage plan, each property owner would then know exactly what he would have to pay each year, and the bookkeeping would also be simplified.

The members of the council seemed to be about equally divided on the two plans.

Ald Bradburn moved that the tax be according to the frontage plan, and that the water commissioners be requested to change the wording of the Bill to read in this way. Five members voted in favour of the motion, and five against. The Mayor gave the casting vote in favour of the motion.

Severe Form of Asthma

"I first used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with my little girl, who suffered from a severe form of asthma. The least exposure of cold would lay her up, and she would nearly suffocate for want of breath. I must say that I found it to be a most satisfactory treatment and it has entirely cured her."—Mrs A. A. VanBuskirk, Robinson street, Moncton, N.B.

When Six Remedies Had Failed

HE TRIED BILEANS.

Now He Has Dyspepsia No More.

Strange why people should not try the very thing which would do them good until last! Mr. Geo. La Portwin, of 36 St. Paul street, Toronto, tried six different remedies for dyspepsia, headache and heartburn before he tried Bileans. The six did him no good. Bileans have cured him. He says: "I had heartburn, dyspepsia, and wind after food. The nourishment I took seemed to do me no good, and the pain I suffered was very acute. I tried six different remedies before Bileans, but they did me no good. With Bileans it was quite different. I found they relieved the flatulence and the pain within a few hours and a short course resulted in a complete cure."

In every country where they have been introduced, Bileans have quickly taken first place because of their rapid and lasting cures of indigestion, liver and kidney complaints, anaemia, headache, debility, constipation, piles, female ailments, and irregularities, rheumatism, liver chill, etc. Purely herbal and containing no alcohol, they are an ideal family medicine. All stores and druggists sell at 50c a box, or from the Bilean Co., Toronto, for price. 6 boxes sent for $2.50.

WHOLESALE MEN WANT A SIDING

Messrs. Kinnear & Co. Have Applied for Siding to Run Across George Street.

Messrs. T. Kinnear & Co., wholesale grocers of Toronto, who have a branch in Peterborough, have made application to the City Council to have the siding which runs alongside of the Central Mill, extended across George street to the local factory. The C.P.R. had an engineer report on the feasibility of running a siding to the factory from the rear and he had reported that it could not be advantageously done.

The curve from the station would be too great he reported, nor could a track be constructed so that the engine might haul the train north and then back it into the factory. The Board of Works Committee thought that a siding could be constructed somewhere at the rear without building the extension asked for.

Moved by Ald. McIntyre and Bradburn, that the question be left in the hands of the City Engineer to make a report as to the advisability of constructing a siding.—Carried.

NEW COURT OF REVISION APPOINTED

Messrs. Bernard Morrow and A. E. Dixon Become New Members—Mr. Layford the Other

The acceptance of the position of permanent auditor by Sheriff Hall had made it necessary for a revision of the members of the Court of Revision, to which the sheriff was a representative by virtue of the office which he holds. The Municipal Act, covering the appointments of the Court of Revision, states that the City Council and the Mayor have each the right to appoint a representative, and the third member is the sheriff. But in any case, where the sheriff is unable to act, the registrar of deeds shall officiate by virtue of his office.

Mr. Bernard Morrow therefore succeeds Sheriff Hall, and the Mayor's appointment was Mr. A. E. Dixon.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that Mr. Wm. Lanzford be the Council's choice. Ald. Morgan moved an amendment, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that Mr Jas. Graham be the representative. Mr. Lansford was elected by a vote of six to four.

The Court of Revision for the coming year will therefore consist of Messrs. Bernard Morrow, Wm. Lanzford and A. E. Dixon

ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTED BY BOARD

Education Authorities Dealt With Reports and Communications Last Night.

CONSIDERABLE BUSINESS WAS DONE

The Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting last night, when the usual amount of routine business was transacted. Outside of the regular reports, the most important business taken up was the approving of the plans submitted by Architect Blackwell for the new Collegiate Institute, a report of which will be found in another column.

There were present Messrs. Robt. Fair, chairman; D. W. Dumble, Wm. Pringle, Dr. Morrison, Dr. Burnham, L. M. Hayes, W. H. Hill, B. F. Ackerman, W. S. Robinson and John Crane.

Communications

The following communications were received:

From Miss E. M. Stubbs, accepting her appointment on the Public School teaching staff.

From J. Hawthorne, applying for position of janitor of the King Edward School.

From Clerk of Police Commissioners, notifying the Board that Mr. Geo. Cochrane had been appointed Truant Officer.

From Mrs. Walsh, applying for position of janitor of North Ward School.

The King Edward School Building Committee reported as follows:

Gentlemen,—

Your committee beg to report that in accordance with the resolution passed at the last meeting of the Board, the committee has gone very fully into the matter of heating the King Edward School, and are convinced that the Gurney boiler, previously recommended, will be satisfactory.

Your committee has entered into an agreement with Messrs. MacGregor and Reid to instal the above-mentioned boiler, and would ask that this Board authorize the chairman and secretary to sign the same, when Messrs. MacGregor and Reid have supplied, in writing, the consent of their bondsmen to the same.

WEDDING BELLS

ALLEY--JOHNSTON

At one o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Mr. James H. Johnston of Percy township, his daughter, Miss Mabel F., became the bride of Mr. Harry A. Alley, son of Mr. Justus Alley of the township of Belmont. The ceremony was performedd by the Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, in the presence of about 60 guests, the friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride looked pretty in a beautiful dress of white crepe de chene, with suitable trimmings, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid, who was attired in a white silk costume, and carrying pink carnations, was Miss Irene Alley, sister of the groom, while Mr. Gordon Johnston, a brother of the bride, assisted the groom.

The bride entered the parlour to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Bertha Armour, and the nuptial knot was tied under a pretty arch of evergreens. The usual wedding dejeuner was served on beautifully decorated tables after the ceremony. The presents were numerous and handsome testifying to the popularity of the young couple. Many guests were present from Havelock and vicinity and also a number from Peterborough.

The bride and groom will spend their honeymoon tour at Niagara Falls and other western points. A reception will be tendered them at the home of the home of the groom's father, "Lakeview," Rush Point, next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alley will afterwards leave for the Northwest, where where they will reside.

Excursion to Belleville to-night, leaving Peterborough at 6.10 p.m Returning leaves Belleville at 11 p.m. The excursion is being run by the Lindsay Hockey Club where they play the Junior team of the above City. Fare $1.55.

THE WEATHER

The present cold snap is perhaps the most severe we have had this winter, due, however, rather to the biting north-west wind, than to the low temperature. Last night at 6 o'clock the temperature was down to 12 below zero. This low temperature was accompanied with a stiff wind, and outdoor pedestrianism was none too pleasant. This morning at daybreak, the thermometer marked 16 degrees below; none lower during the night. At noon the record was 4 below. The weather will now gradually moderate, as the present cold wave is not of any great extent.

FIRST GLIMPSE OF NEW COTTON DRESS FABRICS

This week we are making a special showing of the New Cotton Fabrics for Spring and Summer, devoting all our Show Windows for this purpose and also a display on the counters, and will gladly welcome your early visit to this store "not to purchase" but to inspect and become acquainted with these handsome Fabrics.

It's not Spring-time yet, but you will be inclined to think so when you see this immense display of Cotton Fabrics and it's high-time some calculation is being made to have these Fabrics in work and in readiness for the warm weather.

This is the largest shipment of Cotton Fabrics we ever imported, the colorings and patterns from a point of art surpass all previous seasons, so dainty—flower patterns so natural in tone of shading—materials so lustrous in finish, that nothing is lacking to make these Fabrics superior in every particular and we will be disappointed if your praise is not forthcoming when you get the first glimpse of these Fabrics TUESDAY.

TWO DEPUTATIONS WERE APPOINTED

The midnight hour was again reached last night before the City Fathers filed out of the city clerk's office, where they spent a four hours' session divided between a Committee of the Whole, and a Council meeting. Lengthy was the list of questions touched upon, some of which were considered at length, but most of them will again be heard from before being wiped off the slate.

The street watering contracts were discussed, with the result that the Fire, Water and Light Committee was authorized to buy another team of horses, to haul around an extra watering cart, and to assist in other work for the city. It is practically decided that the central division of the city will be favoured by two watering carts during the coming summer, so that those whom this will benefit are assured there will not be so many kicking up the dust as in the ages of the past.

Deputations were also appointed to interview Mr. Dunwoodie of the Coates Company, who is now in Toronto, and also the interested members of the Government with regard to the Private Bills Committee.

Those present were His Worship the Mayor, Ald. Elliott, Wilson, Duncan, Morgan, Johnston, Stevenson, Bradburn, Leary, McIntyre, Phelan and the City Solicitor, and Water Commissioners T. F. Matthews and W. H. Moore.

Dam No. 4 Lease

The securing of the lease of dam No. 4 by the Otonabee Power Company was the first question considered. A sub-committee had been appointed to confer with the company with regard to the interests of the latter and the city, and this committee presented a report which did not altogether meet with the sanction of the Power Company. After a lengthy discussion it was moved by Ald. Leary and Duncan that the question be left in the hands of the special sub-committee to make an amicable arrangement, if possible, with the Otonabee Power Company, and if this can not be done to again bring the matter before the committee next Monday night.—Carried.

Street Watering

The next matter considered was the street watering contracts. The Mayor explained that last year at the rate of one-half mill the outlying districts only paid about two-thirds of the actual contract prices while in the central and business districts the tax payers had to pay $900 to support the watering of the street, whereas they only received about $400 worth of service. This means that the central portion of the city only got about one-half the value of the service for which it paid.

The Board of Works discussed the question at its last meeting and considered the advisability of purchasing an extra team of horses, and placing an extra watering cart on the central division.

Ald. Duncan, as chairman of the Board of Works, considered that an extra team was necessary, and stated that the Board supported the purchase of the extra team.

It was moved by Ald. Leary and Wilson that the Fire, Water and Light Committee be authorized to purchase a team of horses, and that the city treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque to cover the cost.—Carried.

Deputations Appointed

The deputation to interview the members of the Legislature with reference to the Private Bills Committee was appointed. It will consist of the Mayor, Ald. Stevenson and the City Solicitor.

It was also mentioned that Mr. Dunwoodie was in Toronto, and it was suggested that Ald. Morrow as chairman of the Manufacturers Committee be a member of the deputation to interview him.

Moved by Ald. Wilson and Duncan, that the Mayor, Ald. Morrow, and the City Solicitor, be a committee to interview Mr. Dunwoodie and that Mr. T. F. Matthews be requested to accompany them.—Carried.

CHANGES ON THE G.T.R. ENGINES ON LOCAL LINES

One Promotion Leaves Vacancy Which Causes an Effect all Along the Ladder.

A few changes have been made among the firemen of the G.T.R. flyer, Lakefield and other engines. Mr. Jas. Wilson has been promoted from the Lakefield to the flyer, the latter leaving here at 7.20 in the morning for Toronto and returning at 10.05 p.m. Mr. Elliott who has been firing on the shunter in the local yards will replace him and a new man has taken the vacant position on the shunter. Thus the system of promotion makes a change all along the line.

THE LAST DAY BUT ONE

PRINCIPAL WILL MAKE THREE REPORTS PER YEAR

Parents Will be Able to Follow Progress of Their Children.

Henceforth, the parents of the Collegiate Institute pupils will be able to follow their progress in a better manner than hitherto. The Committee on Appointments of the Board of Education, through Chairman Pringle, reported last night that in the future the principal would send three reports each year to the parents so that they would know just how their children were progressing. The teachers will also report to the principals any pupils whose work they do not regard as satisfactory.

WILL TENDER BANQUET TO YOUNG MEN

The Guild of St. Paul's Church Will be the Guests of the Ladies of Congregation Soon.

The regular meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will be held on Tuesday evening, February 19, when Mr. F. D. Kerr, barrister, will deliver an address dealing with his recent visit to Great Britain and the Continent.

The programme will also consist of vocal and instrumental selections, and altogether a profitable evening is looked forward to. The officers of the guild are very desirous that there shall be a large attendance.

The members of the guild are also asked to keep in mind the annual banquet, which is very kindly being tendered to the guild by the ladies of the congregation, and which will be held on the evening of March 3.

The members of the executive of the Young Men's Guild are asked to attend a meeting of the executive in the president's office on Wednesday night of this week at 7.30 o'clock.

THE LEAGUE OF MERCY'S MEETING

Held in Salvation Army Barracks Last Night—Good Musical Programme Was Presented.

The meeting of the League of Mercy at the Salvation Army Barracks last night was fairly well attended, considering the inclemency of the weather. Adjt. Wiggins opened the meeting with a prayer, followed by a short address. The following musical programme was then presented:—

Duet, "Jesus is Peace," Misses Leader.
Phonograph selection, Mr. Self.
Reading, "The Angel of the Slums," Cadet Pearl Lloyd.
Euphonium solo, Bro. Choate.
Vocal solo, "Climb Up," Bro. Mark Spencely.
Duet, "Lanboard Watch," Bros. Brown and Grandy.
Vocal solo, "Old Fashioned Way," Bro. Watson.
Report of monthly work of the League, by Secretary Mrs. Defoe.
Lesson by Mrs. Lloyd.

The various numbers were enjoyed by the audience, the "Larboard Watch," being particularly good.

The report of Sergt.-Maj. Mrs. Lloyd was as follows:—

SUCCESSFUL DANCE GIVEN BY BRASS WORKERS

Ball Held in Foresters' Hall Last Night an Enjoyable Affair.

An enjoyable "hop" was that which was held last night in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, under the auspices of the Brassworkers of the city. About thirty-five couples tripped the merry hours along in the delightful mazes of the light fantastic until the bewitching midnight hour was passed, and "nature o'er one-half world seemed dead."

A three-piece orchestra, composed of the Misses Dorris, supplied excellent music. The prevalent opinion was that everyone had a most pleasant time, and will long remember the Brassworkers' ball.

LOW PRICE CREATES SOME SURPRISE

Silver Bird Cobalt Stock Considered Good at Silver Town—Well Located.

Cobalt, Ont., Feb. 11. — (Special) —The low price at which the new issue of the Silver Bird has been placed upon the market has created considerable surprise and comment. The favourable location of the property, being so near the O'Brien, Colonial, and Timmins mines and lying directly between these properties and the Green-Meehan, Red Rock and other mines, has made it one of the most popular issues that has been placed upon the market so far. Those who are well posted upon the location of this property and the development work done, think it a low price for its shares and predict a great advance in the near future. Considerable of the shares are being taken here in the camp.

WILL LET TENDERS FOR ENLARGING SCHOOL

Board of Education Decided Upon This Step Last Night

The Board of Education has decided to go ahead with the letting of tenders for the enlarging of the North Ward School. It will be remembered that the Board some time ago advertised for tenders but it was thought that those received were too high.

Mr. Dumble brought the matter up last night and said that in view of the great amount of building that would be done this year and the consequent raise in price of material, he thought that if new tenders were advertised for they would be found still higher. On motion of Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Hill, that the Board go ahead with the letting of tenders.—Carried.

RURAL TELEPHONES FOR VICTORIA

The Dunsford Telephone, Light and Power Co. Operative Association Has Ambitious Scheme

The Lindsay Post says: The townships of Emily, Ops, Verulam and Harvey have something good coming to them in the form of telephone connections, not only with each other, but also with all the Bell Telephone Company's numerous subscribers. This will be very advantageous to the up-to-date residents of these townships.

A company known as the Dunsford Telephone, Light and Power Co-operative Association, Limited, has been formed, with headquarters at Dunsford. They will run lines as far as Bobcaygeon, from whence they intend obtaining electricity.

THE STOLEN HORSE

An Old Proverb With a New Application

The woods are full of "so-called" remedies for baldness.

You may call anything in creation a remedy, but to use them is like locking the stable after the horse is stolen.

Baldness and dandruff are caused by a germ—if you don't kill the germ the germ will kill the hair.

Scientists have laboured with the problem of a preventative for baldness for many years.

Newbro's Herpicide is the product of a modern idea, and will cure dandruff and prevent baldness, because germs cannot exist when you apply Herpicide.

Herpicide is a valuable hair dressing and scalp disinfectant, as well as a cure for dandruff.

CHARLOTTE ST. MUST PLAY GAMES OVER AGAIN

City League Decided to Abide by the Decision Reached at the Last Meeting

WILL BE SOME GREAT HOCKEY

At a meeting of the City League last night in the Oriental Hotel, it was decided to abide by the decision reached at the preceding meeting in reference to the games in which Lang and Miller played with Charlotte Street. The latter club entered a vigorous protest against the action of the league, saying that it was an injustice to them in view of the fact that permission had been given them to play these men. They thought that while the league might have power to change their rules as affecting O.H.A. players, they should not compel a team to replay games that had been won under the rules of the league as then existed.

The Strathconas argued that there was not a quorum present at the meeting which gave Charlotte Street permission to play Lang and Miller, and that therefore their action then was not legal.

The matter was put to a vote, and it was decided to abide by the decision of the last meeting, which means that Charlotte Street will have to play two games over again.

The schedule, therefore, is as follows:

February 14—Strathconas versus Auburns; Lakefield versus High Lifes.

February 21 — Strathconas versus Orphans; Charlotte Street versus Lakefield.

February 28 — Strathconas versus Charlotte Street; Orphans versus Auburns.

C. P. R. STAFF WON FROM G. N. W. TEAM

Telegraph Offices Engaged in Hot Conflict Last Night—Score Was 10-2 or Thereabouts.

The C.P.R. Telegraph and Ticket Office staff "cut in" on the hockey aspirations of the G.N.W. staff at the Brock street rink last night when they defeated them by a somewhat one-sided score of 10—2, in a game replete with sensational plays, in which every player on the winning team starred. The winners say that the game was as easily won as the score would lead the reader to indicate, and intimate that they can do the trick again any old time it becomes necessary, while the losers of last night are equally confident of their ability to put a kink in the winning streak of the C.P.R. bunch. They claim it was simply a case of being temporarily off colour last night.

There seems to be some doubt as to the correct score, the defeated team declaring that it should be 8-2, and in order to square matters up, The Examiner has decided to split the difference and make it 8-2, and if this is not satisfactory, to make them play it over again.

SKATING

My request for a skate,
The maid denied;
And so I concluded
To let her slide.

Who will with me sing
Of the joys of skating?
Of this health-creating,
Graceful, glorious thing?
Skating, noble skating!
What so captivating,
Bracing, fascinating?
His eradicating,
Beauty emanating,
Goodness actuating,
Every care abating—
(Source of couples mating—
Young men never waiting,
Or maidens hesitating
Till the birth of spring!

Speeding on like lightning
(Spectators almost frightening,)
Arms together tightening
As they rush along,
Face with colour heightening,
Eyes all flashing, brightening—
Joyful, happy throng!

Round the corners flying,
Other skaters eyeing,
Speeding, racing, vying,
With the birds on wing!
(Novices on, or lying
On the ice, and sighing,
Wishing they were hieing
Round the giddy ring.)

Who can live without it?
Who can ever doubt it?
All I tell about it
As I proudly sang?
Criticism, rout it!
Opposition, flout it!
Pardon if I shout it—
But this is all about it—
Skating is the king!

SNAPSHOTS OF LA MODE.

An Economical Evening Frock—Some Good Millinery Hints.

Pompadour silk is one of the most fashionable fabrics for dinner dresses, and young women especially choose it, for it trims itself. With the exception of a wide plastron and a shoulder surplice of Venetian lace, a charming pink silk of this material has no other trimming. The gown is made on the princess lines with a short train. The sleeves are of the heavy Venetian, and the plastron on the front of the corsage is brought down to the waist line, where it is held by a soft knot of the lace, which hangs in long ends on the skirt.

Hats to match different costumes are still tremendously popular. At the same time there are many all black hats being worn with frocks of different colors. This is not a very safe fashion to follow, for there are certain colors in gowns which if worn with a black hat lose their individuality and smartness right away. Take, for instance, the red costume or any striking shade in the dark colors.

It is necessary with the hats of the moment that the hair should be becomingly arranged about the face. Then if there is no boa worn the collar must be extremely high, for there are very few women who can wear a low collar and a hat with success.

Brown for street wear is a favorite color. Here is an example that shows the color in cheviot with collar and cuffs of velvet. This style of suit is well adapted to all round use. The box coat is loose and fitted by means of shoulder and underarm seams. The seven gored skirt is laid in two box plaits at the front, back and sides.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Handling Hats.

Don't take hold of a hat by the brim if you don't want to spoil its looks. This year's hats are very elaborate and very perishable affairs, and it is best to take hold of them by their bandeaux if their shape is to be preserved. It is not a good plan to rest one of the intricate head coverings upon a flat surface. Instead invest in a hat stand.

An Original Gift.

A young aunt last Christmas brought joy to the hearts of four small nieces by a most original gift. For each she made a long trained and much beruffled gown of pretty bright print. The pleasure of arraying themselves in mamma's skirts paled in the glory of their own trained dresses, and it was such a saving of mamma's frocks.

"Do you believe in the rain cure?"

"I don't dispute the principle," answered the man who never argues. "But I doubt the ability of any human being to have faith enough to make it effective."—Washington Star.

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER WAS HONOURED

Mrs. Mary E. Crowe the Recipient of Morris Chair by Members of Sunday School Class.

Hall's Glen, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Mary E. Crowe was greatly surprised on Thursday evening, the 24th ult., when she was waited on by the members of her Sunday School class and other neighbours and presented with a beautiful Morris chair, a china cup and saucer and cream pitcher, accompanied by a nicely-worded address.

Mrs. Crowe, though very much surprised, replied in a very appropriate manner. The following is a copy of the address, which was read by Mrs. Wm. Carveth, the presentation being made by Mr. Alex. Darling:

Hall's Glen, Jan. 24, 1907.

To Mrs. Mary E. Crowe—

We, your neighbours and members of your Sunday School class, have for some time felt that we should like to give you some tangible evidence of our appreciation for your work among us.

For many years you have laboured to promote the interests of the community and to so instil the Bible truths in the hearts of your scholars that they might go out into the world better fitted to fight life's battles against temptation and sin. Who can estimate the value of those lessons on the young minds of your class. This subtle influence must bring forth fruit that will tell for time and eternity.

Not only in the Sunday School has your influence been felt. We have all learned to love and respect you for your integrity, for your cheerful and sunshiny disposition, and your noble and Christ-like character.

We do not pretend to reward you, but we know that you shall in no wise lose your reward. Words, however, very inadequately express what we would wish to say, and to show you that we esteem your efforts, we ask you to accept this chair and these pieces of china as a slight token of our appreciation.

In conclusion, we hope you may be able to resume your work in our Sunday School when it re-opens, and trust that you may long be spared in your labour of love for the Master.

Signed on behalf of the Sunday School.

Mrs. Wm. Carveth.

CELEBRATION OF NUPTIALS OF ASPHODEL COUPLE

Festivities at the Home of the Bride Were Most Extensive and Enjoyable and Will be Long Remembered.

The post-nuptial social held at the home of Mr. Christie in Asphodel last night was one of the most enjoyable and extensive in the history of the township. It was given in honour of the wedding of Miss Christie to Mr. Cavanagh, which was mentioned in yesterday's issue. There were many people from this city whom the thoughts of a drive of 18 miles could not detain from the pleasures of the Asphodel event. From all accounts, Mr. Christie's home, one of the most spacious in the county, was thronged with friends throughout the night. There were between 400 and 500 guests who came and went as the night progressed. All those were fed, a sumptuous repast being provided. Supper and dancing continued without intermission, and one of the greatest social events of the season in that township resulted. The happy couple received the good wishes of a host of friends, besides material remembrances of the occasion.

Rice With Dates.

Cook a cupful of rice in a double boiler with a pint of milk and a pint of water until soft. Sweeten to taste and flavor with vanilla. Stone enough dates to make a cupful and stew until tender with half a cupful of sugar and one cupful of water. Set aside until cold. Then turn out the rice in the center of a dish and pour the dates around it.

A Kitchen Hint.

The most inexperienced person can easily mend holes in pans and kettles. A solder specially prepared for the purpose comes in the form of a hollow wire filled with rosin. The utensil is held over a candle, so that the flame is directly under the hole. After a few seconds the solder is touched lightly to the spot, when a drop melts off and fills the hole.

Dear Lily Roots.

Forty years ago the Marquis of Bath paid $7 for three water lily roots to place in the lake at Longleat. They have run riot to such an extent that the present marquis has decided that next year the lake will be cleared of its vegetation. The water stretches for three-quarters of a mile, and to rid the lake of the tenacious plant it will have to be drained and dredged. The late marquis once said he would give $1,000 to get rid of the growth.

DAIRY MEETINGS IN VICTORIA

Mr. G. A. Gillespie Has Schedule of Annual Meetings for This Week

Mr. G. A. Gillespie was in Lindsay yesterday attending a meeting of the Victoria Creamery, and has arranged a series of meetings which will occupy the greater part of this week, meetings being announced as follows:

Cannington, Tuesday, 12th.
Victoria Road, Wednesday, 13th.
Lorneville, Thursday, 14th.
Perfelaw, Friday, 15th.
Beaverton, Saturday, 16th.

The annual meeting of the Victoria Creamery was held in the Lindsay Council Chamber, with Mr. Degell as chairman.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The secretary's report for 1906 was read, and is as follows:

Number lbs. cream received, 520,160.
Lbs. butter fat, 12,733,256.
Lbs. butter manufactured, 148,246.
Gross value, $33,546.76.
Amount paid to patrons, $29,732.47.
Average price of butter fat, 23.51c.
Average price of butter, 22.58c.

This creamery, since Mr. Lewis has taken over the management and proprietorship, has gone ahead with leaps and bounds. In the year 1904 the total output was $11,000; in 1905 it was $21,000, while in 1906 it amounted to $33,500.

Mr. Davis, the butter-maker, has also done his work well.

Mr. N. G. Somerville, of Brockville, was present and delivered an address on "Testing the Individual Cow."

Mr. Zufelt, of Chesterville, also delivered an address on "The use of the hand-separator, and care of cream on the farm, and the means of how dairymen can make a better quality and more profit out of the dairy business.

Mr. Newman, proprietor of the Lorneville, Gamebridge and Monk Road creameries, was also present.

The attendance was small, but on the whole enthusiastic.

Special to The Examiner.

Hall's Glen, Feb. 11.—Mrs. John Hunter, Lakefield, is visting friends here.

Miss M. Darling is the guest of Miss Bessie Crowe.

Mr. Geo. A. Hamblin, Grand Rapids Mich., paid this hamlet a visit last week.

Miss Violet Carveth is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Wm. Hamblin, Warsaw.

Mr. Jordan Crowe visited his mother, Mrs. M. E. Crowe, for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carveth entertertained a large number of friends relatives and visitors on Sunday last, as usual, and it appears that the hospitality shown on the part of the host and hostess to all classes, and more especially to the "callers" was highly appreciated.

Communion service was held at Zion on Sunday morning. Owing to the inclemency of the weather the congregation was not so large as usual. The service was conducted by Rev. Geo. Nickle.

We wonder who the two strange young men were who visited our town on Thursday evening. They must have been spirits; they vanished so quickly, but who owned their clothes.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. H. Dodds has joined the ranks of the benedicts, congratulations, Harry. We also welcome Mrs. Dodds to this vicinity.

La grippe, that unwelcome guest is again making its rounds. Among its victims in this neighbourhood are Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Darling. We hope their recovery will be speedy.

THE MANUFACTURING INTERESTS WERE CONSIDERED

In Making Tariff Changes the Industries of Peterborough Were Well Represented by Mr. R. R. Hall.

PRESENT CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVED

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, February 13th. — The changes in the tariff as announced by Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, will be of considerable interest to the industries of Peterborough, as they affect some of them materially, and it is interesting to note that the care on behalf of the manufacturing interests of Peterborough has been well and effectively presented to the Government by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P. Many of the changes in the tariff, as originally brought down were of far-reaching consequences and vitally affected many of the most important industries, in which the prosperity of the city is bound up. Unfavourable tariff conditions may easily jeopardize the financial success of a manufacturing concern, and imperil the steady employment of hundreds of employees, whose families are dependent on them for support.

It is satisfactory to note that Mr. Hall has examined into the effects of the tariff on each of the many factories, and has been very active in impressing their views on the Government, with commendable energy, ability and success.

The Quaker Oats Company, in manufacturing compressed foods for live stock, were vitally interested in having a certain grade of molasses produced in the West Indies, placed on the free list.

The Canadian General Electric Company, were interested in having a lower duty placed on incandescent lamp bulbs, for use in the manufacture of incandescent lamps, and mantle stocking for gas light.

The William Hamilton Manufacturing Company were interested in getting in boiler plate and tubes at a more favourable rate of duty, for use in the manufacture of boilers.

The Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company were interested in being able to import at a more favourable rate of duty certain parts used in the manufacture of agricultural implements to enable them to successfully compete with the larger American manufacturers.

The Colonial Weaving Company were interested in having certain classes of cotton yarn admitted free of duty for the manufacture of woven labels.

The Cordage Factories in Canada were interested in having a duty of 3-8 cents per pound placed on manilla consumed in their factories to place them on an even footing with the American manufacturers, who get rich bounty from the Philippine Government.

The Peterborough Shovel Company were interested in having steel in bars or sheets, when used in the manufacture of shovels admitted at a more favourable rate of duty.

It is satisfactory to note that while all these factories may not have obtained all they wanted, yet at the same time, each of these cases received very favourable consideration, largely on account of the able and effective manner in which cases were pressed on the attention of the Government by Mr. Hall.

Aged Couple Frozen To Death At Garden Hill

James and Kate Mullen, Brother and Sister Living Together, Found Dead Last Night—Mystery Surrounding The Discovery—An Eccentric Couple.

Examiner Special.

Garden Hill, February 13. — A gruesome discovery was made here last night by Mr. Campbell, when he found the bodies of a brother and sister, James and Kate Mullen, frozen to death in their home, about a mile from Garden Hill station.

The unfortunate man and woman were an old couple who lived together, and were considered by the neighbours somewhat eccentric, and did not mingle much with those living in the vicinity. For two or three days no signs of life were seen around the house, and while, at first, nothing strange was thought of this, at last Mr. Campbell became alarmed and decided to make an investigation, with the result that upon breaking into the house, which was locked, he found the woman lying dead on a rug in front of the stove, and the brother was sitting in a rocking chair, with his boots off, also dead.

Mystery is added by the fact that while they were frozen to death, it could not have been because of lack of fuel, since there was a stick of partly burned wood on the fire place and more wood lying around. There was also a quantity of wood outside the house.

The couple were peaceful living persons, and did not drink, though they remained aloof from their neighbours, who seldom visited them.

The coroner of the county has been notified of this occurrence and an inquest will be opened on the bodies to-night.

Midnight Blaze Destroyed Seven Boat Houses Last Night

Were Situated at Foot of Street Railway Line—Only Two Witnesses to the Conflagration—Origin a Mystery.

LOSS WAS GREAT ON OWNERS

A midnight fire destroyed eight boat houses on the shore of the Otonabee River last night, entailing the loss of several hundred dollars. The boat houses were situated at the southern terminus of the Street Railway, and up to the present the origin of the blaze remains a mystery. It is believed, however, that it was the work of a fire bug as it cannot be accounted for in any other way.

The first knowledge of the fire was obtained by Mr. Earnest Peters about 1.30 o'clock, as he was returning home after spending a social evening with a number of his friends. At that time the flames had eaten up seven of the boat houses and their contents.

After failing to get an axe on this side of the river, to break open the door of the other, he ran home, but before he could return the eighth had met the same fate as the others. Mr. Frank Kitney also came across the river but besides these two the fire was unknown until morning. At 3 o'clock the sparks were flying and it was thought Mr. Rye's boat houses were in danger but on account of the lack of wind no other damage was done.

The loss to the boat house owners was considerable. Each of the buildings contained from two to four canoes besides paddles, cushions and a quantity of other paraphernalia. There was no insurance on any of the boat houses each of which together with the contents was valued at about $100.00.

Among the owners were David Hamilton, Bert Moore, Earnest Mitchell, Robert Wright, W. Jones John Holmes and P. Heenan.

FOUR MOST SPEEDY PROFESSIONALS IN WORLD

Famous Skaters Will Give an Exhibition at Brock Street Rink To-night.

THEY HOLD MANY GREAT RECORDS

To-night the four fastest professional skaters in the world will be present at the Brock street rink and will give an exhibition of all kinds of fancy and speed skating. The affair promises to be one of the most interesting sporting events of the season, and no doubt will be witnessed by a large crowd. The skaters who will be seen to-night are J. K. McCulloch, of Winnipeg; Norval Baptie, of North Dakota; Peter Sinnirud, of New York, and G. Bellefeuille, of Winnipeg.

Each of these men have won many honours on the steel blades, especially in speed skating. Mr. McCulloch has held the championship of Canada and the United States, winning at St. Paul, Minn., and Poughkeepsie, N.Y. At Montreal he won the world's amateur skating championship. Not only as a speed skater has he achieved fame, but as a fancy and figure skater he has few equals, and he is a most versatile entertainer on the ice.

Norval Baptie is equally well known as a speed skater. He has twice held the Canadian and American professional championship, making a clean sweep of all the events in which he was entered.

Bellefeuille, who hails from Winnipeg, is a brother of the well-known hockey players of that name and is a skater of great ability. He has always been a warm rival of Morris Wood, the Vernon Lake skater, and the two have pulled out about even in the contests in which they have met.

Peter Sinnirud, as might be inferred from his name, is a Norwegian, and is a magnificent skater, one of the best ever turned out of the north land. Two years ago he won the world's amateur championship in Norway, winning at all distances.

The programme to-night will be a varied and interesting one. Messrs. McCulloch and Baptie will give an exhibition of fancy skating, including stilt skating by the former. Bellefeuille and Sinnirud will show their ability by jumping barrels, and there will be a game of tag on skates, followed by a half-mile race between the crack skaters, which should be a spectacular event. The four are on their way to Pittsburg, where they will take part in the American championship races. They hope to carry off a majority of the events.

There will be skating before and after the exhibition, and the band will be in attendance.

GAVE SHROVE TUESDAY ENTERTAINMENT

Pancake Social at St. Luke's Church Last Night Was a Gratifying Success.

The annual Shrove Tuesday social, given by the ladies of St. Luke's Church last night, was in all essential respects a success. There was a good attendance and those who were there spent a thoroughly delightful evening. The pancakes, which formed the refreshment feature of the evening, were fully up to the recognised standard of excellence established by the ladies of this church, and that they were appreciated was fully demonstrated. The programme which followed the refreshments was greatly enjoyed. The rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, occupied the chair, and in his opening address welcomed those present. A vocal duet, "I'll Take Care of Grandma," by Misses Georgie and Prudence Long, was the first musical number, a recitation following, given by Miss Henderson, of Toronto.

Rev. W. L. Armitage, of Picton, who was present, gave a short address, in which he expressed his pleasure at again visiting Peterborough and renewing acquaintances with his many friends here.

A recitation, "How Sister Helped Things Along," was given by Miss Adabelle Curtis and was greatly enjoyed. An instrumental solo by Mr. Davey was the next number, and was followed by a recitation, "Sister's Beau," by Bruce Hamilton.

Rev. Dr. Crothers gave a short address, stating that it was a pleasure to him to be present and say a few words in return for, and recognition of, the kindness of their rector in giving his lecture to the Young Men's Club in his church recently.

A vocal solo by Master Cyril Devey closed the programme.

A sale table was presided over by Mrs. Clithero, while Mrs. George Long had charge of the fish pond, and three young ladies sold candy. The net proceeds amounted to over $40.00.

THE TWO PARTIES AND LABOR

The Ottawa Free Press says one result of the recent discussion in the House of Commons, upon the great protection of the relations between Capital and Labour, must be to convince the electors that in this respect at least there is a great dividing line between the two parties.

One party preaches theories; the other provides remedies.

What is the record of the two parties in this great issue?

The Conservatives appointed a royal commission, which took four years to bring in a report, which was still-born; imposed a head tax of fifty dollars upon Chinese, and set aside the first Monday in September as Labour Day.

Contrast this with the record of the Liberals since 1896:

Passage of the alien labour law.

Increase of the head tax on Chinese from $50 to $100, and later to $500.

The establishment of a Ministry of Labour, which has monthly justified its existence.

Prevention of the sweating system on Government clothing contracts.

The appointment of a fair wage officer.

A minimum wage upon all Government contracts.

The Conciliation Bill of 1903.

The Railway Disputes Bill.

The increase of the wages of the workers on the Government Railways from a starvation rate to that where they can live in comfort.

In the above we have a brief outline of what the Reform Party in Ottawa has achieved in behalf of the toiling masses, and the enumeration is not by any means complete. A much longer list might be compiled of the achievements of the Reform Party in provincial politics. As against this display the Conservatives can present for the two Houses but one measure, namely, Sir John Thompson's Bill, creating Labour Day, a measure borrowed from the United States and forced on the Government of the day by Organized Labour.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Ice carnivals are apparently losing their popularity, and in Peterborough even one such event a season fails to attract a large crowd.

What with millionaires dying to fatten the succession duties, and Gilles Duffs freckled with treasure, and Cobalt takes selling for their weight in silver, the Whitney Government would be quite justified in adopting the horseshoe as its emblem.—Toronto Star.

Edison is now going to experiment with electricity in earnest, and not merely for commercial purposes. And in order that he may learn all about it, the Toronto Star asks if the United States Government couldn't furnish him from time to time with some convict under sentence of death to help him in the more delicate operations?

Forty years ago, says the Hamilton Herald, two young merchants went into business on Yonge street, Toronto, at about the same time. Their stores adjoined. By a singular coincidence, these two men died last week. One of them was buried with pomp. Columns of eulogistic obituary notices were printed about him. He was acclaimed as Canada's greatest merchant. At the funeral of the other there was only one mourner—his brother. He died in obscurity, having been almost a pauper for years. The two men began the race on even terms and neither had the advantage of the other in business ability. But one was a man of strong moral fiber; the other was a man of weak will, who succumbed to the appetite for drink. Character counts for at least as much as ability in the battle of life.

The vacant postmastership in Bowmanville, made so by the death of Mr. Fairbairn, has not been filled yet, and there are a number of aspirants for the position. Dr. Beith, brother of the newly-appointed Senator Beith, had been practically recommended as the choice of the Liberal Executive, but has intimated to the Postmaster General, it is stated, that he has withdrawn and does not wish the appointment. Among those who have claims on the position, none stand out so prominently as Mr. M. A. James, editor of the Canadian Statesman, one of the most progressive and solid Liberal journals in the Province. For twenty-eight years Mr. James has fought the battles on behalf of the Liberals for good government, and throughout the riding of Durham he has a great many friends, who believe his claims to recognition are greater than those of any of the other aspirants. The appointment, given to Mr. James, will mean that the business will be conducted in a businesslike manner and the service all that could be desired.

SNOW 100 FEET DEEP IN SOME DISTRICTS

Remarkable Weather is Reported From Switzerland.

Geneva, Feb. 13th. — Reports from some sections of the Alps indicate that snow has drifted to the depth of over 100 feet in some places, the greatest record ever known. The rain freezing as it fell has at times formed a coating of ice 18 inches thick, trees becoming almost solid blocks of ice. Houses are so deeply buried in the snow that the occupants have had to dig tunnels and galleries in order to get out. The telegraph and telephone lines are down for miles and the suffering in places has been intense.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. HOW IT SPREADS

The first package of Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, the infallible pile cure, that was put out, went to a small town in Nebraska.

It cured a case of piles that was considered hopeless.

The news spread, and although this was only two years ago, the demand prompted Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Nebraska, the discover, to prepare it for general use. Now it is being sent to all parts of the world.

It will cure any case of piles. There is a month's treatment in each box. Sold for $1 with an absolute guarantee.

It is for sale by druggists or by The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

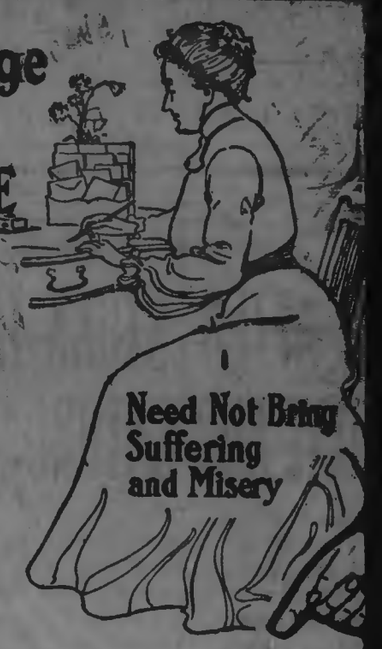
Change of LIFE



Need Not Bring Suffering and Misery

This perfectly natural change in a woman's life is too often accompanied by painful, distressing symptoms due to female troubles and slight irregularities in her delicate organism.

The woman who passes this change without the development of tumors, cancers, or chronic invalidism enters a new field of happiness and usefulness in the domestic circle and in social activity. Her physical system should receive the necessary assistance at this critical period.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is exactly suited to woman's needs at this time. It strengthens and cures all derangements of the female organism, it overcomes the hot flashes and dizzy fainting spells, and all other distressing symptoms.

Woman's Friend During Change of Life

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I owe my splendid health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am the mother of three children, have safely passed the change of life, and feel as young and strong as I did twenty years ago, and this is all due to your friend of women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it before my children were born, and it greatly assisted nature and saved me much pain, and during change of life I took it off and on for four years, and had but little trouble and sickness such as most women have to endure. MRS. JAMES K. MANN, 306 Bathhurst Street, Toronto, Canada.

The whole secret of safety at this time of life is thorough preparation before the change begins. Fortify the system with a course of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This wonderful medicine has carried thousands of women through this danger period.

No such helpful advice to women who are sick can be had anywhere as will be received free by addressing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Mrs. Pinkham is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for twenty-five years under her direction, and since her decease, she has been advising sick women free of charge.

BREACH OF PROMISE CASE TRIED

An Interesting Entertainment Given Under Auspices of the Men's Guild of All Saint's Church.

A breach of promise case was the attraction at the meeting of the Young Men's Guild in All Saints' Church school room last night. It was a mock trial carried out with all the ceremony of a High Court case. It was the first time that the young men had attempted anything of this kind and they are certainly to be congratulated upon the success with which the programme was carried through. The whole performance passed off without a hitch, which is remarkable when it is remembered that there was not one full rehearsal.

The chair was taken by Rev. Wm. Major, who performed the duties most acceptably. Before the trial was commenced, Mr. Maurice Van der Water favoured the audience with vocal selections, and several selections were rendered on the gramophone.

The breach of promise case was the main attraction. The plaintiff was Miss Montmorency, and she brought suit against John Collins for $7,480 damages for alleged breach of promise. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. R. F. McWilliams for the defendant. His Lordship John Green sat on the bench, and in a masterly manner conducted the case. The offices of court clerk, court stenographer and constable were all filled, and a jury of twelve tried men and true were chosen to hear the case. The plaintiff was put in the witness box in her own behalf and described the relationship between herself and the defendant, and the events which led up to the proposal, and what followed. A number of other witnesses were called and corroborated the evidence. Then the defendant took the stand, and with several other witnesses shattered the evidence of the plaintiff.

The two lawyers then addressed the jury in eloquent terms and got off many witticisms.

His Lordship summed up the evidence and instructed the jurors as to their duties. He gave them fifteen minutes to find a verdict, but the jury returned in about two minutes, having decided to disagree. Under these circumstances the jury was discharged, and the case will have to be tried over again.

After the trial light refreshments were served and the large gathering dispersed.

DIED AS A RESULT OF INJURIES

Mr. Thos. Geo. Foster Died This Morning From Injury Received Two Weeks Ago.

At 9.30 this morning Thos. G. Foster passed away at the Nicholls Hospital after an illness extending over two weeks. The deceased was injured some time ago on Aylmer street by a telegraph pole falling on his leg and breaking it. Since then he has not been well, and it was indirectly due to the accident that death resulted.

The late Mr. Foster was 62 years of age. He was born in North Monaghan, but had lived in this city nearly all his life. He was a harness maker, and was unmarried. His parents predeceased him. His brother is John James, of Everett, Wash., and sisters are Mary, wife of Thos. Poe, of Concordia, Kan.; Mrs. C. Windrum, of Balder, Man., and Mrs. E. Shields, Toronto.

The deceased was a staunch Conservative.

The funeral will take place from Comstock's undertaking rooms tomorrow at 2 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

FORMER RECTOR IS VISITING HERE

Rev. W. L. Armitage, of Picton, Here and Tells of His Work in That Town.

Rev. W. L. Armitage, of Picton, formerly of this city, is here for a few days visiting friends and renewing acquaintances. Mr. Armitage has a large parish in Picton, with about double the number of communicants he had in All Saints. Just at the present time an effort is being made by the members of the church to pay off the indebtedness against it by Easter, and although it means a big effort he has hopes that the necessary $1200 will be paid before next Easter Sunday. Mr. Armitage like his work in Picton and the members of the parish are good to him.

A POPULAR LAMENT

Where Would Society Be If One Was Judged for the Sins of Others?

"O, I tried one of those hair tonics some time ago, and it never did me a bit of good."

That's what many people are saying to-day when they refuse Herpicide a trial.

It would be as sensible to say, "I never travel on a fairway because I often see collisions mentioned in the papers."

Newbro's Herpicide is specially made to destroy the germ that is living on the roots of your hair.

That is why it is so exceedingly efficacious—it is there for the sole purpose of ridding the hair of this parasitic growth, after which the hair grows as nature intended.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

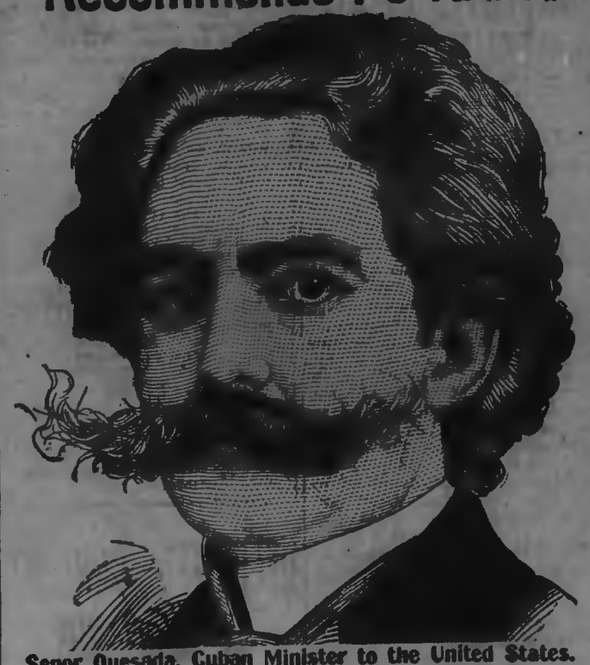
CUBAN MINISTER TO THE U. S. Recommends Pe-ru-na.



Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States.

Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States, is an orator born. In an article in The Outlook for July, 1899, by George Kennan, who heard Quesada speak at the Esteban Theater, Matanzas, Cuba, he said: "I have seen many audiences under the spell of eloquent speech and in the grip of strong emotional excitement, but I have rarely witnessed such a scene as at the close of Quesada's eulogy upon the dead patriot, Marti." In a letter to The Peruna Drug M'f'g. Co., written from Washington, D. C., Senor Quesada says:

"Peruna I can recommend as a very good medicine. It is an excellent strengthening tonic, and it is also an efficacious cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—Gonzalo De Quesada.

Mr. Will A. Hoffman, Hagerstown, Ill., writes:

"I gladly give my testimonial with the thousands of others who have been cured by the use of Peruna.

"I had catarrh of the head and throat. I took cold easily and was dizzy-headed.

"I was all rundown and hardly able to work at all when I began using Peruna.

"But, now, after using it about six months I am well and strong."

There is no remedy in the world which has proven so popular for catarrh as Peruna. It has been used for more than thirty years and cured thousands of cases as proven by our testimonials.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

KENNEDY'S

SCOTT'S
COLLOSEUM
429 GEORGE STREET

Just one girl. The one he was looking for. The new moving picture programme includes among others the story of the young man of 25 who did marry when he found his affinity, and did it quick. He saw her on the platform waiting the arrival of the train for Buffalo. He introduced himself, proposed, was accepted, found a clergyman on the train, was married and they spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and lived happily ever after. Special mention may also be made of the "Mysterious Dream." Johnny Rich left his club and found himself floating high in the clouds over New York City. You should see it for yourselves. It was real to him, but was it possible! And again another picture of the poor orphan boy who coveted his neighbour's apples. If you want a comfortable spot to spend a pleasant half hour and see the possibilities of modern invention, come. Beautiful illustrated songs. Don't miss them.

EVERY EVENING, 7 to 10. WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY MATINEE, 2.30 to 6.

VARIOUS ESTIMATES APPROVED OF BY COMMITTEE

The Fire, Water and Light Committee Accepted Street Lighting and Fire Department Estimates

TO USE DIFFERENT ELECTRIC BATTERIES

The furnishing and equipping of the new fire hall came up for consideration at the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night. Alderman Johnston, chairman; and Ald. Duncan, Leary, Morgan, and Messrs. Armstrong and Adams, were present. The new hall is to be thoroughly equipped; the committee, however, intend to keep within the limits of the grant that has been made for the whole contract.

Numerous requests are being made for the placing of new lights in various parts of the city. The committee intends to locate them with a view of having no obstruction from shade trees.

Street Car Headlights

The street car head lights first claimed the attention of the committee. This question was considered at Monday night's meeting and therefore no further steps were taken.

New Street Lamps

A communication from the Peterborough Light and Power Company regarding the placing of a lamp at the corner of Smith and Fairbairn streets, was received. Further investigation is required before the lamp is placed.

A petition from residents on the corner of Stewart and Dublin streets asking for a lamp at the corner of these streets.

Referred back for further consideration on motion of Alderman Duncan and Leary.

Alarm Batteries

A communication was received from the Bell Telephone Company regarding the contract for batteries for the alarm system. They offered to replace storage batteries with gravity cells as desired. This will reduce the tender by $285. This matter will come up at a later date when further details have been received from the company.

Report of Fire Chief

An inventory of the furniture, and general paraphernalia at the fire hall was received from Chief Rutherford. An inventory was taken prior to removal to the new station on Aylmer street, for the purpose of ascertaining just what further equipment is needed. Some of the articles were worn out, besides some were not needed in the new hall, and it was accordingly moved by Ald. Leary, seconded by Ald. Morgan, that the committee be empowered to dispose by auction of whatever goods they deemed advisable.

The report also contained a list of the requirements of the new hall, viz., new equipment, new furnishings, etc. The estimates for the street lighting, $85.50, and fire department, $67.00, were on motion of Ald. Leary and Morgan approved of.

A petition from Mr. Robert Nicholls asking for more money for carting the manure from the fire hall was not granted.

General discussion followed, and the meeting adjourned.

SPELLING REFORM IS FAVOURED

Galt School Teachers Express Themselves to This Effect—Want Royal Commission Appointed

Galt, Feb. 12.—At the request of the School Board, the Public School teachers of Galt some time ago formed an association for the discussion of educational subjects. Many interesting topics have been dealt with, but none more so than the one they took action on yesterday.

They have become interested in spelling reform, and they passed a resolution favouring its adoption by the Government. The principles they would like the Government to embody in its platform and put into operation are these:—

No silent letters.

No letter representing more than one sound.

A character to represent each sound.

In the resolution the teachers urge upon the Education Department the appointment by the Government of a Royal Commission for the purpose of hearing evidence, examining schemes and reporting how far it is advisable and practicable to adopt a change in spelling.

TO CURE A COUGH

A noted authority on lung trouble advises that as soon as a cold is contracted, the following simple treatment should be given. The ingredients can be purchased from any prescription druggist at small cost, and easily prepared in your own home. It is said to be so effective that it will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable.

Take a half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine Tar (Pure), two ounces of Glycerine, and eight ounces of good Whiskey. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses every four ounces.

Be sure that the Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) is the original half ounce vials, which are put up expressly for druggists to dispense. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, with the name — Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Leach Chemical Co.—plainly printed thereon. Only the adulterated oils are sold in bulk; these create nausea and never effect the desired results.

DELIGHTFUL CONCERT BY MANY BOY SOPRANOS

St. Peter's Hall Contained Another Large Audience Last Night—Wonderful Singing by the Boys.

FIRST OF THE KIND IN PETERBOROUGH

For the second time within a week St. Peter's School Hall last night contained a large and refined audience who listened with pleasure to the concert presented by more than a hundred boy sopranos under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Morrow. They were entertainments which without doubt have had no parallel in the history of Peterborough. The training of the boy soprano in the modern method of lifting the tones out of the throat and placing them upon the hard palate is an accomplishment of Mrs. Morrow's worthy of more than a passing recognition. Their singing was simply wonderful. Many of them have been trained to produce high B flat and high C as well as any prima donna.

The chorus feature of the evening was the selection "Battle Eve," by Bonheur, by the boys. It was arranged by Mrs. Morrow for twenty boy sopranos and eight baritones and was one of the most enjoyed numbers on the programme. "Sing On" by Denza, was sung by two boy sopranos. They displayed a wonderful knowledge of this difficult duet and the diligent training was noticeably revealed by the perfect manner in which they held high B flat.

The vocal solo "Will the Angels Let Me Play" by Lochn, was taken ably by Master Joseph Clancy and was well received by the audience. Master Joseph Butler demonstrated his ability as an elocutionist in the recitation "Grind Your Axe in the Morning," for which he was liberally applauded.

In the instrumental duet "Radius" by Gottschalk, Miss Geraldine Ruddkins, a girl of only 12 years of age, won special honours. Her expression and technique were indeed remarkable and worthy of much praise. She was assisted by Mrs. Morrow.

Of the other refined musical contributions, Mr. Harry M. Bennett, the Toronto humourist was perhaps the best received. By request, he rendered again "I'm Going to Be Married" for which he has won praise from all his audiences. His other selections were "Niccoline" a character song and "Looking for a Job."

Mr. Chas Delaney, the possessor of a fine high baritone voice sang "The Bandit" by request. Mr. John King, the basso rendered "The Two Grenadiers" by Schuman, very effectively. Miss Lavina Halliham's dramatic soprano voice was heard in the delightful solo "Love's Young Dream," by Moore. Miss Lilian Bell, contralto, sang a Spanish love song with splendid effect. A recitation "The Widow's Message to her Son" was dramatically given by Dominic Barnett.

The boy sopranos towards the close of the excellent programme were given another opportunity to display their remarkable voices in choruses from the operas "Robin Hood" and "John Doe." The recitation "Our Baby" with chorus unaccompanied was another of the features of the programme.

Mrs. Morrow presided at the piano and played all the accompaniments. She is deserving of high praise for the capable and most creditable manner in which she carried out so successfully every detail of such an excellent programme as was witnessed in St. Peter's Hall last evening.

THE WEATHER

The weather has taken a decided change to much milder. At noon the thermometer was not far from the freezing point. At daybreak it stood at 8 above zero, while during the night it had been down to 9 degrees below. Thus the rise in temperature has been rapid as well as considerable.

MANY BOUQUETS PRESENTED TO PRINCIPAL

Concluding Performance of Zephra Was Greeted With a Crowded House.

IT HAS BEEN A GREAT SUCCESS.

The concluding performance of the beautiful spectacle, "Zephra," was given last night to an enthusiastic audience that packed every part of the house. As was the case with the other four performances, the presentation was a grand success, the acting, singing, and beautiful drills and dances bringing forth almost continuous applause from the audience. Zephra was pronounced as one of the most beautiful and meritorious performances ever given in Peterborough, and Mr. H. J. Booth, the director, the young people who took part, and the 57th Band, under whose auspices the attraction was presented, are alike to be congratulated and thanked for the treat they have afforded the people of this city.

A pleasing feature last evening was the presentation of bouquets to the principal lady members of the company. These floral tributes were from the 57th Band and were a graceful recognition of the services so ably rendered by them. Miss Bertha Parnell, Miss Nellie McCabe, Miss Florence Butcher, Miss Pearl Morgan, Miss Nellie Graham, and Miss Ruth Dawson all received bouquets, amid the applause of the crowd. Mr. Geo. Lynch received a floral tribute adorned with blue and white ribbon from the hockey team.

A PUBLIC OFFER.

To All Persons in Peterborough Who Wish to Gain Flesh.

Some people do not need to gain flesh, but many must before health can be restored to a normal condition.

Are you thin? Do you require more flesh to be really well and strong? If you do we want you to commence a course of treatment now with Vinol, and we will agree that if, after you have taken what we consider should be enough to restore your normal weight, and it has not succeeded, we will pay for all the medicine you have taken, ourselves.

Now, you will agree that we would ruin ourselves financially if we should make such a bold offer on an article of no merit, and we must know what we are talking about, or we would not guarantee the action of any medicine like that.

A prominent physician recently said, "The best way to gain good, solid, firm flesh is to take Vinol, for in it you get all the curative, flesh-making and strength-creating properties contained in that grand old remedy, cod liver oil, without the nauseating oil itself, and the weakest stomach can retain it. Thin people are usually weak and ailing, and Vinol is what they need."

We know, what Vinol will do. You see, it acts first upon the stomach, creates an appetite for good, wholesome food, and strengthens and tones up the digestive organs so the food is properly assimilated. Rich, red blood is sent coursing through every vein, solid, firm flesh is created wherever it is needed, and emaciated figures, hollow cheeks and sunken eyes are soon a thing of the past. Vinol makes firm, healthy flesh, and the weak strong, because it strengthens every organ in the body to do its work.

Try it on our guarantee. McDermid & Jury, Druggists. Vinol is also sold at The Market Drug Store (The Ormond & Walsh Old Stand).

GRANTING DIVORCES AT SUNRISE IN CHICAGO

Judge Has to Start at Early Hour to Clear Docket.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Judge McEwen originated to-day a rapid-fire divorce schedule and instituted sunrise court on Saturdays to clear up his "matrimony docket." Laura E. Curtis appeared in court at 8 o'clock this morning with testimony to support her charge that her husband Charles had used "her head for a punching bag," and asked that she be freed forever from obligations to him. The court decided in her favour in 12 minutes.

WARSAW FORESTERS GAVE AT HOME

A Delightful Programme Presented by Progressive Court of This Order.

Examiner Special.

Warsaw, Feb. 12th. — Among the pleasant events that have taken place here recently the at home, given by the Canadian Foresters on Thursday evening last deserves special mention. As is characteristic of the order no pains were spared to make the event a success, and with their motto, "Liberty, Benevolence and Concord," ever in view all difficulties were apparently overcome. The work of the decoration committee was praiseworthy and showed much taste. The arrangement of the furniture was such that although over one hundred and fifty persons were present it was not felt that the hall was crowded. The major part of the evening was spent at games of various kinds in which all participated. The music supplied by Wilson's orchestra from Peterborough was much enjoyed and assisted greatly in enlivening the proceedings. Refreshments were served at 11.30 o'clock after which the floor was cleared and a few hours were spent in dancing.

FIRST GLIMPSE OF NEW COTTON DRESS FABRICS

This week we are making a special showing of the New Cotton Fabrics for Spring and Summer, devoting all our Show Windows for this purpose and also a display on the counters, and will gladly welcome your early visit to this store "not to purchase" but to inspect and become acquainted with these handsome Fabrics.

It's not Spring-time yet, but you will be inclined to think so when you see this immense display of Cotton Fabrics and it's high-time some calculation is being made to have these Fabrics in work and in readiness for the warm weather.

This is the largest shipment of Cotton Fabrics we ever imported, the colorings and patterns from a point of art surpass all previous seasons, so dainty—flower patterns so natural in tone of shading—materials so lustrous in finish, that nothing is lacking to make these Fabrics superior in every particular and we will be disappointed if your praise is not forthcoming when you get the first glimpse of these Fabrics TUESDAY.

SIX CANDIDATES FOR COURT STANLEY A.O.F.

Were Initiated at Regular Meeting of the Order in the S. O. E. Hall Last Night.

The annual meeting of Court Stanley, Ancient Order of Foresters, was held last night in the S. O. E. Hall. There was a large attendance of members. The C. R., Bro. T. Hendry, presided. Six candidates were duly initiated into the mysteries of Forestry, and three applications were received for membership.

The secretary, Bro. R. J. McWilliams, who was delegate to the District meeting held in the city of Belleville on Feb. 5th, gave an interesting report of the business done by all the courts which were represented at the meeting. Court Stanley has now the largest membership. Bro. McWilliams was elected D.S.C. R., and Peterborough was honoured as being chosen as the next meeting place of the District Court, on the first Tuesday in February, 1908. Other business was done for the good of the Order and the Court intends having open meetings in the near future.

It was moved by Bro. W. Edwards, seconded by Bro. S. Adlam, that a hearty vote of thanks be extended to Bro. McWilliams, for the interest he took in the District meeting. Mr. McWilliams made a suitable reply.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM THISTLETHWAITE

The Examiner has been supplied with the following tribute to the late Mr. William Thistlewaite, who passed away in this city a few days ago. The obituary notice given below was sent from Norwood and was written by a gentleman who, during his lifetime had been intimately associated with the deceased. He says:—

"Once within, within for evermore;
There the long beatitudes begin;
Overflows the still unwasting store,
Once within.
Blow the trumpet-blast undeard before,
Shout the unheard-of shout for these who win,
These who cast their crowns on Heaven's high flood,
Once within."

—Christina Rossetti.

From his youth a constant member of the Methodist church, for forty years a licensed lay preacher, for thirty years a class-leader, and until recently the superintendent of the Elgin Sunday School, the late Mr. William Thistlethwaite was widely known as well as highly and deservedly respected, and his removal to Peterborough last spring created a void which it has been difficult wholly to fill. In his new home he had entered avenues of Christian usefulness, and the Charlotte street church, which were glad to number him among their effective working forces, will with ourselves deplore his death, which took place at his Peterborough home last Friday morning.

Mr. Thistlethwaite was no ordinary man. Gifted with an intellect that was clear, penetrating and vigourous, his habits of thought were of a high and ennobling order. He familiarized with good literature, which he had an uncommon power to assimilate; and by this reading and reflection he came to have within himself a seemingly inexhaustible store, upon which he could draw whenever necessity was laid upon him. The stranger who listened to him for the first time was astonished at the braininess, conciseness and real eloquence which marked his public speaking, and the more so because the unassuming speaker himself seemed so entirely unconscious of the striking ability which was so obvious to others.

The handsome presents which were heaped upon him when he retired from the Asphodel homestead, witnessed to the esteem in which he was held by his neighbours, for Mr. Thistlethwaite was a gentleman. Not that he had the manners of the courtier; but, despite his native modesty, he had such a high sense of honour, and so much genuine self-respect, that it would be impossible to think of him as doing or even conceiving an ignoble thing. Added to this ingenuousness, there was a courage and a constancy which greatly added to his worth as a citizen and a friend.

But it is by the sane, wholesome, enlightened mysticism possessed by him that the late Mr. Thistlethwaite will be best remembered by some of his surviving friends. With Browning, he—

"Believed in soul, was very sure of God,"

And to him the seeme and tangible world was not more real—indeed it was, perhaps, even less real—than the world that is spiritual and invisible. With him the command of humanity's greatest teacher to "lay up treasure in Heaven" was no idle maxim, but a charge of the first importance, which he must constantly obey. Nor must it be inferred from this that he was but a mere visionary. The most matter-of-fact of his neighbours was not more practical than he. But so true was he to the devotional side of his nature, and upon its culture did he bestow such intelligent care, that every latest spiritual instinct and aptitude seemed to have been brought into play, and he truly "walked with God."

He had his limitations; all human beings have; and Mr. Thistlethwaite was human. But no one thought of these in the common admiration which was called forth by his many virtues. We bear to his last resting place, a humble, good and generous man, who has truly served his generation by the will of God, and now has "fallen on sleep."

WEDDING BELLS

IRWIN--BLEWETT

Yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Davis, aunt of the groom, 86 McGill street, Toronto, a wedding of considerable local interest took place, the principals having been formerly residents of this city. The bride was Miss Lillie Irwin, daughter of Mr. Wm. Irwin, of Emily, and the groom, Mr. Rollie Blewett, son of Mr. C. Blewett, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Jackson, pastor of Sherbourne Street Methodist Church, Toronto, in the presence of only the immediate friends of the bride and groom, who were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Blewett came to the city last night and will spend a few days here, returning to Toronto next week, and will reside at 387 Church street.

HOOPER--COE

A very pretty and interesting wedding took place at Cavan on Thursday, February 7, at 3.30 o'clock, when Miss Alberta Coe was united in marriage to Mr. H. V. Hooper, of Holland, Man. The bride was beautifully gowned in champagne silk, and entered the church with her uncle, Mr. J. W. Coe, of Toronto, to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Miss Lulu McGill, cousin of the bride. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Sexsmith, of Cavanville, the bridal party left the church as the wedding march was being played, and repaired to "Cedarside," the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. R. Coe, where a reception was held. After wedding breakfast, the young couple left for Montreal, amid the hearty good wishes of their many friends.

The groom's gift to the bride was an exquisite sunburst of pearls, and to Miss McGill a dainty brooch.

Mr. and Mrs. Hooper on their return will remain a few days here previous to leaving for their future home in Holland, Man.

LATEST HAPPENINGS OF THE ARMY

What is Being Done by the Local Corps of the Salvation Army Here and Elsewhere

The lantern service at the Salvation Army Barracks last night was a complete success. The hall was well filled and about 200 children were present. The busject of the entertainment was "The Boy Martyr," with stereopticon slides. They were particularly realistic, depicting the story of a young boy who gave his life for the old faith at a time when religious change was being felt throughout the world. Captain Hurd in charge of the slides, conducted the meeting and told the story as he presented the views. It was a vivid representation of faith and did not fail to impress the young people.

Several choruses were sung, Miss Card acting as accompanist.

The entertainment will be repeated on Thursday evening commencing at 8 o'clock.

Band to Omemee

Captain Gibbons, of Omemee, was in the city to-day making arrangements for a trip to that place on the 23rd of this month. Special services are being held on Sunday, February 24, by Major Rawlings, and the visit of the band of the local corps will make the occasion of special interest. They will give a concert on Saturday evening while they are there.

SPLENDID CONCERT AT CHEMONG VILLAGE

Given Last Thursday, January 31, by the Ladies' Aid—Outside and Local Talent Contributed.

CARPETS AND CHAIRS FROM PROCEEDS

A very successful concert, under the direction of the Ladies' Aid, of Chemong Village, was held on Thursday night last, in the Chemong hall, and was well attended, a fact which those who were responsible for it, have every reason to feel gratified, as well as with the evident pleasure the entertainment afforded.

A portion of the programme was given by a number of the ladies' friends from Lakefield, Ennismore, Smith and Buckhorn, and gave evident satisfaction.

The programme in its entirety, was as follows:—

Opening chorus, Chemong choir.
Chairman's address, Mr. Reddick.
Duet, Misses Ruth Whetung and Clara Copeway.
Song, "Are you coming out to-night?" Mr. D. Whetung, jr.
Dialogue, "Married by the J.P."
Song, Mr. John Eastwood.
Selection by Ray's orchestra.
Drill, "Rainbow" 7 girls.
Recitation, Alice Taylor.
Song, Mr. John Eastwood.
Violin selection, Mr. Jas. Killen.
Dialogue, "Assisting Hezekiah."
Recitation, Miss L. Taylor.
Song, "He walked right in," Mr. D. Whetung.
Selection, Ray's orchestra.
Recitation, Leslie McCue.
Phonograph selection.
Song, "When the frost has turned the forest leaves to gold," Mr. Bennett.

The proceeds of the concert amounted to $18.30, bringing up the Ladies' Fund to $60. With this they intend to purchase carpets and chairs for the new church which will be opened about the first Sunday in March.

CORED ANOTHER WONDERFUL VICTORY

More Added to the Long List of Cures Effected by Psychine.

This young lady, who lives in Brownsville, near Woodstock, Ont., tells her own story in a few effective words of how she gained deliverance from the terrible grip of weakness and disease.

I have to thank Psychine for my present health. Some years ago I was going into a decline. I could scarcely drag myself across the floor. I could not sweep the carpet.

I went for a drive I had to lie down when I came back. If I walked for a mile or two on my head I was too weak to lift it through the gate-way, and last June I came home having a chill I dropped down helpless from fatigue. My mother would give me no peace until she procured Psychine, knowing it was excellent for those of weakness. I must say the results are wonderful, and everyone remarked the improvement. Instead of a little, pale, hollow cheeked, listless, melancholy girl, I am to-day full of life, ready for a sleigh ride, a skating rink, or an evening party with anyone, and a few months ago I could not struggle to church, two blocks from my home. I have never had the slightest cause to fear any return of the disease.

ELLA MURIEL WOOD,
Brownsville, Ont.

Thousands of women are using PSYCHINE, because they know from experience that in it they have a safe friend and deliverer. Psychine is a wonderful tonic, purifying the blood, driving out disease germs, gives a ravenous appetite, aids digestion and assimilation of food, and is a positive and absolute cure for disease of throat, chest, lungs, stomach and other organs. It quickly builds up the entire system, making sick people well and weak people strong.

HARRY THAW WAS INSANE

Alienist Tells of Storm and Stress In Prisoner's Brain.

MENTAL EXPLOSION CAUSE

Had Exaggerated Ego—Mind Slipped Its Moorings and Was Like a Ship Without a Rudder In a Windstorm—Counsel Clash and Have a Bad Half Hour Together—Jerome Gains Technical Point.

New York, Feb. 13.—District Attorney Jerome and Delphin M. Delmas came together late yesterday in the first serious clash between counsel in the Harry Thaw trial, and the California attorney, who is directing the defence, took exceptions to certain statements of the prosecuting officer, and had inserted in the record of the case a protest against "the misconduct of the learned district attorney."

Dr. Britton D. Evans, superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane at Morris Plains, N. J., was the witness, and he testified earlier in the day that he was of the opinion that Harry Thaw was insane at the time of the tragedy. He had been called upon to answer a lengthy hypothetical question in which reference had been made to a "serious, if not capital, operation" upon Miss Nesbit, when the storm between counsel broke.

Jerome and Delmas Tilt.

Mr. Jerome seemed thoroughly wrought up. Mr. Delmas did not for an instant lose his calm demeanor, but he gave emphasis and force to his words new to his hearers.

The storm had been brewing for some minutes before it finally broke within a quarter of an hour before adjournment. Mr. Jerome and Mr. Delmas are two of such diametrically opposed types that the clash was not unexpected. Justice Fitzgerald did not rule out any of the district attorney's remarks before the jury, and Mr. Delmas took care to have every exception he made "seriously noted." Mr. Jerome won his point, and the words "serious if not capital," as beginning the operation, were withdrawn by Mr. Delmas.

Jerome's Surprise.

During the tilt Mr. Delmas inquired of the district attorney how he came into possession of knowledge as to the character of the operation upon Miss Nesbit without a violation of confidence. Mr. Jerome said he had been told of it by Miss Nesbit's mother.

Dr. Evans was on the stand all day. He detailed to the jury his observations and examinations of Harry Thaw during eight visits to the prisoner in the Tombs, and declared it to be his opinion that Thaw was suffering from "brain storm, or an explosive, or, turning point of mental unsoundness," at the time he shot and killed Stanford White. Dr. Evans gave many and elaborate reasons for his opinion, and during his examination Mr. Delmas deftly brought out the fact, that, whereas Thaw was suffering from "storm and stress" when the alienist first visited him in August last, his condition had shown steady and gradual improvement, until in October, Thaw was more composed and deliberate."

Wreckage On the Beach.

Mr. Delmas laid particular emphasis upon the importance of showing Thaw's condition of mind just subsequent to the tragedy in arguments with District Attorney Jerome.

"In order," the Californian explained, "that the jury, by means of the wreckage on the beach, may infer that there has been a storm upon the waters."

Mr. Evans declared that these mental explosion which had induced Thaw to kill Stanford White had left its traces upon the defendant when he first visited him. He said Thaw exhibited symptoms of paranoia and adolescent insanity. The first was indicated by his exaltation, his "exaggerated ego"—the idea of his supreme importance. The adolescent insanity was due to heredity and is characteristic to the development period of life (from 10 to 40 years).

"Another form of insanity," he said, "is known as paranoia, or fixed insanity, or some subject. The third is maniacal, where the patient jumps from one idea to another. These forms and others are characterized by the exaggerated ego."

"The Ruler of the World."

"Is there any specific name, doctor," asked Mr. Delmas, "given to that form of insanity wherein one imagines himself omnipresent—the ruler of the world?"

"That is included in the forms of insanity to which I have referred. Both adolescent insanity and paranoiad insanity are characterized by delusions as to self-importance and exaggerated ego. In adolescent insanity the patient exhibits no marked symptoms. But when the stress comes the man does not break down as the ordinary or normal man would. There is a complex loss of mental balance, an explosive condition of the brain, the reason become dethroned, the will power is lost and the brain is operating as a ship does in the wind without a rudder—the balance wheel is gone.

Slipped Its Moorings.

"The acts of such a man are not the acts of a normal man, but show him to be guided by disease and stress. His mind has left its moorings and yielded to diseased conditions.

"On my first visit I also noticed that Mr. Thaw suffered from a rapid flow of words not characteristic of the normal mind. He showed a condition of abnormal excitement—a diseased condition of the brain.

"In the diseased condition you name how do the conditions differ from those in a normal man who speaks rapidly?"

"An ordinary normal man speaks more or less deliberately on all matters of grave importance. He talks slowly and his ideas come logically and connectedly. In a man of unsound mind the ideas come rapidly, tumbling over each other, jumping from one subject to another; that at once leads a trained observer to suspect unsoundness of mind. To me it means that the mind has either recently come through or is just going into a severe mental storm; in other words, it is either the twilight or dawn of a state of mental unsoundness or explosion."

HAVE YOUR CHILDREN ANY RINGWORM, SORES OR ULCERS?

ZAM-BUK WILL SURELY CURE

Here are a few instances of Zam-Buk's healing power:

Three children in one family in Burk's Falls have been cured of serious skin diseases by Zam-Buk.

Mrs. Minnie Elliff of St. John's West (Welland County), says: "My baby had a kind of rash on his head—quite a lot of small red spots and pimples. I applied Zam-Buk and was delighted with the result."

Mrs. Goring of Longford Mills, says: "Zam-Buk is a wonderful healer of ringworm. I tried everything that could be thought of, but nothing was able to cure until Zam-Buk came. It is a fine remedy."

Mrs. Wm. Scott, of Portland, says: "Zam-Buk seems to take the pain out of sores, wounds and skin injuries as soon as applied, and then it heals them up in quick time. That has been my experience and I have used Zam-Buk in the home for some time."

So one could go on quoting case after case where mothers have written in glowing terms of how Zam-Buk has cured suffering children. Mothers who read these lines should note this!

Zam-Buk is particularly adapted to delicate and tender skins. It is free from all mineral colouring matter and from animal fat, being purely herbal. It heals, cuts, burns, bruises, ulcers, chapped places, eczema, ringworm, running sores, bad legs, enlarged veins, piles, scaling sores, etc. As an embrocation, it cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, and rubbed well on to the chest in cases of cold eases the tightness and aching.

All druggists and stores sell it at 50 cents a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Company, Toronto, for price. Six boxes sent for $2.50. Zam-Buk is highly antiseptic, and applied to a wound, cut or sore immediately kills the germs which give rise to inflammation, blood poisoning, etc.

YESTERDAY IN THE LOCAL HOUSE

Some Radical Legislation Is Introduced By Members.

TWO GOVERNMENT MEASURES

Change In Method of Alloting Land to G. T. P. Railway by Which Province Saves Two-Thirds of Cost of Surveys—Homestead Free Grant Act Amended—Cost of the Michigan Auditor.

Toronto, Feb. 13.—Hon. Frank Cochrane, in the Legislature yesterday, introduced two Government measures, and there was a rush of private legislation.

Mr. Cochrane's first bill amends the act respecting the land grant to the G. T. P. The present act provides that the Government is to survey the land into townships, and, by the amendment, the company will take the land in blocks, with areas about the size of three townships, and the Government will have to undertake the work of outlining them. This will cost about $24,000, whereas the cost of surveys would have amounted to three times as much.

Another bill is an amendment to the Free Grants and Homesteads Act. By the act of 1868, it was provided that settlers located in free grant townships previous to 1872, who had paid for a part of the land, should be exempted from payment for the balance. The new bill removes the date 1872, and extends the exemption to settlers located at any time.

Mr. McNaught's bill amending the act respecting pawnbrokers was read a first time.

Workmen's Compensation Act.

An amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Act was submitted by Mr. Crawford. The main feature is a provision that all workmen injured in the course of their employment are entitled to compensation from their employers, whether the act was caused by the negligence of the employer or a defective plant, or not. Wounded workmen are to receive 50 per cent. of their wages during the time they are disabled, and, in case of death, those dependent on them are to receive a sum, whose maximum is fixed at $1,500.

Mr. Cameron introduced a bill to amend the Municipal Act, by giving police villages the power to acquire land for a public highway.

An amendment to the Assessment Act was proposed by Mr. Torrance, giving townships the option of making an assessment every three years, instead of yearly.

Statute Labor Tax.

Mr. Bowyer submitted a bill, the purpose of which is to abolish statute labor or poll tax in cities, towns and villages. At present, it is optional, and the administration is a farce, so it is claimed.

Mr. Duff proposes by an amendment to the Registry Act, to make the law apply to towns of over 5,000, in the same manner as it now applies to cities.

Other bills read a first time were:

Mr. Pratt—To incorporate the Insurers' Mutual Life Co.

Dr. Jessop—Respecting St. Mark's Church, Niagara.

Mr. McDiarmid—Respecting the City of St. Thomas.

Dr. Jessop—To confirm bylaw 1839 of the City of St. Catharines.

Dr. Smellie—To incorporate the City of Fort William.

Mr. Monroe—To amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. McColg—To prevent the wasting of natural gas and oil.

Mr. Torrance—To confirm bylaw 409 of the County of Perth.

The Michigan Auditor.

In reply to a question by Mr. Auld, the Provincial Secretary gave to the House the sums paid to L. E. C. Thorne of Port Huron, Mich., engaged by the Government as an expert accountant. The traveling expenses total $245.80 for 1905, and $48.65 for 1906. For salary there was paid in 1905 (10 months), $2,000, and 11 3-4 months in 1906, $2,350, a total of $4,350.

To Mr. McColg, Hon. Dr. Reaume said it was the intention of the Government to withold licenses from the fishermen on the River Thames for 1907, and succeeding years. The Government has not considered compensating them for the loss in the value of fishing outfits.

Bowel Troubles

Liver pills, cathartics, mineral waters, often make Constipation worse. They merely irritate the bowels and force them to move—stop taking purgatives and the bowels become "tight" again.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the one certain cure for Constipation because their action is upon the liver, "Fruit-a-tives" are a liver tonic. They stimulate the secretions of bile by the liver, this bile causes the bowels to move in the natural, regular way and completely cures Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices with tonics and antiseptics added. In "Fruit-a-tives" one atom of bitter replaces one atom of sweet in the fruit juices, forming a new compound which is many times more active, medicinally, than the fruit juices could possibly be. 50c. a box—$2.50 for 6 boxes. PETERBORO'S WERE DEFEATED AT MIDLAND

Referee English and Midland Team Too Much for the Locals.

THE MIDLAND CROWD WAS PARTISAN

Referee English of Midland, handed a whole crate of lemons to Peterborough last night, and as a result the local seniors were defeated on Midland ice by 13 goals to 6. English simply presented the game to Midland, letting them get away with any old kind of a pass. They had a beautiful straight down-the-rink combination that was decidedly effective. Often Peterborough stopped, expecting to hear the bell ring for an off-side, but English, with a shame - to - take - the money smile, let them go. Peterborough on the other hand were called back every time they got away.

Crowley is not a favourite in Midland, and English had been notified that he was a dangerous man. He, however, made a mistake, and taking Moore for Crowley, had the Peterborough rover on the fence 7 times.

Midland played good hockey but had no license to win by any such score. The crowd was extremely partizan and called Peterborough all kinds of vile names, while the spectators in the gallery kept expectorating on Lang, the goal keeper. The Peterboroughs played a good game, but as an Orillia man who saw the game, says: "Even Kenora couldn't win a game under such conditions."

A Midland despatch says: Midland trounced Peterborough here tonight by a score of 13 to 6, the half time score being 5 to 2, in favour of the home team. The game was Midland's all the way through and even if Whitcroft had been on the visitors' forward line it is very doubtful if it would have made any difference. The checking was close but the Peterborough defence was at no time able to break up the rushes of the local players, who proved too fast for the visitors. Lang in goal did heroic work for Peterborough and but for his efforts the score would have been much larger. He was kept busy almost all the time lifting out hot shots. The teams:—

Midland — Goal, Hamlin; point, Hanley; cover point, McLennan; centre, Switzer, rover, Gould; right wing, Beatty; left wing, Hastings.

Referee, English, Midland.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES.

The City League games to-morrow night will be about the hardest fought contests of the season, as all four teams are determined to win. The Strathconas must pull out a victory in order to have a chance against Charlotte Street, while the Auburns mean to win the game, if at all possible. Lakefield and the High Lifes meet in the second game.

BACHELORS WILL PLAY HOCKEY

A Great Contest Promised for Thursday Night, When Toronto and Peterborough B. A. C. Teams Meet.

Word has been received from Toronto to the effect that the Queen City branch of the B.A.C. will be down in full strength for the game with the local branch to-morrow night. Sam Moore and Norman Jolliffe have been, is stated, out to practice with the professional team and are represented to be in excellent condition for the struggle, which promises to be one of the most keenly fought of the whole season. Dr. Middleton, the president of the Peterborough B.A.C. has been prevailed upon to referee, so that a square deal is assured the local players, who would otherwise in all probability suffer considerably from the well known Ottawa-like tactics of some of the players on the Toronto aggregation. The teams will line up as follows:—

Peterborough.	Toronto.
	Goal.
Huston	Bagshaw
	Point.
Hutchinson	Moore
	Cover point.
Wood	R Best
	Rover.
E Best	Van der Water
	Centre.
Robertson	Jolliffe
	Left Wing.
Hetherington	Merrill
	Right Wing.
Richardson	Dobbin
	Goal Umpire.
W Wa[illegible]	Sisson
	Time-keepers
Gordon	S Warne

Referee—Dr. Middleton.
Penalty Time-keeper—Turner.
The game will be played immediately after the city league games.

CUP FOR THE EAST THIS YEAR

Galt Reporter Thinks Peterborough or Kingston Will be Resting Place of Cup Representing Senior O. H. A. Championship.

The Galt Reporter says: It looks pretty much as if the John Ross Robertsonware would make an Eastern trip this year. And its final resting place will not be in Toronto either. It will be either in Peterborough or Kingston. The Western clubs are not showing the class this season. Berlin is greatly weakened with its two best men out of the game, and Stratford is showing none too well. The St. Georges of Toronto are not up to much in the way of a hockey team to win the championship, and would not have been one, two three with Berlin's team last year. And it is a cinch that it will take just as good a team to win out this year as it did last, and the chances are that it will take a better. If Berlin plays as good a game against the St. Georges as they did last Tuesday against Galt they should easily defeat the Saints right in Toronto.

A TIE GAME WAS PLAYED AT KEENE

Score in Game Between Keene and Norwood Was 6-6—A Rough Contest.

Examiner Special.

Keene, Feb. 12. — Keene and Norwood played a game of hockey in the Keene rink on Tuesday night, resulting in a tie, 6—6. The ice was in first class condition, and the game, especially in the second ahlf, was fast. The attendance was smaller than usual. Mr. McClary, Norwood, and Mr. J. R. McIntyre, Keene, acted as referees, each acting half time. The game was a little rougher than was necessary and a number of players did time for offences.

The following was the line-up:
Norwood. — Goal, Smith; p, Hyke, c.p., Cummings; r., Doherty; c., Henderson; r.w., Robertson; l.w., Morrow.
Keene. W Goal, Dean; p., Weir; c. p., Spiers; r., Dickson; c., McIntyre; r.w., McCarthy; l.w., Quinn.

STRATHCONAS WILL PRACTICE TO-NIGHT

Arrangements have been made by which the Strathconas will practice to-night from 7 to 8. This is the regular hour for the senior team but they will not use it, and have given their hour to the Strathconas, all members of which team are requested to be on hand for a practice in preparation for the game to-morrow night.

LAST YEAR FOR MILLS OF THE QUEEN'S TEAM

R. M. (Dicky) Mills, the clever goalkeeper of Queen's University seven, will play his last game with that team on Friday next, when the final match of the Intercollegiate Union is scheduled between McGill and Queen's. Mills is one of the most popular players that ever wore a Queen's uniform, and has been a member of the team for eight years, six of which have been spent in the nets. Mills graduates this year.

HOCKEY

NO SENIOR GAME FRIDAY.

There will be no senior O.H.A. game here on Friday night as per schedule. Manager Lynch, of the locals, was in telephone communication with Birmingham, the Dukes' captain, this morning, and was informed that four of the Marlboros were ill and that it would be impossible for them to send a team here this week. The match will probably be played next week.

• • • •

The Toronto News says:—Burke, a new point player, has promised to turn out with Marlboros, and will probably play at Peterborough.

• • • •

Peterborough's defeat in Midland last night sends the locals down to second place, with Kingston in the van. The standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	To Play
Kingston	4	1	3
Peterborough	5	2	1
Midland	4	2	2
Argonauts	2	5	1
Marlboros	1	6	1

Kingston play the Argonauts in Toronto to-night, and Midland in the same place on February 18. If the Soldiers win both games they will win the district. If, on the other hand, they lose to Argonauts and then beat Midland they will be tied with Peterborough for the district. Then again, if the 14th win from Argonauts and lose to Midland, the latter will be tied with the locals. It will thus be seen that a great deal depends upon the game to-night. Here's hoping that the Argonauts pass the fruit basket to Kingston.

TWO YOUNG MEN APPEARED AT COURT

On Drunk Charge—Fined Two Dollars Each and Were Allowed to Go.

Four dollars in as many minutes is making money some, but it is only at the police court that such things happen. ANNUAL CARNIVAL WAS A GRAND SUCCESS

The Beautiful Costumes and Decorations Made Rink a Fairyland.

NAMES OF THOSE WHO WON PRIZES

The annual carnival of Court Peterborough Canadian Order of Foresters was held last night at the Brock street rink, and despite counter attractions, was once more the mammoth success that has made this event one of the most enjoyable of the winter season. The attendance both of spectators and skaters was as large, if not larger, than in former years, and the costumes in variety and richness surpassed any ever displayed here in an event of this kind.

The scene was a striking one when the carnival was at its height. Knights of the golden age of chivalry skated with fair daughters of Japan; clowns and coloured gentlemen, farmers and cavaliers, washerwomen and grandes dames glided around on the steel runners, while above waved the bright flags and bunting which formed part of the decorations. The ice was in splendid condition, as a result of the efforts of Mr. John Thirnbeck, and delightful music was rendered by the T. A. S. Band under the leadership of Mr. Finch Miller, making the occasion one long to be remembered by the young people present.

The costumes were so numerous and beautiful that the judges had great difficulty in making their selections. Those who acted as judges were Mr. and Mrs. Browning and Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hay, and the awards were made as follows:

Fancy Costumes

Best Dressed Lady — Miss Logan, Oriental Princess; 2, Mrs. Gibbs, Fortune Teller.

Best Dressed Gentleman — E. A. Packert, War Eagle; 2, W. Mollis, Charles I.

Best Dressed Girl—Agnes Horsfield, Blue Bells of Scotland; 2, Hazel Craig, Western Girl.

Best Dressed Boy—Harry Thornton, Prince Arthur; 2, Willie Johnston, Page.

Comic Costumes

Best Dressed Lady—Miss W. Logan, "Just Arrived."

Best Dressed Gentleman — Harry O'Brien, "Jasper Johnston."

Best Dressed Girl—Gertie McCabe, Gipsy.

Best Dressed Boy—Orville Hooper, Punch.

An interesting feature of the programme was a mile race for amateur skaters, which brought out a field of seven. B. Dusty won the event in somewhat easy fashion, with A. Allen second. Geo. McDonald, one of the contestants, was well up in the race, but fell on a turn and lost his chance. The time made was 2.45. Mr. Sam Ray acted as starter, and Mr. Alex Gibson as timer.

Following is a list of those in costume:

MR. J. DUNFORD APPEARED BEFORE THE MAGISTRATE

Two of His Children are Now in Charge of the Children's Aid Society.

At three o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. J. Dunford and wife appeared before Magistrate Dumble regarding the care of their children. It seems that on Saturday night the children were placed in charge of the Children's Aid Society. At the court in the afternoon evidence was heard from P. C. Newhall, Mr. F. W. Miller, the relief agent, and Mr. Cochrane.

These witnesses stated that they considered that the moral surroundings of the children were not the best. The case was enlarged until Thursday afternoon.

Health Insurance for Women.

"Woman's work is never done." There is always something to do—running up and down stairs, lifting, bending, straining—no wonder the Kidneys become affected. That is why so many women suffer with headaches, lame back, dragging pains through the hips, nervousness, weak spells. When the Kidneys are weakened or strained, the delicate female organs are disturbed and inflamed, bringing on a train of female complaints.

Bu-Ju

The Gentle Kidney Pill

Insures health to women who work. Bu-Ju keeps the Kidneys strong and healthy, purifies the blood supply, and acts as a gentle, strengthening tonic on the delicate female organs.

BLAKE, ONT.

"I was not able to do my own work in the house, and was barely able to dress myself. My fingers and hands were all swollen up with pain. I think there is nothing like Bu-Ju. Am able to do my own work now with comfort, which I was not able to do before taking Bu-Ju.

Y.M.C.A. ATHLETICS DISCUSSED IN TORONTO

Annual Y. M. C. A. Convention Attended by Number From Local Association—Opened Yesterday.

153,000 IN THE DIFFERENT GAMES

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Feb. 13.—At the opening session of the Young Men's Christian Association held to-day, the Peterborough Association was well represented, Mrs. E. F. Mason and Miss N. Davidson being present from the Ladies' Auxiliary, and Messrs. G. M. Roger, F. W. Simpson and E. Dingman from the Association. The meeting was held in the Friends' Church, Carlton street, and was presided over by Dr. George J. Fisher, New York, of the International Committee. In his opening address, the chairman referred to the rapid growth of the Association and paid particular attention in his address to the work in the physical department.

"There were one hundred and fifty-three thousand participants in Y.M.C.A. games in America last year," said Dr. Fisher, "and this is an increase of twenty thousand over the year previous."

Orient Wants Instructors

He said that the world-wide reputation of the Y.M.C.A. has become so great that applications for physical instructors had been received this year from China, Japan, and two from Australia.

"Canada," said Dr. Fisher, "will double her membership in three years at the rate of her present progress."

In touching the subject of physical development, he said that the Association could truly boast of having a scientific philosophy of physical training in which they were expert, and that this branch was now recognized as a necessary adjunct to the Christian work of the Association. In Dr. Fisher's opinion, man depends a great deal upon the physical man, and quotes from statistics that our criminal and loafing classes to-day are physical wrecks, either from dissipation or inactivity.

Individual Needs

He believes in looking to the individual needs of the members, and strongly advised thorough medical examinations as part of the conditions of membership, so that no man or boy would do exercises that would injure him.

Dr. Fisher, discussing long distance running, said that it was inadvisable for growing boys whose hearts were undeveloped, and said they should not be allowed to take part in such sports. He is a believer in exercise for general health, and disapproves weight-lifting and such exercise, and strongly condemns the German method of physical culture.

Right Habits of Living

Dr. Charles J. Copp, of Toronto, read a paper entitled "Right Habits of Living," in which he pointed out the needs of a movement among young men of fighting such diseases as are common in our climate, and of imparting a general knowledge of hygienic living.

DIFFICULTIES OF EAST CITY RESIDENTS SETTLED

The charges involving Mr. Robert Cox and Mrs. Westlake were mutually withdrawn this afternoon, hence no Police Court case resulted. Mr. R. F. McWilliams represented Mr. Cox, and Mr. Gordon acted for Mrs. Westlake. Being a family affair, Mr. Dumble advised both parties to discontinue the case, and this was done.

COATES FACTORY HERE BEYOND ALL DOUBTS

Deputation to Interview Mr. Dunwoodie Yesterday Brings Back the Welcome News—No Suggestions of Locating Elsewhere.

DIFFERENCES SMOOTHED OVER

The persistent rumours floating about for some time that the Coates Carpet Manufacturing Company would locate in Toronto, have been emphatically contradicted and there is now no doubt whatever that the big Carpet Works will be situated in Peterborough. This favourable information was gleaned from the deputation which was in Toronto yesterday where Mr. Dunwoodie, the Canadian representative of the Company, was interviewed at length.

The few difficulties which stood between the city and the company were smoothed and with the exception of one or two small matters the two parties were able to come to an agreement satisfactory to both.

The deputation to wait upon Mr. Dunwoodie and the Canadian legal agent of the company yesterday, consisted of the Mayor, City Solicitor, E. H. D. Hall, Ald. Morrow, Chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, and Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman of the Water Commissioners.

Although all the details of the agreement are not yet to be presented to the public it is assured beyond a doubt that the Company will locate on the site selected north of the city. This announcement was made by the Mayor last night at the Board of Works Committee meeting just after he had returned from Toronto. There was nothing whatever in the interview, he said, to suggest that the company had thought of going elsewhere.

A Few Changes

There had been some slight differences between the contracting parties, which the Mayor explained, but they were able to smooth them all out so that there is practically nothing standing in the way as a preventive to location in this city.

The City Solicitor had remained in Toronto over night and he returned to-day with the agreement which, the Mayor stated, would be ready for the Council to pass next Monday night.

Water Supply Question

A few slight differences exist between the Water Commissioners and the Company but it is quite probable that these will be straightened out withing a few days. Mr. Dunwoodie and his solicitor were quite agreeable to the commissioners' proposals with regard to water supply, which will be granted upon the same terms as to other manufacturers.

Building Operations

It is understood that the building operations will be begun in the spring and the company expect to have them completed by June 1st, 1908. The factory will be an extensive one and will add materially to Peterborough's standing as a manufacturing centre.

Former Bell-Boy Owns A $7,000 Western Farm

A Peterborough Boy Who Left Here to Go to the West Eight Years Ago Comes Back Rich—He Tells of His Progress in Manitoba—Landed There With $2.85.

From the position of "bell-hop" in a local hotel at $12 a month to the owner of a farm worth $7,000, and with money in the bank, in less than ten years, is a record of which the holder need not be ashamed. There is visiting in the city at the present time a young man to whom the condition described above applies. About eight years ago he was living in Peterborough and his work consisted of carrying hot water and other things to the guests of one of the local hotels. His wages amounted to $12 per month, but, of course, the hot water trips netted him something in addition, and he pulled out of his job about fifty or sixty dollars a month. This was not so bad for a youngster at that time, but he was ambitious, and one night told the proprietor of the hotel that he was going to leave him and try his fortune in the West, and that he was then giving him ten days' notice. The proprietor told him that he was a fool, and that if he was really determined to go he could leave then—and he did.

Landing in Winnipeg with just $2.85 in his pocket, he set out to make his fortune. He worked hard and saved his money—did not drink, and eventually got married.

He settled on some land in Trochern after he had been in the West a few years, and now has a farm all under cultivation, stocked, and raises several thousand bushels of wheat every year.

The young man is spending this winter in Ontario. His father lives in Peterborough, and his son, with his wife and little girl—a girl of the prairie—is visiting here. They have been in the city since before Christmas, the care of the farm during the winter having been left to the hired man who, in writing to his employer, reports that he is still able to go over the snow, but that if any more falls it will be a case of tunnelling his way to the barn.

Trochern is a village of about 650 population, with modern improvements, granolithic walks and new schools. The young man referred to says that while he likes Peterborough, half the city as a gift would not induce him to stay here now that he has lived in the West.

He will return in a few weeks and prepare for what he hopes will be another record crop.

BULLETS CONCEALED IN THE BOAT HOUSE

Young Man Was Seen to Dodge Them as They Exploded One by One.

Later reports of the disastrous fire which destroyed eight boat-houses at the river on Tuesday night tell of an amusing incident which occurred as the last was being enveloped in the flames. It is stated that a young man who arrived on the scene while the fire was in progress, secured an axe with which to break open the doors in order to save some of the contents.

He did not count, however, on the boat-house being a military fort, and he was immediately forced to suspend operations when a bullet was discharged from within. Several others followed, and the young man was seen, by the light of the flames, to dodge here and there to escape the deadly missiles. He ran up the street car track to get beyond reach of the concealed danger, but returned again when the firing subsided.

Some shotgun shells had been left in the boat-house by the owner, and as soon as the flames reached them the firing commenced.

INVESTIGATE CLAIMS FOR DAMAGES

W. R. Aylesworth Joins Staff of Superintendent of the Trent Canal and Will Make Headquarters Here.

Mr. W. R. Aylesworth has been appointed by the Dominion Government to inquire into the claims for damages made against the Government for drowned lands along the line of the Trent Canal, and has joined the staff of the superintendent's office. Mr. Aylesworth will make his headquarters here, but his duties will take him over the entire route of the canal.

A JOLLY PARTY AT YOUNG'S POINT

A party of twenty young ladies and gentlemen, drove out to Young's Point, and enjoyed supper at the Lakeview House. After partaking of the good things provided by the Lakeview, the party then spent a few hours in music, singing and dancing, after which they returned at an early hour in the morning, much pleased with the evening's outing.

TRENT CANAL READY FOR NAVIGATION OPENING

New Lock Gates at Burleigh Will be Completed in a Few Days Ready For Opening.

WORK ON BALSAM LAKE STARTED

When the season of navigation on the Trent Canal opens this spring a number of improvements will have been effected on the system, particularly on the upper sections. During the winter a staff of men has been at work on the Balsam Lake and Kirkfield district, removing all the stumps from the section flooded by the necessary raising of the water. During the last few months the water has been lowered to permit of the work being carried out, and when the water is let in again in the spring, instead of the stumps projecting above the water, there will be a clear lake of water.

The new gates on the lock at Burleigh will be completed in a few days, and these locks will be ready for operation when navigation opens.

RESUMING WORK IN DREDGING RIVER

Blasting Operations Now Being Carried on Above Hunter Street Bridge—Turning Basin to be Made.

MOVING DREDGE UP THE RIVER.

The Department of Public Works is resuming operations in connection with dredging on the Otonabee River at Peterborough. At the present time the staff, under Mr. William Quinn, is at work drilling and blasting the rock which forms the bed of the river, above the Hunter street bridge. This work is being done now because it can be carried out much easier during the winter, with the water in the river at normal height, than in the spring when the floods are on.

It is the intention, it is stated, to resume dredging as soon as possible, and at the present time the dredge is being taken up the river, a channel being cut through the ice for this purpose.

The river above the bridge will be deepened and the channel also deepened, the intention being to make a turning basin above the bridge near the works of the Quaker Oats Co.

Y. M. C. A. DEBATES ON LABOUR UNIONS

Interesting Meeting of the Debating Club of the Y. M. C. A. Held Last Night.

The Y.M.C.A. Literary and Debating Club, met last night in the parlour, President W. G. Shiner, occupying the chair.

After the roll had been called and responded to by a quotation from the members, the president gave a reading from "A Glance Behind the Curtain," from J. R. Lowell.

The debate for the evening was, "Resolved, that Labour Unions are beneficial to the General Public." The affirmative was taken by Messrs Howarth and N. Greenhalgh; the negative by Messrs. F. Roy and W. Barrowman.

The speeches were very clear and effective and brought out many good points, victory resting ultimately, by the decision of the judges with the affirmative, by 5 points to 2 points. The judges were Messrs. McLaren, Taylor and Armstrong.

There was a general discussion after the debate, and finally a criticism by Mr. Hodgson, B.A., was given and taken in an excellent manner.

The club adjourned until Feb. 27, when an address will be given on "The Extension of Municipal Control. All who are interested in subject are invited to come and join in the discussion.

HOME LIFE ASSOCIATION

In sympathy with the general prosperity of the company, the figures submitted to the annual general meeting of the Home Life Association, exhibited satisfactory advances. The summary published in another column, shows the assets representing the security to policy holders, is now standing at $1,571,323. The reserves total $651,796, and the surplus on policyholders' account stands at $136,506.96. The cash premium income improved by 19 per cent., over 1905, while the interest income increased by 25 3-4 per cent. These improvements certify to the efficiency of the management, and were aided by a decrease in the working expenses, and an exceptionally favourable mortality. These favourable returns are an assurance that the future of the Home Life Association is in safe hands.—Toronto World.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Galt School Board has decided to engage an extra teacher whose duty it shall be to give individual instruction to backward pupils. The plan is to use a small room at present available to which all pupils needing special instructions may be sent at stated hours. The duty of the extra teacher will be to take up with the pupils so sent the various subjects in which they are deficient.

"How's Your Stomach"

is the way people in China say "Good Morning." The greeting of almost every nation is an inquiry after health. The Chinese have the root of the matter. A strong stomach is the foundation. New Congregation Holds First Annual Meeting

Knox Presbyterian Church Meeting Held Last Night—Reports of Different Departments of the Church Were Presented —A Successful Year's Work Represented.

The first annual congregational meeting of Knox church, was held last night. A large number of members and adherents were present. Mr. W. Madill of St. Paul's, acted as chairman. Reports of the different organizations of the church were read, and all showed its affairs to be in a very satisfactory condition, both financially and otherwise.

Report of Session

The report of the session was read by Mr. J. F. Morrison, and is as follows:—

The membership of the congregation at the end of the year 1905 was 61, and during 1906 there have been added to the communion roll by certificate, 15; and on profession of faith, 12; making a total of 88. There was one removal, leaving 87 as the membership of the church at the close of 1906.

The average attendance at the Wednesday evening service has been between 25 and 30. The good attendance is no doubt due to the fact that Mr. Bright, the assistant minister, gave very helpful talks at these meetings.

During the year in pursuance of a resolution of the office bearers of St. Paul's, with the concurrence of the office bearers of Knox, it was decided to apply to the Presbytery for the ordination of Rev. A. Bright, so that so long as he was assistant minister of St. Paul's he should be ordained missionary of Knox congregation. The matter came before the Presbytery on several occasions, and that body decided in lieu of granting the request of the office bearers, to ask the Session of St. Paul's and Knox to confer with regard to the separation of Knox from St. Paul's, so that they might have their own minister entirely independent of St. Paul's. In pursuance of this request of the Presbytery a meeting of the congregation of Knox church was held on the 25th of October last, and it was unanimously decided to comply with the suggestion of the Presbytery, if the finances necessary for the self-supporting of Knox would be forthcoming. The office bearers having subsequently satisfied themselves that they were justified in proceeding with the separation from St. Paul's, the matter was amicably arranged between the two sessions, and the separation too effect on January 1st, 1907.

At a meeting of the congregation, subsequently called, pursuant to notice from the pulpit, it was decided to give Mr. Bright, the assistant minister of St. Paul's Church, a call to the pastorate of Knox Church, but the call was subsequently declined by Mr. Bright, and the congregation decided to hear candidates for the pastorate in the ordinary way. The congregation is strengthening all the time, and the Session sincerely hoped that as soon as a pastor is settled over the congregation, great strides will be made both in numbers and increase of spiritual life in the present membership.

Finance Committee

The financial report was read by Mr. J. W. Buyers. The number of contributions were 60.

The sum of $386.54 had been contributed by envelope, and $167.70 by an open collection, making a total of $554.24, an increase of $55 over last year. Ten dollars a Sunday was required last year for current expenses, whereas $25 a Sunday was required this year. The Board of Managers are thankful for the donation of $5,000 from the Nicholls Estate, which will be placed to some permanent good of the church. The report was adopted.

The constitution of the Board of Managers was next read and adopted.

Board of Managers

The election of the Board of Managers next took place and resulted in the following being appointed:—Messrs. G. H. Savigny, D. Campbell, J. W. Buyers, Robert Mulligan, D. Hamilton and W. Gailey.

Ladies' Aid Society

The report of the Ladies' Aid Society was read by Mrs. Morrison. They have a membership of 22, with an average attendance of 11. During the past year the Ladies' Aid purchased a communion table and linen.

Women's Home Missionary Society

The report of this society was read by Mrs. Allen. Good work has been done by this society for the cause of missions. They have held meetings once a month for 11 months of the year.

The collection at the Thanksgiving service, held in October, was $78.77. The total contributions for the year were $140.77. There are 54 subscribers to the "Pioneer."

Sunday School

The report of the Sunday School was read by Miss Menzies. The Sunday school is steadily growing. The number on roll at the end of 1905 was 102, with an average attendance of 55. At the end of 1906 the number on roll was 142, with an average of 77, an increase of 40 per cent.

Other Business

Since Knox church has become separate from St. Paul's it is necessary to have a representative on the Nicholls Hospital Board and the Charity Board. Mr. J. W. Bennet was appointed to the Nicholls Hospital Board and Mr. Wm. Watt to the Charity Board.

Messrs Carr and Buchanan were appointed auditors for the coming year.

It was decided to hold a meeting on Wednesday, March 6th, to moderate in a call to a pastor.

Votes of thanks were passed to the superintendent and officers of the Sunday School, and also to the choir for the kind and efficient service given.

After the business of the evening a social time was spent by the congregation and refreshments served.

Significance Of St. Valentine

To-day is St. Valentine's Day, and the quaint old Scottish custom, so dear to the hearts of lovers and children, will again be celebrated by the sending of dainty missives, and loving messages to friends and dear ones.

Many who follow this pretty custom do not know of its origin, and for their benefit the following is recounted:—

Long ago, in Scotland, there lived a good old priest by the name of Valentine. He was greatly esteemed by the children for his loving and kindly ways, and particularly for the messages of love he sent to the sick and sorrowing. These letters became prized very dearly, and when the good old man died the custom was kept up and the notes and tokens were called Valentines.

Lovers, later, adopted this pretty custom, and now it is customary to send these tokens on February 14th.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE BY QUEEN'S STUDENTS

Will Tell of the Missionary Work in the West at St. Paul's To-morrow Night

There will be a missionary meeting in St. Paul's Sunday schoolroom to-morrow night which promises to be of a very interesting character. The Sunday School have invited two students from Queen's University, who have spent considerable time in missionary work in the West and in New Ontario, and these young men will tell of the work being done there. The lecture will be illustrated by limelight views and will begin at 8 o'clock.

WEAK HEART SYSTEM WAS RUN DOWN

When the heart is healthy and performing its functions naturally, it should beat regularly seventy-two times a minute without causing its owner the slightest inconvenience or distress.

When it begins to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beat fast for a time, then so slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

The least excitement or exertion seems to affect it.

Many people are kept in a state of morbid fear of death, become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social or business duties, through unnatural action of their heart.

To all such sufferers MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

can give prompt and permanent relief. Mrs. F. Fletcher, Sault Ste. Marie, West, Ont., says: "I have been troubled for four or five years with weakness, and run down system. My feet were always cold and I felt almost dead. My heart was weak and I was so nervous I could hardly walk across the street. I started taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using three boxes I felt much better. I continued their use until I had taken twelve boxes and I am now well."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Do Away With Food Adulteration

The People Have a Right to Know What They Are Eating.

Too great attention cannot be given to the food we eat. The health of our families depends on this food. Are we to submit to the atrocities of the food adulterators? No. We must have laws to protect us and those laws must be enforced.

It is of interest to note that there is at least one article of food about which we can know everything. This is Malta-Vita, popularly called "The Perfect Food," the pure, all-grain product, in which every element of food necessary to the proper nutrition of the human body is found.

In the manufacture of Malta-Vita the whole of the wheat is thoroughly cleaned, cooked in the purity of absolute cleanliness and then mixed with the finest malt extract, made from specially selected barley. The cooking and steaming of the wheat gelatinizes the starch, and the malt extract, a powerful digestive agent, converts this starch into Maltose, or malt sugar, in which Malta-Vita is very rich. Maltose is of great food value, sweetens the wheat sufficiently to make unnecessary the use of any foreign sweetening agent and the weakest stomach digests and assimilates it without effort. Rolled into wafer-like flakes and baked under intense heat, Malta-Vita comes from the ovens crisp and brown, positively the most delicious food in the world. All grocers. 10 cents.

PRESIDENT OF THE LABOUR COUNCIL RESIGNS

Mr. C. P. Murty, for Years Connected With Organizations, Has Retired.

MR. ALEXANDER SUCCEEDS HIM.

Mr. C. P. Murty, president of the Trades and Labour Council, much to the regret of the members, resigned from his position at the annual meeting of the organization last night.

Mr. Murty has been connected with the Council ever since its inception and has devoted much of his time to advance the cause of labour men, and his efforts have been greatly appreciated by them.

There was a large attendance at the meeting, which was held in the Labour Hall, and great enthusiasm was displayed. Mr. Murty's resignation came as a surprise to the members, who were reluctant to receive it. The retiring president, however, stated that he thought that he had held the position long enough and that someone else should have an opportunity of being president.

Mr. John Alexander of the Carpenters' Union was elected to succeed Mr. Murty. He is an active worker, most popular with the members and should make a decidedly useful president.

The election of the remaining officers, was left over until the next meeting which will be held on the second Wednesday in March.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—The question has been asked often before where the License Inspector's office is, and nobody seems to be able to answer it. I also would like to have the same information if there is any possibility in obtaining it. I was in Lakefield not long ago and had every reason to believe that local option was not being enforced. I was in conversation with a number of men and women whose friends and husbands were obtaining liquor regularly but on being asked where the License Inspector's office was, I was unable to tell them.

Upon further inquiry I have found that the new Inspector has not obtained a single conviction against any one since he entered on his duties on July 1st, last. Is everything running on as smoothly as this would indicate? There is no doubt that there are infractions of the law every week, yet the public are always kept in the dark.

Yours truly,
Law Observer.

Lenten Address

Rev. Herb. Ben. Olel, of Millbrook, occupied the pulpit in St. John's Church last night, and delivered a strong Lenten address to the large congregation which was present for the occasion.

REV. W. L. ARMITAGE THE LENTEN SPEAKER

At St. Luke's Church Last Night—Large Congregation Greeted Former Peterborough Divine.

THE OPENING LENTEN ADDRESS.

A large congregation was present last night at the first Lenten service, at which Rev. W. L. Armitage, of Picton, was the special preacher. It must have been very gratifying to the reverend gentleman to see such a large contingent of his former parishioners of All Saints, who had come to hear their former rector. In the absence of the organist, Miss Phillips presided at the organ. The rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, read the prayers and Rev. W. L. Armitage preached from Psalm 8, 4—"What is man?"

This question had been asked for ages before the Psalmist ever uttered it, and during the ages since his time. The answer has been sought in psychology, physiology, sociology, anthropology, etc., yet none of these have expressed the full measure of the man. Science and theology unite in expressing the great possibilities to which man can come. In searching for the answer we must go back to the beginning of things, but even here the answer is not in greatness or vastness, as the Psalmist saw in the heavens which God has created, nor in force or strength as portrayed in nature's powers, nor in beauty in which the rest of nature far excels him. The answer is, "Man is the image of God."

Mr. Armitage then described the powers of the body and mind of man, and the possibilities which might be developed by the talents and forces of man, the height of attainment in the world of science, literature and art, as contrasted with the insensate and instinctive status of the brute creation. The glory of man is the image portrayed in the spiritual by which he communes with God Himself and imitates His attributes. The speaker then dwelt on "man, as we see him," and even in his degradation and fall, man is wonderful. God saw His image in man, and came in the Person of Christ to redeem man to himself. In Christ we also see the image of the Father. His life we are to imitate and live again, and inasmuch as Christ is seen in our actions, words and conduct, we exhibit the image of God, in which we are created.

The next Lenten service will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Wm. Burns, of Hastings, being the special preacher.

Debating Club

The next meeting of the new Debating Club of St. Peter's T. A. S. will be held two weeks from next Tuesday night. It is essential that all those interested should attend. The subject of the debate will be, "Resolved, that capital punishment should be abolished." Mr. James Hickey and Mr. A. Sharpe, and Mr. Andrew Foley and Mr. Faux will be the contestants. All the members are requested to give the subject some consideration so that general comments may be made after the debate proper.

Just one girl. The one he was looking for. The new moving picture programme includes among others the story of the young man of 23 who did marry when he found his affinity, and did it quick. He saw her on the platform waiting the arrival of the train for Buffalo. He introduced himself, proposed, was accepted, found a clergyman on the train, was married and they spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and lived happily ever after. Special gentlemen way also be made of the "Mysterious Dream." Johnny Rich left his club and found himself floating high in the clouds over New York City. You should see it for yourselves. It was real to him, but was it possible? And again another picture of the poor orphan boy who coveted his neighbour's apples. If you want a comfortable seat to spend a pleasant half hour and see the possibilities of modern invention, come. Beautiful illustrated songs. Don't miss them.

MR. COUGHLIN WILL GET BACK THE EIGHT DOLLARS

The Gilmour Street Sewer Question was Entirely Settled by Board of Works Last Night.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT NOT CORRECT

A new light was thrown upon the Gilmour street sewer question by the presence of Mr. M. Coughlin at the Board of Works meeting last night. Mr. Thompson, plumbing inspector was there also and after the two men were heard, the committee readily agreed that Mr. Coughlin's contention for the recovery of the $8.00 expended was a sound one and ignored the report of the inspector upon which they previously had based their decision. The Board was of the opinion that the Inspector had not properly looked after his work as, from Mr. Coughlin's statements, he had not attended to the congested sewer until three days after he had been notified.

Mr. Coughlin's Statement.

Mr. Coughlin was first heard by the Board and stated that the first he knew of any trouble was when he discovered water in his cellar which used to disappear at night. It gradually became worse. The plumber was called in by him and he reported that the trouble was outside the cellar, and the matter was then reported to the Plumbing Inspector. Mr. Thompson called to see it but did not know, he said, exactly where the trouble was, but thought it must be inside the house. It was three days, he said, before Mr. Thompson had taken steps to relieve the annoyance. The second day he came he argued with the man who was digging the drain, to rectify the trouble. On the third day he evidently was back again as the sewer was relieved when he returned home.

The Inspector's Story

Mr. Thompson stated he happened to see the man digging the drain as he was coming from another job.

He had inquired from other houses and found that there was no trouble and considered it strange that the sewer could be blocked. He and the workman on the second visit pulled up the man hole and found where the trouble was, after which the City Engineer was notified and the sewer was flushed.

Ald. McIntrye stated that when the question was up before the Board before he had gone by the Inspector's report which gave the impression the matter was looked into immediately by him. Both Ald. McIntyre and Johnston wanted to know why such a report was made.

Ald. Wilson said there was a misunderstanding as to who should look look after the work and under the circumstances he believed Mr. Coughlin should obtain the expenses he was put to. He moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that he get back the $8.00. This was carried unanimously.

A. R. JACKSON BUYS OUT THE BUSINESS

And Will Conduct Carpet Cleaning Works in the City, Opening March 1st.

Mr. W. F. Babcock, of the firm of W. F. Babcock and Son, the company which arranged to open the carpet cleaning works in this city, was here yesterday and informed The Examiner that his firm had sold its business to Mr. A. R. Jackson, who would carry on the operations which they had planned. Mr. Jackson's premises are at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets, and it is in this building, instead of in the Kinnear building, as formerly announced, that the carpet cleaning business will be carried on. Mr. Jackson is familiar with this line of work, and will have associated with him another thoroughly competent man. Mr. Babcock will be in the city again in the course of a few days and will superintend the installation of the machinery. The works will be ready to commence operations about the first of March, it is expected, a quantity of the machinery having already arrived.

MOST MARVELLOUS EXHIBITION OF SKATING

Four Crack Professional Skaters Delighted a Small Crowd Last Night.

The best exhibition of skating ever seen in Peterborough was that given at the Brock street rink last night by the four crack professional skaters, Messrs. J. K. McCulloch, and G. Bellefuille, of Winnipeg; Peter Sinnirud, of New York, and Norval Baptie, of North Dakota. Only a small number was present, but those who were there certainly received the worth of their money. The four proved themselves most versatile performers on the ice, and their marvellous feats were warmly applauded. The programme consisted not only of fancy skating of all varieties, but also barrel jumping and speed contests. The four men are considered the fastest professional skaters in the world, and although they did not let themselves out to any extent last night, the form displayed was sufficient to justify the statement.

McCulloch and Baptie both gave a marvellous exhibition of fancy skating, executing many intricate figures with the greatest ease and grace. The hardest feats were performed with an agility that showed them to be past masters of the art of figure skating. That they delighted and astonished the crowd is but expressing it mildly.

McCulloch followed with equally marvellous skating on stiff skates 26 inches digt, and on these lofty blades performed a number of difficult movements with the same faculty that characterized his work on ordinary skates.

Bellefuilee, and Sinnirud, the Norwegian skater, won unstinted applause in their wonderful barrel-jumping act, in which both men jumped over five barrels. The feat was done neatly and was a most spectacular act.

An interesting feature was a game of tag between Norval Baptie and three local youngsters. Baptie displayed all kinds of quick and astonishing movements, and although he was always close to the boys they could not touch him. His agility on the steel blades was amazing and the crowd heartily enjoyed this part of the programme.

The four cracks are, however, more noted for their speed skating, and it was with an exhibition of this that they closed the programme. At times great bursts of speed were shown. All four skaters contested the half-mile pursuit race, which was captured by McCulloch. The latter showed that he was equally as clever in backward speed skating, winning somewhat easily, with Baptie second.

The programme was a splendid one and deserved a bumper house. Those who saw the cracks perform were delighted with the entertainment and a larger audience would not doubt be present if the event were repeated. The four skaters will take part in the American championship races in Pittsburg at the end of the month.

NO REPORTED TRUANCY IN WESTWOOD

Secretary of School Section States That All the Children There Attend School.

The Examiner is in receipt of a letter from Mr. M. Breckenridge, secretary of S.S. No. 1, Asphodel, in which exception is taken to the statement published in a local evening paper to the effect that the children of Westwood were not attending school, and that their parents were not compelling them to do so. The writer explains that the reason the number of children were noticed in the post office on the day on question, was that the teacher was ill for a week and no sessions of the school were held. Mr. Breckenridge states in his letter that truancy is a thing almost unknown among the children in our school here, and that there is not a child of school age in the section not attending school.

FIRST DEBATE OF T.A.S. CLUB A SUCCESS

Resolved, "That Trusts are a Benefit to the Country in General," Was Subject of Debate.

The first meeting of the T. A. S. Debating Club was held in the hall last night and was a gratifying success for the first attempt. The subject of the debate was, "Resolved, that trusts were beneficial to the country in general." Mr. J. Begley and Mr. D. Holland contested for the affirmative and Mr. H. Theobald and Mr. J. Duffus for the negative, the latter side being awarded the decision. Rev. Dr. O'Brien acted as critic in a very satisfactory manner. He pointed out where points were lost and gained and gave helpful advice to the members of the club. He urged the men to exert themselves when called on and thus materially assist in making the society a success.

A WAYWARD SON BREAKS NEWS OF DOWNFALL

How a Peterborough Young Man Went Bad in the West—He Gives the Graphic Details.

'TWAS PJAMAS CAUSED THE TROUBLE

Yesterday the parents of a young man who until recently lived in Peterborough, but who at present lives in a city in Western Ontario, received a letter from him which threw his mother into a frenzy. The young man in question lived here for a number of years and was well known, having been a member of a prominent social club and a non-commissioned officer in the 57th Regiment. The letter which caused all the trouble read:

"Dear People,—It is with a heavy heart and sorrowful countenance that I write you this time, probably the last.

In truth, I am ruined, utterly, irrevocably, irretrievably ruined.

I never thought, when I left Peterborough at Christmas, that I would have to write a letter this way, but circumstances are such that no other alternative is left me.

I often think of the happy days that I spent with the family when I had no worries or troubles, and when my record was untarnished and unsullied. But all this is past and I am an outcast and unrecognized in any respectable society.

I am not trying to shift the blame on anyone; I am wholly responsible myself, and should have mended my ways ere it was too late.

But it is useless going on with what is to me a heart-breaking confession. I know I should have looked ahead and foreseen what would happen. However, the inevitable will happen, and in my case it came slowly, and there was plenty of time for me to draw back and mend my ways, but I was young and headstrong and heeded not my friends' advice, with the result that at present I am not fit for respectable company.

I don't know whether or not it will be of any use for me to ask you to aid me, but now that I have commenced, the whole story must be told, and I am not going to tell you half.

The cause of my downfall and my expulsion from respectable society is due to a thing of which I have been aware for months. It has been gradually creeping on, and last night saw the culmination of the disgraceful affair. What happened?

My pyjamas went to pieces, and as a result I can't go into society any more.

If you can do anything to remove the stain on my promising young life, or wish to, please send F. O. B. a new pair immediately or sooner.

Make 'em good and long in the legs.

CARLOAD OF HORSES STALLED AT IGNACE

Ald Leary Loses Valuable Animal and Whole Carload is in Danger—54 Below Zero.

THE SNOW IS EIGHT FEET DEEP

In these days of rapid transportation, a period of from January 27 to February 6 to go from Petertorough to Ignace, two divisions this side of Winnipeg, seems a long time—and it is. On the date mentioned, Ald. Leary shipped a carload of valuable horses, consigned to Vermillion Bay for the Grand Trunk Pacific construction operations. Yesterday he received word from the man in charge of the horses that on the 6th he had only reached Ignace, and that he had no idea when he would reach his destination. He had been stalled on one siding for 25 1-2 hours. The snow, they reported, was eight feet deep, and at the time of writing it was 54 degrees below zero. In the meantime one of the most valuable horses in the car had died, and there was no assurance that before the destination was reached others would not have met the same fate.

ANNUAL T. A. S. CONCERT TO BE HELD MARCH 17

A Concert Will be Given Instead of Play as Has Been the Usual Case.

St. Peter's T. A. S. will hold their annual 17th of March concert on Monday, March 18th. Such was the decision of the committee who have charge of the concert. It is composed of the following gentlemen:—Messrs. L. Bolin, J. Hanrahan, Jas. Hickey, Fred Dercher, Jas. O'Brien, E. Doherty. This year's entertainment will take the form of a concert and it is the intention of the committee to secure the very best talent and make this event as enjoyable and successful as it has always been in the past. The date, then, of the entertainment is Monday, March 18th.

MISSIONARY WILL GIVE AN ADDRESS

Former Peterboro' Boy Will Tell Story of Twelve Years' Work in South America.

Mr. M. D. Smart, an old Peterborough boy, after spending twelve years as a missionary in South America, will tell the story of his work in the "Neglected Continent" at eight o'clock to-night in the main auditorium of Bethany Tabernacle. The public generally is cordially invited.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE SLEEPING BEAUTY AND THE BEAST

New York's most phenomenal success will at last be seen on tour, playing at the Grand opera house, Tuesday, Feb. 19th, "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," and what American travellers are wont to style, a tremendous Drury Lane spectacular production, a fairy extravaganza, which delights the hearts of the young, and brings back to the parents, those days when those very tales possessed indescribable charms.

"Beauty and the Beast," is no pantomine, it is a extravaganza with a coherent plot, gorgeously set, and presented by a well-chosen company. It is not so awfully English, as it has been strictly Americanized. It is of course the oft-told fairy story, or rather two fairy stories, with which everyone is, or should be familiar. "The Sleeping Beauty," and "The Beauty and the Beast." The Drury Lane book was made by Messrs. Arthur Collins and J. H. Quod, and they have so interwoven the two fairy stories that underlying the story is the old and always interesting motive of the conflict between good and evil; the powers of good being represented by the Queen of the Fairies and her court, while the witch and her imps and demons are the powers of evil, over which the good finally triumphs.

The idea that while the "Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" is represented as the greatest spectacular achievement of the English and American stage, the story is not smothered.

Some idea of the magnitude of the extravaganza may be gathered from the statement that "Ben Hur," with all its spectacular effects, is just a romantic drama, when compared with "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast."

OBITUARY

MRS. BENJ. CLUTE

The death occurred at the Nicholls Hospital at an early hour this morning of Nancy Robson, the wife of Mr. Benj. Clute. The cause of death was heart failure. The deceased was 76 years of age and was born in Percy township, Northumberland County. She married Benj. Clute 54 years ago. Until the first of July she lived there, then moving to this city, and had lived with her son, Mr. Chas. Clute, 505 Rubidge street.

The relatives of the deceased who survive her are her children, Mrs. Ross Emlaw, Campbellford; Mr Boyd Clute, Campbellford; Mrs. Hennah, of Rochester; Mrs. Prentice, of Brindley, Mich. Three sisters and a brother are living at present in Campbellford.

The deceased was a member of the Anglican Church. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made.

HEATED ARGUMENT AT BOARD WORKS MEETING

Mr. Quinlan's Ownership of Property Disputed by Mr. Walter G. Green—Aldermen Become Interested.

COMMITTEE FAVOURABLE TO REQUEST

"You don't own, nor never did own the property!" were words emphatically spoken by Mr. W. G. Green last night, to Mr. Quinlan, at the Board of Works meeting, where the two men were present respecting the former's request to extend his present factory across Gilchrist street. This statement, and the succeeding repartee which passed between the two petitioners, was the lively feature of the Board of Works meeting, and the aldermen present looked on with interest, until the rather stormy conversation terminated.

Both men were given opportunities to place their respective positions before the Board. Mr. Quinlan had stated that he had made an offer of sale to the manufacturer, of his property, but that Mr. Green had refused to consider it.

Mr. Green acknowledged the statement of the former, but had said at the time that he did not wish to purchase the property. He further remarked that it was only yesterday that he had discovered through the registry office that Messrs. Dixon and O'Connell owned the land, and he turned to his opponent with the opening remarks.

Mr. Quinlan repudiated the truth of Mr. Green's emphatic statement, however, so that the ownership of the property still remained a mystery to the Board last night.

The Board was in favour of Mr. Green's request providing the objections were not serious enough to overrule the carrying out of the scheme.

Mr. Quinlan's Statement.

Mr. Quinlan on being asked to express his views stated that he owned the property immediately south of the railway track, and in the vicinity of Gilchrist street, upon which Mr. Green wished to build. Sometime ago he had stated to Mr. Green that so far as he was concerned he was willing to allow him 36 feet of the roadway if he were only left a right of way to his property by the remainder of the 66 feet. Negotiations were being considered with a Cobourg furniture company and a large United States shoe firm, with respect to locating upon his property, and he was opposed to Mr. Green getting the whole street, or even so much as he had first proposed. He did not know exactly whether the above mentioned companies would locate here or not, but if they did locate on his property, they would probably want a right of way on Gilchrist street.

Mr. Green Speaks

Mr. Green stated that 36 feet would be of little use to him, and that he wanted to build at once, as he was losing money every day on account of small accommodation. If the street were to be opened within a reasonable length of time he did not want it, he said. He did not wish to do any person any harm, but he did not think that the street would be opened soon; he considered that his cause was a worthy one, and that he should be given the use of the land. He had been made an offer to purchase the property from Mr. Quinlan, but he did not want it at any price, he said. He had only found out to-day that Mr. Quinlan did not own the property, according to the registry office but that it belonged to Mr. Dixon and Mr. O'Connell.

A Flat Denial

Mr. Quinlan emphatically stated that he did own the property, and that the deeds were in one of the lawyers' offices. If the deeds are not registered it is merely a neglect, he said.

Registry Office Visited

At one time, Mr. Green stated, he was offered the property referred to as belonging to Mr. Quinlan for $300, and he had refused it. At three o'clock to-day the registry office showed that the property did not belong to Mr. Quinlan and never did. The two gentlemen then left and the question was further discussed.

The city solicitor had written the Board of the procedure that would have to be gone through, before the street could be closed. It was necessary, he had written, to prepare a bylaw and publish notices to the effect that the street would be closed and appoint a time to give any one who wished an opportunity to oppose the scheme.

Ald. Wilson and Johnston were favourably disposed to the scheme of such a progressive man as Mr. Green. The latter made a motion that steps should be taken to go on with the advertising as directed by the city solicitor. This was seconded by Ald. Wilson, and carried.

AN OLD SAYING

Showing How Cause and Effect Are Never Far Removed

It is an old saying, "Where there is honey there is bees" — not less true is one which science has coined more recently, "Where there is dandruff there are germs," — and to push the inference still further, we may truly say, "Where there is dandruff cured, Newbro's Herpicide has been at work."

The reason of Herpicide's isolation as a genuine cure for dandruff lies in the fact that it attacks and destroys the root of the whole trouble—a parasitic germ which feeds upon the material which nourishes the hair follicle.

Other so called remedies are not directed at the true cause of the disease.

GIGANTIC SALE EXTENDED

Our store has been away too small to accommodate the thousands of Peterborough and out-of-town shoppers, who have attended our gigantic sale of the past ten days; at times we simply couldn't handle the crowds, in fact we frequently had to close our doors altogether, and to show our customers just how we feel in the matter, we have decided to extend our gigantic sale for ten days more; just to give everyone a fair chance and to offer bargains such as no woman ever dreamed of in the wildest moments of her most economical desires. Thousands of dollars worth of merchandise to be slaughtered. Patrick T. Murphy, the noted bargain giver, has the management of this extension, and he has given the prices another terrific battle and this time has succeeded in plunging the knife in clear to the hilt. We have gained our customers' confidence for doing as we say. Is it any wonder that our store is too small to hold the crowds? B. Y. Moyes, 408 George street.

FLUSH TANKS NEEDED TO KEEP CLEAR THE SEWERS

Engineer Will Report on Their Cost and the Number Necessary—Records of Flushing Will be Kept by Officials

ALD. JOHNSTON INTRODUCES SUBJECT

The Board of Works have decided to take steps to prevent the city sewers from becoming obstructed and it is probable that a number of flushing tanks will be situated throughout the city to have the pipes cleared in a periodical manner. Ald. Johnston introduced the subject at the meeting last night and in his remarks intimated that in the past the work of flushing the sewers regularly had been somewhat neglected.

In reference to the question he thought there should be certain dates set for the flushing of each sewer and that records should be kept of how often the work was done by the officials whose duty it is to look after them. Ald Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre that records be kept of the day and date up on which the sewers have been flushed, giving the sewers that have been attended to on each date.—Carried.

The City Engineer stated that on account of sewers crossing each other on many streets, that more than one flush was necessary and that he had ordered the official in charge to do this.

Flush Tanks Suggested

Ald. Wilson suggested that flush tanks be located at various points with valves which would let go the water periodically.

The City Engineer stated that 500 gallon tanks would suit the purpose and that these would cost about $100.

It was moved by Ald. Wilson and Johnston, that the City Engineer be requested to report on the cost of installing flush tanks, the number necessary and the places of location.—Carried.

Curious Depression in Back of Prisoner's Head—Doctor Unable to Explain Its Significance—Trial Delayed Half a Day by Serious Illness of Juror's Wife—Jerome Has the Prisoner's Will.

New York, Feb. 14.—The Thaw trial yesterday was limited to an afternoon session of less than two hours' duration. The morning sitting of court was abandoned because of the illness of the wife of one of the jurors, Joseph B. Bolton, No. 11. Mr. Bolton was allowed to visit his home with two other jurors and two court officers. He found his wife suffering from double pneumonia, and two eminent physicians certified before District Attorney Jerome that her condition was very serious. Bolton returned to the jury panel in time for the afternoon session. By stipulation of counsel the juror might again visit his home last night, accompanied by bailiffs. If Mrs. Bolton's condition continues to be so critical that her husband cannot give proper consideration to his duties as a juror there may be an indefinite postponement of the case, all the other jurors meanwhile being under guard, or, possibly, a mistrial.

Dr. Evans Concludes.

Dr. Britton D. Evans, superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane at Morris Plains, N.J., was the only witness yesterday afternoon. His direct examination was finished and District Attorney Jerome reserved the right to cross-question the expert later in the trial.

Dr. John T. Deemar of Kittanning, Pa., was recalled to the stand just before adjournment, and asked to tell what he knew of the mental condition of John Ross, a first cousin of Harry Thaw. It is contended by Thaw's counsel that young Ross, the son of Mrs. William Thaw's sister, is, or was, insane.

Mr. Jerome objected to the question on the ground that the relationship was too remote to permit of drawing deductions as to hereditary insanity. Both question and witness were withdrawn temporarily.

Thaw's Head Depressed.

Dr. Evans yesterday detailed his various examinations and physical tests of the defendant at various times following the tragedy. He declared that there was a depression in the back of Thaw's head of a most unusual character.

"I am unable to state its significance," declared the witness, "for the reason that I never saw anything like it before."

Dr. Evans also testified that Thaw's pulse action was the most extraordinary he ever encountered. The pulse, he said, would change beats four times within one minute, the variance being from twelve to twenty-four beats. The pulse indicated, he said, that the sympathetic nervous system was seriously at fault. Dr. Evans declared finally that he found no indication of drug habits by Thaw, nor any of the tremors characteristic of excessive indulgence in intoxicants.

Following a conference between counsel just before adjournment, Mr. Jerome announced that Thaw's attorneys had turned the will of the defendant over to him for examination before it should again be formally offered in evidence. Mr. Jerome said he might, or might not, offer further objection to the "voluminous document."

Counsel also agreed that Mr. Jerome should have the privilege of talking freely with Dr. Deemar, and with Dr. Bingaman, the Thaw family physician, about certain testimony they have to offer. Mr. Jerome said that if he knew the nature of this testimony he might not have to occupy so much of the court's time or to crowd the record with technical objections.

Shortage Half a Million.

New Britain, Conn., Feb. 14.—It was learned yesterday that the shortage at the Savings Bank of New Britain, through the alleged peculation of the missing treasurer, William F. Walker, may amount to half a million dollars. The bank has closed its doors. Walker made big inroads upon the $75,000 fund of the Connecticut Baptist Society, of which he was treasurer.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

Combined with this are Wild Cherry Bark and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other pectoral herbs and barks.

For Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness or any affection of the Throat or Lungs, you will find a sure cure in

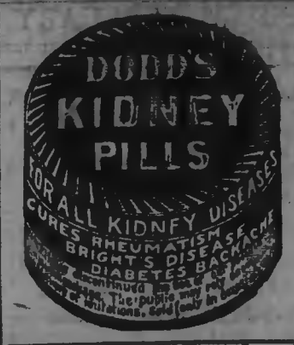
Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Mrs. H. A. Misener, Port Williams, N.S., says: "My son had a dreadful cough. It started in the fall and lasted all through the winter.

At last we became very much alarmed about it and started to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and before he had used one bottle his cold was completely cured."

Price 25 cents per bottle. Put up in a yellow wrapper. Three pine trees the trade mark.

Refuse substitutes. Dr. Wood's is the genuine.



NOMINATIONS IN MIDDLESEX.

Son of Former Provincial Premier Criticizes Dismissal of Officials.

Strathroy, Feb. 14.—One of the largest gatherings ever seen at a nomination was that at Mount Brydges yesterday. Stephen Blackburn, returning officer, presided. Duncan C. Ross was nominated by S. McCracken of Caradoc, and George A. Stewart by R. Dimlop of Napier. J. M. Kiser of Delaware was chosen as the chairman of the meeting. Beside the two candidates on the platform were Mr. Downey, M.P.P., North Wellington, and A. K. Mackay, M.P.P. for North Grey.

Mr. Stewart, Conservative candidate, reviewed the record of the Conservatives since they came into power, devoting most of his time to the school question, the new mining law and the management of the crown lands.

Mr. Ross, Liberal candidate, was loudly applauded. He thanked Mr. Stewart for a complimentary remark about his father, and strongly condemned the present Government's school system. The present Government was characterized as extravagant. Had it not been for the Cobalt revenue, he said, a deficit would have been assured. The Whitney Government had spared no pains in wielding the axe on the heads of civil servants, and he claimed scores had been dismissed for no other reason than because they were Liberals.

Mr. Mackay and Mr. Downey were both in good form and made effective speeches.

STRIKING 'PHONE OPERATORS.

Bell Telephone Co. In Toronto Will Take Them Back.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—All the striking operators of the Bell Telephone Co. will be take back. This decision was announced yesterday afternoon, following a conference between counsel and the commission in the morning.

Not only does the company agree to re-employ all its former operators, but will pay them at their old salaries, plus the increase attendant upon the eight-hour schedule. It does not, however, guarantee that all get their old positions, as this would be unfair to the girls promoted in the interim. Yesterday morning, the company announced that they would admit:

(1) That from the evidence adduced the operators had not been fully made aware of the relief from strain which it was proposed to give under the eight-hour system.

(2) That the longer day at the same high pressure as had been going under the five-hour day, would be injurious to the health of the operators.

(3) That the operators were justified in their protest owing to lack of information, though they should not have resorted to a strike.

The company would not admit, however, that it would be injurious to long-distance operators to work additional three hours at the same pressure as had been customary under the five-hour system. Evidence along this line will be continued.

In the afternoon Mr. Karr, counsel for the company, produced a statement showing in detail the work of the eight-hour system.

WAMPOLE'S SUBSTITUTE.

Brick Back in Toronto—Defalcations for Benefit of Employer.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—H. W. Brick, the former general manager of the Canadian business of Henry K. Wampole & Co., is back in Toronto.

According to a statement made by his solicitors, he has returned for the purpose of giving his version of the affairs of Wampole & Co., which culminated in his mysterious disappearance on June 30 last.

Mr. Brick states that he left Perth at the request of Mr. Wampole, and the intimation is that the defalcations were for the profit of the late head of the great Philadelphia drug concern, who ended his own life a few weeks after Brick got out.

Can't Move the Empties.

Port Huron, Feb. 14.—There are over two miles of empty freight cars in the yards at this point, and at Point Edward there are 300 more waiting for an opening to slip into the yards here. Back at London, Ont., and nearby points are 2,000 more. The congestion appears to be to a lack of motive power.

Good-Bye to Bryce.

London, Feb. 14.—A great crowd of friends gathered at Euston Railroad station yesterday morning, to bid farewell to James Bryce, the Ambassador of Great Britain to the United States, and Mrs. Bryce, who proceeded to Liverpool in semi-state, occupying a car attached to the regular steamer train.

Supplies For Destitute Settlers.

Battleford, Feb. 14.—The Mounted Police detail has arrived here with supplies for any settlers who may be found destitute. The country for a radius of 100 miles is being carefully patrolled. Two bodies have been found partially devoured by wolves on the Saskatchewan.

Hanging Dead In Shed.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—Napoleon Gravel, clerk in the census and statistical department, hanged himself at his home on Sussex street yesterday afternoon. One of his daughters discovered him suspended by a chain and skate strap from a beam in the woodshed. Gravel, who was 55 years of age, leaves a widow and 12 children.

FROZEN AS THEY STOOD.

What Victims of Wrecked Steamer Larchmont Suffered—Charge of Cowardice — 138 Are Dead.

Block Island, R. I., Feb. 14.—Yesterday the survivors of the wreck of the steamer Larchmont were carried tenderly to the steamer Kentucky, which was to convey them to Providence for medical treatment, and 50 dead bodies were also placed on board.

In death the victims looked as they must have looked as they stood doomed on the deck of the wind-swept and sinking steamer. Hands were frozen to ears, as though in death the victims were attempting to protect them from a piercing wind. One man's hands were plunged deep into his pockets. Another man died with his arms upraised and frozen above his head.

The grave charge of cowardice is made by Fred Hiergesell, aged 18, Brooklyn. Hiergesell's statement was not confirmed by any other survivor of the terrible tragedy, but nevertheless, he held steadfast to his story.

A careful compilation shows that 138 lives were lost. There were not less than 157 persons on board the steamer. Only 19 survived. Seventy-one bodies have been recovered.

EXPLOSION OF A BOILER.

Accident At Galt Results In Severe Injuries to Engineer.

Galt, Feb. 14.—The old knitting factory building, formerly occupied by the C. Turnbull Co., was yesterday morning the scene of a terrific boiler explosion, which badly wrecked the building, besides severely scalding R. A. Johnston of Peterboro.

Johnston was standing close to the boiler after coaling up, when it exploded. One-half of the boiler was thrown the length of the big shop, and the force hurled the man 20 feet. He was picked up in a shocking condition, the skin peeling off his body in great strips.

The wrecked premises were occupied temporarily by a feather-cleaning company.

Fatally Injured By Coal.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Feb. 14.—A C. P. R. fireman named Frank Mahaffey, aged 20, formerly of Parry Sound, was severely injured by being struck by falling coal while shoveling at a pile yesterday afternoon. It is believed he will die.

HOME RULE MUST COME.

Augustine Birrell's Important Statement in the House of Commons.

London, Feb. 14.—In reply to the speech from the throne in the House of Commons yesterday, Walter Hume Long, at one time chief secretary for Ireland, raised the Irish question, and Augustine Birrell, the present chief secretary, replied that he, like Premier Campbell-Bannerman, was perfectly satisfied that the only solution satisfactory to the great majority of the Irish people was what is generally called the Home Rule Bill.

This statement was greeted with loud ministerial and nationalist cheers.

Women Suffragists Injured.

Following a conference of the Women's Special and Political Union yesterday, friends of women suffragists tried to force their way into the House of Commons. The doors were shut in their faces and the police attempted to drive them back. In so doing the mounted men galloped among the women, many of whom were badly hurt.

Over 20 of the so-called "suffragists" were arrested.

THE ARRANGEMENT OF SCHEDULE IS URGENT

Peterborough and Toronto Teams Not Given a Fair Chance to Win.

14TH SHOULD PLAY IN MIDLAND

With the defeat of the Argonauts by Kingston last night, Peterborough has but one chance left to be in the running for the championship of the district. Their only hope is that Midland will trim Kingston in the sudden death game in Toronto, on Monday next, in which case Kingston will be down and out and Peterborough and Midland will be tied for the championship.

It is now that the injustice of having Kingston and Midland play a sudden death game on neutral ice, instead of home and home games, is apparent. It gives these two teams an unfair advantage over Peterborough, Marlboros and Argos. It is a certainty that Kingston cannot beat Midland at the latter place, and if the soldiers had to play there as Peterborough had, they would have another loss chalked up against them.

Instead, however, they have a chance of counting two wins, by winning in Toronto next week. If Kingston loses, they will have a grievance; as it is just as certain that Midland wouldn't win at Kingston.

The O.H.A., in view of the direct effect this unfair arrangement has on the schedule, should make Kingston and Midland play home and home games, giving them the same chance—no more, no less—that Peterborough has had. Why the arrangement was entered into between the clubs in the first place, is a mystery, but the Foxy Grandpas from Kingston and Midland evidently whipsawed the rest of the schedule convention.

NEW YORK CRESCENTS PLAY HERE ON 22ND.

Fastest Amateur Hockey Team in the United States Will be Seen Here Soon.

It is probable that the hockey lovers of this city will have an opportunity of seeing the fastest amateur hockey team in the United States here on Friday, Feb. 22nd. The secretary of the club here has received a wire from the Cresents of New York, the champions of New York and Brooklyn asking for a game here on the date mentioned and it is probable that they will be accommodated.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR THE LINDSAY GAME

A special train will be run from Bellevilla to Lindsay to-morrow night for the return game between the Bellevilla and Lindsay junior hockey teams. The train will pass through Peterborough between 6.15 and 6.30 and an opportunity will be afforded any Peterborough persons who may desire to do so to attend the game. The return fare from Peterborough will be $1.00. The train will leave Lindsay, returning, at 11.30.

B. A. C. GAME TO-NIGHT AFTER CITY LEAGUE GAME

The advance guard of the Toronto B.A.C. arrived in the city this afternoon and the report brought from the city is to the effect that he local members of the club will be given the time of their lives to-night when the two branches meet in a hockey game at the Brock street rink after the City League games. Sam Moore, on whom the Toronto contingent depend for the greater part of their heavy defence work is said to be in the pink of condition and will play havoc with the forwards on the home team.

CANNINGTON CURLERS PLAY MATCH HERE

This afternoon two Cannington rinks are playing a match with two local rinks, at the Charlotte street rink; the local skips are Messrs. R. M. Waddell and A. Hall.

CURLING

There were three games at the Curling Rink last night and of the following the last was scheduled:—

C James,	W Smith,
H P Kennedy,	J D Collins,
E H Clegg,	Dr McCulloch,
R Neill, sk. ...19	Dr Greer, sk. 12
O Dumble,	A Webb,
J W Fulton,	W. Isaac,
J Gibson,	C Rutherford,
W Talbot, sk....10	D Cameron, sk.7
E Cox,	H Taylor,
R Carton,	J Montgomery,
W Lang,	M C Tooley,
C E Frost, sk...16	J Stanger, sk7

• • • •

Two Cannington rinks are in the city to-day to play friendly games with the locals. The contest began about 2.30 o'clock.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES WILL BE EXCITING

Auburns and Strathconas Will Cross Sticks To-night.

The greatest interest is being taken in the city league games to-night and the contests promise to be decidedly exciting, especially the first game between the Strathconas and Auburns. Both teams are anxious to win the game and the play should be of the lightning variety. In order to keep in the running the Strathconas must beat Auburns, while the Auburns need a victory to give them a chance to qquality. The result should be a contest of ot the hardest kind. The Strathconas will line up as follows:—

Goal—Wilson.
Point—Meagher.
Cover—White.
Rover—McMillan.
Centre—McGrath.
Right—Seymour.
Left—Weatherston.

Lakefield and the High Life's should put up a splendid game in the second fixture and it is not an easy job to pick the winner. There will no doubt be a big crowd present to-night.

HOCKEY

CITY LEAGUE STANDING.

Following is the city league standing to date:

	Won.	Lost.	To play.
Charlotte street 3	0	2
Strathconas... 2	0	3
Suburbs... 2	1	2
High Lifes... 1	3	1
Orphans... 0	2	*2
Lakefield... 0	2	*2

*Orphans and Lakefield played drawn game.

SENIOR O. H. A. STANDING

The standing in the district of the senior O.H.A. is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	To play.
Kingston 5	1	2
Peterborough... 5	2	1
Midland... 4	2	2
Argonauts... 2	6	0
Marlboros... 1	6	1

• • • •

HAVE OFFICIALS READY.

The management of the City League teams should see that they have time-keepers and goal umpires selected before the time for beginning their games arrives. All through the season there have been delays because these officials were not on hand when needed. Often the referee has had to hunt around in the crowd until he found someone to take charge of the duties. If the managers would see that the officials are ready at the time appointed for commencing the games it would do away with a lot of confusion and save time as well.

• • • •

The seniors will practice to-night at the rink from 7 to 8 o'clock. All members of the team are urgently requested to be on hand.

• • • •

The Kingston team succeeded in defeating the Argonauts in a hard and rough game in Toronto last night by a score of 8 to 6, the half-time figure being 5-2 in their favour.

• • • •

The sporting editor of the Examiner is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Milton Sherin, of Omemee, who is attempting to arrange home and home games with a Peterborough team. Charlotte street team is believed to be too fast for Omemee while the Strathconas have played against them this season. It is probable that Omemee would play any of the other City League teams, the Pill Pounders or Knockers. The latter team was particularly mentioned. They would like to have a game on Omemee on Saturday night but are indifferent as to where the first is played.

By corresponding with Mr. Percy Parsons, of Omemee, the games may be arranged.

• • • •

The Knockers challenge the Knox church senior team to a game of hockey to be played in the Brock street rink, and are also anxious to meet the winners of the Pill-Poundera - Fanning's boarding house game.

• • • •

In their game with the Strathconas the Auburns will line up to-night as follows:—

Goal, Derocher.
Point, Shaw.
Cover point, Crough.
Rover, Clegg.
Centre, McDonald.
Right wing, Hillier.
Left wing, Tucker.

A meeting of the officers and players of the Peterborough Hockey Club is called for to-night at 8 o'clock at the rink.

FISH AND GAME BEING ILLEGALLY DESTROYED

"Izaak Walton" Wants to Know What the Fish and Game Protective Association Has Done.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—There is a question which has been bothering my head for a considerable time and one to which I should be pleased to have a reply. It is in connection with the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association which was formed here about a year ago and from which I have never since heard the faintest squeak. should like to know what has become of the Association and the work which was cut out for them at the organization meeting?

It is a well known fact that illegal fishing is going on in county waters. Fish are being speared and snared every day in certain parts of the county and the Fish and Game Protective Association are, or appear to be, all oblivious to the breaking of the law.

At the time of organization a large number of citizens became members of the Association and contributed a fee to its maintenance. I was one of those and would not begrudge the dollar if I saw that any benefit was coming from it. But when the Association sits idly by without making or attempting to make a conviction, I would like to see the money returned to those who contributed to become members of the Association.

There is also another matter which I should like to speak of in this connection. A short time ago there was a general meeting of representatives from Associations in Ontario, held in Toronto, but Peterborough was not represented. I am informed that the request from the head association was not even answered by the local secretary.

I have been waiting long to hear something from this body which organized under very auspicious circumstances but my expectations were without foundation. Does the Association ever intend to attempt to protect our fish and game or was it organized for merely a show?

Yours, etc.
"Izaak Walton."

TO IMPROVE YOUR APPEARANCE

Retain your youthful freshness so that no one can remark, "she is past her prime." To appear younger and more attractive than the average woman, you must be particular that your Hair shows no sign of being thin, short or scrawny. A DORENWEND TRANSFORMATION, POMPADOUR, WAVE, CURL or SWITCH will substitute nature's defects. Even if you have plenty of your own hair, these light and airy artifices may be worn over it, saving you the worry of arranging your hair in the prevailing style. Your hair can be perfectly matched in color and texture, so that detection is out of the question.

Now, if you have in your mind any prejudice regarding artificial hair, it will forever be dispelled after seeing how natural and becoming our productions will prove in your case.

CONSULT PROFESSOR DORENWEND

DURING THIS VISIT

Advice regarding your hair and how you can make the most of it, also a personal demonstration of the newest styles in transformations, will be given the same as at our establishment in Toronto. Bear in mind that our styles are originated and designed by Professor Dorenwend, and they cannot be procured from any other makers. Their equal have yet to be produced.

MAN TO MAN—ABOUT BALDNESS

If you are bald, or partially so, you must realize that it makes you look old. Notwithstanding the desire to have back your one time bushy head of hair, you hesitate before wearing a natural hair covering simply because you imagine it is going to be noticed by others. Now you never made a greater mistake. Thousands of men, who thought the same as you do, are to-day wearing a and instead of carrying the handicap, that baldness proved to them, they are now enjoying the advantage of "looking young"—and that is what counts to-day in business and social life. Our Patent Toupee is a feather-weight fac-simile of your own natural hair and may be worn without fear of detection—impossible to remove from the head unless at will—not the least clumsy or uncomfortable. They act as a protection, preventing colds and catarrh, so common to bald men.

Now do not neglect this opportunity—come and see for yourself. A few minutes' demonstration will convince you that a Dorenwend Patent Toupee is not like the clumsy, wiggy affairs that are claimed to be "just as natural."

TELLING FACTS The Trout Lake Cobalt Mining Co., of Montreal, Limited, owns three rich claims of 40 acres each (120 acres in all) in the Temigami Forest Reserve where all the richest finds of gold, silver and copper were made last summer. The property almost adjoins the noted Gillies Timber Limits, the Nipissing and the Thos. A. Edison mines; where exceptionally rich deposits of silver ores have been found.

SHIPPING MINE Two of these claims have been thoroughly prospected and the ore which lies quite close to the surface is of extraordinary high value and very easy of access, hand drills and dynamite being all that are necessary to remove the rich deposits. These mines are expected to be shipping in the near future. It is significant that these claims were selected as the best and staked out last summer by Mr. A. C. Brown, a mining expert of large experience on the Rand Mines S. Africa and the Nile Valley Mines, Egypt. Moreover the plant of The Montreal Reduction & Smelting Co., of Canada, Limited, is expected to be ready this Spring whereby the ores can be economically treated.

Board of Works Determined to See That the Law is Enforced—The Sign License Problem.

NO EXTENSION FOR ALBERT STREET

Many matters of importance came up before the Board of Works last night, and after two hours' work quite a number were wiped off the slate. Among the questions were Mr. Coughlin's request to be refunded $8 for his expenses in attempting to fix an imperfect sewer pipe; Mr. Walter G. Green's request to appropriate part of Gilchrist street, the Albert street extension, the obstruction of streets by manufacturers, the flushing of sewers and a number of others.

Those present were Ald. Duncan, chairman; Ald. Wilson, McIntyre, Phelan, Johnston, His Worship the Mayor, City Engineer T. A. S. Hay and Street Commissioner Evans.

Signs On Posts

J. J. Turner & Sons wrote the Board requesting the privilege of replacing the illuminated sign on the post in front of the George street store recently acquired by the Porter Bros., with a more handsome one. The post, they stated, could be painted and made more attractive, and the sign would be a very elaborate one.

The chairman and Ald. McIntyre were favourable to granting the request, in view of the fact that the sign would be a better one.

Ald. Johnston considered that all illuminated signs should be suspended from the buildings, and did not think that the bylaw, as drawn up, should be amended to allow new signs to be placed on old posts.

Moved by Ald. McIntyre and the Mayor that a section of the bylaw be amended to allow old signs to be replaced by new ones. The mover and seconder sustained the motion, while Ald. Johnston and Wilson opposed it. The chairman gave the casting vote in favour of the motion.

Sign Bylaw

The chairman then went into the details of the sign bylaw and discussed the various clauses with regard to alterations, before it is brought before the Council to be passed.

It was moved by the Mayor and Ald. McIntyre, that the City Engineer be instructed to see that all owners of signs take out licenses, according to the bylaw, within 20 days of the passing of the bylaw.—Carried.

Albert Street Extension

A committee had visited Albert street with regard to the request from some of the property owners there to have it extended, and decided that if these owners wanted the street opened they would have to do so at their own expense. It was granted out that the opening of the street would be of little benefit to the city.

No Obstructing Streets

Ald. Johnston next referred to the obstruction of the streets by manufacturers, who left machinery scattered over the right of ways, spoiling the appearance of the peoples' property and also preventing as good sales as might be made under different circumstances. He believed that the public highways should not be blockaded by manufacturers or builders.

Ald. Wilson and the chairman spoke along the same lines and were agreed that something should be done to alleviate the nuisance.

It was moved by Ald. McIntyre and Wilson, that the City Engineer be instructed to notify those persons obstructing the streets, to remove the obstructions, and if this is not done, to have the police take proceedings against them.—Carried.

HOME LIFE ASSOCIATION HAD A PROSPEROUS YEAR

Assets Now Over a Million and Half—Working Expenses Are Decreased.

The annual general meeting of the Home Life Association, held in the Home Building, Toronto, on Tuesday, the 11th of February, revealed satisfactory results in connection with the business of the year. The assets for security to policyholders now stand at the substantial figure of $1,571,323. The reserves total $651,796, and the surplus on policyholders' account amounts to $136,500.96. The cash premium income for 1906, amounting to $197,092.95, shows an improvement of $32,107.51, or 19 per cent., over 1905. The interest income of the association, was marked by an increase of 25 3-4 per cent., over that of the previous year, representing an interest-earning only slightly under 5 per cent. on the average ledger assets, an improvement over 1905 of no less than 1 1-2 per cent.

In addition to the cited improvements, emphasing the excellence of management, a favourable mortality with decrease of working expenses, furnishes additional reason for congratulation, and in view of the prevalent activity in every department of life—industrial, commercial and financial—afford good assurance of a prosperous future.

The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: Hon. J. R. Stratton, president; Mr. John S. King and Mr. James L. Hughes, vice-presidents; Mr. J. K. McCutcheon, managing director; and Messrs. Geo. Amyot, Thomas W. Boddy, John Curtis, Rev. A. L. Geo. E. L. Goold, Charles E. Stevenson, J. S. Hough, K.C., D. W. Karn, J. H. Spencer, Prof. J. F. Tufts, J. W. Lyon, Jacob Howe, James J. Warren and A. G. Browning.

MARATHON LODGE GAVE EXCELLENT SMOKER

An Evening of Enjoyment Held Under the Auspices of Knights of Pythias Lodge.

GOOD PROGRAMME WAS RENDERED

A good, cool smoke, plenty of card-playing, an excellent programme and a spirit of friendship and goodwill abroad, were some of the features that characterized the smoker concert, held in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, last evening, under the auspices of Marathon Lodge No. 29, Knights of Pythias. It was the finest entertainment ever given by the local lodge, and it was a success in every respect. The large number in attendance were thoroughly pleased with the event and the hope was freely expressed that there might be more entertainments of a like nature. The Knights proved themselves ideal hosts, leaving nothing undone that would contribute to the enjoyment of their guests. In connection with the concert, it is interesting to note that Marathon Lodge has made splendid progress since its organization about a year ago. Its membership includes many of Peterborough's best citizens, and the number is constantly being increased.

The first part of the evening was spent in card-playing, plenty of tables being provided for this purpose. Smoking, of course, was freely indulged in during the evening, and many a bowlful of "My Lady Nicotine" was consumed.

During the rendition of the programme the Mayor acted as chairman. Mr. Geo. Schneider, who acted as accompanist during the evening, opened the programme with a well-rendered instrumental number, which was encored. Vocal solos were given by Messrs. G. K. Martin, A. E. Wilson, Maurice Van der Water and Mr. Greenslade. Mr. Martin sang "Annie Laurie" by special request, and was given an enthusiastic reception. The other solos were also splendidly rendered, and encores had to be responded to in each case. Messrs. Cranfield and Holland were on the programme for two mandolin selections, but wound up with four, encores being demanded and responded to on each occasion. Mr. Desautel gave two recitations from Dr. Drummond's works, and made a decided hit. They were both given in an excellent manner, and the applause that greeted them evidenced the appreciation of the audience.

Mr. F. H. Dubbin gave a short talk of a humorous nature, taking for his subject, "The Law of Average."

Past Grand Chancellor McDonald of Toronto contributed a short address, in which he gave an interesting account of the origin of the Knights of Pythias, and also of the incident which has furnished the name and principle of the Order, the story of the friendship of Damon and Pythias. The first lodge was organized in Washington forty-three years ago, and so rapid has been the growth of the Order that its membership at the present time numbers three-quarters of a million. Friendship, charity and benevolence are the corner stones of the Order, which also has one of the best insurance systems to be found among fraternal societies. Mr. McDonald pointed out the many advantages of a membership in the Knights of Pythias, and hoped that Marathon Lodge would grow and prosper.

Ald. Harry Morgan contributed a well-rendered recitation to the programme, and was heartily applauded.

After the musical programme was over, Mr. Wilson, a veteran Knight of Pythias, and a prominent member of Marathon Lodge, thanked those present for their attendance and hoped that they all had enjoyed themselves. The members of the lodge had done everything in their power to make the evening an enjoyable one.

A few remarks of a similar nature were also made by Mr. C. M. Blewett and Mr. Sheridan.

Mr. A. P. Poussette replied on behalf of the guests, thanking the members of Marathon Lodge for the enjoyable evening provided. It had been an evening of pleasure and profit to him.

The National Anthem brought this most enjoyable event to a close.

Coffee and sandwiches were served during the evening, the catering being done by Mr. McCallum.

Credit is due those in charge of the smoker for the success that attended their efforts.

Out of School
BECAUSE OF COLDS

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN WILL ACQUIRE LUNG TROUBLES. WHICH COULD BE AVOIDED BY USING

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

The records of attendance at the Toronto Public Schools show that ten thousand children were absent on account of colds during a single month. "The worst enemy of all to the child, so far as keeping him from school is concerned, apparently, is the common, every-day cold," said Dr. Goodchild in his report to the Ontario School Association.

"Not only does the cold prove an enemy in this way," he continued, but it is well known that many of the more serious diseases follow from the simple cold. As a result of the patient becoming weakened down in his resistance against disease, the germs of various infectious diseases the more easily find a place to multiply somewhere in the organism."

Parents who make a practice of keeping Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, have at hand the most certain means of curing coughs, colds, croup, and bronchitis, and positively preventing more serious diseases. It is sometimes forgotten that few ailments possess more possibilities of danger than a common cold.

Mrs. R. D. Turner, Broadview, N. W. T., writes: — "We have seven children and have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for everyone of them and with good results. We get four bottles at a time and find it a good remedy to break up a cold on the lungs."

Not only is Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, a positive cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma, and severe chest colds, but it is a preventive of all diseases of the lungs.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

FATHER IS DEAD; THE FAMILY IS STARVING

A Pitiful Tale of Destitution Comes From Faraday Township—No Fire in House—25° Below Zero.

JAMES CARR KELLY'S SAD DEATH.

A sad story of suffering and destitution comes from Faraday township, only a few miles from L'Amable. On Monday, the 4th inst., Mr. M. Rouse received a telephone message from L'Amable to the effect that a man named Jas. Carr Kelly had been found dead in his house, and the wife and children in a starving condition. It appears that on Sunday evening Mr. Jno. Anderson, a neighbour, went over to Kelly's to ask him to work for him next day. He did not go inside the house, but learned from Mrs. Kelly that her husband was ill and that they had very little in the house to eat. Anderson went over early next morning with a supply of provisions, and when he stepped into the house the sight that met his gaze was indeed a pitiful one. Kelly lay dying and his wife and five or six children were in a terrible condition from hunger and cold. There was no fire in the house, with the thermometer about 25 below zero, and some of the children were so weak that they could scarcely stand up. Anderson lost no time in putting on a fire and preparing a meal, while the youngsters crowded around him crying and begging for something to eat. After fixing things up as well as he could, he went home and despatched a messenger to L'Amable for assistance. Mr. Jno. Green hitched up and drove in, but Kelly died about the time he drove into the yard.

Had it not been for Anderson's timely arrival on the scene it is probable that the whole family would have died from cold and hunger.—Bancroft Times.

LOCAL CHOIR'S CONCERT IN CAVANVILLE

George Street Musicians Gave an Enjoyable Programme.

The George street Methodist church choir drove out to Cavanville last night, where they gave a very enjoyable concert under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Cavanville Methodist church. There was a large audience present, and their appreciation of the work of the choir was shown by the hearty applause with which the numbers were greeted.

The programme consisted for the most part of musical numbers, the choir rendering five anthems in splendid fashion. Solos by Miss Ressor and Miss Mowry were greatly enjoyed and encores demanded. The Misses Chasty were heard to great advantage in duet numbers, while numbers by a mixed quartette composed of Miss Chasty, Mrs. Doidge, Messrs. Walton and Doidge, were given a hearty reception. A quartette composed of the Misses Chasty, Miss McGuire and Mrs. Doidge, also rendered a number in splendid fashion. Miss Montgomery contributed some clever recitations.

At the conclusion of the programme a reception was rendered the choir in the Sunday school room by the Ladies' Aid Society. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant time spent before the choir left for their home. A vote of thanks was passed to the local musicians, on motion of Rev. Mr. Sexsmith, seconded by Mr. Staples.

The choir enjoyed their visit, the drive being very pleasant.

Thaw Prefers Death To The Mad House, He Says

Move to Appoint Commission to Enquire Into His Sanity Expected Now—Would End the Trial.

Examiner Special.

New York, February 15th. — The lawyers for the defence in the Thaw case are planning to fight a move expected to be made by the District Attorney to end the trial and apply for the appointment of a commission to inquire into Harry Thaw's sanity. Harry Thaw was greatly agitated to-day by the situation and declared that he preferred death to the mad house. Joseph H. Bolton, whose wife's death brought the Thaw trial to a temporary close, announced to-day that he would be ready to resume his place in the jury box next Monday.

EXPOSURE WAS THE CAUSE OF DEATH

Further Particulars of the Death of James McMullen and His Sister Are Furnished.

CIRCUMSTANCES STILL A MYSTERY

Further information concerning the death of Mr. Jas. McMullen and his sister, at Garden Hill, as announced in The Examiner on Wednesday, is furnished by the Port Hope Guide of yesterday, which says:

The circumstances leading to the death of James McMullen and his sister, Katherine McMullen, at Campbellcroft, is a deep mystery, and will probably never be revealed, although it is generally conceded that they both died from exposure.

Coroner McKinley last evening made a thorough examination of the bodies and also of the surroundings, and could find no evidence of foul play. There was quite a deep wound on the back of McMullen's head, but this could easily be caused from a fall to the floor.

James was about 75 years of age, and they had lived in that residence where they died for nearly 35 years.

The house, a two-storey one, is situated a considerable distance from the road and about one mile southeast of Campbellcroft. Mr. John Campbell's residence is just opposite.

The house consists of four bedrooms, two upstairs and two down; a dining-room, back kitchen and a woodshed, and it is believed that the old couple spent the greater part of the time in the back kitchen. There are two good stoves, a "Welcome National" in the back kitchen, and a small heater in the dining-room.

The upstairs was used as a storeroom. Two large packing boxes were found, containing several pairs of fine woollen blankets and a number of quilts. the beds downstairs were well supplied with clothing, but it is thought that the couple wished to save these, and preferred to make their home in the back kitchen, using old coats and robes for bedding. They had a fairly good supply of furniture, and the front part of the house presented quite a cosy appearance.

In Comfortable Circumstance

The old couple were in comfortable circumstances, but like many others, did not enjoy it. As stated before, there were six or eight pairs of woollen blankets and quilts upstairs, but they preferred to freeze to death rather than sell them. They owned 25 acres of land, the buildings, three cows, one horse and a number of fowl.

The list of provisions was very small. A few tea biscuits and two pancakes were the only eatables to be found. There was a small quantity of flour, a bag of salt, a half tin of mustard, and we learn that all along their bill-of-fare had been a scanty one.

Nine years ago, we are given to understand, they had twelve hundred dollars in the bank. Yesterday's search, however, revealed a Toronto Bank book showing a balance of only $150.

Coroner McKinley has decided that an inquest is unnecessary, and the remains have been taken in charge by Mr. Walker, and will be interred in Cavan Cemetery.

The only relative here is a sister, Mrs. Brooks, of the township of Cavan.

LITTLE BABE HAD VERY NARROW ESCAPE

An exciting runaway about four o'clock this afternoon had the effect of attracting the whole of the George street population out on the street. The horse belonged to Mr. Foster, the expressman, and ran down the east side-walk coming within a hair's breadth of striking a little babe which was lying in a sleigh in front of B. Y. Moyes' store. The Toronto Bank windows also had narrow escapes. The animal went east to Water street where it was caught.

DOURO MAN LOST $40 TO ALLEGED HORSE MAN

The Old Familiar Cheque Game Was Played on the Unsuspecting Man.

INFORMATION WAS LAID AGAINST HIM

The silver-tongued man, who makes his living by playing what is commonly known as the "cheque" game, appears to bob up and work his petty fraud where he is the least expected. Not many months ago a number of orchants in Peterborough were "touched" for a few dollars, then a Havelock justice of the peace, and the latest reported in the county is a Douro farmer, who lost $40 to an indolent horse buyer whose whereabouts is now a mystery.

Richard N. Graham was the perpetrator of the trick, and his subject was Mr. J. Smith, Douro. On Wednesday Graham called at the farmer's house in search of a horse. Before leaving he made a deal with Mr. Smith and purchased one for the sum of $140, giving him a cheque for $180, on the Bank of Montreal, Peterborough.

This was the only thing in the shape of money in the horse buyer's possession, and of course the farmer was prevailed upon to give $40 in change.

Mr. Smith came to the city yesterday to cash the cheque, and discovered that Graham was an unknown personage to the Bank of Montreal.

An information has been laid against the offender, but there is very little evidence furnished to lead to his recovery. He boarded the train at Indian River, but purchased no ticket there. It has been learned that he bought a ticket from the conductor on the C. P. R. for Toronto, but further than this and his description little is known. An effort will be made by County Constable Cochrane to secure him for trial.

WEDDING BELLS

ROBERTSON—FIFE

Keene, Feb. 15.—A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. John Fife, Reeve of Otonabee, Wednesday, when his daughter, Miss Louisa Fife, was married to Mr. Thomas Robertson, of Pipestone, Man. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Mr. Harrison, pastor of the Methodist church, Keene. The ceremony took place at 6.30. Only the immediate relatives were present. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white Nun's veiling and was unattended. Her sister, Miss Margaret Fife played the wedding march. The bride was the recepient of numerous handsome and costly presents. The happy couple will reside in Pipestone, Man.

MULLIGAN—LOWERY

On Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Thomas Lowery, Brunswick, in the township of Manvers, an interesting wedding took place, when Miss Ellen, his daughter, was united in the bonds of marriage to Mr. William Percival Mulligan, of Lifford, in the presence of about 150 guests from various parts of the province. The ceremony, which took place in the drawing room, prettily decorated for the occasion, was performed by Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville. The bride was becomingly dressed in white silk trimmed with lace and ribbon, and a tulle veil, with the customary orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses, lillies of the valley and ferns. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Lowery, sister of the bride was similarly attired and carried pink roses. Mr. Cephas Staples assisted the groom.

After the wedding the usual dejeuner was served in the dining room, also beautifully decorated, and after receiving the congratulations of their friends the bridal couple left for a trip to the Western Ontario and American cities. The bride, who is one of the most popular young ladies in the community was the recepient of a very large number of handsome and valuable presents, further evidence of her popularity.

Mr. and Mrs. Mulligan will live retired for a year before settling on their farm.

MR. CHAS. COLLINS HAD COLD BATH

Fell Into the Water While Cutting Ice in Little Lake Yesterday.

Just before the factory whistles blew the welcome hour of twelve, yesterday, one of the men engaged by Mr. T. Rehill in cutting the season's ice harvest, accidently slipped into the water. Mr. Chas. Collins, as it was related to an Examiner reporter, suffered the inconvenience of an unexpected dip in the cold, (wet) waters of the Little Lake.

He was placing the grappling irons on the last block of ice just before noon when he overbalanced in some manner and was forthwith struggling in the lake. He was soon assisted back to the firm ice and immediately hurried to his home. It is hoped that Mr. Collins will suffer no ill effects from his cold bath.

is a positive cure for all those painful ailments of women. It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life. It will surely cure

Backache.

It has cured more cases of Female Weakness than any other remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors in an early stage of development. That causing pain, weight and headache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the female system. It corrects.

Bearing-down Feeling,

Irregularity,

Suppressed or Painful Periods, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility. Also

Dizziness, Faintness,

Extreme Lassitude, "don't-care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy or the "blues," and backache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the organs. For and Backache of either sex the Vegetable Compound is unequalled.

Kidney Complaints

CHEESE-PARING

The Whitney Government, with all the buoyant revenue, derived mainly from sources provided by their Liberal predecessors, with their lavish increase of expenditure, exhibit petty cheese-paring methods. In the placing of Provincial institutions, as in the case of the Normal Schools, they stipulate that the places where these institutions are to be placed should supply the site. Now, the Government is proposing to erect a Hygienic Institute in London, and want the city to provide the site for a distinctly Provincial institution. This is, it would seem, a very cheap way for a great Government—to practically hold up cities or towns to provide sites, and to submit them to double taxation—local taxation to provide a site and to contribute their share to the Provincial revenue. With all the faults imputed to it by its opponents, the late Liberal Government was more liberal than that. When the Normal School was built in London, the Liberal Government purchased the site, as they should have done. The Whitney Government made Peterborough and other places provide sites for the Normal Schools, and now it is holding up London. The Whitney Government is not afraid of spending money in other ways. It has increased the Provincial expenditure over a million dollars since it came into power two short years ago. It should be above squeezing municipalities.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The doctors seem to agree that telephone girls are subjected to great nervous strain. The average benedict, according to the professional jokers, can hardly realize that talking tires a woman.

We do not appreciate the importance of open air conditions, in the maintenance of health. The London cabman are a proof that life in the open air, though in the thick smoke of the city and exposed to all sorts of weather hardships, conduces to longevity. Official returns show that there are 1204 cabmen between the ages of 60 and 70; there are 249 between the ages of 70 and 80, and there are 70 between the ages of 80 and 90. One would think, unless on intelligent reflection, that the exposure, the raw fog, frost, late hours, etc., would kill the cabmen, but the fresh air is the salvation.

There will, it is stated by Hon. R. W. Scott, Secretary of State, be no insurance legislation introduced into the House of Commons this session. The report of the Royal Commission, appointed to investigate insurance methods and conditions, has not yet been made. It is obviously impracticable to enact insurance legislation that will have any degree of finality or authority or permanence, without the information to be furnished by the report of the Commission is available.

The Toronto News is an ardent supporter and apologist of Mr. Whitney, but even its ingenuity can find no excuse for Mr. Whitney's gross betrayal of the people in adopting the vicious Yankee spoils system, says the Hamilton Times. It admits that "in its administration of patronage the Whitney Government has gone further in the application of the spoils sytem than than any other Government which has ever held office in Older Canada, and it is at this point that the Ministry is under public displeasure, and has lost the confidence of the more independent element amongst the electors." What pledge has this prince of political Pharisees kept?

As is known, Hon. Charles Hyman, Minister of Public Works, who has been seriously ill and is now recovering, resigned his seat for London and will necessarily have to seek re-election. The better element of the Conservative party in London are now, as they were in June, 1905, when Mr. Hyman was assigned his portfolio, opposed to a contest, believing that nothing can be gained in a party sense, even if Mr. Hyman's election should lose a seat in the House to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, with his large majority, would not be embarrassed. The Toronto World demands an election contest in order that the old race and religion cries, apropos of the Northwest Autonomy Bills, might be raised.

CANADA A NATION

"Then we have made Canada a nation. We have at least reached a height of achievement which very few expected at the time of Confederation. (Cheers.) Our project of the Confederation of the British North American colonies was received in England as a matter of very small concern. To-day we are regarded as the right arm of the British Empire. The success of Confederations, the enlargement of the boundaries, and the strength which we possess financially and otherwise are the features of the past 25 or 30 years."

"As to our heritage—in extent it is almost beyond our capacity to fully realize. What a great heritage has to be brought under the plowshare of the agriculturalist, under the busy hand of the artisan, and has to be developed just as the heritage of our forefathers was developed. Are there settlers to be found in the four corners of the globe worthy of our citizenship? Bring them here. If there is capital anywhere slumbering and unproductive, let it be spent in the prairies of the West or the workshops of the East. If there is an enterprise or promotion that will bring to Canadian houses or to her some progress and success, let us see to it that that capital is applied, so that the citizens of this great heritage of ours may not say in future that their fathers wanted in purpose and spirit."—Hon. G. W. Ross at Ottawa Banquet.

FARM LABOUR PROBLEM

The annual report of the Provincial Director of Colonization for 1906 contains the appended paragraph:—

"A great deal of the work of the Bureau consists in arranging disputes between immigrants and farmers. While many immigrants who come here are quite unsatisfactory, very disposed to find fault, and to exercise the English prerogative of grumbling, it is only fair to state that there is a tendency on the part of quite a number of farmers to take advantage of the inexperience and ignorance of the immigrants coming here to secure their services for a sum much less than they are really worth. Not only is this frequently the case but they expect the immigranth to work longer hours, and to put up with treatment that the farmer is well aware the Canadian farm-hand would not permit. This practice is, of course, not general by any means, but there are many more farmers than we would like to take advantage of the situation in this way.

Mr. Southworth is undoubtedly right. There are immigrants who would provoke a saint beyond all endurance, but there are undoubtedly farmers, even among Canadians, who are mean enough to take every possible advantage that the opportunity afforded. The information is further given in the report that wages for farm hands are beginning to grow uniform and approximate from $100 to $125 per year with board for inexperienced young men, to $150 to $300 per year with board for experienced farm hands. There is also an increasing number of farmers who, in order to secure permanent help on the farm, are erecting cottages and providing accommodation for farm hands who have families.—Brantford Expositor.

MR. HYMAN'S RECOVERY

The Montreal Star has been gallant enough to set somebody watching Mr. Hyman at the California resort where he has been staying, with the result that we were last night presented with a picture of Mr. Hyman in yachting costume, and a detailed statement of his daily movements towards the end of last week. The impression designed to be produced was of course that Mr. Hyman had been shamming illness all this time, a sort of political campaigning that adds much to the dignity of public discussion. It so happens, however, that there was nothing particularly disgraceful about Mr. Hyman's being up and about a week ago, when the Star's sleuth was on his track. Some days before that he had sent his telegram to Sir Wilfrid, informing the Prime Minister that the improvement in his health, and the prospect of further improvement following upon a few weeks more of rest, warranted him in agreeing to continue in office, which meant standing an election contest in London. If he had got to that point the previous week, there was nothing disgraceful about looking moderately healthy (for we may be sure he wasn't exactly himself when he had to go to bed every night before ten o'clock) when the Star's informant saw him. It had taken Mr. Hyman about three months to get back that far on the road to health. Isn't the accusation of shamming rather small and unsportsmanlike? When will our Conservative friends learn to talk the man talk? Till they do they will not be respected. —Montreal Herald.

SUFFERED EIGHT YEARS FROM KIDNEYS

Doctor's said Female Trouble.

Mrs. Charles Lewis, Collingwood, Ont., writes: "For eight years I suffered from Kidney Complaint, and until twelve months ago doctors' said I was suffering from 'Female Trouble.' Last November (1905), I was seriously ill, resulting I believe from kidney troubles. Finding doctor's medicine doing me no good, I persuaded my husband to purchase a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, after having read of a case somewhat resembling mine. I commenced taking them according to directions (not taking the doctor's medicine), and on second day a swelling commenced in my feet, legs and body. The following day I was so changed and swollen my husband, in alarm, hastened to Mr. Johnson's drug store, who told him to tell me he thought the pills were drawing something out of the blood, and to keep on taking them. I did so and after taking them a week, the swelling disappeared leaving me with a complexion free from pimples, tired, weary feeling gone, constipation, from which I suffered for years, gone, pain in the back, gone, and a general feeling of joy and light heartedness, I have not felt since a child, took place in me.

My sister-in-law (Mrs. Bryan), seeing the action of Doan's Kidney Pills, and the change for good they accomplished in me, sent for a box and they completely cured her. When there is an opportunity of telling people what Doan's Kidney Pills did for us, we always take advantage of it, and tell them to give them a fair trial."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, for sale at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

You have No Reason for Not Using

Zutoo

Some people think that all headache cures are alike—that they all undermine the health, even if not perceived at the time of taking them.

Well, we'll admit that the drug cures do this, but that is no reason why you should not take Zutoo.

Zutoo is a harmless vegetable remedy. One ingredient is soda—just old-fashioned soda that our grandmothers used to take to settle the stomach, when they had sick headache. And there is nothing better.

The principal ingredient—the one that stops the headache, is a vegetable ingredient, imported for us from Japan. It wont hurt you any more than will the soda.

There is absolutely no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

If you suffer from headache there is every reason why you should.

Taken in time, two tablets will ward off a headache. Taken later, they will stop it in twenty minutes, and leave you feeling good every time.

If you are using a drug remedy, why not discard it?

Zutoo will cure just as quickly and will save you the penalty, that all must sometime pay, who take the drugs which these cures contain.

If you will give Zutoo one trial, you will never take any other headache remedy again.

SURPRISE

A PURE HARD SOAP.

QUICKNESS.

THREE TIMES A DAY the year round is too often to do anything anyway but the easiest way, so we recommend everybody to use "SURPRISE" Soap for dish-washing.

It loosens up the grease and dirt so that they slide off the dish easily. Any child can wash the dishes in a few minutes with "SURPRISE" Soap.

And it doesn't hurt the hands or make them sore and rough. There is nothing harsh about "SURPRISE" Soap, and it takes so little of it to do a big lot of work that it is the most economical soap you can buy.

"SURPRISE" costs no more than common soaps. See the red and yellow wrappers.

Something For Nothing

Brantford would have an easy matter in securing new industries if the something for nothing principle were put into operation. A big manufacturing concern in the easterly part of town plant business are seeking a location in Western Ontario, but are asking a guarantee of the bonds of their company. Brantford was regarded favourably for a while, until it was definitely known that this city is out of the bonusing and guaranteeing business.—Expositor.

Mission Addresses

There will be a missionary meeting in St. Paul's Sunday School room to-night which promises to be of a very interesting character. OBITUARY

F. ERNEST ROPER

The death occurred in Toronto on Feb. 14th of Mr. F. Ernest Roper, son of the late Mr. J. H. Roper, formerly of this city. The deceased had been ill about two years and his demise was not altogether unexpected. He married Miss Merrick, of this city and leaves one son, two years of age.

Mrs. R. H. Fortye, of this city, and Miss Roper, are sisters of the deceased, and three brothers, are Messrs. J. H. Roper, A. W. Roper and W. F. Roper resident at present in Montreal.

The funeral will take place on Saturday, Feb. 16th, at 3 p.m., from the residence of Mr. R. H. Fortye, 18 Gilmour street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

LICENSES WERE GRANTED YOUNG MEN

Two Were Made Lay Preachers in Park Street Baptist Church—Special Evangelistic Services.

The third quarterly business meeting of the year in connection with the Park Street Baptist Church was held last night. The pastor was in the chair, and considerable routine business was transacted. The church granted licenses to two young men to act as lay preachers. These two licentiates have done considerable valuable work in connection with this church.

Arrangements were made for a series of evangelistic services, to be conducted by Rev. Alexander Torrie, B.A., to commence March 11.

The choir will be present each night, and a request will be sent to the Y.M.C.A. quartette.

It was decided to hold the anniversary services on March 7. A tea will be served, and a programme furnished by Mr. James Stubbs, with moving pictures, etc. The public will be admitted to the entertainment.

MAGISTRATE LOVETH NOT VAGRANCY

Three Men Appeared at the Police Court To-day—One Month for George Valois.

Two men charged with vagrancy and one with having been drunk in a public place appeared before Magistrate Dumble at this morning's police court.

Jos. Rickerby pleaded not guilty of having been drunk in a public place. He was remanded until to-morrow morning, when witnesses shall have been procured.

Geo. Valois answered to the charge of being a vagrant which includes having no place of abode, no means of support, and without any employment. It was said in court that he was but lately let go from Central Prison. He was anxious to get a month in goal and as there is an insufficiency of help at Castle Nesbitt, the Magistrate sentenced him to a month.

Cecil Shannahan pleaded not guilty to a similar accusation. His case was enlarged until Tuesday morning when he will once more face the Magistrate.

REPITITION OF "THE BOY MARTYR" AT S.A. BARRACKS

Was Attended by Large Gathering and a Success in Every Way—Receipts Very Good.

Capt. Hurd repeated his lantern service last night at the Salvation Army Barracks entitled "The Boy Martyr." This was a decided success the hall being well filled and the door receipts were most gratifying. It was very similar to that held one night during the fore part of the week, but was intended for the parents this time.—Adjt. Wiggins expressed himself as being very pleased with the entertainment and its results.

OPEN SEASON OF LENTEN CLASSES

Miss Bawden, the Domestic Science Demonstrator, Gave Talk Last Night at the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Bawden, demonstrator of Domestic Science, gave her first demonstration in the course of Lenten demonstration cookery instruction at the Y.W.C.A. last night. It was a very promising opening of the course. Fish was the subject of instruction last night, and the class present very highly appreciated the excellent demonstration given. The demonstrations in this series will be conducted every Thursday night, till Easter. To-night there will be a demonstration of fancy cooking. It is desirable that these classes should be taken advantage of to the largest possible extent. There is nothing that conduces in a material sense to domestic happiness, so largely, as good cooking.

A FIFHTING BULL DOG SHOT

A bullet from Police Officer Newhall's revolver, put an end to a white bull dog that was tyrannizing all the dogs that it met. It was a rather fine specimen of its breed and must have been spoiled by its first owners, as it wanted to fight continually.

The last few days of its life were perhaps its most eventful, although it has had a very adventurous career. Some time ago it caused considerable havoc among a number of pigs that were penned up on the market. On Wednesday and Thursday of this week it injured several dogs in the vicinity of Hunter and George streets, and had the appearance of having been through a hundred fights. It was fighting on Thursday afternoon and had to be separated by the crowd. It took many kicks and blows to force it to drop its hold and was in a dazed condition for some time. After the crowd which had gathered had dispersed, our friendless bull-dog took up a position between the street railway tracks, the very model for the dog in "What we have, we'll hold."

But its exploits are now ancient history, and the more peaceful dogs may now roam about the streets without fear of being molested.

Just one girl. The one he was looking for. The new moving picture programme includes among others the story of the young man of 23 who did marry when he found his affinity, and did it quick. He saw her on the platform waiting the arrival of the train for Bubbio. He introduced himself, proposed, was accepted, found a clergyman on the train, was married and they spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and lived happily ever after. Special mention may also be made of the "Mysterious Dream." Johnny Rich left his club and found himself floating high in the clouds over New York City. You should see it for yourselves. It was real to him, but was it possible? And again another picture of the poor orphan boy who coveted his neighbour's apples. If you want a comfortable spot to spend a pleasant half hour and see the possibilities of modern invention, come. Beautiful illustrated songs. Don't miss them.

FRUIT CULTURE IN THE OKANOGAN VALLEY

Mr. P. H. Green in the City on His Way to the West Where He Will Engage in Fruit Business.

THERE IS AN UNLIMITED MARKET

Mr. P. H. Green, of St. John, N. B., with Mrs. Green, is in the city for a few days, visiting the former's brother, Mr. John W. Green, Brock street. Mr. Green is on his way to British Columbia, where he has bought a fifty acre fruit farm, and will make his future home. Last fall he took a trip to the west, and was so much pleased with the prospects in the fruit business in the fertile Okanagan valley, that he then bought a farm, and returned to the east to dispose of his business in St. John, preparatory to removing to the west permanently.

The business of fruit culture, while it is one of comparatively recent development, is growing rapidly, and is becoming increasingly remunerative.

With a ten acre fruit farm under cultivation one can be independent, the revenue from a farm of that size being sufficient to enable one to live well, even in the west, where more extravagant tastes prevail than in the east. A sample case was quoted the Examiner to-day by Mr. Green. A twenty acre farm of Northern Spy apples yielded in one year, $10,800, and the orchard was only twelve years old, and consequently just coming into bearing. All classes of fruit is grown in this valley, including apples, pears, plums, peaches, grapes, prunes, apricots, in fact anything with the exception of oranges, that can be grown in California. Not only can the fruits be grown, but in competition with that produced in other parts of the world the Okanagan valley fruit has taken, invariably, first first place.

Evidence that the business is attaining a firm standing is furnished by the fact that the land bought by Mr. Green last fall has increased in value $50 an acre since it was purchased by him. It is situated about a mile from Vernon, the centre of the fruit district in the valley.

The Okanagan fruit has a good reputation in the west and steps are being taken to insure this good reputation being maintained. All the fruit grown is handled by a Fruit Growers' Association, of which all the growers are shareholders. They send their product to the depot and from there it is packed and classified, so that when any particular package is marked the buyer has an assurance that the quality will be as represented.

There is practically an unlimited demand for the fruit grown in the valley, the rapid settlement of the west creating a market which will take all the fruit which can be produced in the valley in the next generation.

While the trees are growing and becoming fruit producers, Mr. Green, who, like his brother, is an expert photographer, will conduct a photo business in Vernon. Mr. and Mrs. Green will leave here next week, and will visit in Western Ontario for a short time before leaving for the west.

MR. RITCHIE LEAVES FOR HIS HOME IN COBALT

Has Been Visiting in the City for the Past Week.

Mrs. S. S. Ritchie, of Cobalt, who has been visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. R. J. Kidd, Bethune street and other ffriends in the city for the past week will return home to-night. Mr. Ritchie has been in the Cobalt district for some 15 years and is now one of the most influential mining men there. He is a director in the Temiskamingue and Hudson Bay Mining Company and also is joint owner of about 11 valuable silver claims.

He went to Cobalt as a farmer and still retains his farm a short distance from the mining centre. He is thoroughly taken up with life in New Ontario and although he likes Peterborough he would not sacrifice his northern home for this city.

EXTENDING ITS WORK TO EAST CITY WARD

Conservatory May Establish a Musical Kindergarten There.

The Peterborough Conservatory of Music have under consideration the extension of their work to the East Ward and the beginning of a musical kindergarten in East City. The method is called the Hulda Westmann Method, the teacher of which, in Peterborough, is Miss Estella Foy, well and favourably known by her excellent teaching abilities. If the number of prospective pupils is sufficient, the work may be begun at once. Miss Foy will give any information concerning the matter.

A CRAZY MAN.

Found Eating an Egg, Shell and All.

Rational people thought it was awful as the shell had no food value, and was, of course, indigestible and injurious.

It is just as crazy for rational people to swallow a lot of cod liver oil to get the medicinal curatives from it, as it was for the crazy man to eat the egg, shell and all.

Modern science has proved that the oil, or greasy part of cod liver oil has no value whatever, and only upsets the stomach and retards recovery. It is the medicinal elements which are enveloped in the cod liver oil, of which there are about fifty, that represent all the tonic and curative power of the famous old remedy.

A preparation containing all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but entirely free from oil or grease, must, therefore, be the very best tonic reconstructor possible. Such is Vinol. It positively does contain every one of the fifty odd medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, fresh and sweet, just as the egg shell contains the nutritious food, and we throw away the useless, indigestible oil, just as you throw away the egg shell.

Knowing its wonderful medicinal and curative power, we guarantee to restore health and strength to the following or refund their money without question:

Run down, debilitated, tired, overworked people; old, people, weak women, nursing mothers, puny, ailing children, convalescents, or to people suffering with hard colds, hacking coughs, incipient consumption and bronchitis. Vinol never fails to make rich, red blood and give strength to the weak and health to the sick. Try it on our guarantee. If it don't do you any good it won't cost you a cent. McDermid & Jury, Druggists. Vinol is also sold at The Market Drug Store (The Ormond & Walsh Old Stand).

FLOATING BRIDGE AT CHEMONG A WONDER

Its Simplicity of Theory Entails Many Engineering Difficulties—An Interesting Description.

HAS BEEN IN USE FOR THIRTEEN YEARS

Aubrey Fullerton, in the East and West under the title Simple Ways of Getting Over, gives a very interesting description of the floating bridge on Chemong Lake, well known to many Peterborough citizens who spend the summer months on the shore of that great lake. He says:—

There could hardly be greater difference than between any one of the four immense bridges that cross the Niagara River, right above and below the rapids, and a very simple piece of engineering in the Kawartha Lakes' district, in Central Ontario. One of the lakes in this series of pretty waters is Lake Chemong, a mile across, and bordered on both sides with important farming country. A few years ago the county authorities were faced with the necessity of in some way bridging the lake, the only connection heretofore having been by boat in summer or by ice in winter. A bridge of that length, however, built in the ordinary way, would have cost more than the county could afford. As a way out of the difficulty, it was decided to build a floating bridge—a bridge literally floating on the lake. The curious structure was built, and has now been in use for thirteen years.

It is a very simple piece of engineering, being nothing more than a wooden framework and roadway resting on the surface of the water, and anchored down by stone. It is, however, strong and safe, the heaviest teams passing over it without the necessity of any "caution sign." The rougheat weather has no effect upon it, and only in the spring thaws, when immense quantities of ice drift down upon it from the upper end of the lake, does it suffer damage from waves or winds. It has a draw, through which the lake steamers pass.

There are many bridges of this style in various parts of the world, and some others in Canada, but this is probably the longest in the Dominion, and may very safely be classed among the engineering curiosities of our country. For in this day of great and wonderful accomplishments, we should not overlook the simpler things, if even by way of contrast. There is skill in the simple things as well as in the great.

Mr. Fullerton is a little out in his figures. The floating bridge has been in existence over Mud Lake more than forty years.

OTTAWA TO HOLD A RE-UNION

Monster Summer Carnival Arranged for This Year—100,000 Visitors Are Expected.

Active preparations are under way for a monster Summer Carnival of Sport, and Old Boys' Reunion in the Canadian Capital next July.

The dates arranged are from Saturday, July 27th to Monday, August 5th, both inclusive; and a programme is being drafted which promises to include every known kind of sport and entertainment both on land and water. Strong committees, composed of the leading citizens of the Capital, are busy working out details, and it is guaranteed that there will not be a dull moment, day or night, for the entire ten days. Already Ottawans are going to bed early so that, when the Carnival time comes, they will be ready to stay up night and day to care for their guests, of whom at least 100,000 are expected.

The General Executive is particularly anxious to hear of and from every old Ottawan (native or otherwise,) who is now away from the old home, so that full information and a personal invitation to attend may be sent to him or her. Names and addresses forwarded to R. Patching, Carnival Secretary, City Hall, Ottawa, will be registered and promptly communicated with.

All the railways will give out rates, thus offering exceptional inducements for a holiday jaunt which will attract thousands who do not come within the classification of Old Ottawans; and the Committee will be glad to hear from any who are interested in obtaining fuller information with the object of taking in the trip during their next summer vacation.

Old Ottawans do not need to be reminded of the recuperative effects of a ten days' sojourn in the perfect climate of a Canadian summer, but to others, who desire to escape for a brief period from the sweltering heat of more southern latitudes, it may be pointed out that no more attractive proposition will offer next season than this trip to Ottawa.

THE TRUANT OFFICER HAS PLENTY WORK

Judging by Report of Work Performed by the Truant Officer in Lindsay.

The new Truant Officer appointed by the Board of Police Commissioners is not going to have a particularly easy time of it, judging by the following report of the work of the Truant Officer in Lindsay, where a lady holds that position:—

Number of individual cases 56, families to which children belonged, 43; girls reported for non-attendance, 13; boys, 43; visits to parents and guardians, 48; notices sent to parents and guardians, 22. A number of visits were also made to the schools reporting non-attendance. Two boys were taken before the Police Magistrate charged with persistent truancy.

Kidney Disease for Twenty Years

Mrs. Caswell Reid, Orrville, Muskoka, Ont., writes: "For twenty years I was troubled with kidney disease and have recently been completely cured by using three boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I had tried many remedies but nothing seemed to do me much good until I used this splendid family medicine."

WAS INVITED FOR THE THIRD YEAR

Rev. D. O. Crossley Has Done Excellent Work in Whitby and Will Remain Another Year.

The friends of Rev. D. O. Crossley, who is at present stationed at Whitby will be interested in the following from the Christian Guardian:—

Things are moving along quietly but successfully at the Tabernacle, Whitby, of which Rev. D. O. Crossley is pastor. Our thank-offering in December was highly satisfactory. The congregation responded by giving $130 more than was asked for. During the last fifteen months the debt on the Tabernacle has been reduced by over $2,000, besides over $200 spent in repairs. Congregations are good. League and Sunday Schools doing well. Pastor and people are working hopefully together. At the February Official Board meeting a most cordial resolution of appreciation was passed concerning the pastor and an unanimous invitation extended to return for the third year.

BUILDING PERMITS MUST NOW BE TAKEN OUT

For Building Operations in Any Part of the City—The Fire Limits Discussed.

THE PROPERTY COMMITTEE MET.

Henceforth, permits will have to be taken out for the erection or alteration of any building in any part of the city. This was the course decided upon by the Property Committee of the City Council at its meeting last night, after the matter had been carefully discussed. Hitherto, it has been only necessary to take out a permit for building within the fire limits, and the new regulations, it is thought by the aldermen, will be of great benefit. The re-arrangement of the fire limits into three zones, with different regulations covering them, was also discussed.

There were present, Ald. McIntyre, in the chair, the Mayor, Ald. Stevenson, Elliott and Morgan.

After discussing the building permit question, it was moved by the Mayor, seconded by Ald. Stevenson, that the City Solicitor be instructed to prepare a bylaw requiring permits to be taken out for the erection or alteration of any building in any part of the city, and requiring all applicants for permits to file an application form with the City Clerk, specifying the kind, dimensions, value, etc., and that such applications be submitted to the chairman of the Property Committee, and that the permits be signed by him, and if the application refers to any part of the fire limits, the permits part of the fire limits, the permit shall be countersigned by the City Engineer.—Carried.

The Fire Limits

There was a discussion at to the fire limits and as to making three zones, with different regulations applying to them. The central zone, it was agreed, should be extended to King street on the south, Murray street on the north, the west line of lot No. 8 west of George street on the west, and the eastern line of lot No. 1 east of Water street, on the east.—Carried.

Carter's Shelter

A letter was read from W. E. McCall, objecting to a carters' stand being established on lot 18, Charlotte street, east of Water street.

It was moved by Ald. Stevenson, seconded by the Mayor, that the matter of the carters' shelter be allowed to stand until the carters sign a paper showing how many will use it, and agreeing to conform to the rules, and to pay the expense of a telephone, fuel and keeping the place clean.—Carried.

SANCTARUM ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

An Interesting Gathering of Tribesmen of Cyzicus Sanctarm No. 24 Held Last Night.

Cyzicus Sanctorum, No. 24, O. O. H. and P., held its annual meeting in the I. O. O. F. Hall last evening. About eighty tribesmen were in attendance, several being present from Lakefield, Port Hope and other places. The past year has been the most successful one in the history of the Sanctorum, about 125 candidates being admitted to membership within the last twelve months. This is a record not equalled by any other Sanctorum of the Supreme Orient. Grand Hyastites Frank Wise presided, and during the evening some thirteen new tribesmen were initiated and had the degree of Humility bestowed upon them. After being admitted to the secrets of the Order they were entertained to a "moon feast."

The following are the newly-elected officers for the coming year:

Grand Hyastites — Tribesman Dr. McKercher.

Grand Vice-Hyastites— Tribesman J. T. C. Lang.

Venerable Friar—Tribesman George Jobbitt.

Bankeralissimo—Tribesman A. A. Fowler.

Registraralissimo—Tribesman J. E. Sharpe.

Chief Guide—Tribesman Robt. J. Matchett.

Grand Herald — Tribesman John Jordan.

Grand High Executioner — Tribesman C. F. Brown.

Grand Monitor—Tribesman Bruce Hutchison.

Speeches were delivered by the newly-elected officers, and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the retiring Registraralissimo, Tribesman J. T. C. Lang, for the faithful and efficient manner in which he has discharged the duties of that office. He was chosen as the representative from Cyzicus Sanctorum to the Supreme Order, which will meet in connection with the Grand Lodges of Oddfellows at Orillia in August next. Tribesman Lang suitably acknowledged the honour conferred upon him.

It was decided that the Sanctorum should assemble quarterly — on the first full moon of each quarter. At the close of the assembly a splendid repast was enjoyed in the dining-room, the delicacies being provided by Tribesman T. H. Hooper.

DIED.

ROPER.—At Toronto, on Thursday, Feb. 14th, 1907, F. E. Roper, son of the late J. H. Roper. Funeral Saturday afternoon, Feb. 16th, at 3 o'clock, from the residence of R. H. Fortye, 18 Gilmour street, to Little Lake Cemetery.

Women Suffer Agonies from Kidney Trouble

GIN PILLS CURE THEM

There is Mrs. Ripley, for instance. She suffered terribly with her back. It ached, ached, ached—all the time. Even in bed, it seemed as if she could not get easy. It finally became so bad that housework was impossible.

She certainly was a discouraged woman when she began to take GIN PILLS. And there isn't a happier, healthier woman in the Dominion than this same Mrs. Ripley to-day.

Williamsdale East, May 9th.

I cannot refrain from writing you the benefits I have received from Gin Pills. Before I had taken Gin Pills I suffered dreadfully with my back, and had suffered for twenty years. I have tried almost everything but got no relief until I got "Gin Pills."

I have taken six boxes and now I have not the sign of a pain or an ache in my back. I am now 48 and feel as well as I ever did in my life. There is nothing can hold a place with Gin Pills for pains in the back to which women are subject. Yours truly,

MRS. MILLARDS P. RIPLEY.

Mrs. Ripley had serious Kidney Trouble. And the sick kidneys were making her back ache—were giving her those splitting headaches—were sapping her strength—and dragging her down. GIN PILLS really saved her life. GIN PILLS cured her kidneys. She has been well ever since. GIN PILLS are a grand medicine for women.

Try them at our expense. Mention this paper when writing and we will send you a free sample so you can see for yourself just what GIN PILLS will do for you. The Bole Drug Co., Winnipeg, Man. 91

ADAM'S GLOVE SALE A GREAT SUCCESS

Several Hundred Pairs of Gloves as Result of Good Advertising and Good Bargains.

The Glove Sale at Harry T. Adams' Ladies' Furnishing Store yesterday was such a positive success as to be worthy of a passing reference. The sale did not begin until 10 o'clock in the morning, at which hour the store was jammed with the fair sex. The exact number of pairs of ladies' gloves sold at the special price, 50 cents, was 378. Only 360 pairs were advertised, but the day previous a small additional shipment was received, making the total 490 pairs. The surprise is that so many gloves were sold at a time when all the dry goods stores are holding winter clearance sales. But Mr. Adams concludes that good advertising and good quality did the business.

AGE OF A HORSE CAUSES QUARREL IN HOTEL YARD

One of the Parties Will Probably be Charged With Assault.

A quarrel over the age of a horse occurred in a local hotel yard last night, which will probably result in a Police Court case in the near future. A prominent horse buyer of the city was examining an animal belonging to an East City resident, when the latter bet that the buyer would not come within ten years of determining the horse's age. The bet was taken up, and one word led to another until the challenger struck the other, who was sitting in a cutter, a blow on the chin, cutting it badly. A number of witnesses of the alleged assault were standing by, and the case promises to be an interesting one should it be introduced into the Police Court.

THE WEATHER

Some extraordinary changes in temperature have been seen during the last few days. Yesterday the thermometer was up to 40 degrees, and the weather was quite springlike. The day previous we had it 9 degrees below zero, giving a range of temperature of 49 degrees within 24 hours. This morning the temperature was again almost down to zero, and wintry conditions are once more very much in evidence.

THE TORONTO BUNCH WERE HANDED A LEMON

Peterborough B. A. C. Defeated Queen City Contingent, Minus Sam Moore, by 8-4 in Great Game.

IT WAS A SPECTACULAR CONTEST

Sam. Moore didn't turn up with the Toronto B. A. C. contingent last night, and this is the reason assigned by that body for their defeat by the local branch in the biggest game of the season at the Brock street rink last night. The Peterborough end of the organization won by 9 goals to 4, despite the efforts of Norman Jolliffe, Van der Water and the other stars of the Queen City aggregation. The spectators were given an exhibition of everything, including hockey, aerial flights, slides for life, beautiful off-side combination, golf strokes and baseball swings, which made the contest a decidedly spectacular one, and the large crowd present, including many fair admirers, were delighted with the science displayed.

The report had been wafted over the Marconi system that the Toronto bunch were trained to the minute, and they certainly must have been, for they didn't last much longer than the sixty seconds. They were disorganized by the absence of Sam Moore from the defence, and although they worked hard, had not opportunity to win out.

It would be hard to pick the stars of the contest, as all the players saw many different kinds of stars during the night. Everybody had a hand or a foot in the scoring on the winning aggregation, even Goalkeeper Hiuston, who ambled up the ice from his position in order to bat some past Sisson.

Jolliffe's corkscrew rushes failed to penetrate the heavy defence of the winners, who put the Wood on in the defensive work. Hutchinson would have made Harvey Pulford look like 23 cents. The forward line were all good. Sisson had no skates on, relying on his feet to stop the puck. They certainly should have done so, but he did not get them in the right place. One of the forwards found it a difficult operation to Turner round, but he was in the game all the time. Ray Best was always prominent. Van der Water was injured, retiring at half-time, up till then the Toronto team had had seven men to six. Jack Crough refereed, and the teams were:

Huston	Sisson

CRESCENTS WILL PLAY GAME WITH PETERBORO'

Amateur New York Champions Will be Seen Here Next Week.

The management of the hockey club has been successful in securing a game with the Crescent Athletic Club of New York City for a game here on Friday of next week. The Crescents are champions of the Eastern American Amateur Hockey League, and have a very speedy team composed for the most part of Canadians who have made their mark in the hockey world on this side of the line. The game should be one of the best of the season.

HOCKEY

On Wednesday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock, Hall's All Rounds and Macpherson's Plumbers played a game of hockey in Brock street rink which resulted in a close score, and while MacPherson's made the challenge, Hall's All Rounds gave them a run for their money and kept the puck well up on the MacPherson goal all the time. The game at first was inclined to be rough, but the prompt action of the referee got the boys well drilled in the march and the command was sufficient, and obedience to their superior officer was never better manifested. The teams lined up as follows:

The Strathconas and the Charlotte Street teams are all that are left in the running for the City League championship, and the race between the two is decidedly interesting. Each have two games yet to play, the Strathconas having to meet the Orphans and Charlotte Street, while the latter have to stack up against Lakefield and the Strathconas. They each should win their next game and clash sticks two weeks from last night with four victories to their credit. The standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost	To play
Strathconas... 3	0		2
Charlotte St... 3	0		2
Auburns... 2	2		1
High Lifes... 2	3		0

On Saturday afternoon between the hours of five and six o'clock, will be played one of the most spectacular games seen here this season, when the apprentices of the C.G.E.Co., and apprentices of by "gone years," of the same shop, will meet in "fierce combat" for the machine shop championship. The game has long been talked of, especially by the "Kiddies," who feel confident of winning from their older, but none the less sporty, opponents, "The Daddies," who are a well organized body of hookey players, at least in theory, and there is no doubt but they will make the "Kids" think of the time when all day suckers and little red sleighs were their chief delights. The "Kiddies" are practicing faithfully every day, while with the "Dads" a seven-mile run every day is the order.

The teams will line up about as follows:—

THE MISSIONARY WORK IN FAR-OFF ARGENTINE

Rev. M. D. Smart, an old Peterborough boy, who has spent the last twelve years in the Republic of Argentine, South America, gave an interesting story of his work in the neglected continent at Bethany Tabernacle last night. There was a large number in attendance, and the interesting remarks of the speaker were listened to with rapt attention. The chair was occupied by Rev. Mr. Steurnagel. Rev. Mr. Smart chose as his text the first verse of the first chapter of Acts,

"Hello! Hello!! Oh! Yes!!!"

"I should say so! Everyone who tries it says there's nothing like St. George's."

"I know—but wouldn't you rather get a Baking-Powder you are sure is good?"

"St. George's is really less expensive—it goes farther and does better work—and never wastes flour in failures."

"No, indeed! There's not an atom of adulteration in St. George's Baking Powder—and the Cream of Tartar is 100% pure."

"Never! It makes the biscuits deliciously light."

"Yes, yes! Just try St. George's on my recommendation—if they're not good, I'll eat them all myself—at one sitting."

"Yes—the manufacturers guarantee it—and I guarantee it too."

"Certainly! Money back, if it's not just as I say it is."

"Thank you. I'll send it right away."

"One more customer for St. George's! Any one who tries it once always buys it afterward."

MARKED IMPROVEMENTS IN H. LEBRUN & CO'S STORE

Changes Which Contribute to an Improved Interior Appearance as Well as the Comfort of Customers.

The interior arrangements of Messrs. H. LeBrun & Company's clothing store have undergone considerable change during the past few weeks. The department of furnishings which occupied the north side of the store, has been changed over to the south side, where the increased space affords better facilities for compactness and assembling of the different lines together. The department of clothing now occupies the whole of the north side, which presents a much better appearance. These changes not only improve the appearance of the store, but also permit of customers being more quickly and satisfactorily served.

MANY MEMBERS FOR PETERBORO' INDUSTRIAL

Important Meeting to be Held on Thursday of Next Week.

A meeting of the Industrial Fair Directors will be held next week, probably on Thursday, when the reports of the various prize list revision Committees will be presented. There will be some important questions on the list for consideration at this meeting, one of which will be the proposal to confine the Exhibition to the four counties, Victoria, Durham, Northumberland and Peterborough.

The directors have reason to feel gratified over the results which Mr. Dawson Kennedy has secured in disposing of a large number of membership tickets. The President, Ald. Leary, has also been instrumental in selling a number

Whitcroft Plays Fast Game And Makes Good

Despatch From Kenora Refers in Complimentary Terms to Work of Former Peterborough Player—Is a Decidedly Effective Player.

Whitcroft has played his first game with Kenora and made good. The Winnipeg Free Press has a report of the game played in Kenora on Monday night, when the home team defeated the Winnipeg Strathcona, and refers to the work of the former Peterborough player. A despatch from Kenora to the Free Press says:

Kenora, Ont., Feb. 11.—Despite the fact that they were playing two juniors, Russell Phillips at point and Charlie McGimsie at centre, the Kenora Thistles gave the Strathcona of Winnipeg a severe beating to-night to the tune of 12 to 4. While the Thistles outclassed the visitors at every stage of the game, the contest was not lacking in interest, because of the brilliant plays which were put up from start to finish. For the Strathcona, the work of Parr in the nets was of a decidedly sensational brand, and time after time he handled those sizzlers of Phillips, Beaudro and Griffis in brilliant fashion. Had the average goalkeeper been in Parr's place the score would have been near the thirty mark. Dunderdale put up a dashing game at left wing, but Beaudro had him going in the last half. Nesbitt played a good game, but was closely checked.

As the tally indicates, all the Thistles played hockey. Whitcroft, the new rover, made good, playing great combination, rushing, checking and falling back in good style. He is ready, aggressive and decidedly effective.

The first half ended 6 to 3 in favour of the Thistles. In the last half the Thistles raised in seven to their opponents' one. The Strathcona were clearly fagged out early in the last half. The teams lined up as follows.

Strathcona—Parr, goal; Chambers, point; Magnus Flett, cover-point; Gee, rover; Nesbitt, centre; Kent, right wing; Dunderdale, left wing.

Auburns Out Of Running For City League Silverware

Strathconas Turned Down Red and Grey Outfit Last Night in a Splendid Game by 6 Goals to 3.

THE SECOND GAME PLAYED WAS A LIVELY SESSION.

The Stratheonas practically put the Auburns out of the running for the City League championship last night, when they defeated the red and grey team by 6 goals to 3 in a splendid exhibition of hockey. The Stratheonas had the best of the play throughout and their victory was earned, as they had a little on the Auburns in every department of the the game. They had to work every minute, however, to hold their lead, as the losers were always agressive.

The game was very clean, although the checking on both sides was close. The Stratheonas were speedier, combined better and, last but not least, shot much more accurately than their opponents, and those qualities enabled them to win out by a comfortable margin. The crowd present was a large one and they heartily enjoyed the exhibition, which was about as fast as has been seen in the league series this year. The Stratheonas have rounded into shape and on the form displayed last night should give Charlotte Street a great struggle for the tinware. The forward line is fast, shoots splendidly and, while not guilty of too much combination, play the passing game sufficiently to allow them to get in close for their shots. The defence is strong and will give any quartette of forwards in the league a bad half hour. Wilson made some clever stops last night and cleared nicely. Meagher and White both checked well and the latter got away with some pretty rushes. All the forward line played good hockey, never losing an opportunity to shoot, and their shoves were generally on the bull's-eye.

The Auburns failed to show much combination, and this, as much as anything, explains their defeat. The forwards checked well, but their passing, when they did any, was erratic. McDonald showed that he has not lost his ability to score, landing two out of the three goals credited to his team. Tucker was always prominent. Derocher played a splendid game in the nets, saving scores on many occasions, while Shaw was always effective at point.

Auburns started off with a rush, getting the first goal in less than a minute, but the Stratheonas came right back at them with a goal in 45 seconds. They led at half-time by 3-2, and in the second half scored three to their opponents' one.

The teams and summary were as follows:

The High Lifes and Lakefield furnished a very interesting hour's entertainment in the second game. The High Lifes won by 6-4 and had a little the best of the argument all through, although the visitors were coming strong at the finish. There was plenty of hockey and lots of excitement, with heavy body-checking and jubbing with the stick thrown in, and the crowd had an enjoyable session. The game ended with the teams each two men short, J. Quigley and Quinn, of the Lakefields, having to retire on account of injuries.

The High Lifes had a comparatively easy time in the first half, unreeling five goals in a row before the Suburb team got a look in at the scoring. The High Lifes combined well and worked in close with the rubber better than their opponents. Ross was the star and did some very clever stick-handling throughout. He was ably assisted by Ferguson and Kelly, while Smith did good service on the defence. Myers was there with his wrist shot as usual.

The work of Crawford at cover-point for Lakefield was one of the features that appealed to the crowd. He had a shape like a barrel and every time he collided with someone there was something doing. He mowed down the High Lifes right and leftin truly scientific fashion. Quinn and Quigley were prominent on the forward line, their speedy rushes being always dangerous. Royce made a worse like a sieve in the nets, letting some very easy shots beat him.

The teams and summary were as follows:

CANNINGTON RINKS WERE EASILY DEFEATED

Played Here Yesterday Afternoon and Evening—Peterborough Won By 17 on Round.

Curlers from Cannington came down to the city yesterday to try conclusions with rinks from the local club and met their Waterloo. The game was a friendly one, however, so that the defeat was not a very bitter pill to the visitors. In the afternoon Peterborough was victorious on the round by 39 to 27, giving them 12 points to the good. One of the Cannington rinks remained over night and in the evening played and lost a good game to W. Talbot's rink by a score of 13 to 8.

The ice was in the pink of condition for curling and both contests were of the scientific character.

NATION TEA WAS A GRATIFYING SUCCESS

The Charlotte Street Methodist Choir Gave Delightful Evening's Entertainment Last Night.

A SPLENDID PROGRAMME WAS GIVEN

Originality of conception and perfection in execution were contributing factors to the success of the Nation Tea given in the Sunday School room of the Charlotte street Methodist church last night. The affair, which was given under the auspices of the choir was in every respect a delightful one, and those who are responsible for it are to be congratulated upon its complete success. The large attendance was evidence of the fact that the congregation of this church is willing to support enterprises under the management of the choir, probably because of the knowledge that an enjoyable evening will be the result.

The rooms were very tastefully decorated, and presented a very pretty and pleasing appearance. The ladies had spent many hours upon the table and other decorations and the result of their labours bore testimony to their good taste and artistic ability.

Eight nationalities were represented by tables, those presiding at which were dressed in costumes characteristic of the country represented by them, the effect produced by the combination of colours on the table decorations and in many cases the bright costumes of the ladies was very beautiful.

Tea was served commencing at 6 o'clock, and consisted of a tempting menu, to which the three hundred visitors did full justice.

The tables and those serving at them were as follows:—

Canada—Miss Moore and Miss Jobbitt and Messrs. Squires and LeBar.

England—Miss Belleghem and Miss Clegg and Messrs. Collier and Stocker.

United States — Misses Lee and Huffman and Messrs. Harmer and Clarke.

Spanish—Mrs. Collier and Miss Manning.

Irish — Miss Doxsee and Miss Sperry and Messrs. Jolliffe and Ira Moore.

Scotch — Miss Luella Jobbitt and Miss Dawe and Mr. Collier.

Dutch — Miss Elliott and Miss McCoy and Messrs. Armstrong and W. Elliott.

Japanese — Miss Morris and Miss Howell and Messrs. J. Browne and E. Tovey.

The candy table was presided over by Miss Coe, Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. Cosford, and was one of the most popular corners in the room, the dainty confections finding a ready sale. This table was elaborately and tastefully decorated.

Ice cream was served from a booth with Mrs. Clegg and Miss Reycraft and Mr. Galbraith in charge, and was made attractive by its pretty white and red decorations.

Mrs. Dawe was in charge of the coffee table. In serving the tea the young ladies of the choir were assisted by the members of the Ladies Aid, whose assistance in the preliminary arrangements, both in an advisory and in an executive capacity was freely given and fully appreciated.

Following the tea a programme, short but of an excellent quality, was given, Dr. Morrison acting as chairman for the programme, which was opened by the choir singing, in costume, Canada's National Anthem, "The Maple Leaf." In a short address the chirman congratulated the choir upon the success of its enterprise and assured that organization that not only were the services rendered on Sundays appreciated by the congregation, but that occasions of that charater given by the choir were fully enjoyed.

Mr. James Browne followed with a vocal solo, which received merited applause. A recitation by little Miss Greta LeBar was given next and by her graceful manner and undoubted elocutionary ability she captivated the audience. She was enthusiastically recalled. "A Japanese Love Song" in costume by Miss Howell was a pleasing number, as was also a selection by the Mandolin Club. The first part of the programme closed with a vocal solo by Miss Belleghem given in a pleasing and musicianly manner.

Mr. R. Norman Jolliffe was heard with pleasure in a vocal solo and responded to the insistent demands of the audience for an encore. A second recitation by Miss LeBar and a chorus by the choir followed by the National Anthem closed a most enjoyable evening's programme. Miss Clarry acted as accompanist for the musical numbers, and as choir leader worked effectively for the success of the event, credit for which must be given to Miss Clarry and her faithful assistants in the choir.

The financial outcome of the event was satisfactory.

The Skin in Winter.

Suppose you were to carry a piece of hard bright steel about for a few days. Take it with you into your hot room—out again into a ten-below-zero breeze! Here in moist warm air. There in keen biting wind. How long would it remain bright and smooth? Your skin is subject to all these changes. Can you wonder that without attention it becomes rough, red and sore, with cracks and chapped places, and sometimes eczemous blotches? Do you expect more from it than from steel? Don't neglect your skin! Zam-Buk is a skin food. It heals cracks and chapped places; it cures eczema, it closes cuts and ulcers, it prevents blood poison—all by virtue of rich herbal saps and juices of which it is composed. You can't beat nature. Zam-Buk is nature's balm of healing to ailing, cold-bitten or diseased skins. Healing, soothing, and antiseptic at the same time. Send this article and one cent stamp for dainty sample box, giving name of this paper.

BAD LEG FOR A YEAR.

Cured in a Few Weeks.

Mrs. Geo. C. Taylor of Goodwood (Ont.), says:—"My little boy eight years old had a bad leg. It was all broken out and very painful. The sores were deep and seemed of a chronic nature. We tried all sorts of ointments and salves, but they proved of no avail. Then we took the little fellow to a doctor and he was under treatment for a long time, but the sores did not close. He was bad for over a year. A trial box of Zam-Buk did him more good than anything we had ever applied. So we got him some more and Zam-Buk has now healed up every sore. You may guess therefore that I recommend it highly."

CURED BABY'S ECZEMA.

Mrs. George Frafa, of Ruscom, says:—"Zam-Buk is highly suitable for children's delicate skins. It cured my baby of eczema which had spread over the little one's face. I had tried various preparations in vain, so I know Zam-Buk is very much superior to ordinary ointments and salves."

SEVERE BURNS HEALED.

Mr. Alf. J. Clark, of London (Ont.), whose photo we give, was cured of burns so deep that the blood ran from them, by Zam-Buk. He says:—"My little girl, too, knows how good it is. She burned her hands on the stove, but in a few hours Zam-Buk eased the pain and healed the burns. We always keep it in the house."

ZAM-BUK WILL CURE

eczema, face rashes, ulcers, abscesses, cuts, bruises, chapped places, running sores, poisoned wounds, chronic sores, etc. It is also good for piles and epleng veins. As an embrocation it cures rheumatism and sciatica, colds in the chest, etc. All druggists and stores at 50c. a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

GENERATOR MADE BY LOCAL WORKS

A Modern Electric Light and Power Plant Installed in Hastings—C.G.E. Co. Manufactured Generator

Last Wednesday, says the Hastings Star, there arrived in town from the Canadian General Electric Company, at Peterborough, an invention of these latter days, which will place Hastings in a better light than we have ever been able to see her. We refer to the new generator which is being installed by Fowlds, Limited, in their power station here.

To use a technical term this machine is an S. K. C. Two-Phase Generator; but to a layman who does not understand electrical terms it is a 200 horse power electrical generator of the latest pattern, which will insure good steady light and power at all time and at any time. Although the type of generators in use previous to this class generated electricity in a fairly satisfactory manner, their construction was so delicate that they were liable to burn out on being over-loaded, and cause inconvenience in many other ways, both in the power station and to the consumers; so that in order to improve the service, as well as to prepare for future development, Mr. Fowlds has superseded them with the most efficient and durable machine that money can buy.

The generator is being installed in the sawmill building, and, with the exception of one countershaft is driven direct from the turbine, insuring less trouble in handling as well as doing away with loss of power in transmission, thus making the efficiency of the station 100 per cent. greater than it has been in the past. Taking everything into consideration Hastings has now one of the most complete power plants of any town of its size in the province.

"DREADNAUGHT" AT EXPOSITION

Largest Battleship in the World Will Take Part in Great Naval Reunion at Jamestown.

Examiner Special.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 13.—The monster Battleship "Dreadnought," the largest man-of-war, in the world, Great Britain's latest acquisition, will participate in the grand naval display on Hampton Roads, during the period of the Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition. The famous sea fighter is now on her way to the West Indies, where she will be seen by Admiral Evan's fleet, which is carrying on winter manoeuvres in those waters. It is the general opinion that the Dreadnought will remain in the southern waters of the West Indies until the winter is over, arriving in Hampton Roads in time for the opening of the Jamestown Exposition on April 26th, remaining there until the British Fleet detailed for participation at the Exposition, is ready to return home.

The Dreadnought was only a short time ago put into commission, after having been a remarkably short period in building. She is of 18,000 tons displacement and has an armament of ten twelve-inch guns, or nearly three times the gun strength of any other battleship afloat. This vessel has a speed of more than twenty knots an hour and could therefore overtake any combination she can fight, or run away from any she cannot.

Besides this visit of the Dreadnought, England, through the Admiralty's late decision, will send her first cruiser division to Hampton Roads for the opening celebration of the Jamestown Exposition. The vessels comprising this division are the Good Hope, Antrim, Argyle, Devonshire, Hampshire and Foxburgh. These ships will probably give England a stronger representation in the naval manoeuvres in Hampton Roads than any of the other foreign powers that are to participate.

LADIES WILL TAKE CHARGE OF SERVICE

Interesting Service in Springville Presbyterian Church on Sunday Night.

The service in the Springville Presbyterian church on Sunday night will be one of more than usual interest in view of the fact that it will be taken by the ladies. It will be one of the series of services for young men, and the subject of the sermon will be, "Is the young man safe; what are the mothers doing to make them safe?" The ladies taking part will be dressed in white, and will wear blue and white ribbons. They will have charge of the whole service, with the exception of the sermon, which will, of course, be preached by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Marsh.

"NOT NOW, BUT FOR ALL TIME"

Is there anything more comfortable or more sensible for a cold winter's day than a Caperine, with a deep, large collar? Now we sell a lot of Caperines and carry a fine assorted stock, and have cut the prices away down. Some of these quotations may interest you.

Bocharan Lamb Caperines, deep shoulder, long front, high storm collar, well lined and finished $3.50

Electric Seal and Persian Lamb Caperines, seal collar and trimming and Persian lamb yoke, were $10.50, now $6.50

Ohio Sable and Persian Lamb Caperine, Persian Lamb yoke and sable collar, and deep trimming, beautiful value, was $12.00, now $7.00

Electric Seal and fine Sable Caperine, trimming 6 inches deep all around, nicely lined and finished, were $22 50, now $15.00

Sable and Persian Lamb Caperines, Persian Lamb yoke, Sable collar and trimming — a fine garment—was $25.00, now $16.50

We are saving people $20.00 to $30.00 on Persian Lamb Jackets.

SOME OTHER CARPET FACTORIES FOR THIS CITY

Journal of Fabrics States That Other Works Will Locate in "Kidderminster of Canada."

Peterborough is becoming known not only in Canada, but in England as well, as the foremost carpet city in Canada, and in the last issue of the "Canadian Journal of Fabrics" considerable space is given to Peterborough in connection with its carpet-manufacturing plants. The "Journal" says:

As announced in a previous issue of "The Journal of Fabrics," Peterborough, Ontario, bids fair to become the Kidderminster of Canada. The exodus from Great Britain to Canada of well known carpet manufacturers has not ceased yet, if one is to believe the Birmingham "Post" and other old country papers. The former says that several well known Kidderminster carpet firms are contemplating moving to this country, and we hear from other sources that there is a strong probability of this being done by one or more houses of wide reputation who make a specialty of the cheaper grades of carpets.

The plant of the Brinton Carpet Company, at Peterborough, of which Mr. P. G. Preen is the local manager, is now in operation, but this plant will be largely increased this year, and the lines made will be Brussels, Wiltons, and Axminsters. Mr. Henry Coates, of Coates Bros., Limited, Perth, Scotland, will sail shortly for Canada in connection with the plant which his company will erect in Peterborough, Ont., on the site secured last fall. This company now enjoys a large Canadian trade which has been built up by their agents, J. E. and P. Hughes, 84 Bay street, Toronto. The new company will be managed by John Dunwoodie.

Mrs. Holman Furnishes Jerome With Evidence With Which to Break Down Daughter's Dramatic Story.

Young Nesbit Still Persists In Determination to "Vindicate White's Memory"—Anxious to Go on Stand.

New York, Feb. 15. — Florence Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's story of her treatment at the hands of Stanford White has not weakened young Howard Nesbit's liking for Stanford White, nor caused him to abandon his antagonism towards his sister for marrying Harry Thaw.

Young Nesbit, who has been in the trial room from the first day, has been excluded from the courtroom since the taking of testimony began, as he will go on the stand for the State.

But he has been around the corridors during the sessions of the court keeping tabs on the witnesses for the defence and reporting to the District Attorney's office the identity of new faces as they appeared in the Thaw group.

It has developed that Mrs. Charles J. Holman, mother of Evelyn Thaw, has been in communication with the prosecution furnishing information to aid District Attorney Jerome in his effort to discount the young wife's terrible story of wrongs she suffered at the hands of the dead architect.

It is understood that the District Attorney has a representative in Pittsburg obtaining from Mrs. Holman, day by day, points for the use of the State, as facts damaging to white are brought out by the defence.

"Would you assume to contradict your sister's story of her ill-treatment by White?" young Nesbit was asked, when he volunteered that he was anxious "to vindicate White's memory," as he phrased it.

"Of course I would," responded young Nesbit. "She only told that story to that crazy fellow."

"But you would make your sister appear to have given perjured testimony?"

"It is better that she should appear to be a liar than what she has made herself out to be," said Evelyn Thaw's brother.

"I want to vindicate White's memory," continued the young fellow. "I am anxious to get on the stand to tell the truth as I know it. My sister testified as she did to save that crazy fellow, I tell you, and they are all crazy in there, anyway."

He pointed to the courtroom as he made his last remark and walked away.

MANY HOUSES OF REFUGE IN BAD CONDITION

Inspector Bruce Smith Reports That Inmates Are Grossly Neglected and Houses Are In Filthy State.

BETTER CARE OF THE FEEBLE-MINDED

Toronto Feb. 13.—A serious condition of affairs exists in many of Ontario's county Houses of Refuge, such as will doubtless necessitate a full and prompt investigation by the Provincial Government.

In many of these county institutions "unfortunate inmates have been left very much to take care of themselves, and the sick have been greatly neglected."

"In some cases," says the report of the Government Inspector, Mr. R. W. Bruce-Smith, presented to the Legislature by Hon. Mr. Hanna this afternoon, "the grossest indifference could only account for the conditions existing." In the Houses to which objection was taken were found unsanitary conditions, filth and vermin. Bathing facilities are inadequate, and the inmates were not kept clean.

"Too often," says the Inspector, "the whole desire is to see, not how well, but how cheaply, the institution can be conducted." One example is given of an institution with 86 inmates, and only two domestics employed, the result being that "dirt and neglect were everywhere apparent."

The report recommends a reorganization of the system of management of these institutions, with a uniform system for the whole Province in their management.

Imbecile Children

Another very serious matter to which attention is called is the number of feeble-minded mothers, unable to protect themselves. Scores of children have the stigma of imbecility stamped upon them, and are destined to become a public charge upon the Province. Imbecility and heredity are the most prolific of the known causes of pauperism and crime, and the report urges that "the time has surely come when more attention should be paid to preventing the propagation of the undesirable species. "It would seem," it is further urged, "to be good economy to make special provision for the care of these feeble-minded girls without proper custodial protection." The establishment of an Industrial Refuge convenient to a large city, to be made after the first year largely self-supporting by laundry and other domestic work, is suggested.

The prevalent spirit of liberality towards these institutions is commended, and the progress made in hospital work. Pending the completion of the new Toronto General Hospital every encouragement should be given other hospitals to enlarge their accommodation.

The efforts made by the Toronto General Hospital for the care and treatment of neuropathic and psychopathic cases, patients who are not insane, as the word is ordinarily understood, is commended. Insanity is reported on the increase in Ontario and every acute case of mental disturbance should be provided with treatment in a psychopathic hospital before being sent to a asylum.

Tuberculosis Patients

The absolute necessity in Ontario for the immediate establishment of special hospitals or sanatoria for patients suffering from tuberculosis is urged. An instance is recited of a man, 60 years of age, suffering from consumption and rejected at hospitals and homes. He even applied to be sent to jail. For three weeks he wandered about, sleeping in outbuildings, until he was finally found dead in an hotel shed, where he had been lying utterly neglected for days. Other similar instances of cruel and heartless treatment suggest the advisability of statutory enactments compelling each county to take advantage of the act relating to the establishment of municipal sanatoria. Under it the Government contributes $40,000, and $1.50 per week, towards each patient.

There are 44 Refuges and Homes in Ontario receiving Government aid, their population totalling 5,518. The last year's total expenditure for maintenance was $331,847.08, towards which the Government contributed $70,828.59. The report points out the danger of a system that encourages thriftlessness and consequently pauperism. Only those who are incapacitated by the infirmities of age should seek assistance.

The report also pays tribute to the work being done by the Children's Aid Society.

PREACHER LOSES EYE IN A FIGHT

Battle Grows Out of a Debate Over Temperance Legislation.

Examiner Special.

Carbi, Ill., Feb. 16.—In a quarrel arising over a conference on prohibition and the effectiveness of the local option, which is to come before the Legislature this year for settlement, between Rev. R. E. Moore and Teddy Sefried, a saloon keeper at Maurice, Rev. Moore suffered the loss of an eye and may lose his life.

Sefried is said to have struck him with a club. The preacher fought back, but was no match for his adversary.

GOVERNOR OF STATE IS SUED FOR RENT

Action for $100 is Begun in Order to Test a Law.

Examiner Special

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 15.—Attorney-General Thompson yesterday began suit in the Supreme Court against Governor Sheldon to collect on behalf of the State of Nebraska $100 house rent for use of the Executive Mansion for January.

The suit is begun at Governor Sheldon's request to settle the question of the validity of a law passed fourteen years ago, providing an official residence for the Governor. The law is seemingly in violation of the Constitution, which says he shall accept no emoluments other than his salary. The Governor's salary is $2,500.

SAYS FOOD WAS OF INFERIOR QUALITY

Charges Made by Mrs. Harper of This City Against Officials of Belleville Deaf and Dumb Institute.

The Belleville Ontario, referring to the investigation in progress in the Deaf and Dumb Institute there, in which a Peterborough lady was the accuser says:—

The complainant is a Mrs. Harper, residing in Peterborough, and she in her statements of charges complained that the food supplied was of poor quality and insufficient in quantity, that the pupils were unduly and cruelly beaten by the attendants, and also that the mode of teaching oralism was not of the proper kind. Mrs. Harper, Mr. John Jeby, Mr. William Cochrane, the farmer, and Miss Ross, the matron, have all given their evidence and Mr. Mathison was questioned yesterday afternoon and again to-day.

HISTORY AND USE OF THE BIBLE

This Will Form Subject of Special Sermon in Park Street Baptist Church To-morrow.

The peoples' popular Sunday evening services at the Park Street Baptist Church will be continued, and to-morrow night Rev. A. H. Brace will deal with the third subject in the February programme, namely:—"The Bible: where did it come from, and of what use is it in the world?" This is an important subject. "Ought we to accept it, or reject it; should I read it for myself and seek to understand it, or depend on others and accept their interpretation?" These are questions upon which we should be clear.

Varicose Ulcers Cured

Miss Elizabeth Campbell, No. 89, Sheridan avenue, Toronto, states:—"About eight years ago I hurt my leg near the ankle, and the result was what the doctors called varicose ulcers. I was treated in two Toronto hospitals and sent away without being cured. From the very start Dr. Chase's Ointment helped me, and by persistent use it has entirely cured me."

SUCCESSFUL SERIES OF MEETINGS CLOSE

Evangelist Mapleoden Will Conduct Farewell Services in Gospel Hall To-morrow Night.

On Monday evening Evangelist Mapleoden, who for the past five weeks has been conducting special services in the Gospel Hall and at Auburn, will leave the city for Toronto, where he will remain for a short time working. Last night the closing meeting of the series at Auburn was held and it was a most successful gathering, as have all the meetings held here have been.

To-morrow afternoon Mr. Mapleoden will speak at the Gospel Hall at night the farewell meeting will be held in the same hall. This series of meetings have been the most successful of any ever held under this auspices in the city.

A servant looked in with this information and a card on a tray. There was a slight commotion outside, the vision of a partially-wrecked bicycle on the path, and a dusty figure in the hall with his head in his hand.

"The gentleman has met with an accident, sir," the parlormaid said. Henson seemed to be knocked about a great deal. He was riding down the terrace, he said, when suddenly he ran over a dog, and——

"What sort of a dog?" Bell snapped out. "What color and size?"

Henson was utterly taken aback by the suddenness of the question. He gasped and stammered. He could not have told Bell more plainly that the "accident" was an artistic fake.

"You must stay here till you feel all right again," David suggested.

"Stay here for the night," Bell growled, sotto voce. "Stay here till tomorrow morning and hear something from Van Sneck's lips that will finish his interesting career for some time. Medical treatment be banged. A clothes-brush and some soap and water are all the physic that he requires."

Presently Henson professed himself to be better. His superficial injuries he bore with a manly fortitude quite worthy of his high reputation. He could afford to smile at them. But he feared that there was something internal of a sufficiently serious nature. Every time he moved he suffered exquisite agony. He smiled in a faint kind of way. Bell watched him as a cat watches a mouse. And he could read a deeper purpose behind that soft, caressing manner. What it was he did not know, but he meant to find out before the day was passed.

"Hadn't we better send him to the hospital?" David suggested.

"What for?" was Bell's brutal response. "There's nothing whatever the matter with the man."

"But he has every appearance of great pain."

"To you, perhaps, but not to me. The man is shamming. He has come here for some purpose, which will be pretty sure to transpire presently. The knave never dreams that we are watching him, and he hugs himself with the delusion that we take his story for gospel. Fancy a man in the state that he pretends to be in sending his card to you! Let him stay where we can keep an eye upon the chap. So long as he is under our observation he can't do any mischief outside."

There was wisdom in what Bell suggested, and David agreed. Despite his injuries, Henson made a fair tea, and his dinner, partaken of on the dining-room sofa, was an excellent one.

"And now, do not let me detain you, as you have business," he smiled. "I shall be quite comfortable here if you will place a glass of water by my side. The pain makes me thirsty. No, you need not have any further consideration for me."

He smiled with patient resignation, the smile that he had found so effective on platforms. He lay back with his eyes half closed. He seemed to be asleep.

"I fancy we can leave him now," Bell said, with deep sarcasm. "We need have no further anxiety. Perfect rest is all that he requires."

Henson nodded in a sleepy fashion; his eyes were closed now till the others had left the room. Once he was alone he was alert and vigorous again.

"Ten minutes," he muttered, "say, a quarter of an hour. A touch, a spot of water, and the thing is done. And I can never be found out."

CHAPTER LII

Once the trio were in the operating-room Bell gave one rapid glance at Heritage. But the latter seemed to have forgotten all his fears. There was an alert air about him; he was quiet and steady. There was something of the joy of battle in his eyes.

"Now go and fetch Van Sneck in," Bell said.

The patient came at length. Everything was ready. Van Sneck murmured something and looked vaguely about him, like a man suddenly aroused from a deep sleep. But he obeyed quite willingly when Bell commanded him to get on the table. A moment or two later and he was gone under the influence of the ether administered by Bell.

A case of glittering instruments lay on the table. The strong electric light was switched on and hung just over the head of the unconscious patient.

"You hold the sponge," Bell whispered to David. "There will be very little blood. I like to have a man with me who has coolness and courage. Oh, here is the spot. Feel the depression of the skull, Heritage. That is where the pressure lies, and no larger than a pea."

Heritage nodded, without reply. He took up the knife, there was a flash of steel in the brilliant light and a sudden splash of blood. There was a scrape, scrape that jolted horribly on David's nerves, followed by a convulsive movement of Van Sneck's body.

"Beautiful, beautiful," Heritage murmured. "How easily it comes away."

Bell was watching in deep admiration of the strong hand that was yet light as thistledown. The big electric light flickered for just a moment, and Heritage stood upright.

"Don't be a fool," Bell said, sternly. "It's a mere matter of current." Heritage muttered that it must be. Nevertheless it had given him quite a turn. His face was set and pale and his hand shook ever so slightly. The knife was cutting deep, deeper——

A snarling oath broke from Bell's lips as the light flickered again and popped out suddenly, leaving the whole room in intense darkness. Heritage cried aloud. David felt a hand guiding his fingers to the patient's head.

"Press the sponge down there and press hard," Bell whispered. "It's a matter of life and death. Another minute and Van Sneck would have gone. Heritage, Heritage, pull yourself together. It was no fault of yours the light went out—the fault is mine."

Bell stumbled down the kitchen stairs and returned with a candle. The electric lights were out all over the ground floor with the exception of the hall. One of the circuits had given out completely, as sometimes happens with the electric light. Bell leapt on a table and turned the hall light out. A second later and he was dragging the long spare flex from the impromptu operating-room to the swing cord over the hall lamp. With a knife he cut the cord loose, he stripped the copper wires beneath, and rapidly joined one flex to the other.

"It's amateur work, but I fancy it will do," he muttered. "Anyway, that rascal is powerless to interfere with the circuit that controls the hall light."

Snap went the hall switch—there was a sudden cry from Heritage as the big lamp over the head of Van Sneck flared up again. Bell raced into the study and shut the door."

"A trick," he gasped. "The light was put out. For Heaven's sake, Heritage, don't get brooding o[ver] those fancies of yours now. I tell you the thing was done deliberately. Here, if you are too weak or feeble, give the knife to me."

The request had a sting in it. With an effort Heritage pulled himself together.

"No," he said, firmly, "I'll do it. It was a cruel, dastardly trick to play upon me, but I quite see now that it was a trick. Only it's going to make a man of me instead."

Bell nodded. His eyes were blazing, but he said nothing. He watched Heritage at work with stern approval. Nothing could have been more scientific, more skillful. It seemed a long time to David, looking on, but it was a mere matter of minutes.

"Finished," Heritage said, with a triumphant thrill. "And successful."

"And another second would have seen an end of our man," Bell said. "He's coming round again. Get those bandages on, Heritage. I'll look after the mess. Give him the drug. I want him to sleep for a good long time."

"Will he be sensible to-morrow?" David asked.

"I'll pledge my reputation upon it," Bell said. "Hadn't you better telephone down to your electrician to come and see to those lights? I see the fuse in the meter is intact; it is only on the one circuit that they have gone."

Van Sneck opened his eyes and stared languidly about him. In a clear, weak, yet wholly sensible voice he asked where he was, and then lapsed into slumber. A little later and he lay snug and still in bed. There was a look of the deepest pleasure in the eyes of Heritage.

"I've saved him and he's saved me," he said. "But it was touch and go for both of us when that light failed. But for Bell I fancied that I should have fainted. And then it came to me that it was some trick, and my nerve returned."

"Never to leave you again," Bell said. "It tried you high, and found you not wanting."

"Heaven be praised," Heritage murmured. "But how was it done?"

Bell's face was stern as he took the kitchen candlestick from the table and went in the direction of the dining-room.

"Come with me, and I'll explain," he said, curtly.

The dining room was in pitchy darkness, for the lights there had been on the short c[ircuit], indeed, the lights on the ground floor had all failed with the exception of the hall, which fortunately had been on another circuit. The fact had saved Van Sneck's life, for if Bell had not speedily used that one live wire the patient must have perished.

Henson looked up from his sofa with a start and a smile.

"I am afraid I must have been asleep," he said, languidly.

"Liar," Bell thundered. "You have been plotting murder. And but for a mere accident the plot would have been successful. You have worked out the whole thing in your mind; you came here on purpose. You came here to stifle the light at the very moment when we were operating on Van Sneck. You thought that all the lights on the floor would be on the same circuit; you have been here before."

"Are you mad?" Henson gasped. "When have I been here before——"

"The night that you lured Van Sneck here by a forged letter and left him for dead."

Henson gasped, his lips moved, but no words came from them.

"You have a little knowledge of electricity," Bell went on. "And you saw your way pretty clear to spoil our operation to-night. You got that idea from yonder wall-plug, into which goes the plunger of the reading lamp on the cabinet yonder. At the critical moment all you had to do was to dip your fingers in water and press the tips of them against the live wire in the wall-plug. You did so, and immediately the wires fired all over the circuit and plunged us in darkness. But the hall light remained sound, and Van Sneck was saved. It is any consolation to you, he will be as sensible as any of us to-morrow."

Henson had risen to his feet, pale and trembling. He protested, but it was all in vain. Bell approached the china wall-plug and pointed to it.

"Hold the candle down," he said. "There! You can see that the surface is still wet, there is water in the holes now, and some of it has trickled down the distemper on the wall. You ought to be shot where you stand, murderous dog."

Henson protested, with some dignity. It was all so much Greek to him, he said. He had been sleeping so quietly that he had not seen the light fail. Bell cut him short.

"Get out," he cried. "Go away; you poison the air that honest men breathe, and you are as fit and well as I am. Why don't you pitch him into the street, Steel? Why don't you telephone to Marley at the police-station, and say that the Huddersfield swindler is here? Oh, if you only knew what an effort it is to keep my hands off him!"

Henson made for the door with alacrity. A moment later and he was in the street, dazed, confused, and baffled, and with the conviction strong upon him that he had failed in his great coup. Van Sneck would be sensible to-morrow—he would speak. And then——

But he dared not think of that at present. He wanted all his nerve and courage now. He had just one last chance, one single opportunity of making money, and then he must get out of the country, without delay. He almost wished now that he had not been quite so precipitate in the matter of James Merritt. That humble tool might have been of great advantage to him at this moment. But Merritt had threatened to be troublesome and must be got out of the way. But, then, the police had not picked Merritt up yet. Was it possible that Merritt had found out that——

But Henson did not care to think of that, either. He would go back to the quiet lodgings he had taken in Kemp Town for a day or two, he would change his clothes and walk over to Longdean Grange, and it would go hard if he failed to get a cheque from the misguided lady there. If he were quick he could be there by eleven o'clock.

He passed into his little room. He started back to see a man sleeping in his armchair. Then the man, disturbed by the noise of the newcomer, opened his eyes. And those eyes were gleaming with a glow that filled Henson's heart with horrible dread. It was Merritt who sat opposite him, and it was Merritt whose eyes told Henson that he knew of the latter's black treachery. Henson was face to face with death, and he knew it.

He turned and fled for his life; he scudded along the streets, past the hospital and up towards the downs, with Merritt after him. The start was not long, but it was sufficient. Merritt took the wrong turn, and, with a heart beating fast and hard, Henson climbed upwards. It was a long time before his courage came back to him. He did not feel really easy in his mind until he had passed the lodge-gates at Longdean Grange, where he was fortunate enough, after a call or two, to rouse up Williams.

The latter came with more alacrity than usual. There was a queer grin on his face and a suggestion of laughter in his eyes.

"There seems to be a lot of light about," Henson cried. "Take me up to the house, and don't let anybody know I am here. Your mistress gone to bed?"

"She's in the drawing-room," Williams said, "singing. And Miss Enid's there. I am sure they will be glad to see you, sir."

Henson doubted it, but made no reply. There was a chatter of voices in the drawing-room, a chatter of a lightsomeness that Henson had never heard before. Well, he would soon settle all that. He passed quietly into the room, then stood in puzzled fear and amazement.

"Our dear nephew," said a cool, sarcastic voice. "Come in, sir, come in. This is quite charming. Well, my sweet philanthropist and most engaging gentleman, and what may we have the pleasure of doing for you to-night?"

"Lord Littimer?" Henson gasped. "Lord Littimer here?"

CHAPTER LIII

Bell gave a gesture of relief as the door closed upon Henson. Heritage looked like a man who does not quite understand.

"I haven't quite got the hang of it yet," he said. "Was that done for my benefit?"

"Of course it was," Bell replied. "Henson found out that Van Sneck was here, as he was certain to do sooner or later. He comes here to make inquiries and finds you; also he comes to spy out the land. Now, without being much of a gambler, I'm willing to stake a

SYMPTOMS

Palpitation of the Heart, Irregular or Skipped Beats, Dizzy Spells, Smothering Feeling, Shortness of Breath, Bluish Color of the Lips, Pain in the Region of the Heart, Thin Watery Blood, Cold Hands and Feet, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, etc.,

If you have any of these symptoms

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

will bring the whole system into healthy action, and give power, force and vigor to every organ of the body thereby strengthening the weak heart and unstrung nerves.

Mrs. Harmon Daybell, Welland, Ont., writes: "I write to let you know what good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

For over three years I suffered with pains under my left breast and my nerves were completely unstrung. I purchased two boxes of your pills and before I had the first box finished I felt much better and now I am cured."

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Hirge with that he introduced the subject of your old trouble?"

"He invariably did that," Heritage admitted.

"Naturally. That was part of the game. And you told him that you had got over your illness and that you were going to do the operation. And you told him how. Where were you when the little conversation between Henson and yourself took place?"

"He was asked into the dining-room."

"And then you told him everything. Directly Henson's eyes fell upon that wall-plug he knew how to act. He made up his mind that the electric light should fail at a critical moment. Hence the dramatic 'accident' with the cycle. Once Henson got into the house the rest was easy. He had only to wet his fingers and press them hard against the two wires in the wall-plug and out pops the light, in consequence of the fuses blowing out. I don't know where Henson learnt the trick, but I do know that I was a fool not to think of it. You see, the hall light being dropped through from the floor above was on another circuit. If it hadn't been we should have had our trouble with Van Sneck for nothing."

"He would have died!" David asked.

The two doctors nodded significantly.

"What a poisonous scoundrel he is!" David cried. "Miss Chris Henson does not hesitate to say that he was more or less instrumental in removing two people who helped her and her sister to defeat Henson, and now he makes two attacks on Van Sneck's life. Really, we ought to inform the police what has happened and have him arrested before he can do any further mischief. Penal servitude for life would about fit the case."

Van Sneck was jealously guarded by Heritage and Bell for the next few hours. He awoke the next morning little the worse for the operation. His eyes were clear now; the restless, eager look had gone from them.

"Where am I?" he demanded. "What has happened?"

Bell explained briefly. As he spoke his anxiety passed away. He saw that Van Sneck was following quite intelligently and rationally.

"I remember coming here," the Dutchman said. "I can't recall the rest just now. I feel like a man who is trying to piece the fragments of a dream together."

"You'll have it all right in an hour or two," Bell said, with an encouraging smile. "Meanwhile your breakfast is ready. Yes, you can smoke afterwards if you like. And then you shall tell me all about Reginald Henson. As a matter of fact, we know all about it now."

"Oh," Van Sneck said, blandly. "You do, eh?"

"Yes, even the history of the second Rembrandt, and the reason why Henson stabbed you and gave you that crack over the head. If you tell me the truth you are safe; if you don't—why, you stand a chance of joining Henson in the dock."

Bell went off, leaving Van Sneck to digest this speech at his leisure. Van Sneck lay back on his bed, propped up with pillows, and smoked many cigarettes before he expressed a desire to see Bell again. The latter came in with Steel; Heritage had gone elsewhere.

"This gentleman is Mr. Steel?" Van Sneck suggested.

Bell responded somewhat drily that it was. "But I see you are going to tell us everything," he went on. "That being so, suppose you begin at the beginning. When you sold that copy of the 'Crimson Blind' to Lord Littimer had you the other copy?"

"Ach, you have got to the bottom of things, it seems." Van Sneck gurgled.

"Yes, and I have saved your life, foolish as it might seem," Bell replied. "You came very near to losing it the second attempt last night at Henson's hands. Henson is done for, played out, burst up. We can arrest him on half-a-dozen charges when we please. We can have you arrested any time on a charge of conspiracy over those pictures——"

"Of which I am innocent; I swear it," Van Sneck said, solemnly. "Those two Rembrandts—they fell into my hands by what you call a slice of good luck. I am working hand in glove with Henson at the time, and show him them. I suggest Lord Littimer as a purchaser. He would, perhaps, buy the two, which would be a little fortune for me. Then Henson, he says, 'Don't you be a fool, Van Sneck. Suppress the other; say nothing about it. You get as much from Littimer for the one as you get for the two, because Lord Littimer think is unique.'"

"That idea commended itself to a curio dealer?" Bell suggested, drily.

"But yes," Van Sneck said, eagerly. "Later on we disclose the other and get a second big price. And Lord Littimer he buy the first copy for a long price."

"After which you discreetly disappear," said Steel. "Did you steal those pictures?"

"No," Van Sneck said, indignantly. "They came to me in the way of honest business—a poor workman who knows nothing of their value, and takes fifteen marks for them."

"Honest merchant," David murmured. "Pray go on."

"I had to go away. Some youthful foolishness over some garnets raked up after many years. The police came down upon me so suddenly that I got away with the skin of my teeth. I leave the other Rembrandt, everything, behind me. I do not know that Henson he give me away so that he can steal the other Rembrandt."

"So you have found that out?" said Bell. "Who told you?"

"I learn that not so long ago. I learn it from a scoundrel called Merritt, a tool of Henson. He tells me to go to Littimer Castle to steal the Rembrandt for Henson, because Dr. Bell, he find my Rembrandt. Then I what you call pump Merritt, and he tells me all about the supposed robbery at Amsterdam and what was found in the portmanteau of good Dr. Bell yonder. Then I go to Henson and tell him what I find out, and he laughs. Mind you, that was after I came here from Paris on business for Henson."

"About the time you bought that diamond-mounted cigar-case?" David asked, quietly.

Van Sneck nodded. He was evidently impressed by the knowledge possessed by his questioners.

"That's it," he said. "I buy it because Henson ask me to. Henson say he make it all right about the Rembrandt, and that if I do as I am told he give me £500. His money is to come on a certain day, but I pump and I pump, and I find that there is some game against Mr. Steel, who is a great parelier."

Will be continued next Saturday.

HON. GEO. P. GRAHAM'S RESOLUTION

Looks to Establish Minimum Rate in Fraternal Insurance.

GOVERNMENT TO INQUIRE

Interesting Session at Thursday's Session of Legislature in Which Opposition Leader's Motion Was Supported by Members on Both Sides of House—Interim Appropriation of $124,000 Passed.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—In the Legislature yesterday, Mr. Graham moved: "That in the opinion of this House, owing to the vast interests involved, the time has arrived when the Government should make a thorough enquiry into the question of life insurance by fraternal societies, with a view to establishing a safe and equitable table of rates, which table of rates shall be the minimum to be charged by all fraternal societies operating under provincial license or charter."

Mr. Graham said the matter was one of such importance it was time that general public attention should be drawn to it. The societies provided cheap insurance, but it should not only be cheap but substantial.

There were 364,210 members of fraternal societies in Ontario and 78,975 were members of sick benefit funds. In 1905 $2,268,140 had been paid for insurance in these societies, one-third the amount of the provincial revenue. There had also been paid for funeral benefits $68,984 and for sick benefits $469,235. Such sums as these made it clear that the societies should be kept on a strong foundation. Some of the societies might object to any interference with their management, but the existence of a standard Government rate, even in the case of societies that so objected, would tend to influence the adoption of sound rates.

There were $300,000,000 of fraternal insurance in Ontario, all confined to men on salaries, or at day labor. If these organizations were not on a sound basis at present something should be done to lead the way to one. They had all started with a level assessment, and this had been modified as the death rate increased. Now that the old death rate, if he might call it so, had supervened, an equable scale should be devised.

Might Increase Rates.

W. H. Hoyle objected that the vast interests involved would operate, in the event of an attempt to impose Government rates, to defeat the proposed object. There were societies and societies, some of them in a sound condition acturially and others perhaps in a different condition. The application of the resolution to these would possibly result in the increase of rates to old members, so as practically to exclude them. He concluded with a warning that any attempt to compel the adoption of Government rates would end in disaster.

Allan Studholme thought that Mr. Hoyle's contention that old members might be squeezed was one of the best reasons for requiring Government interference. It should be in the power of the Legislature to stop mismanagement. They might call such interference paternalism or socialism, but the name did not frighten him a bit.

The debate was continued by D. J. McDougall, who disagreed with Mr. Hoyle.

J. J. Craig thought the Government should either supervise the rates or should not seem to do so. The old men in the societies had been getting insurance for years below cost, and now when fair rates were proposed they should be satisfied.

J. A. Auld supported the motion, and joined in the oppostion to Mr. Hoyle's views.

Important, Says Mr. Foy.

Hon. J. J. Foy said the Government did not regret that the motion had come up, since it dealt with an important question. With over $300,000,000 at stake and in view of other statements made, important interests were shown to be involved, and the material advantage of many depended upon it.

There were two points in the motion. One referred to the vast interests requiring a Government enquiry. The time for that was not now, but many years ago. When the friends of the mover of the resolution were in power they did nothing to correct the rates. If anything could be done now the Government would only be too glad to take it into consideration and remedy the wrong. But they would have to be careful.

In trying to devise a remedy they might do greater harm than if no steps were taken. If a fixed minimum rate were insisted upon for adoption it might render some companies insolvent by putting people in the position of being unable to keep up with their payments. These things would be guarded against in what might be done.

Minimum figures had been set forth in schedule A of the Insurance Act, in what is known as the Hunter rath. The annual insurance reports and comments thereon were having some effect in making the companies adopt better rates.

He assured the House the whole question would be looked into by the Government and meanwhile would ask the honorable member not to press his motion at the present time.

For Educational Purposes.

Hon. Mr. Graham said his object was not to press the motion on the Government unduly, but rather to educate the societies, and possibly some members of the Government, on the magnitude of the question. He accepted the assurance of the Attorney-General and withdrew his motion.

An interim vote of $124,000 was asked for certain special purposes.

Col. Matheson stated that the former vote had not been exhausted, but the sums required were $30,000 for the revised statutes, $4,000 for bounty on wolves, $7,000 hydro-electric power commission, $8,000 fish and game, $2,000 insurance, and $63,000 superannuated teachers; $10,000 commutation of veterans' land grants.

The vote was passed.

Read a First Time.

The following bills were read a first time:

TORTURED BY INDIGESTION.

Dr. Williams Pink Pills Cured After Doctors Had Failed.

Mrs. T. J. Jobin, 368 King street, Quebec, wife of the circulation manager of L'Evenement, is one of the best known and most estimable ladies in the city, and he statement that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured her of a very severe attack of indigestion will bring hope to similar sufferers. Mrs. Jobin says: "About a year ago I was seized with indigestion which had an alarming effect upon my health. Day by day my strength grew less. I suffered from terrible headaches, dizziness, palpitation of the heart and sleeplessness. I was in this condition for about six months. I consulted two doctors and although I followed their treatment carefully it did not help me in the least. Last October, seeing that instead of regaining my health I was growing worse, I decided to try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. After I had taken the second box there was a change for the better, and after taking the pills for a month longer the trouble entirely disappeared, and I am again enjoying the best of health. I have so much confidence in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I always keep them in the house and take them occasionally as a safeguard."

Just as surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Jobin's indigestion they can cure all the other ailments which come from bad blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new, red blood. That is the one thing they do—but they do it well. In making this new rich blood this medicine strikes stright at the root of such common ailments as anaemia, headaches and backaches, general weakness, nervous debility, neuralgia, rheumatism and the torturing weakening ailments that afflict women and growing girls. You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TORONTO JAIL ENQUIRY.

Governor Denies All Charges But Evidence In Rebuttal Conflicts.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Commissioner Judd intimated yesterday that the Van Zant enquiry was practically over, though he might in the course of two or three weeks sit for a day to hear argument. Yesterday counsel were not ready to go on, and it was suggested that the argument be submitted in writing. Mr. Baird and Mr. Higgins were willing, but Mr. Hearn, for Guard Connolly, made a strong protest.

The charges of improper conduct made by Edith Elton against the governor were emphatically denied by him.

The governor testified that he had conducted sales for prisoners at the instance of the detective department but had never made a cent out of this business.

Witness denied all charges of improper conduct.

Van Zant admitted that he had let a prisoner go because he handed over a pawn-ticket as security for paying his fine. The commissioner wanted to know if there was a rule for this. The governor explained that it was the custom, and that there was no rule against it.

Steward McMillan and Guard Harris stated in rebuttal that the stories that they had told were true, and that the evidence of the governor and the witnesses for the defence was incorrect.

Guard Addy swore that in no shape or form whatever, directly or indirectly, did he have anything to do with the letter that was received by Connolly, threatening his "hart's blud."

A TORONTO GIRL'S SAD DEATH

In Best of Health and Spirits At Bed Time.

FOUND DEAD IN BED AT DAWN

Edna Shaw, Aged 12, and Eva Shaw, Aged 18, Returned From Skating and Ate Angel Cake and Tarts Before Going to Bed — Mother Found Youngest Dead in Bed and the Eldest Unconscious.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Poisoned by angel cake is the alleged cause of the death under pathetic circumstances of 12-year-old Edna Shaw, daughter of Emanuel Shaw at 107 Spadina avenue yesterday morning.

Edna, with her sister Eva, aged 18, retired on Thursday night about 10.30, after spending a night at the rink. Before going to bed each partook of some angel cake and tarts, which were on the dining-room table. Both were in the best of health and spirits.

Yesterday morning about ten minutes after seven Mrs. Shaw went to the girls' room on the second floor to call them for work. She was horrified to find both girls apparently dead.

Her screams brought her 13-year-old son, and Dr. McCormack was immediately summoned. Edna was dead, but Eva was only unconscious.

Other physicians were called, and the older girl was given treatment with success, consciousness returning about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Coroner Graham will hold an inquest.

THAW TRIAL ADJOURNED,

Death of Mrs. Bolton Brings Trial to Stop—Jurors Must Not Read or Talk—On Their Honor.

New York, Feb. 15.—Another tragic chapter in the story of the Thaw-White case was written yesterday, when grim death stepped in to halt the famous trial in its fourth week.

The wife of Juror No. 11, Mrs. Joseph B. Bolton, passed away yesterday afternoon, soon after her husband had reached her bedside. He had been summoned from the court-room, where the trial had been in progress for less than 15 minutes.

The formal announcement of Mrs. Bolton's death was made in court shortly after 2 p. m., the hour set for the afternoon session, and Justice Fitzgerald immediately ordered an adjournment of the case until Monday. The court also ordered, with the consent of counsel, that the other 11 jurors be given their liberty and no longer held together.

He admonished them to be guided by their honor and their oath and not to read the newspapers or discuss the Thaw case with anybody.

In adjourning till Monday Justice Fitzgerald expressed the hope that the trial might then proceed.

To Prevent Publication.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Representative Wharton of Illinois introduced a resolution in the House yesterday authorizing the president to exclude from the mails any and all publications "containing the revolting details" of the Thaw case and other cases of similar nature.

The Grand Jury at Work.

Lebanon, Ky., Feb. 15.—The county grand jury Wednesday night returned indictments against The Cincinnati Enquirer, Louisville Herald, Louisville Times, and Evening Post, for printing and circulating in this county the "offensive and indecent" proceedings of the Thaw trial.

CONCLUSION OF THE DOCTORS.

Telephone Operators Are Subjected Thereto Say Medical Witnesses.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Medical men were witnesses on behalf of the telephone girls yesterday.

Judge Winchester repeated his demand for a statement as to wages paid in the Toronto offices. Mr. Kerr's excuse was that the company didn't know precisely what was wanted, but would see that the request was honored.

The day was taken up in the examination of medical witnesses, who were first permitted to inspect the Main exchange.

Dr. Davidson, Dr. Oldright, Dr. Walter McKeown, Dr. Forfar and Dr. Sheard were called in the morning and Drs. Anderson, Alexander, Silverthorn, Trow, Bennett, Temple and Dr. Reeve, president of the British Medical Association, and dean of the faculty of medicine of Toronto University, gave evidence in the afternoon.

The concensus of opinion seemed to be that the operators were subject to great nervous strain and that the shorter period of actual work that could be arranged the better. Several of them questioned the advisability of young women engaging in such an occupation.

Bigamist Jailed At Cornwall.

Cornwall, Feb. 15.—Charged with deserting his wife and three children in Plattsburg, N. Y., Oliver Lajore was arrested here and taken to Plattsburg. Lajore came here a month ago, and on Jan. 28 was married under the name of Albert Wells of Albany, N. Y., to Miss Sarah Roach, daughter of Thomas Roach.

THIS CREAM ALIVE WITH BACTERIA

Startling Exposure Made by a United States Official

Examiner Special.

Harrisburg, Feb. 15. — Ivan C. Weld, of the United States Agricultural Department, made a statement before the State Dairymen's Union that caused a commotion. He had secured samples of milk and cream from Harrisburg dealers and analyzed them.

"One sample of milk," said Mr. Weld, "contained over 4,000,000 bacteria per cubic centimetre, and the lowest number found in any sample was over 190,000. A sample of pasteurized milk, which is supposed by the public to be free from bacteria, was found to contain over 3000 bacteria per cubic centimetre.

"Another interesting sample was purchased from a dealer, who described it as 'double cream,' or cream twice the ordinary thickness," added Mr. Weld. "This sample, however, was found to contain only 9 per cent. butter fat. The number of bacteria, however, was over 11,200,000 per cubic centimetre."

BUY SILVER BIRD

AT 15 CENTS PER SHARE

DON'T YOU REMEMBER

That within the past year you could have purchased Silver Queen at 90 cents, and that if you had done so you could now sell it at $3.75?

Don't you remember that you could have bought Buffalo within the past year at $1.00, and if you had a few shares of it to-day you could sell it at $8.50 per share without any trouble?

And now, again, don't you remember the Temiskaming and Hudson Bay Company offering their shares at 40 cents and begging the dear public to take it? Perhaps you didn't buy any of it, but if you did you could get $600.00 to-day for every 40 cents that you put into it.

Now, again, it has only been some two or three months since you could have bought Nancy Helen at $1.00. Perhaps you have some of it. If you have you can get $2.50 per share for it to-day.

Less than one year ago you could have got Nipissing at $4 per share, and if you had it to-day you could sell it at $10 per share.

The same can be said of the Colonial, the Right of Way and other shares. If you had bought them at their first issue price you could sell them to-day at from 500 to 700 per cent. advance.

If you have not got any of these stocks referred to above, perhaps it is because some wise friend or neighbor advised you not to buy. Perhaps you went to some good and wise friend and said, "What do you think about buying this stock or that stock?" Perhaps he said to you, "Well, I don't know about this Cobalt proposition; there may or may not be silver up there. If I were you I would not buy."

Now, are you going to go to your friend again and ask him whether you shall buy some of the first issue of Silver Bird at 15 cents per share, or are you going to back your own judgment? Here is the cheapest and best buy that was ever offered in the camp, and at the first issue price of 15 cents per share—inside property as much so as were any of these other companies of which we have written at the time they were placed upon the market.

Use your own judgment. Be your own money-maker. Don't discount your own business ability. Your own judgment will tell you that Silver Bird is a purchase. Look at the map and see where it is. Your own judgment will tell you it is bound to advance in price. Why hesitate longer? Why not get in on the ground floor and make some money? This first allotment of 200,000 shares is not going to last forever the way it is going. The best evidence as to whether Silver Bird is a bargain or not is the fact that we are receiving many reservations from Cobalt.

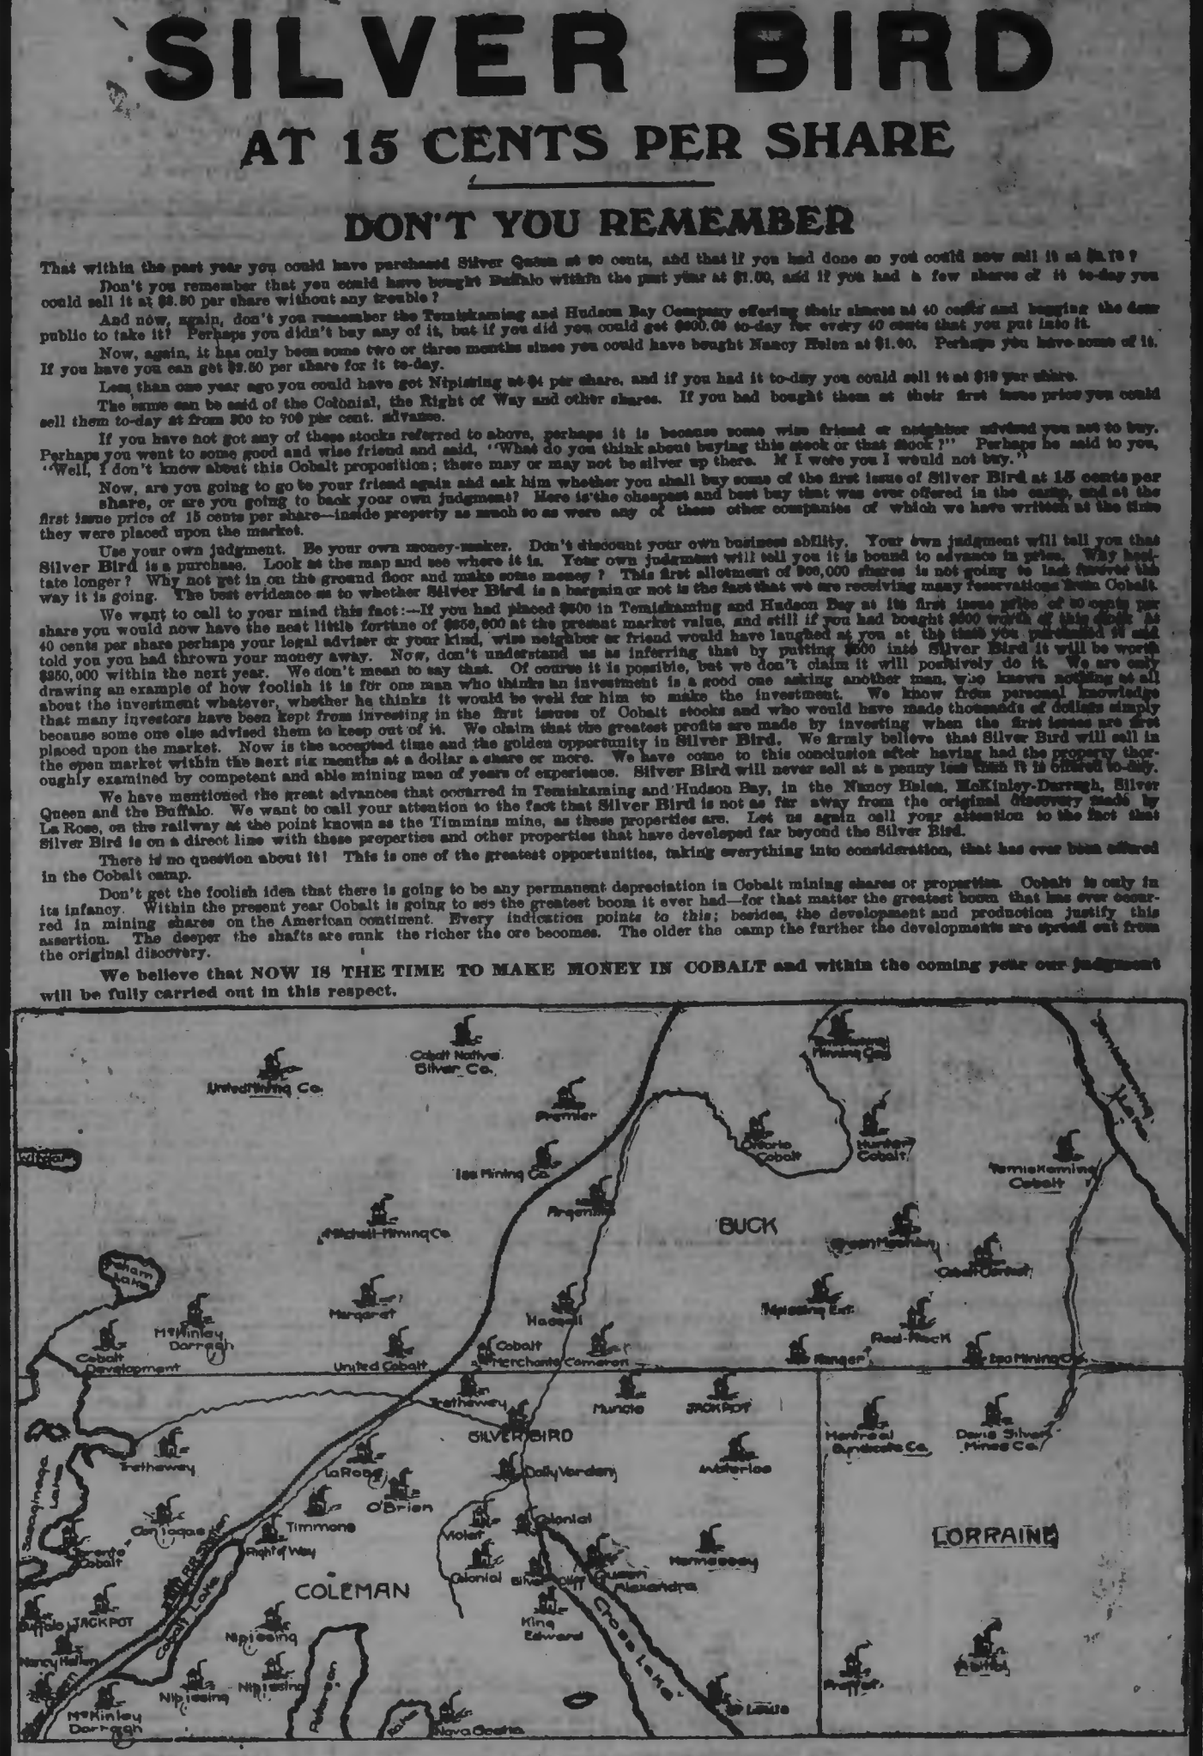
We want to call to your mind this fact:—If you had placed $600 in Temiskaming and Hudson Bay at its first issue price of 40 cents per share you would now have the neat little fortune of $650,500 at the present market value, and still if you had bought $600 worth of this stock at 40 cents per share perhaps your legal adviser or your kind, wise neighbor or friend would have laughed at you at the time you purchased it and told you you had thrown your money away. Now, don't understand us as inferring that by putting $600 into Silver Bird it will be worth $350,000 within the next year. We don't mean to say that. Of course it is possible, but we don't claim it will positively do it. We are only drawing an example of how foolish it is for one man who thinks an investment is a good one asking another man, who knows nothing at all about the investment whatever, whether he thinks it would be well for him to make the investment. We know from personal knowledge that many investors have been kept from investing in the first issues of Cobalt stocks and who would have made thousands of dollars simply because some one else advised them to keep out of it. We claim that the greatest profits are made by investing when the first issues are first placed upon the market. Now is the accepted time and the golden opportunity in Silver Bird. We firmly believe that Silver Bird will sell in the open market within the next six months at a dollar a share or more. We have come to this conclusion after having had the property thoroughly examined by competent and able mining men of years of experience. Silver Bird will never sell at a penny less than it is offered to-day.

We have mentioned the great advances that occurred in Temiskaming and Hudson Bay, in the Nancy Helen, McKinley-Darragh, Silver Queen and the Buffalo. We want to call your attention to the fact that Silver Bird is not as far away from the original discovery made by La Rose, on the railway at the point known as the Timmins mine, as these properties are. Let us again call your attention to the fact that Silver Bird is on a direct line with these properties and other properties that have developed far beyond the Silver Bird.

There is no question about it! This is one of the greatest opportunities, taking everything into consideration, that has ever been offered in the Cobalt camp.

Don't get the foolish idea that there is going to be any permanent depreciation in Cobalt mining shares or properties. Cobalt is only in its infancy. Within the present year Cobalt is going to see the greatest boom it ever had—for that matter the greatest boom that has ever occurred in mining shares on the American continent. Every indication points to this; besides, the development and production justify this assertion. The deeper the shafts are sunk the richer the ore becomes. The older the camp the further the developments are spread out from the original discovery.

We believe that NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE MONEY IN COBALT and within the coming year our judgment will be fully carried out in this respect.



SILVER BIRD is surrounded by the greatest producing mines in the Cobalt District.

SILVER BIRD is absolutely inside property, consisting of twenty acres (patented), being the west half of the northeast quarter of the north half of Lot 8, concession 6, Coleman.

SILVER BIRD is a mine in full operation, with two 25 h.p. boilers, steam hoist, steam drills and all machinery and buildings necessary to complete an operating mine.

SILVER BIRD is working two shifts and is in full operation both day and night, sinking upon three veins and in the same formations identically as in the O'Brien, Timmins and Right of Way mines and lying immediately between these mines and the Green-Meehan, Red Rock, Cobalt Contact and Nipissing Extension. The veins are broadening out and are increasing in values, with depth now 40 ft. in shaft.

SILVER BIRD has no indebtedness; there are no incumbrances against the property or stock of the company. The capitalization of The Silver Bird Cobalt Mines, Limited, is but $1,500,000.00, par value of the shares $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable, with 500,000 shares in the treasury. The first allotment of 200,000 shares are now offered to the public for subscription at 15 cents per share.

Considering the inside location of the property, development done, results obtained, low capitalization and the large amount of shares in the treasury, this is unquestionably one of the best bargains (if not the greatest bargain) that has been offered in Cobalt mining shares.

We predict this first allotment will be largely over-subscribed and we urge that early application be made.

THE MINISTER OF LABOUR SPEAKS

Holds Close Attention of House in Explaining His Bill.

FOR STRIKE PREVENTION

Second Reading of Mr. Lemieux's Measure in Commons—Minister's Argument—Labor Organizations as Well as Employers Approve Principle, and is Calculated to Improve Conditions Generally.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—For nearly two and a half hours the Minister of Labor held the close attention of a well-filled House yesterday afternoon in moving the second reading of the bill to aid in the prevention and settlement of strikes and lockouts in coal mines and industries connected with public utilities. Stocked full of valuable information bearing on the industrial situation, covering a wide range and exhaustive in its survey of the field of labor legislation, Mr. Lemieux's speech was in itself a testimony to the resources of the department over which he presides. A better or more complete exposition of the case for legislation on the lines proposed could not have been presented, and the Minister was warmly congratulated by members on both sides of the House on his effort.

New Writs Issued.

The Speaker announced the issue of his warrants to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery to make out new writs of election for Victoria, N.B., L'Assomption and Richelieu.

Mr. Emmerson's bill establishing a relief fund for employes of the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island Railways passed its third reading as amended.

Settlement of Strikes.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux then moved the second reading of a bill to aid in the prevention and settlement of strikes and lockouts in coal mines and industries connected with public utilities. The issue involved, he said, was not a party, but a national one. The measure was both Liberal and Conservative—Liberal in the sense that it was a step forward, and Conservative in that it supplied a restraining influence on the relations which should govern capital and labor. Experience taught them that strikes and lockouts endangered life and property, and that when life and property were in jeopardy society was menaced. Then the rights of society became greater than the rights of participants on either side in any struggle, and if that was true the duty of the Legislature was to intervene. Explaining the delay which had taken place in bringing the bill forward for second reading, he said it was his desire that ample time should be afforded the public to consider the measure. The bill had been before the public since a few days before Christmas, and he was satisfied that the object he had in view had been fulfilled. He had met many large employers in the country, and without exception they were satisfied with the bill. He had also gathered the views of the press in Canada, the United States and Great Britain, and, generally speaking, the papers of these countries viewed the proposed legislation with favor. He had met a great many labor associations too, and with only one or two exceptions he had found that they gave unqualified support to the measure. The legislation was based upon a careful study of the working of similar legislative enactments in other countries far advanced on the labor question, and also upon the opinion of the highest authorities and most important commissions in industrial disputes. It was also a progression along the line of their own legislation. Mr. Lemieux proceeded to quote statistics showing the number of people affected thereby in Canada and other countries. The total number of disputes in Canada between 1901 and 1906, inclusive, was 715, and 142,027 workpeople were affected. Out of every 10,000 of population in Canada forty-three were immediately affected.

This bill, Mr. Lemieux explained, (a) prohibits strikes and lockouts pending an investigation; (b) provides machinery to carry out that end; (c) relates to all public utilities. He admitted that the award could not be enforced except by public opinion. He considered compulsory arbitration as out of the question in a country like Canada. It would mean driving our employers and employes alike to the United States. He closed with an eloquent plea for industrial peace.

The Opposition Leader.

After dinner Mr. Borden resumed the discussion on Mr. Lemieux's bill. He said he did not intend to oppose the bill, and thought that any movement along the line of preventing strikes and lockouts should have sympathy and support on both sides of the House. He congratulated the Minister of Labor on his interesting speech, but complained that he had not given very much information as to the particular provisions of the measure itself or as to the manner in which he expected them to be worked out. He still maintained, however, that it would have been a wise step on the part of the Government to refer the bill to a committee of the House and called the parties together, and in that way obtained information which was not to be found in the Labor Department. It appeared to him that compulsory arbitration could not be so very un-British when they had so thorough a British colony as New Zealand adopting it. The Minister's disclaimers notwithstanding, the bill was in effect, he contended, a bill for compulsory arbitration. At any rate it did not seem to stop very far short of it. It seemed to him that the bill proposed to begin too late in the negotiations. He also thought the powers given to the Governor-General in Council were rather wide, and that section 16, providing that two employers or ten employes could invoke the operation of the act, might be subject to abuse.

Several other members spoke, and the question was then put and the second reading was passed. In committee it was agreed that the bill should be known as the industrial disputes and investigation act, and progress was reported. The House adjourned at 12.20 a. m.

MAN'S REASON FAILS.

Surgeon Flood, R. N. W. M. P., Went to His Fate In Awful Storm—Pitiful Finding of His Dead Body.

Winnipeg, Feb. 15.—Further details of the tragic death of Surgeon Flood, R.N.W.M.P., at Fort Churchill, where he was frozen to death in the great storm of November 29, have been learned from W. Beech, the courier who brought the first tidings to civilization. According to Beech's story:—Dr. Flood, Major Moodie and Engineer Thibadeau, who had been surveying the harbor and dock reserve for the Federal Government at Fort Churchill, left home on November 28 for the purpose of exploring for timber. When they left the weather was fair and everything looked favorable for them. They had prepared a camp up country and proceeded to that, but when they arrived they found that they had dropped their grub box on the way and were without food. Laughingly the fact was noticed by Dr. Flood and it was thought that it was not far away. With a light heart the doctor said that he would go back for it, and he jocularly treated Major Moodie's offer of assistance. He took the dogs back and as he disappeared over the snow the last of him was seen until his dead body was found by a mournful search party three days later.

The search party found that he had guided the dogs and when they instinctively turned towards the camp he turned their heads away and went further into the wilds as the faithful leader took the train in the direction indicated by his driver.

When the body was found it was a pitiful sight. Flood lay in the snow and his faithful leader lay alongside of him, also frozen stiff. Faithful to the last, the dog had tried to keep his master's body warm and had perished. The responsibility of a leader of a dog train is felt by that animal, and when Flood dropped in his tracks the other dogs bit themselves free of the harness and each other and sought safety, while the leader lay down beside his master and with him died in the snow.

The storm was the worst that Mr. Beech has ever seen and he spent 25 years in Winnipeg. The thermometer fell to 25 below and the wind blew at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The damp atmosphere along the coast of the bay makes 25 below extremely cold and much worse than 40 below in Winnipeg.

The body of Flood was buried at the barracks at Churchill and his is the first grave and the first death in the history of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in the Hudson Bay district.

Dr. Flood was 30 years of age, and went north from Quebec, where he was born. A brother is now resident in Winnipeg.

Frozen to Death.

Moose Jaw, Sask., Feb. 15.—Alexander Allen, a rancher of Willow Bunch, was found Wednesday frozen to death, one mile from his home. It is supposed that he had been looking for horses caught in a storm and lost his way. He came from Dakota about two years ago.

Two Tragic Deaths.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—A telegram was received yesterday announcing that a German lad had reported at Battleford the death of two men in his employ, 90 miles north of Battleford.

One man went crazy, tried to murder the other, and then shot himself.

The second man was found dead in his shack with a shotgun between his knees. The police are now investigating the matter.

Succumbs to Injuries.

Sault Ste. Marie, Feb. 15.—Frank Mahaffey died yesterday of the injuries received Wednesday when he was caught in a coal slide at the Canadian Pacific yards.

Funeral Sleigh Goes Through Ice.

Picton, Feb. 15.—While returning from Kingston with the remains of George Clarke, who had died in Kingston Hospital, Manley Martin of Hotel Tecumseh here, and Anson Farrington of Milford drove into a crack in the ice near Glen Island, five miles from here. The occupants of the sleigh got to shore safely, but the two horses were drowned.

Captain Left Ship First.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 15.—Capt. McVey of the steamer Larchmont early yesterday admitted that his lifeboat was "one of the first, if not the first, to leave the sinking ship." He said that he had made no move to get the boat until he had given orders to his men to lower all the boats and clear away the rafts.

One survivor, Miss Sadie Golub, of Boston, told several of the newspaper men that when she begged either Capt. McVey or Purser Young to take her in their boat, they pushed her back and the lifeboat left the Larchmont with only six in it, although it would have held 20 more.

ARREST OF H. W. BRICK.

Perth Constable Takes Him on Charge of Appropriating $3,870.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—The visit of H. W. Brick of Toronto was not as extended as one might anticipate after reading the statement yesterday furnished by the press by his solicitors, Douglass & Higgins.

Brick left last night for Perth, under arrest, in charge of an officer from that town. He is wanted there on the specific charge of appropriating to his own use $3,870, the proceeds of a cheque. The warrant was issued at the request of the Henry K. Wampole Co.

Notice of Irish Bill.

London, Feb. 15.—Following closely upon his announcement of the intention of the Government to introduce a measure to improve the government of Ireland, Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, gave formal notice yesterday that a bill "to establish an Irish Council for other purposes connected therewith," would be introduced.

Divided House on Speaker.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 15.—The first session of the 34th provincial Parliament was opened yesterday by Governor Fraser. The Opposition divided the House on the election of a Speaker, contending that the late Speaker, E. M. Farrell, M. P. P., whom the Premier moved to re-appoint, was not a suitable person to fill the position, because of his connection with the Fielding election campaign in 1904, in which the judgment showed that Farrell had distributed $600 for corrupt purposes. Mr. Farrell was defended by Premier Murray and Attorney-General Drysdale, and the motion carried on a division by 26 to 5. The present composition of the House is 32 Liberals, 5 Conservatives, and 1 Independent.

St. Petersburg. Feb. 15.—General Kuropatkin's history of the Russo-Japanese war, which was confiscated by the Russian Government, has at last become accessible. The work consists of three bulky volumes, respectively, devoted to the three crucial events of the war, the battle of Liaoyang, the battle of the Sha River, and the battle of Mukden.

Nursed By Florence Nightingale.

Belleville, Feb. 15.—Daniel Cunningham, for thirty years master baker at the Deaf and Dumb Institute here, died Wednesday night. He was formerly master baker at the Central Prison in Toronto. He was a Crimean War veteran and was nursed by Florence Nightingale. A widow and ten children survive.

Increase For Teachers.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 15.—The New Brunswick Legislature opened yesterday. The speech from the throne dealt extensively with teachers' salaries and gives every reason to believe that substantial increase will be made this session.

A CITY ON FIRE.

Charles City, Vt., Likely to Be Destroyed—Fire Is Beyond Control and a Very High Wind Is Blowing.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 15.—Cape Charles City, Vt., is being swept by fire. High winds are blowing. Many dwelling have been destroyed at an early hour this morning, and the fire is beyond control. Assistance has been asked of other cities. The whole town is likely to be destroyed.

One Hundred and Fifty Homeless.

Pine Bluff, Ark., Feb. 15.—Nine blocks of residences, several storehouses, the Third avenue hotel, and the Riverdale Methodist Church were burned. Loss $250,000.

Two lives were lost. One hundred and fifty persons are homeless.

Motor Works Burned.

New York, Feb. 15.—The motor works of the Daimler Manufacturing Co. at Long Island City were burned yesterday with an estimated loss of $400,000.

Oil Tank Explodes.

New York, Feb. 15.—A big oil tank in the Standard Oil storage plant at Constablehook, N.J., exploded yesterday, as a result of a fire close by. So great was the concussion that windows more than a mile distant were shattered. Only three persons were injured, and they only slightly.

Ridgetown Hotel Burns.

Ridgetown, Feb. 15.—A $40,000 blaze here early yesterday morning wiped out the entire Queen's Hotel block. At times other buildings were in iminent danger, and it was only through the efforts of the firemen and citizens that they were saved.

Relief was obtained from Blenheim at about 9 o'clock, and at 10 the fire was practically under control.

J. Sheldon's, the owner, loss will be fully $20,000, with an insurance of $12,000. Other losses were: Mr. Dauphin, confectionery, over $4,000, partly covered by insurance; McMaster's hardware, over $13,000, insurance $7,000; Mr. Dodman's barbershop, adjoining the Queen's, was gutted; loss unknown.

Village Wiped Out.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—The Village of Pontviau, back on the river about eight miles from Montreal, was practically destroyed by fire yesterday morning, including a carriage factory, which was the principal industry of the place. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

Parish Church Burned.

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Feb. 15.—Fire occurred yesterday morning about 2 o'clock in the Village of the St. Anne, Richelieu County, when the beautiful parish church was burned to the ground. The loss is about $75,000, and the cause is unknown.

Accidentally Shot.

Belleville, Feb. 15.—A fatal accident occurred near the G. T. R. station at Trenton. The victim was Fred Tunnecliffe, who was out hunting. In the vehicle in which he was riding were two guns, and Tunnecliffe, when he arrived home, was in the act of taking one of the weapons out of the vehicle when it was accidentally discharged. He received the full charge in the head, causing instant death. The victim was about 24 years of age. A widow and child survive.

"Indecent and Immoral."

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Witnesses in the overcrowding-on-street-cars case yesterday testified before the Railway Board that the overcrowding reached a degree "indecent and immoral." Mr. Osler, for the railway, objected technically to the board hearing the city's application, but the board would not give an answer on this count. Inspector Pearl and his evidence in one instance gave the contents of a car as 29 sitting, 66 standing.

Special Train For Injured Man.

Port Hope, Feb. 15.—John Kearney, a G. T. R. section man, who lives near Newtonville, was struck by a "shunter" at the Smith street crossing here yesterday afternoon. His left leg and left hand were severed, and his right leg badly mutilated. The injured man was conveyed by special train to the hospital at Toronto, but his injuries are considered fatal.

Car Conductor Killed.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Wm. Tate, a street car conductor, was crushed between two cars at College and Yonge streets at one o'clock yesterday, and died in the General Hospital a short time later. He had left his car to run back to a conductor in a car following to get of supply of tickets. He lived on St. Clair avenue and leaves a widow and family.

Batteryman Courtmartialed.

Kingston, Feb. 15.—A private of "A" battery was arrested at the barracks for stealing boots from his comrades. He was tried by courtmartial and sentenced to 30 days' confinement.

COIFFURE HINTS.

The Small Hats Responsible For Very Elaborate Hairdressing.

When Marie Antoinette became queen of France—so runs the story—she shocked her courtiers and ignored traditions by calling in a man to dress her hair and invent the coiffure a la Marie Antoinette.

Leonard, the hairdresser, was an artist in his line, and he took the fair tresses of the lovely Austrian, drew them over a trellis of fine wire, introduced a cushion or two and finally built a tower almost a foot high, which he topped with a nodding ostrich plume.

AN EVENING COIFFURE.

Now, if we are to believe the prophecies of the fashionable hairdressers of today, the American woman of 1907 bids fair to follow in the footsteps of the fair but unfortunate French queen.

Coiffures are becoming more and more elaborate. What our French brethren call "postiches" (which, as near as we can come to it, means something false or superadded) are being used in their construction, and if this state of affairs continues we will be constrained to follow the example of the Japanese lady who indulges in a fresh coiffure once a month and sleeps on a block to prevent the disarrangement of her hirsute edifice.

Little hats are at the root of the matter. A small hat shows all the ugly lines of the head, and there are few women with hair enough, even if it could possibly be twisted into the desired shapes, to fill out all the places that need filling, and so we must needs buy finger puffs.

Of course the finger puffs can be made from combings of your own hair if the combings are in good shape and if you have a skillful manufacturer of hair goods in your own neighborhood. Otherwise it is well to buy your puffs ready made.

Go to a reliable hair dealer and see to it that the puff matches your hair exactly. Single puffs are convenient, as they can be adjusted to suit the individual taste, but one of the best coiffeurs in the country recommends the chignon puff as being the most satisfactory all around. This is made on a little wire frame with four or five puffs, which can be dressed daily.

Women who are blessed with curly hair by nature should never cease to give thanks for it, and since curls are desirable, whether natural or artificial, buy your finger puffs of curly hair.

If your pompadour is prone to fall flat or droop into ugly lines, the finger puffs—more especially the ones made from curly hair—can be ruffled up and pinned under the hair as pompadour plumpers. They are lighter, more comfortable and give a far prettier and more graceful effect than any of the numerous "rats" that have been worn so long. The illustration shows one of the latest and smartest of the new evening coiffures.

Novel Guest Book.

A tactful hostess in order to make her guests comfortable must know their little fads and peculiarities. A new kind of book which is a great help to a hostess is called a guest book. The hostess has in this volume the names of all those who are or who are likely to be guests at her home, and beside their names are written the little peculiarities, which she must remember if she hopes to make them comfortable.

Many of these bear upon the subject of fads and fancies in diet, for numbers of people are vegetarians, others will only touch pure China tea instead of other kinds or blends, while others perhaps require a glass of hot water to drink before they go to bed.

HERE AND THERE.

Embroidered Frocks For Little Girls. Colored Veils "Out."

Embroidered frocks for little girls are especially smart this winter and will be much worn for afternoon parties and special occasions. These costumes, though made of fine batiste or linen, are not too cold for use, because they are worn over white or colored silk slips. In all over eyelet embroidery they are most attractive.

Colored mesh veils to match the hat or gown have quite gone out, so that again we have the black veil in all its glory in innumerable cobweb designs adorned with chenille and velvet dots of all possible and many impossible sizes. The only colored veils that have survived are the brown single thread mesh with a single tiny dot on every cross thread. These brown veils are worn with brown, with most shades of red and with the majority of light colored felt and velvet hats.

Gray is unquestionably the shade of the winter, but the blues and delicate shades of pink are also much in demand. Bright red and deep claret are popular, but the colorings in between are smart in cloth, although there are many very deep red velvets that are exceedingly handsome.

No sleeping garment gives quite the comfort on a cold winter night that is to be found in the gown of flannel or flannelette. The gown in the cut is so plain and simple that it suits both materials admirably, while it is thoroughly comfortable and satisfactory to the wearer.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

After the Honeymoon.

A well dressed young man approached the counter of a branch postoffice and wrote a message. Laying the pencil down, he handed the message to the girl and said, "You can hurry this for me, can't you?"

"Yes, indeed," replied the girl.

"It's very important," he went on. "I must have it sent off at once."

"It shall go right through."

"All right," he said, turning away. "Be sure to hurry it now."

When he had gone, the girl showed the message to another operator standing near. "Look what is to be hurried," she said.

The message read, "Henry still loves his little wife and wishes she could be with him."

A New Suit Case.

The latest improvement in ladies' suit cases is that they are made on aluminium "bodies"—that is to say, with an aluminium frame covered with leather, weight being thus reduced and strength increased, while it is impossible for the case to be cut with a knife, as has sometimes happened when a robbery has been committed.

Don't Slump.

By this is meant a position when sitting in which the back gets bowed and the spine more or less bent. It does not really rest the body, and it brings about a bad figure and worse carriage. So called "easy" chairs help people to slump. A soft cushion should be used to lean against and fill in the natural hollow of the back.

Everybody Agrees

that COD LIVER OIL and IRON are beyond question the greatest medicines known. Then why does not everybody take Cod Liver Oil and Iron? Simply because most people cannot take the Oil and few can digest the Iron in any ordinary form. These difficulties have been entirely removed by the introduction of FERROL, in which the Iron is scientifically combined with the Oil, rendering the Oil palatable and the Iron digestible. While is manufactured from the best quality of Cod Liver Oil (the whole of the Oil) and is richer in oil than any other emulsion, and while it contains just the right quantity of the best form of Iron and Phosphorus, it is so scientifically prepared that not one person in a thousand finds any trouble in taking it, and infants digest it without difficulty. Moreover the well-established value of the Oil and Iron is immensely enhanced by the process of manufacture, and as the formula is freely exposed it is not to be wondered at that physicians everywhere have fully endorsed FERROL and used it largely in their practice. FERROL is invaluable for the treatment of any kind of Lung or Bronchial troubles, while for wasting diseases it has no equal, and MODISH IDEAS.

FERROL

Short Jackets For Girls — Wash Waists—Corset Hints.

Short jackets this season are very jaunty looking and are great favorites with young girls. In fancy cheviot suits they are natty and attractive when simply trimmed with a mannish velvet collar.

The newest wash shirt waists are made with tucks on each side of a box plait or line of three inch insertion which is edged on both sides with a finely plaited ruffle sometimes adorned with narrow valenciennes lace.

APRICOT VEILING—5543, 5436.

The high plaited girdle seems to have pushed the narrow belt into the background. Elastic girdles are the latest developments in beltdom and are handsomest when studded with jet or steel beads.

The new corset, while the same height in the center front, curves upward under the arms and gives more support to the bust. The waist line and curve of the hips are greatly emphasized.

Plaided handkerchiefs are dainty and a slight departure from the embroidered or lace trimmed variety.

White bear sets are very smart for young girls. The stole is quite long and the muffs the fashionable pillow shape, ornamented with tails.

All shades of brown from dark to the palest tan are worn, and when combined with cream or pale yellow it is extremely becoming to certain women.

The gown pictured is carried out in the new apricot color. The material is canvas veiling and the trimming velvet a shade darker. The frills are of the ribbon, and the chemisette is of cream colored lace over white chiffon.

HOW TO BE GRACEFUL.

A Beautiful Woman's Appearance Spoiled by Awkward Movements.

Not one woman in a hundred knows or thinks about seating herself gracefully. Columns have been written about how to enter a room gracefully, how to acquire a graceful carriage in walking or dancing, but the art of sitting gracefully seems to have been omitted from the category.

Yet it is one of the things that are necessary to make a girl as attractive as possible.

The average girl spends much more of her time sitting than walking or dancing. How much more necessary, then, that she make the most of her opportunities!

A woman may be very beautiful and her whole appearance may be spoiled by her awkward movements. How distressing to watch her flop down in an ungainly manner in an attempt to seat herself somewhere!

If a woman is tall she should choose the highest chair to seat herself in instead of doubling herself into a disjointed position in a low chair or one too small for her.

When she seats herself at a table she should not lean over it lazily or rest her elbow on it.

These habits are too easily acquired, and a woman does not add to her attractiveness by indulging in them.

Artificial Snow.

White cotton slightly smeared with mucilage and sprinkled with common salt or diamond dust will make the best wintry effect. For store window or table decoration mirrors make good water imitation with small sized ducks placed on them. The effect of new fallen snow can be produced by taking the branches and dipping in gum arabic water and then sprinkling with flour. Snowball effect can be produced by taking toy balls and covering with cotton wool.—Bee Hive.

THE APRON FAD.

Fascinating Affairs Made of Sheer Lawn and Lace.

The mere fashioning of aprons is a positive delight for the woman who enjoys fine needlework. If one wishes to be extremely particular, they can be made entirely by hand, but they are almost as dainty and can be much more quickly done on the machine with a very small stitch and fine thread.

A very fascinating apron can be made like the one in the illustration. It is of sheer blue dimity or lawn, with the front breadths tucked and sharply pointed and two pointed revers turned back on broad shoulder straps for the bib. This is trimmed with valenciennes lace insertion about an inch wide and lace edging to match. An extra fluffiness is given by a ruffle of the material outlining the bottom and finished with a lace edge.

A dusting apron may be carried out either in white or colored handkerchief linen, trimmed with insertion and edging of embroidery. A panel arrangement of the insertion on the front gore of the apron and outlining the sloping tucks at the bottom just above the ruffle of the material is most effective.

Don't neglect your cough.

Statistics show that in New York City alone over 200 people die every week from consumption.

And most of these consumptives might be living now if they had not neglected the warning cough.

You know how quickly Scott's Emulsion enables you to throw off a cough or cold.

TO IMPROVE YOUR APPEARANCE

Retain your youthful freshness so that no one can remark, "she is past her prime." To appear younger and more attractive than the average woman, you must be particular that your Hair shows no sign of being thin, short or scrawny. A DORENWEND TRANSFORMATION, POMPADOUR, WAVE, CURL or SWITCH will substitute nature's defects. Even if you have plenty of your own hair, these light and airy artifices may be worn over it, saving you the worry of arranging your hair in the prevailing style. Your hair can be perfectly matched in color and texture, so that detection is out of the question.

Now, if you have in your mind any prejudice regarding artificial hair, it will forever be dispelled after seeing how natural and becoming our productions will prove in your case.

CONSULT PROFESSOR DORENWEND
DURING THIS VISIT

Advice regarding your hair and how you can make the most of it, also a personal demonstration of the newest styles in transformations, will be given the same as at our establishment in Toronto. Bear in mind that our styles are originated and designed by Professor Dorenwend, and they cannot be procured from any other makers. Their equal have yet to be produced.

MAN TO MAN—ABOUT BALDNESS

If you are bald, or partially so, you must realize that it makes you look old. Notwithstanding the desire to have back your one time bushy head of hair, you hesitate before wearing a natural hair covering simply because you imagine it is going to be noticed by others. Now you never made a greater mistake. Thousands of men, who thought the same as you do, are to-day wearing a and instead of carrying the handicap, that baldness proved to them, they are now enjoying the advantage of "looking young"—and that is what counts to-day in business and social life. Our Patent Toupee is featherweight, face-simile of your own natural hair and may be worn without fear of detection—impossible to remove from the head unless at will—not the least clumsy or uncomfortable. They act as a protection, preventing colds and catarrh, so common to bald men.

Now do not neglect this opportunity—come and see for yourself. A few minutes' demonstration will convince you that a Dorenwend Patent Toupee is not like the clumsy, wiggy affairs that are claimed to be "just as natural."

A Meal in a Moment

Bovril will do it for you

A meal prepared with the help of a chafing dish has a great fascination for many.

But the woman who uses a chafing dish and hasn't tried what the addition of a few drops of Bovril will do, has yet to find out how delightfully piquant and appetising, a chafing dish preparation can be made.

Not only does "Bovril" add to the richness and taste, but also very materially to the nourishing qualities, and that's best of all.

BOVRIL

is

A Household Necessity

A NEW CHARITY.

To Provide Poor Girls With Evening Coats.

"I'm seriously thinking of starting a new philanthropy to provide poor girls with evening coats," recently said a merry young matron.

"How silly, Maude!" answered a friend reprovingly. "What in the world would a poor girl want with such a garment?"

"Oh, I am not talking of beggars, but every girl, no matter what her station in life, sometimes puts on a pretty light dress, which she does not want to crush under a tight tailor coat.

"No, you need not shake your head. I was a poor girl myself, and never shall I forget the torture of my first dance. I had a lovely tarlatan gown, all white fluffs and frills, but mother thought a party wrap would be extravagant, so I had to wear my old black raincoat.

"My feelings when I went into that house—we were late, of course—through a hall jammed with people up into the dressing room full of girls, who looked me all over superciliously, beggar description. The bed and divan were covered with such 'dreams' of coats no wonder the maid was scornful when she took off mine. I didn't blame her a bit for chucking it under a chair.

"Not even splitting all my dances made me forget the awful moment when I would have to face all those girls again and put on that fearful raincoat. I just couldn't stand it at the last, so slipped off home early.

"The next day I made myself the most fascinating wrap you ever saw out of mother's old black shawl, with a Persian border and some chenille fringe from a discarded pair of curtains. It was when they were wearing those cape effects that have been revived this winter. Every one raved over it, and you cannot imagine the bliss of not having to slink out of sight on account of my clothes. I just sauntered up the stairs as complaisantly as you please. Talk about the courage a good conscience gives one. It is nothing to that inspired by good clothes.

"Nowadays, when I want to make a present to any debutante or other young girl I'm interested in—that is, of course, provided she has no money to speak of—I always give her the prettiest evening coat I can find.

"My dear Sally, if you are still scornful about my philanthropy just try giving that pretty little Bliss girl, who is home from school this winter, a good looking coat or cape and see if it doesn't convert you. I'm dying to give her one ever since I saw her going to the theater the other night in a golf cape. I tell you, my heart went out to her. I knew just how that ugly old wrap was grinding down her good spirits.

"Why don't I give her one? I don't know her well enough. But you do, and if you want to experience what gratitude really means just try my pet pleasure. Goodness! How happy it makes those girls! But, really, I believe I get more joy from my coat giving than they do."

Purse Powder Bag.

This dainty bag can be easily made and carried in the purse. The outer circle is of flowered taffeta, with inner and smaller circle of chamois. A cord is run between chamois and silk. A small lamb's wool puff is added and bag formed by drawing up the cord.

BABY'S BEST FRIEND

Baby's Own Tablets have saved many a precious little life. There is no other medicine to equal them for stomach and bowel troubles, colds, simple fevers or teething troubles. They are good for children of all ages—from the new born babe to the well-grown child. And the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they do not contain opiates or any harmful drugs. Mrs. John C. Gildart, of Prosser Brook, N. B., says: "I have proved that Baby's Own Tablets are a great help to mothers, and are baby's best friend. They act almost like magic and I will always keep them in the house." Tablets are sold by druggists or by mail at 25c a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Oyster Cocktails.

For the oyster cocktail take six small oysters for each person; mix together one-quarter of a teaspoonful of freshly grated horseradish, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, two drops of tabasco, ten drops of worcestershire and one teaspoonful of tomato catchup. Put the liquid mixture in a cocktail glass and rinse and drain the oysters. Do not, however, add them to the glass until just ready to serve, as the acid will quickly toughen them.

ART EMBROIDERY.

Swedish Woolwork a New and Pretty Pastime.

This work should be done either on canvas or serge in wools, the usual tapestry wool being quite suitable. The outlining, which in all this work separates each detail or section of the design, should be done in colored silk couched down in contradistinction to the example worked entirely in silk seen in Fig. 2. This book cover is sectioned off in stem stitch, couching being used only in the lines taken across a somewhat wide satin stitch detail.

SHOWING DIFFERENT STITCHES.

In woolwork the silk lightens it up, and floselle, used as you cut it, is the best for couching.

A great many colors can be used in Swedish work, and it is best always to outline in a different shade or color from that used in the satin stitch.

Conventional designs alone are suitable for this work, and the class of design is well exemplified in Fig. 1. Broken up into sections, these designs are not very unlike those sometimes found in Egyptian work.

In Fig. 2 three shades of heliotrope, three of salmon, one of blue, one fawn, one green, are used, while in the border some black bars over the worked lines occur.

The satin stitch throughout is worked either horizontally or perpendicularly, never slanting.

Most of the colors are used in the border, which has three lines of rope then one of chain bordered outwardly, with one of rope after the second line of chain stitch. Here throughout six threads of floselle have been used.

A BOOK COVER.

This work in silk is suited for sachets, letter cases, blotters, cushion covers, borders of table covers, etc.

Good Looks.

Don't get into the habit of always smiling. It brings wrinkles round the mouth and eyes.

Don't rub your face in a hurry. A quick anyhow rub coarsens the skin and injures its beauty.

Don't eat your meals quickly. This causes indigestion and a red nose.

Don't worry. Other people's troubles are quite as bad as yours.

Don't forget that a penny spent on fruit does more good than a shilling on buns or sweets.

Don't walk five miles one day and stay at home all the next.

Don't read till midnight. One hour's sleep before 12 is worth five afterward.

Don't shut your bedroom window. Fresh air is necessary for health, says Woman's Life.

Don't expect physics and tonics to keep you well if you neglect the laws of health and hygiene.

IN FASHION'S REALM

HOW TO MAKE A SMART AND BECOMING TOQUE.

Fashion Today Favors the Home Milliner—Neatness Rather Than Lightness of Drapery an Essential of the Up to Date Hat.

Never was fashion so favorable to the home milliner as during the present winter, for there are a plainness and symmetry about the headgear of today which demand neatness of work rather than the daintiness and lightness of drapery which are the marks of a trained milliner.

To make a toque such as is shown in the sketch get a buckram hat shape similar to the one illustrated. In addition to the shape the toque will require three-quarters of a yard of velvet cut on the straight or half a yard of fine cloth, one yard of fur two and a half inches wide, a marabou plume, six roses to tone with the velvet and three-eighths of a yard of sarcenet for a head lining.

Place the toque straight at one end of the velvet, with the pile downward, and, using the shape as a pattern, cut a circular piece of velvet, which should extend an inch beyond the edge of the brim all round. Without lifting the shape turn the edge of velvet upward on the brim of the toque and secure it firmly in position with a number of small pins, arranging a few tiny plaits to get rid of the extra fullness. Stitch these plaits firmly in position on the brim, using strong cotton for the purpose. Arrange a row of pins at intervals near the head opening on the underside of the toque to keep the velvet from slipping when the head opening is cut. Allowing a margin of three quarters of an inch, cut out a circular piece from the middle of the velvet. Cut tiny notches at half inch intervals around the margin of velvet which projects over the head opening and turn the margin inside the crown of the toque. Secure it first with pins and afterward with stitches in coarse cotton. Cut a square of lining silk rather bigger than the inside of the crown, fix it with pins inside the toque and tack it at each corner to hold it in position. Cut a crossway strip of the silk four inches deep and long enough to line the crown of the toque. Tack one edge of the strip so that it can be turned upward to hide the stitches on the velvet. Hem the other edge to form a casing for a drawing ribbon. Trim off the corners of the remaining piece of velvet and arrange it in a few light folds over the crown of the toque so that it just covers the upward edge of the brim. Secure it with pins and tack it in position. Arrange the fur round the brim of the toque so that the join comes to the left side, where the trimming is placed. Arrange the plume on the left side, pointing slightly toward the front. Cover a short length of ribbon wire of about twelve inches with sarcenet. Sew the six roses side by side on the wire so that they just touch each other. Bend the wire in circular form around the plume, join the ends and sew the small wreath in position on the toque. Run a small piece of narrow china ribbon through the hem of the head lining, draw it up so that it sets neatly in the crown of the toque, and this smart piece of millinery is ready to be worn.

THE FINISHED TOQUE.

TOQUE FRAME.

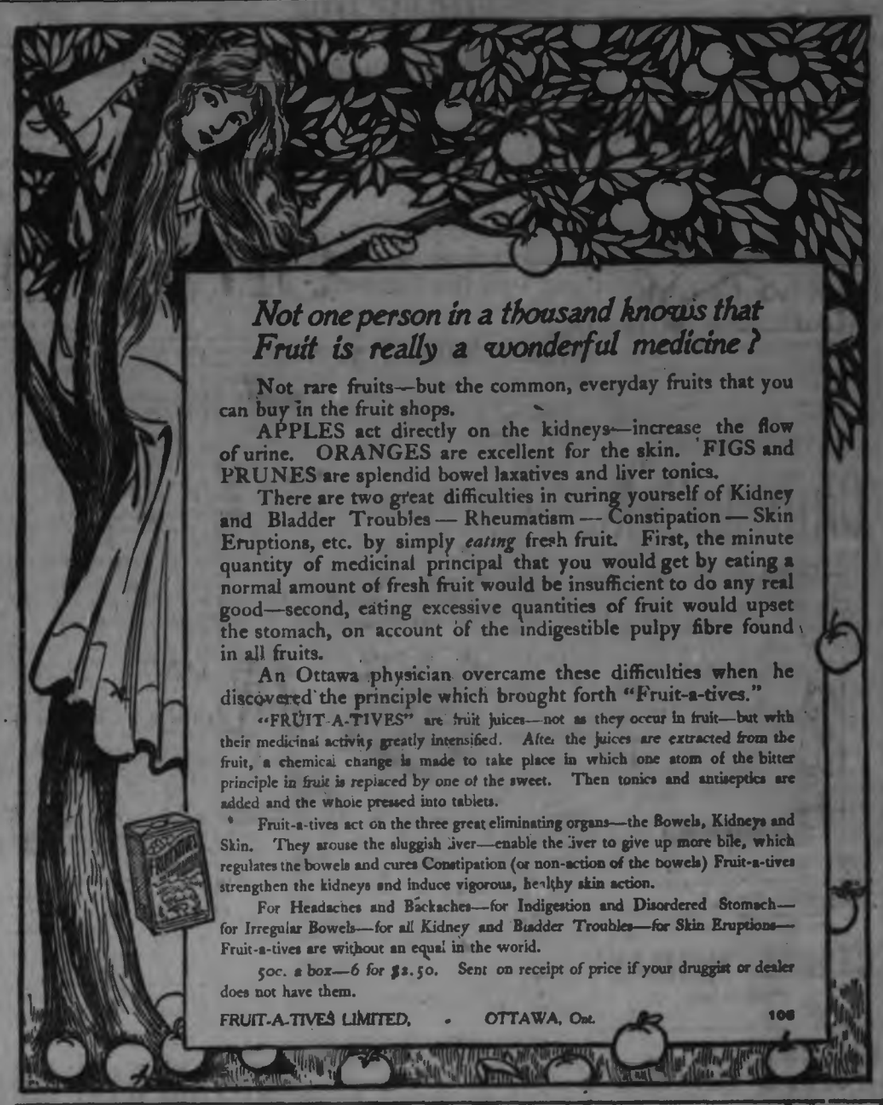
Chinese Lilies.

To raise the Chinese sacred lily in water remove the brown dried skin and all the hard callous at the base of the bulbs. Do not separate the bulbs, but take a sharp knift and score the main bulb as though to quarter it, but do not cut more than a quarter of an inch deep. Cut the offshoot also. This wastes the bulb, but develops the foliage growth. Arrange the bulbs in a glass bowl, steadying them with pebbles, bits of marble and shells; also put in broken charcoal to keep the water sweet. The water may be changed once or twice before they bloom. Place in a dark cupboard or closet for ten days until the roots are well started.

Rusted Nickel Plate.

Rust may be removed from nickel plating by covering the spots with mutton tallow and letting it stand for several days. If this treatment is followed by a rubbing with a good metal polisher and then by a thorough washing with strong ammonia, succeeded by clear water, and a final polishing with dry whiting, stubborn cases will yield.

Don't you wish you were an Italian on New Year's? Promptly at the stroke of 12 on New Year's eve there are rustling and bustling and merry laughter as each maiden kisses all the young men she can catch. It is the only moment in the year when custom permits her such a liberty, and she is not slow to take advantage of it. Then, the new year having made its bow, the party breaks up, the young folk take a walk, and the first person of the opposite sex which each roisterer meets is considered destined to be that merrymaker's future partner in life.



Not one person in a thousand knows that Fruit is really a wonderful medicine?

Not rare fruits—but the common, everyday fruits that you can buy in the fruit shops.

APPLES act directly on the kidneys—increase the flow of urine. ORANGES are excellent for the skin. FIGS and PRUNES are splendid bowel laxatives and liver tonics.

There are two great difficulties in curing yourself of Kidney and Bladder Troubles — Rheumatism — Constipation — Skin Eruptions, etc. by simply eating fresh fruit. First, the minute quantity of medicinal principal that you would get by eating a normal amount of fresh fruit would be insufficient to do any real good—second, eating excessive quantities of fruit would upset the stomach, on account of the indigestible pulpy fibre found in all fruits.

An Ottawa physician overcame these difficulties when he discovered the principle which brought forth "Fruit-a-tives."

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" are fruit juices—not as they occur in fruit—but with their medicinal activity greatly intensified. After the juices are extracted from the fruit, a chemical change is made to take place in which one atom of the bitter principle in fruit is replaced by one of the sweet. Then tonics and antiseptics are added and the whole pressed into tablets.

Fruit-a-tives act on the three great eliminating organs—the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin. They arouse the sluggish liver—enable the liver to give up more bile, which regulates the bowels and cures Constipation (or non-action of the bowels) Fruit-a-tives strengthen the kidneys and induce vigorous, healthy skin action.

For Headaches and Backaches—for Indigestion and Disordered Stomach—for Irregular Bowels—for all Kidney and Bladder Troubles—for Skin Eruptions—Fruit-a-tives are without an equal in the world.

50c. a box—6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your druggist or dealer does not have them.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed, "Tender for Public Building, Owen Sound, Ont.," will be received at this office until Monday, February 25, 1907, inclusively, for the construction of a public building, Owen Sound, Ont.

Howden, with the clerk, be hereby directed to take the necessary legal proceedings to give effect to aforesaid alterations of said school sections.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Howden and Dobbin, that the clerk be directed to procure a file and filing cases for the treasurer's and clerk's offices, respectively.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. May and Morrow, that the commissioner of Road Division No. 2 be directed to close up the entrance to Leary's gravel pit, and that hereafter all parties be prohibited from taking sand or gravel off any township property.—Carried.

On motion, a bylaw to appoint an assessor was introduced and read a first time and passed.

The Council then went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading of this bylaw, with the reeve in the chair.

The bylaw was read. It was ordered to fill in the blanks with the name of Wm. Whitfield, as assessor, and at a salary of $40.

The bylaw was then, on motion, read a third time, passed, signed, sealed, and numbered 574.

A bylaw to appoint a collector for 1907 was then introduced and read a first time and passed. Council then went into Committee on second reading of the bylaw, with Councillor Morrow in the chair.

The bylaw was read, and it was ordered to fill in the blanks with the name of Israel Payne, at a salary of $40, and that all taxes must be paid on or before December 14, 1907.

On motion, the bylaw was then read a third time, and finally passed, signed, sealed, and numbered 578.

Council then adjourned to meet on Monday, March 11, in Peterborough at 1.30 p.m.

First Boy Ashore Tells Graphic Story Of Wreck Of "Larchmont"

Sixteen-Year-Old Fred Hiergesel the Only One of Six to Survive Capsizing of Small Boat, Tells of Fight For Life.

A MOST THRILLING RECITAL.

How the Passengers on Ill-Fated Steamer Fought for Their Lives—Survivor's Efforts to Reach Shore and Tell The News.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

New York, Feb. 16.—The World has a special despatch from Providence, R. I., giving a graphic story of the disaster which befell the steamer Larchmont, by which nearly 200 lives were lost, as told by the boy who first gave the story of the accident to the crew of the Life Saving Station. The despatch is as follows:—

"Of all the tales told by the survivors of the disaster none was so forceful as that of Fred Hiergesell, the sixteen-year-old son of Edward H. Hiergesell, of Richmond Hill, Brooklyn. This lad after getting safely away from the Larchmont was thrown into the water by the capsizing of the boat in which he had launched with five others, and of that number he alone reached shore. His youthful vigour and swimming powers enabled him to make his way through the icy waters to the shores of Block Island. There he hastened to the nearest place of refuge, which happened to be the North Light Station, and this first knowledge of the disaster given to the savers stationed there brought about the hasty response for help which was accorded the victims of the wreck.

"Though passing through this series of events, young Hergesell was among the liveliest of the passengers on the steamer Kentucky as it came into port this afternoon, and as he told his story with boyish frankness, showing a remarkable indifference to the suffering he had endured, he was the actual centre of attention of those who piled aboard the boat. Except that his hands were bound up in oils and cotton batting and that he was minus his hat, the lad displayed no effects of his experience.

"The joy which marked the meeting of the young man and his father, who had come on from New York, touched him, however, later in the evening, and perhaps more than all the rest brought home to him the idea of how near death he was.

The Boy's Story

"Young Hiergesell was on board by reason of the fact that he had been visiting relatives in Boston and was on his way to Brooklyn. He told his story of the disaster and its aftermath in the following boyish manner:

"I had a stateroom near the smokestack and had only been in it a short time when I heard a terrible crash. I thought it was right in the room at first, and it gave me quite a scare. I rushed out of the door and heard all the racket, saw the steam all around and knew in a minute that something was wrong. As it happened, and it was lucky for me, too, I hadn't undressed, and so all I had to do was to grab up what few things I had. I heard the people shouting for help to be saved, and saw the officers and crew running about. At first I did not know what I had better do. Finally, however, I got out on deck and it was about this time that the boat began to tip over on its side.

"I got right into the crowd that was rushing about on the deck and tried to get into one or two of the boats which were pushed off. I followed the captain to one of the boats, but I could not get into it and was pushed back by the crowd that was pulling and hauling near the captain's boat. A couple of men said something about going to the other end of the boat, so I got right after them, and up at the end we found a small boat that was tied to the steamer. I helped them to cut it away and just as five others and myself had piled into it the ship gave an extra shift or lurch, and as it sank into the water it sort of sucked us right up to it. It looked for a minute as though we were going to be swallowed right up, but the boat soon righted itself, so it seemed, and then, with the rush of the waves, we lost sight of everything.

Adrift Without Oars

"I don't know how long we drifted about, but that's about all we did for hours, it seemed. We hadn't any oars, and with the cold andex citement of the whole thing it looked bad for a time. We talked as best we could, and I recall that most of the others in the boat said they couldn't swim. Many times the way the waves whirled about the boat made it look bad for us, and then finally the boat did kick over. That's the last I saw or heard of my companions in the boat. I remember holding on to the boat for a minute or so, and then my hands got so cold that I had to slide right into the water. Then my good fortune in having put on a dry life-preserver before leaving the ship saved me. I am a good swimmer, and so after I had got over the first chill of the icy water, with what swimming I could do and the help of the life-preserver, I began to feel that I still had a chance either to land somewhere or be picked up. The work of swimming soon warmed up my body, and after a time I didn't mind it at all, though, of course, I felt rather soured and lonesome there in the deep sea all by myself, and not knowing where I was.

"I think I must have been swimming about for ten minutes or so, perhaps it was more, when I felt that I could touch bottom. Was I glad? Well, I tell you there wasn't a happier boy in the world than I at just that minute. I rushed right out of the water, and you can bet it seemed good to be on land again. I didn't know where I was of course, but walked along until I saw a light. It was the life-saving station at the north end of Block Island. I learned after I had walked in on them.

Gives the First News

"It also turned out that I was the first one to reach land and the first to give the warning to the life-savers. There isn't much more to it, except that they cared for me and I have been treated fine since. I was pretty cold and my hands were about frozen, but besides that I don't feel very much used up."

"The lad was so spunky about the affair and took it in such an indifferent way that he attracted much admiration from those who heard his story and watched him about the Kentucky after it arrived here. The lad was chock full of energy and with his ruddy face wreathed in smiles as he was congratulated upon his survival of the disaster, he made an inspiring picture. He was made more jubilant when Agent Stone handed him a telegram from his father announcing that the latter would be in town this evening to see him. The father did arrive early in the evening, and it was planned for them to leave later in the evening by train for New York."

Whitcroft Scored Five Of Thistles' Twelve Goals In First Game At Kenora

Letter From Former Peterboro' Player Who Describes Game With Strathconas—Two Hard Games to be Played During Coming Week.

THISTLES TEAM IS BATTERED.

Must Win From Brandon and Portage la Prairie to Win the League Championship—Rink Same as Brock Street.

To-day a letter was received in the city from Fred Whitcroft, of Kenora in which the writer tells of the first game he played with that team, the result of which was published in yesterday's issue of the Examiner. He states that it was a great game, though the Kenora team was not in the best of trim to play a hard game, two of the seniors having been laid off as a result of injuries, both men suffering from broken collar bones.

Whitcroft said that in the first half he did not get going properly, but made up for it in the second half when he scored five of the twelve goals, tieing Philips for the honours, Griffis and Beaudro each getting one. It will thus be seen that the report that he had made good in professional company is justified by the facts.

The next game will be with Brandon on Wednesday next and the team will also play Portage La Pararie on Friday. If these two games, both of which will be hard ones are won by the Thistles the League championship will be cinched, but with the present battered condition of the team it may not be so easy.

The Stanley Cup, Whitcroft states, has arrived at Kenora, but it is in pretty bad condition, its sojourn in Ottawa having left its mark upon the silverware.

The Kenora Rink is about the same as the Brock Street Rink, only with round corners which make it harder to play in.

The letter states that the weather in Kenora is very cold, and the writer has difficulty in getting acclimated.

Whitcroft's friends in Peterborough will wish him success in his break into professional hockey and will feel assured that their wishes will be realized.

JORDAN BROTHERS TO CARE FOR THE CITY'S PARKS

Horticultural Society Directors Give Contract for Care and Maintenance and Supplying Flowers.

THE COST WILL BE MUCH LESS.

At a meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Horticultural Society held last night it was decided to give the contract for supplying the flowers, etc., for Victoria and Central Parks, as well as their care and supervision for the present year to Messrs. Jordan Bros. It will be remembered that Mr. Cooney, who has been the caretaker for a number of years, intimated that he would not act in that capacity in future, which made it necessary to make other arrangements for the care of the city's parks.

Jordan Bros. offered to do the work and supply the flowers for a sum lower than the cost for these two items in the past, and the directors decided to give them the contract.

It was decided to make a distribution of two varieties of phlox this spring. The Society has a practice of making two distributions of bulbs and flowers, one in the spring and the other in the fall, and the members in addition to being given these, will also receive a free copy of the Canadian Horticulturist.

This spring the society will effect considerable improvements in Victoria Park, levelling it up in places on the hill where it is needed and laying new sod.

Sermon To Young Men

To-morrow night in the Springville Presbyterian church, the service will be especially for young men, the subject being a continuation of the series commenced two weeks ago, on "Is the young man safe?" The part of the mothers in making him safe will be dealt with in the sermon by Rev. Dr. Marsh to-morrow night, and the ladies will take charge of the service.

Spring-Like In Macleod Now

Examiner Special.

Macleod, N.W.T., Feb. 16.—Everybody in Alberta rejoices in the magnificent weather. Football and baseball matches are in progress on the town square. The fair sex, clad in light spring clothing, turned out in force to attend the matches. The thermometer registered 49 degrees above zero, and farmers are only awaiting the drying up of the fields to begin their spring work.

PETERBOROUGH AT NEW ZEALAND'S SHOW

Two Local Manufacturing Firms Are Represented at the Exhibition In the Antipodes.

FIFTY ACRES COVERED WITH BUILDINGS

Two Peterborough manufacturing firms are represented at the New Zealand International Exhibition now being held at Christchurch, New Zealand. The two local firms whose products are shown there are the Peterborough Canoe Company and the Peterborough Canoe Company.

The site of the exhibition is Hagley Park, Christchurch, and the ground contains an area of over 250 acres, while the buildings of the exhibition cover an area of about 50 acres. Every inch of available space is occupied, and the general arrangements of exhibits and the accompanying decorations are fully equal to those of any of the large World's Fairs held in Europe or America.

A HANDSOME TEAM FOR THE HOUSE OF REFUGE

Purchased This Week by Warden McNulty and Councillor Scott.

The House of Refuge management have purchased a team of horses from Mr. M. J. Healy, of Asphodel, which will compare favourably with any farm team in harness. They are a handsome team of bay McNairs and weigh 3000 lbs. The animals are full brothers, aged six and seven years. The team was brought to the city to-day en route for Lakefield, and while here the managers were offered $600 from two parties for the pair. Mr. R. M. Roy photographed them before they left the city.

PETERBOROUGH'S BILL BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Was Introduced Yesterday By Member From West Peterborough.

In the Legislature yesterday Peterborough's private bill was introduced to the Private Bills Committee by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P. The Peterborough Bill was one of ten introduced yesterday, and will come up for consideration at a later date.

SMITH FARMER KILLED BY A FALLING TREE

Fatal Accident Yesterday to Alex. Kidd While Engaged in Chopping Wood—A Host of Sympathizing Friends.

SURVIVED BY LARGE FAMILY

A fatal accident occurred in Smith township yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock by which Alexander C. L. Kidd lost his life by a falling tree. The incident has cast a deep gloom over the whole township, as the deceased was a well known, respected and prosperous farmer. The details of the accident as reported are yet somewhat meagre as the gentleman who was chopping with Mr. Kidd received such a shock at this sudden death in such a manner that he scarcely can recollect just how the fatality occurred.

Struck On Head

Mr. Kidd in company with Mr. H. Newton were chopping in the woods belonging to Mr. Andrew Freeborn, about a mile from the home of the former. About four o'clock they began to fell the tree which brought death in its wake to the respected man and caused an accident which can scarcely yet be realized by the mourning family and sympathizing friends.

So far as can be learned the tree was a twisted one so that in its fall it swerved to one side. A large branch struck the unsuspecting man and knocked him unconscious to the ground. It was an hour afterwards however, before the unfortunate man passed away and during that time he never regained consciousness.

Injuries Were Fatal

Together with Mr. Newton he had driven over to the farm house near the woods and left their horse and cutter there. Mr. Newton hurriedly brought the conveyance to the bush and drove the stricken man to his home where he succumbed to the fatal injuries shortly after.

As said before the deceased man is one of the most respected in the township. He resided on lot 33, concession 11, of Smith, about 2 miles from Young's Point village. Few men in the county have more relatives than Mr. Kidd. He has been rather hard of hearing for a number of years and it may be to this cause that the accident happened.

A Large Family

The deceased man was 61 years of age and the father of a large family. His wife, eight sons and one daughter survive. The sons are Roy, of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Peterborough; John, of the Northwest; Hugh and William, of Wausaw, and Robert, Bruce, Elmo, and Maxwell at home; Jessie, a daughter, also lives at home.

The funeral is arranged to take place from the family residence on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to the Lakefield Cemetery.

BACHELORS ARE SAFE BILL IS OUT OF ORDER

(Examiner Special.)

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 15. — In the House to-day Representative Higgins offered a resolution providing for a tax of $5 on all unmarried men between the ages of 20 and 25 years; an additional $5 for each five years up to and including the age of 40. After 40 they are to be chloroformed. Mr. Higgins said he put the chloroform clause in at 41 years because the Speaker of the House was just 40 years old.

Speaker Tilson ruled that the resolution was new business and therefore out of order.

CAPTAIN ROGERS' IMPORTANT POST

Son of Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers Made Surveyor of Prisons for England and Wales by Home Government.

A TRIP ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

It is always pleasing to record the success and advancement of any Peterborough boy. Word has just been received in the city that Captain H. S. Rogers, C.E., a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and an old Peterborough boy, who has served in the Imperial army thirteen years in India, and for the last two years has been on the staff of the War Office, in London, England, has been offered the position of surveyor of prisons, for England and Wales, by the Home Government. Captain Rogers has accepted the important and responsible post. The position is only in connection with the buildings, and is always filled by a Royal Engineer, and being one of considerable responsibility and quite unsolicited, it is a high compliment to a Canadian.

Captain Rogers is the third son of Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, Postmaster of this city.

Before entering upon his new duties, April 1st, he is paying a flying visit to his parents, whom he has not seen for thirteen years, and as his mother is in Victoria, B.C., for her health, he will cross the continent to see her, which he proposes doing in company with his father, who has obtained a month's leave of absence from the Department for the purpose.

Lt.-Col. Rogers leaves for North Bay this evening to meet his son, and join him in a trip to the West. Capt. Rogers arrived this week in Canada," on the "Empress of Ireland." The many friends of Lt.-Col. Rogers will wish him a pleasant journey to the Coast.

BREATHED THROUGH AN IRON WELL PIPE

(Examiner Special.)

South Omaha, Feb. 15.—After being imprisoned at the bottom of a 40-foot well, covered with tons of earth, for 24 hours, and receiving his air supply through an iron well pipe, Herman Frankboldt, a well-digger, was yesterday afternoon dug out practically uninjured.

Frankboldt was digging a well near South Omaha Monday morning, when the well caved in. He signalled by tapping on an iron ladder, and finally this signal was heard. After eight hours' digging in relays, the imprisoned man was released.

NEW WAY TO CHOOSE NAME FOR STEAMER

Otonabee Navigation Co. Have Decided to Offer a Prize.

The Otonabee Navigation Company has chosen a novel way to find a for the big twin screw steamer now in the course of construction and and which will be placed in commission this season.

They have decided to offer a prize to the party suggesting a name which will be accepted by the directors of the company. A season family ticket, good on any of the company's boats is the prize, and the competition is open to everyone, the only condition being that a contestant must only submit one name.

Those desiring to enter should mail the name suggested, together with their address, to the Otonabee Navigation Company Peterborough. The competition closes on March 15th.

BUILDING PERMITS

The action of the Property Committee of the City Council in recommending that a bylaw be passed requiring the issuance of permits for the erection of any kind of building in any part of the city has not been taken any too soon. The most important feature of the permit system is that it will be of material assistance in enabling assessors to arrive at nearly exact valuation of buildings, for assessment purposes. If the practice had been in operation years ago there would have now been valuable records open to assessors to enable them to form almost exact estimates of the value of buildings. A other advantage will come to the public in purchasing properties. Now, a person not familiar with buildings will be able to consult the record and form a fairly good opinion of the value of the house he or she is purchasing; that is, if the information as to character, style and construction of the building upon which the permit is issued is made specific enough. To be of real value, this information should be full and specific, and it would be well to require that, if the original plans and specifications are in any important sense departed from in the course of building, this variation should be also made a matter of record and attached as a "codicil" to the original plans and specifications. If the city has power to specify the kind of buildings, as to material and otherwise, which may legally be erected in what is known as the fire limits, they have power to make some provision to regulate the style of buildings that may be erected in other parts of the city. If something in this direction is embodied in the bylaw, the result will be an improvement in the architectural features of the buildings to be hereafter erected, and thus the appearance of the city, as a whole, will be very sensibly improved. We have waited so long for this desirable system that it would be well to consider it very carefully and have it embody every provision that can conduce to its greatest usefulness.

BRONCHITIS CAN BE CURED

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup Will Do It.

Bronchitis is generally the result of a cold caused by inclement weather or exposure to wet, and is a very dangerous inflamatory affection of the bronchial tubes.

The symptoms are tightness across the chest, sharp pains and difficulty in breathing, and a secretion of thick phlegm, at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color.

Neglected Bronchitis is one of the most general causes of consumption, so cure it at once by the use of

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Mrs. S. Fidder, Linton's, N.B., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of my experience with Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. My little girl was very low with Bronchitis and our doctor did all in his power for her, but could only give her relief for a short time. My husband saw your medicine advertised, and immediately procured three bottles. I never saw anything give so much relief in so short a time. It stopped the annoying cough at night and she is now perfectly cured. I am so glad I can hardly express my gratitude for what Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has done for us."

Price 25 cents at all dealers.

GREAT-WEST LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

By the report of the Great-West Life Assurance Company, presented at the annual meeting held this week, it is apparent that the past year has been one of great advancement. Notwithstanding the disturbing effects of the recent insurance investigations this company is able to report an increased amount of business written—larger, it is stated than any other Canadian company—and made a most satisfactory gain in the amount of insurance in force. Besides, the percentage of expenses has also been reduced. The disbursements, when compared to previous years, demonstrate a marked decrease. As the president, Mr. Alexander Macdonald, said, when moving the adoption of the annual report: "In life insurance business the percentage of expenses can easily be temporarily reduced by a reduction in the business placed upon the company's books, but to succeed in reducing this percentage, while at the same time showing the largest increase of business in our history, is, I think, much more commendable."

The references to the endowment policies also attract special attention. The surplus accumulated already guarantees the payment in full of the dividends estimated in the case of the fifteen-year deferred dividend class of 1892, which mature in 1907. The first list of policies maturing under this class show that those insured under the 15-payment life policies, will receive back all their premiums, with 40 to 45 per cent. added in cash, and they have received their insurance absolutely without cost. Those who took the 15-year endowment policy, get their premiums, with 60 to 65 per cent. added, having been insured for 15 years absolutely without cost.

The figures give an idea of the rapid up-building of the Great-West Life, and the management justly claims that the development has been phenomenal.

The Peterborough branch offices of the Great-West Life, are located in the Bank of Commerce building, Hunter street, with Mr. H. P. Lindsay in charge as inspector for the district. He and his staff of agents have proved to be very energetic, and made quite a record for themselves the past year.

THE TWO PARTIES AND LABOUR

The Ottawa Free Press says: "One result of the recent discussions in the House of Commons upon the great question of the relations between capital and labour must be to convince the electors that in this respect at least there is a great dividing line between the two parties.

One party preaches theories; the other provides remedies.

What is the record of the two parties on this great issue?

The Conservatives appointed a royal commission, which took four years to bring a report which was still-born; imposed a head tax of fifty dollars upon Chinese, and set aside the first Monday in September as Labour Day.

Contrast this with the record of the Liberals since 1896:—

Passage of the alien labour law.

Increase of the head tax on Chinese from $50 to $100, and later to $500.

The establishment of a Ministry of Labour, which has almost daily justified its existence.

Prevention of the sweating system on Government clothing contracts.

The appointment of a fair wage officer.

A minimum or current wage upon all Government contracts.

The conciliation bill of 1903.

The railway disputes bill.

The increase of the wages of the workers on the Government railways from a starvation rate to that where they can live in comfort.

In the above we have a brief outline of what the Reform party at Ottawa has achieved in behalf of the toiling masses, and the enumeration is not by any means complete. A very much longer list might be compiled of the achievements of the Reform party in Provincial politics. As against this display, the Conservatives can present for the two Houses but one measure, namely, Sir John Thompson's bill creating Labour Day, a measure borrowed from the United States and forced on the Government of the day by organized labour."

To this enumeration it may be added that the interest of the Liberal Government of the Dominion in labour is not at an end. Hon. Mr. Lemieux has introduced into parliament a measure which will doubtless become law, whose vital principle is the compulsory investigation of labor disputes under Government authority. In Toronto on Thursday night the District Trades and Labour Council approved of the principle of the bill, thus again officially recognizing the bona fides of the interest of the Liberal Government of the Dominion in promoting the interests of the toilers of the country, while at the same time not ignoring those of capital, both of which are in fact intimately co-related.

SEVERE REMEDY

Our British brethren have a rather drastic way of dealing with political corruption. Mr. Williams, Conservative member-elect for Worcester, was unseated for corrupt practices by agents, and a proposal in the House of Commons to issue a writ for a new election, was defeated, the object being to punish the guilty riding by a long period of disfranchisement. Whether such a penalty will operate to prevent corrupt practices, is doubtful. Experience proves that even in cases where there is an honest desire on the part of the candidate "and his friends," to conduct an election without resort to improper influences, indiscreet partisans will not be guided by the policy or desire of the candidate, and in an excess of zeal use illegal means to compass success. The only hope of absolutely clean elections consists in the Utopian ideal of an individually perfectly honest electorate.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The proposal on the part of Germany to conquer England by means of airships should properly be catalogued with "castles in the air."

Brantford is jubilating over the prospect of a sand-lime brick company for the city. Peterborough has not only a company of this kind, in successful operation, but houses built with its products are paying taxes and coal bills.

A police court case in Brockville, involving an offence represented by the killing of a cat, has had thirty adjournments. An animal with nine lives should not expect to be disposed of summarily.

The Royal Bank, the local branch of which is at present in charge of Mr. J. W. Fulton is reaching out for "more worlds to conquer." At a meeting held on February 12th, the increase of capital from $4,0000,000 to $10,000,000, was authorised, and four new directors added — Mr. E. L. Pease, General Manager; Messrs. Elliott and Course, of Winnipeg, and Mr. Thorne of St. John, N.B.

There is an agitation in Toronto against the advertising of certain patent medicines and drugs. The objectionable features consist of a recital of the ills which the preparations are supposed to cure. The blue pencil should be used freely in such class of matter.—Brantford Expositor.

This raises the point of how far a newspaper is justified in going in the matter of revising and changing the "copy" supplied for a paid advertisement. Apart from the question of legal responsibility for "immoral" matter, is not an advertiser supposed to know what he wants his advertisement to express?

With an assurance we can well appreciate, the people of the United States — a country occupying the territory between the 49th parallel and the Gulf of Mexico, in North America, arrogate to the residents of that country the title of "Americans." The people of this country take pride in being known as "Canadians" — there is no danger of our being confused with the other Americans, the Mexican "Greasers," and the other nondescript and miscegenacious Americans of Central and South America. "Civis Canadianus sum," is as proud a vaunt as "Civis Romanus sum," was in the palmy days of Rome, and a great deal more so.

"HOW LONG ARE YOU GOING TO LIVE"

Did you read "Moral Stock Taking Time," in the Examiner of Saturday, February 9th, compiled from Dr. R. A. Torrey's "Where Art Thou?" It asked: First—"Do you know what is your exact financial position?" You should know it. Second—"Do you know the exact condition of your heart, lungs, stomach, kidneys and nerves?" If not, you should find out at once, and perhaps escape a premature grave. Third—"Where do you stand as regards spiritual and eternal things? Have you taken Jesus Christ as your Saviour and confessed Him before the world?" If not, do it now. "Yes," you say, "I certainly intend to become a Christian, but not yet." In my heart of hearts 'I mean to take Christ but not just yet." Friend, that is exactly what thousands now in hell said. In a matter of such transcendent importance, I ask you to put down clearly and distinctly on paper, the year, and the month, and the day, on which you mean to take Christ? Have you done it? Now, on the same paper equally clear and distinctly, will you state how long you are going to live. Yes, dear friend, before you say "Not yet," answer this question, "How long are you going to live?" — Compiled from "His Unspeakable Gift," by Rev. William Rogers, Belfast, Ireland.

WIDE POWERS OF THE NEW COMPANY

Otonabee Navigation Co., Limited, Will Quarry Stone—The Directors.

The charter which has been given the Otonabee Navigation Company, Limited, gives that company wide powers which include not only the building, purchasing and operation of steamboats, etc., the carrying of freight, passengers and mail, the building and purchasing of docks, the operation of hotels, amusement places and parks in connection with the steamer lines, but also the quarrying of stone. The company intends to pay considerable attention to this line and will operate several quarries on the back lakes.

Those named in the charter are W. H. White, Master Mariner; Jas. E. Henderson, gentleman; W. H. Robertson, publisher; Minnie Maud White and Susan Lenna Henderson, married women. The first three named are the provisional directors. The capital of the company is placed at $40,000 and the head office is at Peterborough.

THE GREAT-WEST LIFE

Assurance Company.

The Annual General Meeting of the Great-West Life Insurance Company was held at Winnipeg on the 6th inst. The Directors' Report and the Financial Statement were such as to cause the greatest satisfaction to all concerned. The full detailed report, from which the following information is taken, is being sent to all policyholders, and may be had on application to the Company's branch office, 18 Toronto street, Toronto:—

	1906.	Increase over 1905.
Applications received	$ 7,061,000	$ 554,080
Policies actually issued	6,458,880	402,800
Total insurance in force	37,925,460	2,708,678
Premium income	908,864	111,946
Interest income	295,400	34,297
Total assets	3,947,690	766,261
Payments to Policyholders (claims, profits etc.)	177,116	44,488
Surplus to Policyholders	732,141	109,928

The disbursements, for salaries, expenses, commissions, investment expenses, taxes and licenses, office furniture account, etc., amounted to $305,767, being only $34,064 in excess of 1905, and thus showing a marked decrease in the percentage of expenses, although heavy increases, as denoted above, were made in every feature of the Company's business.

The President, Mr. Alexander Macdonald, in moving the adoption of the Annual Report, said in this connection:

"Our new business written is greater in amount than in any previous year, producing, so far as I can learn, a larger increase in business in force in Canada than will be shown in any other report. It has been our policy to regulate the increase in business so as to avoid any inroad upon our surplus, and the splendid addition of $110,000 to that fund shows that our increase in business has not been at the expense of our old policyholders. While we have always kept a close watch upon our Expense Account, we have never sought, by any false economy, to unnecessarily hamper our work as a progressive Company; and it is worthy of note that we have again shown a satisfactory decrease in our percentage of expenses. In life insurance business the percentage of expenses can easily be temporarily reduced by a reduction in the business placed upon the Company's books, but to succeed in reducing this percentage, while at the same showing the largest increase of business in our history, is, I think, much more commendable.

Interest Earnings

"The demand for money has enabled the Company to improve slightly upon its unparalleled record in the rate of interest earned. That the Company have been able to average over seven per cent. interest upon its funds, and have succeeded in doing this for fourteen successive years without having any foreclosed property, and without loss of principal or interest, shows careful selection of proper securities by competent judges.

Surplus to Policyholders

"Notwithstanding the large new business and gain in insurance force, the surplus increased by $109,928, which increase was more than 50 per cent. in excess of 1905."

Sir Daniel H. McMillan, K.C.M.G., Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, in supporting the adoption of the Annual Report, said in reference to Surplus and Profits to Policyholders:

"We are familiar now in Western Canada with the rapid upbuilding of large business and financial institutions, but even at this time of rapid development, I regard the record of the Great-West Life as being phenomenal.

"I am glad to be able to congratulate the Policyholders of the Great West Life, on the general showing that we have been able to make during the past year. It is both gratifying and refreshing to learn that our Company has not only exceeded its estimated profits on the Five Year Deferred Dividend Class, but that the surplus accumulated already guarantees the payment in full of dividends estimated in the case of the fifteen-year Deferred Dividend Class of 1892 maturing this year, 1907.

"I have in my hand the first list of policies maturing in this class and find in the case of those who are insured under fifteen payment life policies that they will receive back all the premiums paid, with 40 to 45 per cent. added in cash, and have had their insurance absolutely without cost.

"If the case of the fifteen-payment Life Policyholders is gratifying, what must be said as to the case of those lucky Policyholders, who took fifteen year endowment Policies, who receive back all their premiums with from 60 per cent. to 65 per cent. added in cash, and have had their insurance for fifteen years free gratis—for nothing.

"It does make a vast difference where we invest our insurance premiums, and we must take the trouble to find out where the best results can be secured.

"Those who want Great-West dividends must have Great-West policies and these may still be obtained at low premiums and with the same liberal conditions.

"I will only add that I regard the business of last year with a great deal of satisfaction, and look forward to a still more prosperous period during the coming year."

The meeting proceeded to elect a Board of Directors, resulting in the re-election of the former Board.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors, the following officers were re-elected: President, Alexander Macdonald, Esq.; Vice-Presidents, J. Herbert Mason, Esq., Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, K. C., George F. Galt, Esq., Managing Director, J. H. Brock.

Ontario Board of Directors:—J. Herbert Mason, Esq., Vice-President and Chairman, Toronto; W. R. Brock, Esq., wholesale merchant, Toronto; G. W. Monk, Esq., Toronto, Hon. J. S. Hendrie, Hamilton; James MacLaughlen, Esq., Toronto.

BRIGHT BOYS NOW REMAIN ON THE FARM

Dairy Business One Which is Worthy of Best Energies of the Young Men of the Country, Says Mr. Somerville

LORNEVILLE'S CREAMERY MEETING.

(Examiner Special.)

Lornaville, Feb. 14, 1907.—The annual meeting of the Lorneville Creamery was held in the town hall, with a large attendance of patrons.

Mr. Stott was elected to the chair, and Mr Stacey secretary.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The secretary's report for the year 1906 was read as follows:—

No. lbs. cream, 1,106,081.

No. lbs. butter fat, 516,383.

No. lbs. butter, 386,137.

Total amount of money received, $[illegible]47.42.

Amount paid patrons, $74,188.74.

Amount paid for manufacturing, $11,59[illegible].11.

Average price of butter, 22.20c.

Average price of butter fat, 23c.

Average test of cream, 28.6.

This creamery has gone ahead with rapid strides since Mr. Newman became the proprietor four years ago when the first year, 1902, his output was 84,891.60. In 1906 the output being 265,847.42, which shows the business manner and pluck in the character of Mr. Newman. The patrons were unanimous in voting him an increase for manufacturing for 1907

Mr. Newman, in addressing the patrons, gave the credit of his success to the system of separating the milk on the farm, the loyalty of his patrons to the work, and added that his whole ambition would be to build up the dairy business. And to help to further this the manufacturers had formed an association in the counties for the purpose of education, not to force up the price of manufacturing as was rumored, and I am glad today to introduce the speakers on the various subjects, with which they are masters of, and if their remarks are put to practice, will counterbalance the extra cost of manufacture, and by studying the cost end, will in the end net the farmer more profit. I thank you for the advance in manufacturing, and will do all in my power to repay this by better quality and higher prices.

Mr. Somerville pictured to the audience the old farm home, where all who had experienced the comfort prized it more than any memory of their lives. He had spent his early days on the farm and was proud of it. To days gone by the smartest boys were educated for professional life, but now we find the opposite, and on the farm we find the brightest boys. The dairy business is today the most important of all agricultural industries, and to be successful we must study the small details and figure out for ourselves exact results. This begins with the individual cow, and any farmer who does not know what each cow is doing is not doing business on business principles or as well as he should do. The market does not ask how much our milk costs to produce, and is only concerned about the quality and amount offered. If you will weigh and test the individual cow, weed out the poor ones, and develop the best cows by skilful feeding, and handling, we can reduce the labor and double the profit.

I wish to call your attention to these few charts which give details of some cows tested in the past season.

Chart No. One.—22 cows tested month of June. Average lbs. of milk 811 lbs. Testing 4.0 per cent. 32.4 lbs. B. fat. 11 cows below the average, lowest gave 575 lbs. and the best cow, 1,115 lbs.

Chart No. Two.—Comparison of cows in Ontario and Quebec showing that in Quebec they were doing better than in Ontario, in getting a steady, uniform flow of milk for the whole period of ten months.

Chart No. Three.—Comparison of two herds, six and twelve cows, showing where, in five months, the six cows gave within 2,000 lbs. as much as the twelve cows did, hence less labor and much more profit.

Chart No. Four.—Three best and three poorest cows in same herd were tested and the best cow earns $21.77 more than poorest.

At the conclusion of this address a cow testing association was formed with Geo. Flynt as president and W. Whittier, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Zufelt's address compared the system of twenty years ago and the present in the butter making of our country. Dairy butter was made by the gravity system and put up in a different style of package. When texported the package and quality was not uniform and this was the reason we had lost our hold on the British market.

Today we were trying to regain this and have adopted the better methods of separating by centrifugal force, by means of the separator. We have the latest machinery in our creameries for doing skillful work and in many of our creameries we have skillful makers. With our method of separating the milk on the farm it places a double responsibility on the patron— to do the separating properly and care for the cream properly. To insure good separation, care must be taken to run the separator at the proper speed—note the speed stamped on the handle. This is very important as the speed determines, to a certain extent, the density of cream produced. Low speed, thin cream; high speed, rich cream. The cream should test 30 to 35 per cent. to give best results, being careful to have correct speed. Set cream screw to give this per cent. of cream and skimming should be well done, not leaving more than .05 per cent. of B. Fat in the skim milk If more is left in the skim milk it reduces the value on every 100 pounds of milk produced. Cool cream immediately after separating to a temperature of 50 degrees. Use ice which will be cheapest in the end. Cover the cream after cooling which should be in a sweet, cool condition when the cream drawer removes it from the farm. If proper density of cream is taken it is less labor to cool, will remain sweet longer and give the two most essential points to the finished product, namely, flavor and body; also a greater quantity of butter can be made if cream is not over-ripe.

The care of milk must not be neglected. Milk with clean dry hands. Do not leave milk in tainted stable, but have stable with good floors, cement preferred, clean and whitewashed. Separate as soon after milking as possible. Farmers should look upon themselves as being engaged in the most important occupation of our country. They should fit themselves to know why they do this and that, and know the results obtained. Specialize in their own business and instead of being a drudgery, it will be interesting and they will take the high place they should in social life.

MR. BEACON.

Mr. Beacon of Orillia, a successful dairy farmer, gave a very valuable address on corn ensilage and feeding the dairy cow. The latter, he emphasized, that if you pay attention to the regular feeding of the right kind of ration and have a good cow, the production of such records as we have seen this afternoon on these charts were certain. Bran at the present time was too dear to feed for profit, and unless the price is reduced we must look to some other source for this desirable portion of a balanced ration Alphalpha can be grown for this economically. The dairy cow should be fed better for the six weeks before freshening, than when in full milk, given good care and one week before this period, give one lb. of salts, with a quarter lb. of ginger. When this is done, I seldom have any trouble with milk fever. Feed bran and crushed oats, for the first eight days, and not a full ration. Do not milk dry for three days after which milk dry and bring her to her full capacity in the first thirty days. If this is not done in thirty days, you will not get as high a record from her as if this had been observed. Use system, feed and milk regularly, weigh and test and use soiling crop to prevent falling off during dry season. To prepare the soil for corn we should give back to the land all the manure available. The corns we are growing at present are Great Liberty, Reid's Early, Clark's Improved, Mastodon, Butler's Early Yellow, and Mammoth Cuban Yellow, and are ideal for corn silage. A sample of ensilage shown of corn planted 18th of June and cut 21st of September, on fifteen acres last year produced three hundred and sixty tons at a cost of $1.00 per ton.

STURDY FARMERS KEEP OFF ALL CATARRHAL ILLS BY TAKING PE-RU-NA

Pe-ru-na, the Most Reliable Remedy For All Climatic Ailments.

MR. GEO. H. THOMPSON.

At Work On the Farm and Feeling Well All the Time.

Geo. H. Thompson, Craft, Miss., writes:

"I have been cured of catarrh by your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I had been affected with catarrh of the stomach about all my life, and was taken bad every Spring and Summer.

"I used several kinds of patent medicines, but they did me no good. I then took a treatment under an M. D., which did me but little good. By this time I had come to where I could eat nothing but a little soup. I had severe pains, had lost in weight and could not do anything. I began taking your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I then weighed 126 pounds, but after taking several bottles of Peruna and one bottle of Manalin, I weighed 166 pounds.

"I am now at work on the farm and feel well all of the time. I eat all I want to and my friends say that I look better than ever before. I will ever praise Peruna for its healing power."

Pe-ru-na is a Systemic Remedy.

If Peruna proves efficient for catarrh in one place, it will be equally potent in any other place, because it is a systemic remedy.

The people generally are very much misinformed as to the nature of catarrh.

Catarrh is usually believed to be confined to the head, nose and throat. Latterly we sometimes hear of catarrh of the stomach and catarrh of the bowels. Seldom, if ever, do we hear of catarrh of any other organs.

It is not because these organs are not subject to catarrh, nor that catarrh of these organs is not a very common disease, but simply because it is not generally known that affections of these organs may be due to catarrh.

MR. W. J. TEMPLE.

Climatic Ailments Overcome By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. W. J. Temple, R. F. D. 2, Delaware, Ohio, writes:

"I am a farmer and so necessarily must be exposed to all kinds of weather. About three years ago last winter, I was taken sick with bowel and stomach trouble.

"One doctor called it ulceration of the bowels, another called it colitis. Another doctor helped me temporarily.

"Then a druggist recommended Peruna and I followed his advice. I took altogether five bottles and I consider myself a well man.

"Before using Peruna, it was utterly impossible for me to do a day's work, but now I can do farm work without the least trouble or fatigue. I consider Peruna the best medicine and tonic on the market.

"I had not eaten a meal for five years without distress until I took Peruna. I have recommended it to several friends with good results."

MR. GUSTAV SCHMIDT.

Chronic Catarrh of Head and Throat Lasted Thirty Years.

A Letter Praising Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Gustav Schmidt, Spring Valley, Ill., writes:

"I had catarrh of the head and throat for over thirty years. It became worse every year. About three months ago I commenced to take Peruna and Manalin, and now I am entirely cured of that troublesome sickness. Your medicine is surely a blessing to mankind. You can truly say that you have not lived in vain, Doctor, and I thank you for the good you have done me. May you enjoy a long life to help suffering humanity."

MR. J. B. ALEXANDER.

A Necessity in the Home.

J. B. Alexander, publisher of the "Fruit and Floral Guide, a Magazine of Horticulture," published in Hartford City, Ind., says of Peruna:

"I was afflicted with catarrh of the throat and head for over ten years. I was treated by many physicians, but grew worse until I was seldom able to go out in cold weather.

"About one year ago I was advised to try Peruna, which I did, and I am now entirely well of the catarrh.

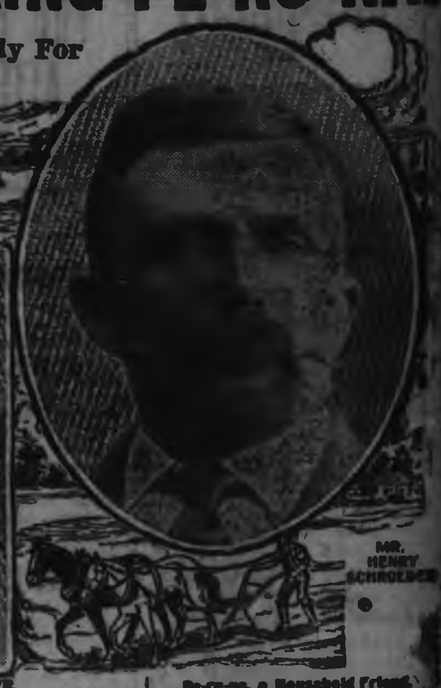
"Peruna is a necessity in our home. With the first symptoms of a cold we use it, and are never afflicted with catarrh.

"I advise all who are afflicted with catarrh to try Peruna. There is certainly nothing equal to it as a catarrh medicine."

Dr. Hartman Interested in Farming.

Notwithstanding Dr. Hartman's busy professional career, he still continues to be interested in farming. He is the owner and manager of one of the largest farms in the State of Ohio, with several thousand acres of the best tilled land in the Middle West, and with hundreds of the best blooded percheron horses ever imported or raised in this country.

Dr. Hartman relies upon Peruna entirely in cases of sickness in his own family.



MR. HENRY SCHROEDER.

Pe-ru-na, a Household Friend.

Mr. Henry Schroeder, Utley, Mich., writes:

"I suffered for almost ten years with catarrh of the stomach and all doctoring was of no avail. I took nine bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin and am now entirely cured.

"I recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this disease. It is my household friend."

One of Dr. Hartman's Grateful Correspondents.

Mr. W. R. Callahan, proprietor of Big Hill Farm, and prominent fruit grower and stock raiser, Glenvar, Va., writes:

"I write to express my kindness toward you and your good medicine, Peruna.

"I had a very bad spell of sickness and could not eat anything at all. My head, stomach, in fact, my whole body ached, and it looked as though nothing would do me any good. I had almost given up.

"I decided to try a bottle of your Peruna and before I had taken half the bottle my appetite came to me and my head became all right. In fact, I was all right all over. Peruna cured me."

While Peruna is not confined to any one class of people, yet it is probably true that the farming class more than any other, rely upon Peruna for the prevention and cure of all climatic diseases.

A TALK TO FARMERS.

THE farmer is the salt of the earth.

Without the farmer, the industrial world with all its flurry and immense wealth could not exist for a day.

It is upon the soil that we all depend for our living.

No matter how far one may be removed from tilling the soil, or how little he may know about the farmer's vocation, he is vitally dependent upon the things which grow in the soil.

Farming is the basis of all wealth and is the bulwark of all civilization.

The farming class is rapidly becoming intelligent and shrewd in business management.

The reuben and the country bumpkin have disappeared and in their stead a practical well-trained business man, capable of the highest form of commercial activity, has arisen.

Peruna is a very popular medicine among the farming class.

Many a family depends largely upon Peruna as a family medicine and the family physician.

Some farmers are far removed from physicians, and in any case they are far more self-reliant and more liable to depend upon a household remedy than people who live in the cities.

Dr. Hartman, who for many years was a farmer himself, and who still owns and manages one of the best farms in the State of Ohio, is a friend of the farmer, and it is with the farmer that the immense bulk of his correspondence is conducted.

The millions of booklets published and distributed by Dr. Hartman every year circulate chiefly among the farming class.

A large number of unsolicited testimonials concerning Peruna come from the farmers every year.

Leading Slowly to Paralysis

BE EARLY DETECTED AND CURE BROUGHT ABOUT BY USING

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

It is customary to consider paralysis, insanity and other diseases of the nerves as afflictions which come upon a person without warning and which are, therefore, unavoidable.

As a matter of fact such results are preceded by months, if not years, of symptoms which point to an exhausted condition of the nervous system. These symptoms are such, however, that many pass them by as not being of serious concern and thinking that they will wear away of themselves.

Sleeplessness, nervous headaches, indigestion, bodily weakness, fainting spells, twitching of the nerves, inability to concentrate the thoughts and loss of memory are among the most common indications of a run-down nervous system. It is sometimes only a step from such symptoms to prostration, paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity.

Stimulants and narcotics, though sometimes affording temporary relief, only hasten the exhaustion of the nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, on the other hand, reconstructs and restores the wasted and depleted nerve cells.

Naturally, gradually and certainly this great medicine instils into the blood and the nervous system the life-sustaining principles which replenish the nerve force in the body and so effect lasting benefit.

Miss Emma Scott, Athens, Ont., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a world of good. I was troubled with fainting spells, bodily weakness and spent restless, sleepless nights. I frequently had cramps in the stomach and would at times become entirely insensible, not knowing what was going on until others told me afterwards.

"I doctored with several doctors and they told me I was threatened with paralysis. They gave me relief, but could not cure me. After suffering for three years I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it has done me more good than all the medicines I ever used."

Culinary Conceits.

When broiling steak, try brushing it over with butter and flour to keep the juice in.

If eggs are to be boiled hard, have the water boiling when you put the eggs in. This will prevent the yolks turning dark.

Cinnamon makes an unusual and appetizing flavor for gelatin desserts and has the additional virtue of economy. Serve with sweet cream, plain or whipped.

When frying onions, water may be added at the beginning, and after they have simmered tender the water should be turned off and fat added for the frying. This process removes the strong onion juice and makes them tender.

It is said that the best way to eat bananas, which are now so common a diet, is to crush them with a fork, then squeeze a lime or lemon over them and sprinkle them with sifted sugar. They are often eaten this way in the tropics and found to be delicious.

Old Ginger Jars.

The old blue and white ginger jars, so beautiful in color and glaze, which were brought from China some forty, fifty or sixty years ago, bring a high price nowadays and when bought are often used as flower jars, and charming they look with single branches of wild blossom or of autumn foliage in them.

A newer use for the jars is to turn them into lamps. A brass tank and a burner are easily fitted in, and a blue and white shade may be found to tone with the lamp jar of blue and white. If a brass or porcelain shade cannot be got, the colors may be matched in simple Japanese paper shade with frames of bamboo.

Judge Hull Resigns.

Montreal, Feb. 16.—The news wired from Ottawa, that Judge Hull of the court of appeal had resigned, is confirmed. He has been in England for some time past.

$15,000 Fire.

Montreal, Feb. 16.—A fire took place last evening in the James Robertson Co.'s, Limited, hardware, William street, the loss being $15,000; covered by insurance.

RESCUED DEFEND M'VEY.

Say That He Did Not Act Coward's Part In Larchmont Tragedy.

Providence, Rhode Island, Feb. 16.—Eighty-seven persons who are known to have been on the steamer were still missing, or unidentified, when the work of claiming bodies was resumed yesterday, and it is now practically certain that the Larchmont carried out with her on that fatal Monday night 159 souls.

Captain Defended.

New York, Feb. 16.—Stories of mistreatment and desertion of passengers on the ill-fated steamer Larchmont by officers and crew were vigorously denied by the officers of the steamer Kentucky. Purser Edward Bodmer declared that several of the rescued passengers praised Capt. McVay's conduct. One of the women passengers explained that the reason the captain's boat was the first to leave the Larchmont was because the steamer had listed so badly that unless the boat left at the time it did it would have been swamped.

To Assist Identification.

Boston, Feb. 16.—An outcome of the Larchmont disaster was the filing of a bill in the Massachusetts Legislature yesterday, requiring that lists of passengers on steam vessels shall be kept in the office of the steamship company.

Larchmont Survivor Dies.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 16.—James Vann of Fayetteville, N. C., colored steward of the Larchmont, died last night of pneumonia. This leaves 12 whose lives were saved.

A Million Dollar Contract.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—The contract for the construction of the last authorized section of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway, has been awarded to McRae, Chandler & McNeil. The financial details have not yet been made public, but it is freely stated they involve an amount equal to a round million dollars.

WEAK MEN AND WOMEN

The Most Perfect Restorative Known and Invigorating Tonic Vitalizer —Greatest Health-Renewer

Nature's greatest cure for weak, pale men and women is Ferrozone. It is invaluable for run-down, overworked, delicate people, and will restore them to robust health more quickly, at smaller expense, than any other tonic you can select.

We quote the following cases to show what Ferrozone has done for others. In your case it will act just as efficiently:—

FOR BUSINESS MEN

The Experience of a Well-known Lawyer Proves Ferrozone an Ideal Tonic.

Mr. N. W. Burke, a well known lawyer in Meriden, says:—"When I first took Ferrozone I was in a nervous run-down condition, almost sick enough to give up work. I lacked strength, and felt as if I could not get down to work. Ferrozone at once gave me a good appetite, and drove away the nervous, apprehensive feelings that formerly made my life miserable. As I continued the use of Ferrozone I grew stronger, and am glad to say it has brought me back to perfect health. I know that Ferrozone is an excellent tonic for business men and people inclined to a sedentary life. I can recommend it to such."

FOR NERVOUS WOMEN

Nothing Compares With the Nerve-Strengthening Power of Ferrozone.

Mrs. E. D. Emmerson, of Centreville, says:—"I am glad to think that there is at least one honest remedy for nervous people. No one can imagine what I suffered with my nerves, and I sometimes wonder at the number of useless prescriptions and medicines I took. But Ferrozone acted differently from all the rest. It built up my system, and gradually the irritability left my nerves, and I got well. Ferrozone cured me by removing the cause of my trouble, and by giving me enough additional strength to overthrow the attack of nervousness. I can recommend Ferrozone strongly."

THOUSANDS ANNUALLY CURED BY FERROZONE

If you want to get well and keep well, by all means use Ferrozone. If you suffer from insomnia, nervousness, debility, loss of appetite, poor digestion, or any other symptom of disordered blood, nothing will tone up and vitalize your system like Ferrozone. Price 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

Just one girl. The one he was looking for. The new moving picture programme includes among others the story of the young man of 23 who did marry when he found his affinity, and did it quick. He saw her on the platform waiting the arrival of the train for Buffalo. He introduced himself, proposed, was accepted, found a clergyman on the train, was married and they spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and lived happily ever after. Special mention may also be made of the "Mysterious Dream." Johnny Rich left his club and found himself floating high in the clouds over New York City. You should see it for yourselves. It was real to him, but was it possible? And again another picture of the poor orphan boy who coveted his neighbour's apples. PRIZES PRESENTED FOR REGULAR ATTENDANCE

Many George Street Methodist and Grace Church Sunday School Pupils Were Rewarded.

SPLENDID PROGRAMME BY THE PUPILS

Last night was the annual Children's Crusade Night at the George street Methodist church, and a large attendance of teachers, as well as pupils and their parents, was present to participate in the evening's performance. The preliminary portion of the programme, the presentation of prizes, was the feature of the evening, especially to the pupils who were among the fortunate. Books were presented to all those who had attended fifty or more Sundays during the year, at both George street and Grace church Sunday schools. The list was a lengthy one and very gratifying to the superintendents, teachers and officers.

The presentations were made by Messrs. S. R. Armstrong, T. W. Robinson, J. J. Hartley, and William Hartley.

Grace School

The following is a list of the pupils who received prizes for regular attendance at Grace church Sunday school for the year ending, Dec. 31, 1906.

Miss Olive Allison	52
Miss Alberta Curtis	50
Miss Myrla Baird	50
Fred Brown	52
Roy Parnell	51
Roy Allison	52
F. Hawkins	50
Vincent Davidson	52
Ross A. Allison	50
Wallace Scrigley	50
Beryl Hawkins	52 "
Myrtle Greer	52 "
Marguerite Smith	52
Alma Greer	52
Douglas Scrigley	51

At the conclusion of the presentation of the prizes an excellent programme was given by the pupils of the schools consisting principally of stirring crusade songs. A number of exercises were admirably conducted, the pupils wearing special costumes for the occasion.

A military exercise entitled "The Crusader," was successfully undertaken by six boys. Miss Gladys Pentland contributed a splendid recitation which was well received. A quartette and duet were also among the contributions and were well rendered.

Among the special hymns sung "Hark, the Silver Bugle," "Who will Enlist?" "Go Forth," "Come over and help us," and "The Little Crusaders." Excellent music was rendered by the choir, which consisted of mostly Sunday school pupils.

Rev. Dr. Crothers was present and conducted the devotional exercises.

THE "I HAVE SINNED" OF THE BIBLE THE SUBJECT

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt Will Commence Series of Sermons.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt will begin tomorrow morning a series of sermons on the "I have sinned" of the Bible. The subject to-morrow will be Pharoah's "I have sinned." This series will be continued every Sunday morning during Lent.

SILVER BIRD SELLING FAST

The manner in which Silver Bord is being bought, not only by Toronto investors, but by Montreal, Ottawa, London, Hamilton and other cities and towns throughout Canada, indicates that the shares are well thought of by investors in general. Cobalt, North Bay and Haileybury are also investing largely in these shares.

Word has recently been received direct from the mine that the veins are increasing in value with every blast and that considerable of the output is now rich enough to bag and save for shipment.

When the present allotment now offered has been fully taken up the shares will be placed upon the exchanges when a rapid and permanent advance is looked for.

Insiders predict that the shares of Silver Bird should advance steadily and will be at par within a few months. This is the general feeling of those who are well posted, and the manner in which shares are being taken by investors indicates that this is the general feeling of the investing public—that Silver Bird is a good purchase at 15 cents per share.

DAIRYMEN WANT THE NATIONAL SHOW

Holstein-Freisians Breeders' Association Pass Resolution Favouring the Proposal to Hold Show at Peterboro'

WILL MAKE MONEY GRANT TO SHOW

Dairymen of the Province are enthusiastic over the proposal to hold the National Dairy Show, and are entering heartily into the project. The Canadian Dairyman, in its last issue, refers to the action of the Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association in connection with the matter, it says:

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association of Canada, held in Toronto last Wednesday, the matter of the proposed National Dairy Show was considered. The view was expressed that as the proposed show is likely to prove of much value to the breeders of dairy cattle, the Holstein Association should be prepared to deal liberally, financially, with the show. It was pointed out that three propositions have been made: First, that there shall be a distinct dairy show; second, that dairy features be added to the winter fairs at Guelph and Ottawa; and third, that a monster combined exhibition should be held in Toronto. It was felt that these propositions were too important to allow of their being discussed at that time. It was finally moved by Mr. Hallam, seconded by Mr. Logan, of Amherst, N. S., and carried, "That Messrs. Rettie, Mallory, the President and Secretary, be a committee to act with the committee appointed by the other dairy organizations in arranging for the proposed dairy show, and that they be granted $300 to expend in connection therewith, and in such manner as they consider to be in the best interest of the breed."

When this question was brought up in the afternoon at the annual meeting of the members of the Association, a slight change was made. In view of the fact that only $100 had been set apart as a grant for the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, whereas $150 had been donated to the Sherbrooke Exhibition, it was felt that another $100 should be added to the former sum. After considerable discussion, it was finally decided that if a milk test can be arranged in connection with the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, an additional $100 should be granted to that show. A resolution was then submitted and carried, to the effect that the $300 that had been subscribed for the proposed National Dairy Show be divided, and that $100 of this amount be set aside to add to the appropriation to the Toronto Show, provided that a milk test is held in connection with this latter exhibition. Otherwise the full $300 will go to the dairy show. The committee suggested was appointed by the members.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in machanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Two sizes, 50 cents and $1. Edmond & Walsh, special agents.

CANADIAN MISSIONS THE SUBJECT OF LECTURE

Mr. Robert Stevenson of Queen's College Delivered Address on Work Done by Students During the Year.

STEREOPTICAN VIEWS ADDED TO LECTURE

A delighted audience was that which gathered last night in the Sunday School room of St. Paul's Church to hear one of the students from Queen's University lecture on "Presbyterian Missionary Work in Western Canada and New Ontario." In connection with this university there is a mission association, the members of which are all young men who are interested in missionary work and who take an active part in it during their summer term.

Mr. Robt. Stevenson, the young student who delivered the address last night, is one of its members who has seen active service in different parts of Canada, and was therefore well qualified to undertake the task. The manner in which he dealt with his subject bespoke the man, that is, the man who is not afraid to spread his belief in any locality and who brooked not the opposition of the irreligious and the godless.

The Purpose

Rev. Dr. Torrance introduced the speaker of the evening in a few eulogistic terms. Mr. Stevenson first explained the purposes of the mission association. One of these was to obtain funds wherewith to supply the missionaries with necessities while pursuing their duties in the summer. There were others, of course, the speaker said, but it was for this reason that he appeared before St. Paul's congregation last night. The money that the association received was directly applied to missionary work and was not partially expended upon secretaries, etc. Therefore, the people were assured that their money was being entirely devoted to the work for which it was donated.

The Lecture

The success of the lecture was greatly due to the splendid stereopticon slides which the young speaker had flashed on the screen. The lantern was in the hands of Rev. Mr. Bright and Mr. Lees, and needless to say they did their work most satisfactorily. The first views were of scenes in British Columbia. Mr. Stevenson said that he had not gone that far west, but that one of his associates had been engaged there. He stated that there were many difficulties in promoting religion among the lumbermen and miners of that district. The congregations were composed entirely of these men, many of them being wild and reckless; hence the young missionary generally meets with strange experiences. The slides during this part of the lecture were representative of scenes laid in the vicinity of Britannia Beach, a mere village in one of the many valleys of the western Province.

Further East

Mr. Stevenson the brought his listeners east, where he himself had seen service. He told of experiences on the prairie and the great difficulties encountered by the missionary. Accommodation was, when he was there two years ago, decidedly meagre, and meetings had to be held in small railway stations, and later with better advantage in school buildings. Many churches suitable to the country have since been erected.

New Ontario

The speaker then came still further east, giving his attention to places in New Ontario. With accompanying views, he described his own work in Latchford, a small town in the district north of North Bay. Everywhere, he said, there was general prosperity and development, and as the country becomes more thickly settled it is the duty of the people in Old Ontario to provide for the spreading of religion and the ideal spirit of the good Canadian citizen. Decidedly, Mr. Stevenson said that this question should receive the careful attention of the people as the tendency generally shown there is towards irreligion.

Cobalt

Many slides were presented depicting scenes in the rapidly-growing town of Cobalt. These were of special interest to the audience, as the famous mining town is the subject of current discussion. The speaker said that the great enemy of churches in the new districts were hotels, and he urged every elector to lend his influence only for those men who, when in Parliament, would oppose the granting of licenses in these new towns in the way a very great evil would be stamped out while the towns were yet young, and before the people became accustomed to hotels.

Conclusion

This practically closed the lecture. Mr. Stevenson asked the members of St. Paul's to remember that they had a duty to assist in performing, namely, that they should make liberal grants towards missionaries whose work is in our own Canada. He thanked the congregation collectively for their generosity already demonstrated, and hoped for a continuance.

Rev. Mr. Bright moved a vote of thanks to the speaker. Mr. Henderson seconded it. Mr. Bright said that it was a duty to Christianize those who came to Canada, or they would heathenize the whole country. He hoped to see more visits from members of Queen's Mission Association.

Mr. Stevenson made a suitable reply, saying that he would convey their expressions of gratitude to the association.

FIRST CYCLIST OF 1907 WAS FINED

The Day's Proceedings at the Police Court Were Numerous and Varied.

The daily grist of the mill of justice was unusually heavy this morning. Magistrate Dumble had quite a number of cases to deal with, and some of them dragged wearily along. The first to appear was William Duncan, who was charged with being drunk and disorderly on the evening of Saturday, the 9th. The charge was not substantiated however, and Duncan was allowed to go.

William Dimsdale was fined out of court for riding a bicycle on Aylmer street sidewalk. The vigilance of the police force is becoming rather extraordinary. Catching the first offender of the season before it has already set in is a record indeed. The usual fine of two dollars was imposed.

The East City resident who assaulted Jas. Bothwell on Thursday, of this week, was fined $5 and costs amounting to $7.60, a rather high price to pay for a petty dispute.

The case of Jos. Rickerby, which was enlarged from Friday, was settled. Mr. Rickerby had pleaded not guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly on Feb. 14th, but on the evidence of P. C. Newhall, P. C. Meharry, and one of the Greeks from Demetrie Bros. store, Mr. Dumble fined him $2 and costs, amounting to $5.75.

WHILE laying no claim to the invention of truth, we do claim to adhere to truth in our advertisements. Nor is there anything phariasaical about this. We don't insinuate that others do not; merely affirm that we do.

"Never take a case," said Horace Mann, to a young lawyer, "unless you believe your client is right, and his cause just." And such is the inflexible rule in the preparation of our ad. copy. In many stores the scribe accepts without question or quibble any and all claims of buyer—merely editing copy and furnishing frills. Here, however, they are subject to rigid scrutiny, and only deemed eligible for publication when they have passed the censor. Any wonder that our announcements meet with such response.

Western Canada A Land Of Limitless Possibilities

An Interesting Paper on This Subject Was Read Last Night at Meeting of St. Peter's Literary Society by Miss Nora Fitzgerald--Future Prospects of the Brightest.

Last evening the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A. S. added another to its long list of successful literary entertainments, when Miss Nora Fitzgerald delighted the audience by the reading of a very able and particularly instructive paper on "The Canadian North-West."

The interest manifested in these meetings seems to increase rather than abate, as the season advances, thus showing the excellent work the society is doing for stimulating the literary ambitions of its members, as well as providing elevating entertainment.

Miss Fitzgerald, in a very charming manner, introduced her subject by a beautifully worded description of Winnipeg, and the vast prairies surrounding it. Winnipeg, the great metropolis of the West, situated at the confluence of the two navigable rivers, the Assiniboia and Red, has been given by nature a site suggestive of manifest destiny, which man has not been slow to recognise.

It is not Winnipeg alone, however, that permanently interests the visitors, but the amazing country surrounding it—the gigantic prairies—whose distant rim the sky meets everywhere, and where nature with but the least encouragement from man, spreads every year a bounteous feast, wherewith to deck the festive board. Until recently this prolific area, dotted with prosperous homes and capable of supporting millions of inhabitants, was believed to be a land of perpetual snow. On the contrary its climate is less severe than many places farther south. Spring comes earlier in Manitoba than in Montreal; grain is sown as soon as the ground is thawed to a depth of six inches, and under the influence of cloudless sun, abundant moisture is provided for the tender roots, the wheat and other cereals.

All parts of the Northwest are not equally productive. The western section of the prairies is mainly a ranching country, the plains being covered with a short crisp herbage which is very nutritious, and easily accessible through the light covering of snow in winter. The chinook, a warm air current from the Pacific, becoming denuded of all its moisture in its passage over the mountains, licks up snow with wonderful rapidity, leaving the self-cured hay standing free over innumerable miles of sunlit prairie, thus providing a perfect nutriment for cattle.

In the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, whose settlement and development are going forward with such astonishing energy and rapidity, the conditions which prevail in Eastern Canada are bound in a few years to be reproduced on a grander scale. The undeveloped wealth, agricultural and mineral, of these Provinces staggers the imagination of one who passes through them for the first time. The productiveness of the soil and the healthfulness of the climate over vast untouched areas of these provinces assures them a magnificent future. They cannot fail to become one of the wealthiest regions of the earth, supporting great cities and a large rural population in comfort and abundance. The cities, towns and hamlets in these western provinces impress the visitor strongly by the good order maintained, and the wise care with which the rights and interests of all their inhabitants are being guarded for the present and the future.

The influx of settlers to this prosperous country has varied in proportion to the facilities offered. At present there are settlements throughout the West of almost every known nation in the world. In Winnipeg alone there are twenty-four different languages spoken.

Then followed a very picturesque description of a trip from Winnipeg to the coast. For the pleasure-seeking tourist there is no region offering greater attractions than the Canadian Rockies and Selkirks, whose hidden treasures are sought by venturesome spirits. The beauty and grandeur of the mountain scenery are unsurpassed. The Canadian Pacific Railway, penetrating, as it does, the vast wilderness of gigantic mountains and continued vista of unbroken prairies has made it possible to enjoy this wonderland by opening good roads and trails to points of special interest contiguous to its line and by establishing a chain of excellently managed hotels.

This very able essay was written in a clear and concise style, and undoubtedly left upon the minds of the audience the impression that "Western Canada" is certainly a land of illimitable magnificence and of golden opportunities.

As a preface to this interesting paper, the following programme of exceptional merit was introduced by Miss Holmes, who occupied the chair for the evening:

Recitation—Miss M. Merrell.

Vocal Solo—Miss Marie O'Dette.

Instrumental Solo — Miss Roadhouse.

The next meeting of the society will be held on Friday night, March 1, when Miss Eva Tangney will read a paper on "English Poets."

BUTTER WAS SOLD AT 30 CENTS PER LB.

Light Market This Morning, and High Prices Did Not Meet Favour of the Fair Buyers.

For some reasons the market this morning was disappointingly small. Especially in the market hall, the conspicuous feature was the many vacant tables. Perhaps this was the reason for the high price of butter and eggs, suffice to say that many ladies paid thirty cents a pound for the golden dairy product. Some did not demand this high price, but the range was from 27 to 30c per lb. Eggs also reached thirty cents a doz. to-day, although some of the farmers' wives were more generous and asked 28c. a doz. The Lenten season will materially affect the price of eggs as a larger number of them will be used. Potatoes jumped back to $1.00 again though there may have been some willing to dispose of their load at 90c. per bag. There was a fair supply of apples, and the meat market was also extensive, but not as heavy as those of the past two weeks.

The following is the price list:—

Club Life In Peterborough: Its Growth And Popularity

The beginning of club life in Peterborough dates back a good many years, but it is only in recent times that it has been extended to embrace the several hundred citizens who now belong to one or more of the numerous club organizations of the city. The growth has been a rapid one, especially during the last three years, when several have been added to the former list.

The benefits of a social club are many and apparent. Particularly is the club beneficial which is devoted to intercourse on the current questions of the day and to literary problems of an instructive character. The club is the place where the tired business or professional man may visit in the evenings after a day of ardent labour and have a quiet smoke and chat. Many of the city clubrooms are furnished with the choicest literature to meet the demands of many minds; the compartments are, as a rule, fitted up in the most comfotable manner, and provide a resting place from the toils of the day.

Among the oldest clubs in the city are the Peterborough, the Eko Camp, and the Non-Commissioned Officers.

Peterborough Club

The Peterborough Club is one of the most popular social clubs and one of the best known between Ottawa and Toronto. The rooms are handsomely fitted up and are situated on the third floor of the Bank of Commerce building. It dates back for many years, but was only resuscitated about six years ago. The first president was Lt.-Col., H. C. Rogers, and the present president is His Honour Judge Weller. It is understood that the membership is over one hundred.

Eko Camp

The Eko Camp Club is now about 20 years of age. Few, if any, of its present members were among the first list a score of years ago. The membership is limited to about 20 members. The clubrooms are situated on Hunter street and are fitted up with billiard, reading and smoking rooms. The president is Mr. T. J. Wallace.

N. C. O. Club

The N. C. O. mess-rooms are situated on Simcoe street, where the military men have comfortable apartments. The club has existed since the organization of the regiment some 30 or 40 years ago. The membership depends upon the number of companies in the regiment and has grown rapidly. There are at present 64 members. The president is Sergt. Wm. Battch.

St. Peter's T. A. S.,

The T. A. S. is prominent for its large number of members and the rapid growth in membership. It was organized about seven years ago, and as a club, ranks among the largest. There are now 535 on the roll, which means an average growth of about 76 per year.

The apartments of the T. A. S. are situated on George street and are among the most commodious of any in the city. They are fitted up with an assembly room, band room, reading, bath, billiard, card and sitting rooms. The president is Mr. Daniel Cushing.

B. A. C. Club

The B. A. C. is a bachelors' social club, limited to 16 members. It was organized in Peterborough three years ago and has since become a very popular organization. A branch has been formed in Toronto embracing the former Peterborough boys who were members of the B. A. C. here, and a number of their Toronto friends. It might be mentioned that this city is the headquarters of the club, and the present intentions are to issue charters to other branches. The first president of the club was Mr. A. Warne. Dr. Middleton is the president now.

Young Conservative Club

About two years and a half ago the Young Conservative Club was organized in the city, and the growth of membership has been rapid since then. Its present roll shows over 700 members. The clubrooms are located on George street and are very popular. They embrace card and reading, assembly and pool rooms. The first president was Mr. R. E. Layfield. Mr. J. H. Burnham is now the president of the club.

The Elks

The Elks were organized a year and a half ago, and since then the membership roll has increased to 75. They have comfortable clubrooms where the Albany Club used to assemble. The first exalted ruler was Mr. W. H. Denham. He was succeeded by Mr. W. McIlroy, and it was during his term that the Albany clubrooms were purchased. The present exalted ruler is Mr. M. J. Hutchinson.

Methodist Young Men

The young men of George Street Methodist Church formed a club on the first of November last, so that it is probably the baby organization in the city. There are now about 40 members, who have excellent rooms at 426 George street, embracing a fine reading room. Mr. Geo. Robertson is the president.

C. P. R. ARRANGES FOR EXCURSIONS

In Connection With the Otonabee Navigation Company.

Mr. J. J. Brignall, travelling passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was in the city yesterday arranging for rates for excursions in connection with the Otonabee Navigation Company, Limited, from all points on their system between Toronto and Perth. It is the intention of the company to cater to the outside excursion business. They will seek to have Idyl Wyld widely known as an attractive, objective point for excursions. There new steamer which will be put on this summer will carry 600 or 700 people. The company will, next year, put another such steamer on the Stony Lake route.

PRESENTATION MADE TO MISS JESSIE SPENCE

Was Given a Handsome Bracelet by Members of the 57th Regimental Band.

Miss Jessie Spence, the solo dancuse at the Zephra productions at the Grand, who scored such successes in each presentation, has been presented with a beautiful bracelet by the members of the band. Her graceful dancing was one of the most enjoyed specialties of the spectacle, and the band felt that Miss Spence should receive some permanent recognition of her splendid services.

The presentation was accompanied by an address, in which the members of the band expressed their wishes for a long friendship.

Miss Spence wishes to thank the members of the band for the handsome bracelet presented to her as a souvenir of Zephra.

HIS INFATUATION FOR A WOMAN

Leads to a Double Tragedy In a Dwelling In Toronto.

RAYMORE'S DREADFUL ACT

Barkeeper In Tremont House Shoots Mrs. Charlton, With Whom He Lived, and Then Ended His Own Life With a Bullet—An Unvarnished Tale That Gives Nothing for Morbid to Gloat Over.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Another tragedy was yesterday added to the list of illicit associations. There are no harrowing details; nothing for the morbid to gloat over, nothing that one should care to read. It is a plain story of a bad infatuation, jealousy, murder, suicide.

The dead woman is Mrs. Mary Charlton, who lived at 100 West Richmond street. The dead man was John S. Raymore, employed as a barkeeper at the Tremont House. Raymore was a married man. He met Mrs. Charlton about 9 years ago, and became so infatuated with her that he neglected his wife and child and went to live with the Charlton woman. His own wife then left him and has not been near him since.

Raymore and Mrs. Charlton quarreled frequently, but always made up again. They had a more serious row a week ago, and Raymore stayed away from the house.

The murder and suicide occurred yesterday afternoon at 3.30 at 100 West Richmond street, where Raymore had been living with her. Mrs. Charlton met Mrs. Mabel Cartwright, and invited her to her house. On the way they saw Raymore walking ahead of them. Fearing trouble Mrs. Charlton suggested walking in another direction. After, as they thought, they had allowed sufficient time for Raymore to disappear, they went to Mrs. Charlton's house.

When Mrs. Charlton appeared at the door she met Raymore face to face. He had been on the lookout for her from a downstairs window. She started back in fear. He grabbed her by the arm, pulled her in and said, "Come upstairs, Mary." She refused. It was all over in a few seconds. He fired twice at her. One bullet entered near the breast and the other in the mouth and out the cheek, striking on the wall. The woman fell forward on her knees and hands and moaned "My God, Mabel."

Another second and Raymore placed the revolver to his right temple and fired the shot which ended his own life. He fell backward through a door which leads into a parlor bedroom.

The shots attracted attention. One of the first to arrive was the 18-year-old son of Mrs. Charlton, who called a passing hack. She died before she reached St. Michael's Hospital. Raymore died about 15 minutes after the shooting.

Mrs. Charlton was the widow of Robert Charlton, who kept a hotel in Yonge street some ten years ago. She leaves three children, all boys. When the body was searched there was found $300 in cash, and a bank book showing $2,000 to her credit.

Raymore formerly kept a cigar store in York street, just north of King street. He got going wrong and became a bartender in the Wilson House, York and Pearl streets, and has worked in other places. His wife has supported herself and two children and is much respected. They both came from Fergus.

Coroner Young will open an inquest to-day.

HIGH COMMISSIONER.

Rumor That Sir Frederick Borden Will Succeed Lord Strathcona.

London, Feb. 16.—(C. A. P.)—A correspondent of The Yorkshire Post says: "At last there is definite news from Canada that Sir Frederick Borden is to succeed Lord Strathcona. He will bring to London a great reputation as an administrator."

A London correspondent of The Birmingham Post says information has reached London from Canada confirmatory of the recent report of the approaching retirement of Lord Strathcona. A correspondent states Borden will succeed Strathcona.

Woman Hangs Herself.

Bowmanville, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Benjamin Werry, who lived on a farm with her son and husband, just north of this town, in a fit of mental aberration, committed suicide by hanging herself in her kitchen from a hook in the ceiling, while her husband and son were in town on business yesterday morning. She was about 68 years of age. No cause is known for her act.

MANY CHILDREN IN CONGESTED DISTRICTS VICTIMS OF CONSUMPTION

S. Goodfrend, a specialist from New York, declares that ten per cent of the children in the congested districts of Cleveland are victims of tuberculosis.

The same deplorable conditions have been found to exist in other cities, and the eradication of the white plague among children has been started in earnest. Sanitary conditions are being improved, roof treatment, affording fresh air, is given, and nourishing food is being supplied.

Children with weak lungs are susceptible to colds, which cause the lungs to become sore. The tuberculosis germ settles in the sore places and sets up what is called a "mixed infection," the starting point of consumption.

Parents are warned against giving children cough or cold remedies containing opiates, as narcotics only stupify the lungs and render them more susceptible to the deadly tubercular germ. The following simple formula, the ingredients of which can be obtained from any good prescription druggist at small cost will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; Glycerine, two ounces; good Whisky, a half pint. Use in teaspoonful doses every four hours.

An eminent authority on lung trouble says if this simple and effective formula was known and generally used, throat, lung and bronchial affections would seldom reach an acute stage. Care should be used in selecting pure ingredients, and, to avoid substitution, it is best that they be purchased separately and mixed in your own home.

The Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half-ounce vials, put up expressly for druggists to dispense. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Lesch Chemical Co., Windsor, Ontario—plainly printed thereon. There are many rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), which are put up under similar names and style of package. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine, as they will invariably produce nausea and never effect the desired result.

MR. BORDEN'S QUESTIONS.

Led to a Debate On Hon. C. S. Hyman's Resignation.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Yesterday afternoon the leader of the Opposition raised a question as to the legality of the resignation of Hon. C. S. Hyman as member for London. He inquired whether Mr. Hyman had come from California to London to have his signature attested, whether the witnesses had gone from London to California, or whether they had acted on the knowledge of Mr. Hyman's writing and witnessed the signatures in his absence. If the latter course had been adopted, then, Mr. Borden contended, it might as well have been done long before. He also inquired why the telegram announcing the Minister's intention to retain his portfolio had not been laid before the House until five days after its receipt, and commented on the reports appearing in the Montreal papers as to Mr. Hyman's movements at Coronado as indicating that his condition had not been so serious as stated in the House.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply, thought that good taste had not been shown by the leader of the Opposition in acting on the information of a spy and doubting that Mr. Hyman had been ill. The reason the telegram withdrawing Mr. Hyman's resignation as a member of the Cabinet had not been placed before the House immediately was because the Prime Minister had from day to day been expecting the announcement of Mr. Hyman's resignation of his seat. If, however, the leader of the Opposition thought that there had been any illegality he had no objection to the question of Mr. Hyman's resignation being referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Mr. Bennett made an attack on Mr. Hyman, in which he attempted to prove that because that gentleman had been seen at various places since October last, therefore he had not been seriously ill.

His speech produced a forcible and effective reply from Mr. Miller, and the attack collapsed.

Dr. Thompson broached the subject of the Alaska-Yukon boundary, and elicited a statement from the Prime Minister indicating the steps that were being taken to have the line of demarcation definitely fixed.

In Committee of Supply the Postmaster-General announced that in deference to the views expressed on both sides of the House he had decided to abandon the C. O. D. parcel post scheme in the meantime.

TERRIFIC DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Workmen Thawing Out Explosive Cause Great Damage.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—While city workmen were thawing out some dynamite in Norman street yesterday a terrific explosion occurred. The men were working on a drain and stored the dynamite in a shed, where the stove was. Luckily they saw the danger, took away a quantity of the explosive and warned the neighborhood before the crash came.

One of the workmen was hurt and a little child rather badly, while a woman also received injuries. The damage will cost the city heavily for the property around is badly damaged and the frame houses much battered.

FARES AT TWO CENTS A MILE.

Not a Vote Recorded Against It In Iowa Legislation.

Desmoines, Iowa, Feb. 16.—Iowa's two-cent fare measure passed the House by a vote of 106 to 0.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 16.—The Senate unanimously passed a bill providing for two-cent railroad fares.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 16.—By a vote of 76 to 5, the House passed the Senate two-cent fare bill.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 16.—A bill making two cents a mile the maximum chargeable by any railroad carrying passengers in Pennsylvania was passed by the House of Representatives Thursday.

Tainted Beef Served.

Belleville, Feb. 16.—The investigation at the Deaf and Dumb Institute has been closed for the time being. The system of teaching and food conditions were investigated. Some of the witnesses alleged that the meat furnished was not what it should have been, being sometimes old, tough and tainted. It was said that an old cow, which had outlived its usefulness, had been sold to a butcher, and by him returned to the institute as beef.

JUROR BOLTON WILL BE ON HAND

Consequently Thaw's Trial Will Resume On Monday.

WHAT MR. JEROME WANTS

Prisoner's Actual Condition of Mind Determined by a Lunacy Commission—Defence Outlines Its Plans for Next Week—Anthony Comstock to Go on Stand to Testify—Premium on Thaw's Life.

New York, Feb. 16.—This statement as to Mr. Jerome's position with regard to the sanity or insanity of Thaw was made yesterday:

"Mr. Jerome does not know whether or not Thaw is insane. None of his assistants know. None of the experts retained for the prosecution know. These experts have not had an opportunity to examine Thaw, either as to his physical condition or his mental calibre. They are present in court at the trial with an open mind. They would like to know.

"If any of the experts retained for the defence, some of whom have already testified, will say authoritatively, that in their opinion Thaw is now insane, the district attorney will join with them in the request to the court for an appointment of a commission in lunacy to decide on the question of the defendant's sanity."

Juror Bolton Will Do Duty.

Juror Joseph B. Bolton, the death of whose wife necessitated the present recess, it was said last night, has communicated to Judge Fitzgerald his expectation of being able to resume his place in the jury box when the case is called on Monday. Both District Attorney Jerome and the lawyers for the defence are of the opinion that the trial will then continue.

Anthony Comstock of the Society of the Suppression of Vice, and E. Fellow Jenkins, superintendent and secretary of the Gerry Society, have been subpoenaed by the defence, it was reported last night.

Progress of Trial.

H. C. McPike, of counsel for Thaw, said yesterday: "When the trial is resumed next week Dr. Evans will conclude his testimony, and Dr. Wagner will be recalled to tell of his conversations with Thaw—conversations which were ruled out last week. Then Mr. Thaw's wife will finish her story, and his mother will be called as a witness for the first time. Finally, after Mr. Thaw's will has been introduced as evidence, it is probable that the family physicians of the Thaw family will complete their testimony. The alienists will be asked a few final questions in order to round out the case, and then, unless something new develops, the defence will probably rest."

Premium on Thaw's Life.

A despatch from London says: Lloyd's has added to its many odd insurances one on Thaw's life, agreeing to pay as a total loss if the prisoner is executed. The premium is 30 guineas per cent. The amount underwritten is not divulged.

Colonies and Empire Defence.

London, Feb. 16.—(C. A. P.)—In the House of Commons, Harold Cox (Liberal) moved an amendment affirming that the first question to be laid before the colonial conference should be the importance of fuller participation by the colonies in the cost of imperial defence.

Mr. Balfour said he did not think it reasonable to ask a colonial Parliament to vote money which somebody else was to spend.

Winston Churchill, speaking for the Government, thought it would be very wrong to measure in money the values of the services rendered by the colonies.

Mr. Gilbert Parker said that Mr. Churchill's speech would be accepted not merely in the colonies, but throughout the whole empire with great satisfaction.

Mr. Cox withdrew his amendment.

Premier Scott Goes South.

Winnipeg, Feb. 16.—Hon. Walter Scott, Premier of Saskatchewan, has gone to New York. From there he will proceed to the Bermuda Islands, where he will spend some weeks recuperating from his recent illness.

AFTER I.C.R. RUNNING RIGHTS.

Sir Thos. Shaughnessy Applies to Minister of Railways.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Hon. H. R. Emmerson has received from Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C.P.R., an application in writing for running rights over the Intercolonial Railway from St. John to Halifax.

The application is for the joint use of the line with the Government.

The C.P.R., it is said, wants equal privileges, with the Intercolonial to do local business, as well as through traffic.

PROF. LOCKE.

Becomes Dean of the Faculty of Education in Macdonald College.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—George H. Locke, M.A., B.Paed., has been appointed dean of the faculty of education in the Macdonald College, Guelph, and professor of the history and principles of education.

Prof. Locke is a Canadian by birth, and graduated a B.A., with honors in classics, from Toronto University in 1893. He spent some time at Harvard as an instructor, during which time he organized special advanced systems of practice teaching in connection with the Department of Education. He was also associated with the University of Chicago for six years. In 1905 he joined the publishing house of Ginn & Co., and became the head of their editorial department. This important position he resigned to take the one offered by Macdonald College of McGill University. Prof. Locke is a member of nearly every prominent educational and scientific association in Canada and the United States.

Brick Goes to Trial.

Perth, Feb. 16.—Harry W. Brick, former general manager of the Canadian business of the Henry K. Wampole & Co., was brought to Perth yesterday morning from Toronto by Chief White to answer a charge of theft preferred by the company. The charge is that on June 21 last he stole $3,875 from the Wampole Co., the proceeds of a cheque. He pleaded not guilty to this charge through his solicitor and waived preliminary examination and was committed for trial at the spring Assizes in Perth. Bail was granted in his own surety of $1,000.

No Reciprocity In Coal.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The House Committee on Ways and Means decided yesterday to indefinitely postpone consideration of the Williams bill for reciprocal free trade in coal between the United States and Canada.

Geo. Clare, M. P., Ill.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Geo. Clare, M. P., was taken suddenly ill in the House last evening. His condition is regarded as serious.
